1 2	Tuesday, 30 October 2012 (2.00 pm)	1 2	RICHARD SPAFFORD: The other side of that is this is a review and people giving us information are not
3	(Delayed start)	3	entitled to confidence in relation to what they say to
4	(2.07 pm)	4	us. So anything you say to us obviously is being
5	NICK POLLARD: Thank you very much, not only for coming	5	recorded, as you can hear, and Nick as necessary will be
6	along today but for all the work you have done to get	6	able to refer to what you say or any document you give
7	documents ready which have been a huge help and in rough	7	us if he considers that necessary in his report. So,
8	times we were hoping to, sort of, get through this	8	again, it is important that you accept that.
9	afternoon in about an hour and a half or thereabouts,	9	PETER HORROCKS: I understand that and I accept it, yes.
10	but if we find we are in full flow we are happy to	10	RICHARD SPAFFORD: Okay. I think those were my two
11	extend. I wonder if we can ask Richard to give us a few	11	preliminary points, any preliminary points you want to
12	ground rules first, to set the scene.	12	add Alan?
13	RICHARD SPAFFORD: I will just talk a bit about roles.	13	ALAN MACLEAN: No, thank you.
14	Obviously you know Nick, the remaining team present are	14	NICK POLLARD: What I suggest we do, Peter, because we are
15	all advising and assisting Nick in his review. Alan and	15	interviewing at an early stage and without a full
16	Richard here, these two here, are barristers who are	16	collection of documents and scrupulous timeline, as it
17	playing a barrister role to the review. Ben and I are	17	were, I found your two timelines which you sent
18	solicitors who are providing legal services and	18	extremely useful, raised a lot of issues. I wonder if
19	secretariat services to the review.	19	it would just be useful if we took you through that.
20	Two points just to raise at the beginning, the first	20	PETER HORROCKS: Sure.
21	is documents. Can I just repeat what Nick has said	21	NICK POLLARD: Have you brought a copy of that?
22	about thank you very much for the work that you have	22	PETER HORROCKS: I think I have, I have a copy on iPad as
23	done so quickly. As you may know, may have mentioned to	23	well.
24	you, we do have a document return process which is	24	NICK POLLARD: The first one started prior to October 17,
25	people who are, in our view, likely to have material	25	was your first line there. That runs through 17th to
_	Page 1		Page 3
1		I	i i
1	documents and are sending those document returns, asking	1	about the 26th.
1 2	documents and are sending those document returns, asking them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to	1 2	about the 26th. PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water?
2	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to
1	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as	2	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water?
2 3	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given	2 3	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause).
2 3 4	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as	2 3 4	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only
2 3 4 5	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so	2 3 4 5	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest,
2 3 4 5 6	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that	2 3 4 5 6	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of,
2 3 4 5 6 7	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will	2 3 4 5 6 7	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it
2 3 4 5 6 7 8	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and	2 3 4 5 6 7 8	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it.
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense?
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we would like you, please, to keep these confidential so we	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am starting to get editorially involved and then when I am
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we would like you, please, to keep these confidential so we do not want you to be talking about what you tell us or	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am starting to get editorially involved and then when I am specifically given responsibility. In that period,
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we would like you, please, to keep these confidential so we do not want you to be talking about what you tell us or what you hear from us from anybody else. It is very	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am starting to get editorially involved and then when I am specifically given responsibility. In that period, there are two categories of information I am dealing
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we would like you, please, to keep these confidential so we do not want you to be talking about what you tell us or what you hear from us from anybody else. It is very important that you confirm that, are you happy with	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am starting to get editorially involved and then when I am specifically given responsibility. In that period, there are two categories of information I am dealing with and that you see in some of the documents. There
