Foreword

IN OCTOBER 1918, towards the very end of World War One, the Royal Mail ship RMS Leinster, en route from Dún Laoghaire harbour to Holyhead, was sunk by German submarine UB-123 near the Kish Bank just outside Dublin Bay with the tragic loss of 569 passengers and crew. It stands as the largest loss of life in the Irish Sea. As fate would have it, all 36 crewmen on board UB-123 were subsequently lost when they hit a mine off the Scottish coast, on their return journey to Germany.

The centenary of the sinking of the RMS Leinster will be commemorated this October, culminating in the official commemorative event on Wednesday 10 October 2018 in Dún Laoghaire – 100 years to the day since this appalling disaster.

Surrounding this important event on 10 October, there is a wealth of exhibitions, seminars, talks, theatre and performances in the National Maritime Museum, dlr LexIcon, St Michael's Church, Christ Church and Mariners Church, Deansgrange Cemetery, Pavilion Theatre and other venues in the Dún Laoghaire area. These events commemorate the RMS Leinster in a variety of informative and interactive ways and this brochure aims to bring all these events together so that those travelling from near and abroad can see, at a glance, the range of events.

It is very much a community effort with so many different groups involved and on behalf of Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council we would like to thank all those involved in marking this highly significant date in such a respectful and fitting manner. Our thanks in particular goes to the National Maritime Museum, the Mail Boat 'Leinster' Centenary Committee and Families and Friends of the 'Leinster', with the support of the Department of Culture, Heritage & the Gaeltacht.

Alongside these events the National Maritime Museum in Dún Laoghaire will be open free of charge during the commemorative week 6-14 October to encourage members of the public to visit and learn about the story of the RMS Leinster with a special Information Desk providing details on the more than 800 people on board.

We look forward to welcoming all visitors to the commemorative events taking place throughout the area in the coming weeks.

An Cathaoirleach
Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council,

Councillor Ossian Smyth
