FOUNDATION

Annual plan

Below you will find the Wikimedia Foundation's final Annual Plan for 2021-2022.

The annual plan is the primary way Foundation teams and departments set objectives for the year ahead. It is guided by ongoing discussions with volunteers, such as the Movement Strategy process, and our long term mission to promote free knowledge. It is also heavily shaped by internal processes such as budgeting, staffing, and coordination.

It uses our Medium Term Plan as its overarching framework.

Medium Term Plan

The 2019 Medium Term Plan (MTP) is the overarching framework we use to structure our planning and decision making.

It was created through broad, participatory discussions with staff and volunteers.

The MTP's 5 priorities describe the impact we hope to have on the world.

Budget Overview

WIKIMEDIA

Highlighted budget growth areas

Factoring in regular grants that are returning in this budget cycle, the full cost of staff hired mid-year, the return to limited travel and other costs create existing investments of approximately $125M.

In terms of new investments, the largest part is the increase for Thriving Movement.

The growth in Thriving Movement expenses reflects a large increase in grants to the movement along with additional investments in our Thriving Movement focus areas. It also reflects existing internal resources being redirected toward Thriving Movement objectives.

The growth in Platform Evolution is to provide technical systems to support equitable, global growth such as through the addition of a caching center that serves Africa and the Middle East, as well as investing in the technical future of our projects.

Growth in Grants Budget

Amount granted over time (in $Millions)

Notes: All amounts are based on when grants were awarded to grantees and this does not always match the timing of expenses under US GAAP, which is used in other charts and tables of our budget. For example, the amounts awarded FY20-21 (2021 in chart) were partially recorded as expenses in 2020 but awarded to our grantees in 2021, so listed here in 2021. Additionally, 2021 amounts are preliminary estimates

The Grantmaking budget will increase +95% in FY21-22, which is a faster growth than the overall Foundation's budget of +34%

Grant increases in FY21-22 include:

- Funding the new grants strategy
- Providing budget increases for all regions with the largest increases in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East
- Funding for implementing Movement Strategy

Note: Grants in FY20-21 were budgeted at a higher amount than was spent. COVID impacted grantee programs and movement events and some grantees requested small grants than previous years and/or underspent their grants as a result.