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we would like you, please, to keep these confidential so we do not want you to be talking about what you tell us or what you hear from us from anybody else. It is very important that you confirm that, are you happy with that?	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am starting to get editorially involved and then when I am specifically given responsibility. In that period, there are two categories of information I am dealing with and that you see in some of the documents. There is the direct involvement in the editorial process,
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	them to fill that document return in, to sign it and to certify they have given all relevant documents as confirmed in that return. Obviously what you have given us does not constitute compliance with that procedure so what I would like to do is give you a copy of that document so you have it. Our intention is that we will certainly, with thanks, take what you have given and then ask you probably on your return from holiday to fill out a return properly when you have time. PETER HORROCKS: Okay. RICHARD SPAFFORD: And to add to that any additional documents which are responsive and you have not given us, okay? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. RICHARD SPAFFORD: The second issue I wanted to raise as a preliminary point is the confidentiality of this process. There are two sides to that. The first is the discussions that we have here are, on the one hand, we would like you, please, to keep these confidential so we do not want you to be talking about what you tell us or what you hear from us from anybody else. It is very important that you confirm that, are you happy with	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	PETER HORROCKS: Can I get some water? RICHARD SPAFFORD: Yes, of course. (Pause). NICK POLLARD: So should I just you have that there. Shall I kick it off with a, sort of, general question. You make the point that before October 17 you had only short knowledge of what had gone on. Out of interest, you had presumably heard within the BBC of the, sort of, rumbling of Newsnight, the Savile story, because it reappeared in the early months of this year when there was starting to be a bit of press comment about it. Were you aware of that in a low level background sense? PETER HORROCKS: I was. Can I just preface that by saying I think there are various categories and periods of information I have, one is the period you are talking to that I was aware of things, background as part of the BBC News Group board in the period when things really started breaking, exposure and so on, although broadly where that happens. Then there is a period where I am starting to get editorially involved and then when I am specifically given responsibility. In that period, there are two categories of information I am dealing with and that you see in some of the documents. There

1	coverage which I was responsible for up to yesterday	1	that should have been in front of the board.
2	morning.	2	NICK POLLARD: Just explain to me the relationship between
3	Then a slightly different category of information	3	those two things is. Is the editorial board a sub-group
4	where I have come upon the information and I think,	4	of News Group?
5	without invalidating my role, I let management be aware	5	PETER HORROCKS: I think it is in technical terms, but in
6	of things. So they create slightly different issues,	6	effect that is what it is. A wider configuration of
7	especially the ones about the process in relation to	7	people, it includes people that don't report in
8	confidentiality. I didn't write that in, it is	8	managerially to Helen Boaden, so David Jordan for
9	a preliminary matter I just wanted to state that.	9	instance, the editorial controllers from Scotland, Wales
10	111011101221112111111111111111111111111	10	and Northern Ireland. It is a broader group of people.
11	- 8 , , ,	11	ALAN MACLEAN: The News Group board is headed
12	time me dian, permaps country in the permaps and the	12	PETER HORROCKS: Both are chaired by Helen, the editorial
13	, and the particular of the same of the sa	13	board has an editorial role because it reports about
14	110 110 110 110 110 110 110 110 110 110	14	audience performance. It also has, I am sure you will
15	121211111111111111111111111111111111111	15	come across this, documentation that may be relevant to
16	1	16	this. There is a document called the Managed Risk
17	What I was trying to do, it was tricky, was to think the	17	Programme List which is where stories of sensitivities
18		18	of various descriptions, reputational sensitivity,
19	management, corporately I regard the people running the,	19	should be lodged. That document is also shared with
20)	20	another board I sit on, the Editorial Standards Board,
21	borborate state and the state of the state o	21	where all of the BBC's content divisions come together
22	· · · · ·	22	and maybe we get to the exchange of information between
23	nom publicly in annual management and a second	23	the news and the BBC, we talk about that in more detail.
24		24	The other document which may be relevant, I don't
25	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	25	know, I certainly have not looked back at the
	Page 5		Page 7
1	speaking to Sarah Jones council to say, "I think you	1	documentation from this time, is that there is a press
2	•	2	report or a reputational analysis that is done by the
3	-	3	comms team each month and that would either pick up
4		4	potential stories or sensitive stories that have
5		5	appeared in the press. I have asked the next editorial
6		6	report which there has not been one since this story has
1 7		7	really been at its height should look at that.
8	appeared, I think I must have picked up on the press	8	ALAN MACLEAN: That is Paddy Feeny?
9		9	PETER HORROCKS: Correct, he is now the head of comms but h
110		10	was not through this period. James Hardy, head of comms
11	PETER HORROCKS: Director of Global News and World Service	11	for the News Division was head of comms at the time,
12	throughout this period, so I don't have any specific	12	particularly through December to September period for
13	editorial or managerial responsibilities in relation to	13	the whole of the news, yes, yes. So to go back to your
14		14	original question, I remember being aware of it but
15	_	15	I don't remember there being a discussion at either the
16	ALAN MACLEAN: So it is nothing to do with you?	16	news board or the News Group editorial board and, like
17		17	all of us involved in it, I have been asking myself was
18		18	there more I should have realised or should I have
19	NICK POLLARD: The news editorial board you were on?	19	exercised more curiosity? I think if there had been
20	PETER HORROCKS: I sit on the News Group board, the main	20	a formal item or if it had come up as a part of
21	board for BBC News Group and also on the editorial board	21	discussion, especially because of my interests in the
22	-	22	programme Newsnight, I think I would have asked about
23	- · ·	23	it. I don't remember that, I can't be absolutely
24		24	certain about that.
		į.
25		25	NICK POLLARD: You recorded, it is interesting, the two, if Page 8

1	you like, passing references to the two, I suspect quite	1	I asked the question about the Managed Risk Programme
2	important, Helen had; one with Peter Rippon about the	2	List, I asked as a process point to Helen Boaden could
3	Savile programme and the other one that she had, the	3	the next editorial board see the Managed Risk Programme
4	famous "ten second conversation". She told you about	4	List for last December and she said that yes, that will
5	both of those, is that right?	5	be shared, but we know that the Newsnight definitely was
6	PETER HORROCKS: She did, this is moving into the second	6	not on the News Group level list. The Programmes
7	stage where Exposure has transmitted. I was in Cairo	7	Department of which Newsnight is a part, apparently it
8	when that happened, I remember having the odd message	8	was listed there, it didn't get to News Group level. It
9	from some correspondents saying it is not looking very	9	might be a tiny issue, but by the time the issues were
10	good and it is going to get worse and I had not realised	10	being compiled the story was not going ahead.
11	the potential significance. I knew it was a tricky	11	ALAN MACLEAN: Can you unpack that, it sounds like it was on
12	story.	12	one list and not another?
13	ALAN MACLEAN: This is ITV?	13	PETER HORROCKS: Yes, there is a tiering. In the Programmes
14	PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the Exposure broadcast makes the whole	14	Department people get confused, it is easier to think
15	thing a major public issue. Then on my return from	15	about it as the current affairs department, amalgamates
16	Cairo things were starting to go, build up	16	its information about programmes of potential
17	significantly. So these conversations I had with Helen,	17	sensitivity and then there is a triaging process and
18	I have not been able to place these exactly yet, were	18	more significant of those then get amalgamated into
19	after my return from Cairo. In the week after exposure,	19	News Group managed risks programme and that gets
20	it must have been.	20	consolidated into a BBC-wide list, news and current
21	NICK POLLARD: So really the first kick off point, in a way,	21	affairs items generate greater sense.
22	is Wednesday October 10 when really you don't have	22	RICHARD SPAFFORD: Was this a risk at the lower level that
23	an official involvement but you are texting Peter just	23	didn't make it to the risk higher up the chain?
24	to express support, really?	24	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, I just know the information I
25	PETER HORROCKS: Yes, just as a colleague. I know him well,	25	was given last Thursday, it was on the programmes list
23	Page 9	23	Page 11
 	1 450 9
1	I am one of the few former editors of Newsnight who is	1	but not the News List. That could be a timing issue, by
2	still in the organisation so Peter would often share	2	the time the consolidated News Group list was put
3	problems with me and kick things around. I don't recall	3	together the decision had been taken this programme was
4	the Savile investigation coming up in that process, I	4	not going to go ahead. By definition it would fall away
5	was usually talking to him about presenters and those	5	or it could be somebody made a judgment it was not to be
6	sorts of things.	6	escalated, that would be something to ask people with
7	NICK POLLARD: I see, yes, yes.	7	direct knowledge.
8	ALAN MACLEAN: Can I just take you back to last year, just	8	RICHARD SPAFFORD: Do you know how often the list is
9	before we dive into this. I assume, tell me if I am	9	updated?
10	wrong, there was no discussion at any of these news or	10	PETER HORROCKS: It is a monthly list, there is a cycle with
11	editorial boards, no discussion about Savile at all,	11	it going through to the top level, the configuration of
12	Jimmy Savile at all, because the tribute programmes and	12	that and how rapidly that gets escalated is something
13	so on were for another part of the organisation?	13	that needs to be thought about carefully.
14		14	NICK POLLARD: Prepared for the News Group?
15	PETER HORROCKS: My recollection is they were not discussed.
	PETER HORROCKS: My recollection is they were not discussed, but I can't be 100 per sure.	15
16	but I can't be 100 per sure.	15	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of
16	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should	15 16	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of
17	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been?	15 16 17	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month
17 18	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that	15 16 17 18	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and
17 18 19	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January	15 16 17 18 19	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as
17 18 19 20	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January or February when the story started to the run about the	15 16 17 18 19 20	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as I say, it gets consolidated into the wider list. A lot
17 18 19 20 21	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January or February when the story started to the run about the BBC dropping something. The non-appearance of the	15 16 17 18 19 20 21	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as I say, it gets consolidated into the wider list. A lot of those programmes are long-term domestics, Panoramas
17 18 19 20 21 22	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January or February when the story started to the run about the BBC dropping something. The non-appearance of the programme is something in terms of documentation that	15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as I say, it gets consolidated into the wider list. A lot of those programmes are long-term domestics, Panoramas or series for BBC2 or 4 that has sensitivity. It is
17 18 19 20 21 22 23	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January or February when the story started to the run about the BBC dropping something. The non-appearance of the programme is something in terms of documentation that does not necessarily but I do know, and this is from	15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as I say, it gets consolidated into the wider list. A lot of those programmes are long-term domestics, Panoramas or series for BBC2 or 4 that has sensitivity. It is harder to use a monthly device for a daily news
17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January or February when the story started to the run about the BBC dropping something. The non-appearance of the programme is something in terms of documentation that does not necessarily but I do know, and this is from information from last Thursday's News Group board, the	15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as I say, it gets consolidated into the wider list. A lot of those programmes are long-term domestics, Panoramas or series for BBC2 or 4 that has sensitivity. It is harder to use a monthly device for a daily news programme with investigative elements. The
17 18 19 20 21 22 23	but I can't be 100 per sure. ALAN MACLEAN: Would there be any reason why there should have been? PETER HORROCKS: I think through the press report, that might have been more likely to come up in January or February when the story started to the run about the BBC dropping something. The non-appearance of the programme is something in terms of documentation that does not necessarily but I do know, and this is from	15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, within programmes it is used for a meeting. It may be information for head of department, Steve Mitchell. There is an item each month at the News Group editorial board and we look at it and people can ask questions if they choose to and then, as I say, it gets consolidated into the wider list. A lot of those programmes are long-term domestics, Panoramas or series for BBC2 or 4 that has sensitivity. It is harder to use a monthly device for a daily news

1	a judgment issue.	1	PETER HORROCKS: This must be at the end of the week
2	The News Group itself in the editorial board intends	2	previously, so the Friday before Wednesday October 2nd.
3	to scrutinise that and the questions it asks, this was	3	So it would be Friday October 12.
4	not one that actually came to it, this is better talked	4	NICK POLLARD: Well after the IT V programme had been
5	about in context of conversation with George Entwistle	5	produced?
6	and Helen Boaden, it is shared at a BBC-wide level.	6	PETER HORROCKS: Yes, yes, yes. So well after the ITV.
7	Obviously because of this particular item it never got	7	NICK POLLARD: Was there debate how much the BBC should
8	to the News Group level, it never got to the	8	investigate a response, but the story itself?
9	consolidated BBC level, but there is a process for	9	PETER HORROCKS: But there was a shift this is the
10	information to be shared across the organisation of	10	crucial thing on October 12 because when
11	items of sensitivity, we talk about, maybe you are	11	Meirion Jones and Liz MacKean were moving from Newsnight
12	interested in that episode, we can talk about that in	12	to Panorama with, I should stress, the agreement with
13	a bit more detail, whatever you want.	13	Steve Mitchell, the head of department, and the blessing
14	NICK POLLARD: Sure, sure, okay. I think we will come back	14	of the editor of Newsnight, in effect the intention was
15	to that. Then effectively your official role in this	15	to say "we didn't do the original investigation story
16	started on October 17?	16	and we need to get that done." Although it is shutting
17	PETER HORROCKS: Semi-official at that stage. There was	17	the door after the horse has bolted, it would be better
18	a two day period where Fran Unsworth had been allocated	18	for the BBC to do that and bring some of the material
19	the role, I think by Helen, because other people like	19	Newsnight had gathered to light, a different assessment
20	Helen were being used, increasingly in the last few	20	of the legal risks in relation to that once ITV have
21	weeks, and because it was going to involve heavy duty	21	published.
22	investigation and I had experienced this at the height	22	Then the row about the BBC's mishandling of it is
23	of Panorama. She asked me to help her out but it was	23	escalating and he is escalating in parallel and it is on
24	not until later, as I set out in the timeline, I was	24	the Friday evening that George Entwistle announces what
25	given the formal responsibility. Fran's role and mine	25	leads to your appointment and so, you know, the story
	Page 13		Page 15
	Gianal, I have a managible for the comment offeirs	1	starts to take on a different dimension. Meirion Jones
	flipped; I became responsible for the current affairs	2	and Liz MacKean have gone to Panorama as a production
2	and news with Fran supporting me. NICK POLLARD: When it says, "I was asked to investigate	3	team and then some people start to question, and I said
3	current affairs aspect" that implied that, I guess, did	1 ~	team that their some people start to question, and a sur-
4		1 4	about this in the timeline, whether that is appropriate.
۱.	•	4	about this in the timeline, whether that is appropriate. Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on
5	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it	5	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on
6	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some	5 6	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story?
6 7	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself?	5 6 7	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that
6 7 8	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why	5 6 7 8	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that
6 7 8 9	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are	5 6 7 8 9	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they
6 7 8 9	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or	5 6 7 8 9 10	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am
6 7 8 9 10 11	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be	5 6 7 8 9 10 11	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware
6 7 8 9 10 11 12	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit,	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says,
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?"
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved?
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of,	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not got the story. You will hear more from people directly	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get on with it, but this has BBC sensitivity. I imagine he
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not got the story. You will hear more from people directly involved in that, but that was not happening in the way	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get on with it, but this has BBC sensitivity. I imagine he talked with Steve, he must have done at some stage
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not got the story. You will hear more from people directly involved in that, but that was not happening in the way he hoped it would do so he took the story to Panorama	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get on with it, but this has BBC sensitivity. I imagine he talked with Steve, he must have done at some stage because the request from staff to transfer from one
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not got the story. You will hear more from people directly involved in that, but that was not happening in the way he hoped it would do so he took the story to Panorama and Panorama picked it up. Steve Mitchell, as the head	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get on with it, but this has BBC sensitivity. I imagine he talked with Steve, he must have done at some stage because the request from staff to transfer from one programme within the department to another was
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not got the story. You will hear more from people directly involved in that, but that was not happening in the way he hoped it would do so he took the story to Panorama and Panorama picked it up. Steve Mitchell, as the head of department	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get on with it, but this has BBC sensitivity. I imagine he talked with Steve, he must have done at some stage because the request from staff to transfer from one programme within the department to another was definitely agreed by Steve so those conversations must
6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	you already suspect that Panorama would be looking at it or that the news would be inevitably having to do some digging about the BBC itself? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, absolutely by that point, that is why Fran wanted my help I think because there are unprecedented issues about whether it was appropriate or not for people who had been working on Newsnight to be contributing to Panorama. It is worth going back a bit, here I am trying to tell the story with my direct involvement and knowledge, but I can add a bit to help your context. As I understand it I think my times help with this which I have also provided for you there was a feeling after the Newsnight had not gone out that there was an attempt within Newsnight to, kind of, recover some of the ground lost by the fact they had not got the story. You will hear more from people directly involved in that, but that was not happening in the way he hoped it would do so he took the story to Panorama and Panorama picked it up. Steve Mitchell, as the head	5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	Should they be allowed to be, as it were, reporting on something where they are now part of the story? So what happens is that there is debate about that before I formally get involved and it is decided that they can be contributors to the programme but they should not be in editorial control of it. So I am joining and getting involved on Wednesday, Fran is aware of these internal arguments with people with different perspectives, whether this is appropriate, and she says, "This is a tangle, can you help me?" ALAN MACLEAN: Who decided it was going to be a Panorama programme, that was before you involved? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the editor of the programme would have decided he would do that, you need to ask Tom Giles whether he ran it by Steve Mitchell. Normally you get on with it, but this has BBC sensitivity. I imagine he talked with Steve, he must have done at some stage because the request from staff to transfer from one programme within the department to another was different teams that was complicating the ability to get 1 I can't remember exactly when that was and how that 2 to the bottom of things and understand the facts and 2 related to the timeline of the alerts going to 3 that is relevant to the good conduct of an investigation 3 management and all those sorts of things. You will need 4 that was always going to be tricky because it was to unpick that, I don't have all the details of that. 5 an investigation into an organisation and I think it had 5 NICK POLLARD: Okay. So do you know when work on that 6 some bearing on the corporate mindset towards the story 6 Panorama programme started? 7 7 PETER HORROCKS: I don't, to be honest, no. I think Tom and the Corporation's understanding of the facts and 8 that influenced its ability to be able to clarify its 8 picked it up and said, "This is something we need to be 9 9 doing and seen to be doing" but by the time I was asked public position. We are jumping ahead a bit here. 10 to get involved on that Wednesday 17th the programme was 10 ALAN MACLEAN: Can I just ask about whether you have any 11 view about the extent to which the decision to stop the already up and running and, you know, the dual aspect of 11 12 story, not to broadcast the Newsnight story last year, 12 it which became the programme as transmitted, IE that 13 was that a decision that was accepted or welcomed or not 13 there was, you know, the basic Jimmy Savile story, the 14 welcomed or not accepted, first of all by the Newsnight 14 historical stuff but also the BBC's handling of it more journalists as a whole and then, secondly, by the 15 recently, those elements were established by the time 15 16 management? Or were you not able to form a view about 16 I joined it. 17 17 NICK POLLARD: Fran was dealing with the daily news side of PETER HORROCKS: You have asked an extremely broad question 18 it, or were you increasingly taking that over as well? 18 19 in terms of the number of people who would have a view PETER HORROCKS: I was taking that over, but she was dealing 19 20 20 with the interplay between Newsnight and Panorama. So 21 ALAN MACLEAN: There is some suggestion, for example, 21 by that stage some of the Newsnight team had started to 22 believe things about how the investigation had been done 22 Mr Rippon's blog, that his decision was supported by 23 some and not supported by others at the time. 23 which made them question the way that Meirion Jones and 24 PETER HORROCKS: Well, again, I don't have direct knowledge 24 Liz MacKean had done some of those things. Indeed, 25 of this obviously so I can only rely on the few 25 I will come to this, I have my own questions about Page 17 Page 19 1 conversations I have had with people. 1 whether they at all times did the right thing. I am not 2 ALAN MACLEAN: Some of us agree strongly and some of us coming in here and saying one group of people that did 2 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, yes, so, again, this is useful context 3 3 it right and one group of people did it wrong, there is 4 and bound to come out through conversations that you 4 issues and questions for everyone. will have, so it is less about my direct knowledge, it 5 5 So Fran was dealing with some of the Newsnight team is a legitimate context to assist you in being able to saying this is not appropriate and also throwing up 6 6 understand what has happened and ask relevant questions 7 7 questions about things like the interview with the aunt 8 in relation to that. It is not any secret that 8 that I refer to in the later timeline, and I don't know Q 9 if you want to go down those particular rabbit holes at 10 this stage. There are one or two rabbits I had to knock there had been quite a lot of press 11 stories, things that had emerged from journalists that on the head during the course of it, they ended up being 11 12 worked on the programme or left the programme and that 12 distractions from what the key issues were. is an important context on how he is communicating with 13 13 NICK POLLARD: I guess there was, just to make things 14 his team and potentially about the communication above 14 harder, a fair bit of unofficial briefing going on of as well. So you need to ask the people directly 15 15 newspapers and other contacts by people with, you might say, with a bit of an axe to grind from one side or the 16 involved what their particular perspectives on that 16 were, but that was definitely a background to it. 17 17 other? 18 From what I understand -- this is predominantly from 18 PETER HORROCKS: I was certainly aware of that and something 19 a conversation last week with the now acting editor, 19 I was having to manage through the course of this was Liz Gibbons, who had some awareness of it being the people who had different perspectives on it who felt 20 20 deputy editor at the time this happened -- most of this 21 21 their positions were being accurately reported. The was being handled by Peter Rippon in direct relationship 22 22 producer felt they were being maligned but equally there with the team and there was not necessarily that 23 23 were people close to the original Newsnight and who felt widespread knowledge until the moment when the story was 24 that the leaking that was happening was, you know, 24 not going ahead. It is clear that there must have been 25 25 producing them. So there was an atmosphere between some discussion about that with a number of other 1 newspapers read that there have been some job cuts in people, not least because Caroline Hawley discusses it 2 Newsnight, some redundancies? 2 3 PETER HORROCKS: When are we talking about? So the BBC's 3 with the Director General at a drinks party. savings programme entitled Delivering Quality First was 4 NICK POLLARD: She is not a Newsnight reporter? 4 5 announced in October 2011 so the announcements across PETER HORROCKS: No, I think she was attached, she moved 5 6 the whole organisation, it was not as if Newsnight was across every now and then to back up Newsnight. So the 6 7 singled out. But, yes, and I believe Liz MacKean was 7 fact of the story not going ahead is a matter of some 8 a reporter who was 8 knowledge within the team, but exactly who knew what and that may be a factor as well. 9 the level of detail I don't know. 10 NICK POLLARD: Tell us about this right to reply letter from ALAN MACLEAN: To the extent the blog suggests there were 10 Panorama which you thought was a bit hostile rather than 11 11 some people leading the cheering and some leading the 12 evenly balanced, the right to reply letter to Peter. booing for Rippon's decisions. Do you know who the 12 PETER HORROCKS: Yes. 13 13 boo-ers were and who the cheerers were? NICK POLLARD: It came via Ceri Thomas. Why would that be? 14 PETER HORROCKS: I don't, apart from the people we are 14 PETER HORROCKS: Why would that be Ceri Thomas? 15 concerned about whose views have been --15 16 NICK POLLARD: Yes. NICK POLLARD: It is clear from some of the notes we have 16 PETER HORROCKS: I think this is something that is not 17 17 seen that Liz Gibbons was against it. She is on the 18 confidential. 18 record as criticising it both through a matter of taste 19 and as a matter of appropriateness for the programme. Certainly at that point he had PETER HORROCKS: That would fit with what I heard. I think 20 declared himself as being supportive of Peter and he 21 21 clearly, other than a hindsight aspect, I think there 22 also recused himself from the coverage of Savile on the 22 were people who genuinely felt that it was, you know, Today programme as part of that by the middle of the 23 23 maybe unseemly and too soon after his death and, you 24 week, prior to Panorama. Anyway, so this was part of 24 know, we talk about the judgment itself and its the interplay I was talking about that Fran was dealing 25 25 appropriateness. That is an aspect of the judgment Page 23 Page 21 depending on the strength of the testimony and all those 1 1 2 So Ceri was talking to other editors, there was 2 sorts of things. NICK POLLARD: But did you get the impression, perhaps from 3 already a, sort of, view that too much of the blame was 3 being put on Peter Rippon and a significant part of that 4 a conversation with Liz or wider knowledge, to put it 4 was the strong belief which, you know, I think there was 5 bluntly, it was an unhappy programme team perhaps? 5 a legitimate point to. It is one thing for a reporter 6 There is always in every programme low level grumbling 6 7 and producer to go from one programme to another to do and people let off steam that way, but more than usual? 7 an investigation on somebody else but to go from one 8 8 PETER HORROCKS: No, I would say -- I had direct knowledge of Newsnight for the best part of 30 years and I would 9 programme to another and then start doing 9 an investigation on the organisation and in particular 10 say it is a more divided team than most. 10 because this process had by then been constituted, so in 11 ALAN MACLEAN: 11 12 the legal letters that we had David Price writes on PETER HORROCKS: behalf of Peter Rippon during the course of the run up 13 14 to the transmission and says that it is against natural justice: how can the BBC have constituted this process 15 and also be investigating my client in public and how 16 does the BBC reconcile those things? We deal with that. 17 That view is the view that Ceri Thomas is expressing on 18 behalf of Peter Rippon and that is coming to me from 19 20 Fran because she is at that stage taking over all 21 responsibility. 22 NICK POLLARD: Okay. So, I mean --PETER HORROCKS: Other people are expressing that view and 23 24 there are details, but we don't need to go into that. NICK POLLARD: The right to reply letter is effectively ALAN MACLEAN: More recently there have been in the 25 Page 24 Page 22

Page 20

a rota of the senior BBC News representatives attending a letter that Panorama would send out, probably to 1 that call and although procedures had been put in place 2 2 anybody that they were doing an investigation about. 3 where people were in different units there were people PETER HORROCKS: Yes, sorry, I didn't actually address the 3 4 question in my early view of it. I am being influenced on the corporate side and editorial side I was on the 4 5 rota for that. I thought do I need to go in? to some extent by some of the concerns that people are 5 6 ALAN MACLEAN: Can I ask you about this DG communications 6 expressing about whether it is being fair to 7 call, you said you were on the rota. This happens every 7 Peter Rippon, I have not yet got my own hands on the evidence, I have not read any of the transcripts of the 8 morning, does it? 8 9 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, the same time every morning. 9 interviews or at this stage have I had the face-to-face 10 ALAN MACLEAN: This gives a heads-up what is going on? 10 meeting with Meirion Jones. I am just reacting to the NICK POLLARD: It is a conference call. letter. It just seemed a bit hostile. Looking back in 11 11 hindsight, I think I used the word "loaded" and I think 12 PETER HORROCKS: It is a morning meeting and it was 12 instituted, I think, after a previous set of public 13 13 there were one or two phrases which, looking back on it with more understanding of things now, I probably would 14 reputational issues the BBC had to face and the 14 importance of all the senior leaders coming together 15 say are loaded. But the, kind of, the list of 15 very rapidly in effect of communications and press tends 16 16 accusations, as it were, they were legitimate ones, to dominate. If there has been a blackout on the 17 17 I think, to have raised. NICK POLLARD: You said to Clive Edwards that you thought it 18 website, those sorts of things will be raised as well. 18 ALAN MACLEAN: An opportunity to put things on to the 19 was -- and that was in your capacity then as effectively 19 20 Director General's plate? 20 editorial head of Savile coverage? PETER HORROCKS: It is, the new Director General was saying, PETER HORROCKS: I can't be absolutely sure, Nick, I would 21 21 22 "I don't want it to just be dominated by the cuttings of have to look at the time of day when George Entwistle 22 23 The Daily Mail, I want to hear about other things." 23 sent -- George sent me the email at 14.15, no, this is This meeting was dominated by what was happening in the 24 24 before I am given that responsibility so I am still in 25 press, it is meant to be --25 a deputy capacity on the Friday. I am getting involved Page 27 Page 25 ALAN MACLEAN: How often would you be on the rota? in it. I think it is loaded, Clive says, "Don't be 1 PETER HORROCKS: Once a week. I am formally Helen Boaden's 2 2 ridiculous, there are serious things to run and we need deputy and she joins most of the calls, that particular to get on with it." By lunchtime I have sat down with 3 3 Friday morning was one where I was rostered so I decided 4 4 Meirion, that is for me the significant moment for me it was important for BBC News to be represented for 5 understanding what has happened and that shifts my 5 a whole range of issues. 6 6 perspective. ALAN MACLEAN: When you listen in you are not a participant NICK POLLARD: Friday morning you get this email from Roger, 7 8 in the discussion, you are not --8 slightly out of the blue, saying you are now handling PETER HORROCKS: No, no, I could have said something but --9 9 Panorama. Did that come as a bit of a surprise? 10 and this is very important to say -- that I did not pass PETER HORROCKS: By the way, well, it didn't totally no. 10 that information on to the editorial team in Panorama 11 I could see Fran was keen for support and I had, 11 having heard that. I use that in my corporate capacity 12 I looked after the John Ware programme that proceeded 12 subsequently in the conversations I describe later on 13 13 the Hutton report that had some impact on BBC governance 14 that day. 14 eight years ago. I had been put in this position ALAN MACLEAN: So it is important to your mindset and those 15 15 previously so I was not totally surprised, to be honest. who participated in that discussion that you are wearing 16 NICK POLLARD: Okay. Interestingly, that note at 9.20 about 16 17 a particular hat? 17 Paul Milrea, is that how you --PETER HORROCKS: I don't think they were particularly 18 18 PETER HORROCKS: Yes. 19 thinking about it, to be honest. They knew I was on the NICK POLLARD: Milray. This, it seems to me, kicks off this 19 20 call, everybody announces themselves. issue about the BBC's public handling of press matters. 20 ALAN MACLEAN: You were there wearing your corporate hat --21 PETER HORROCKS: That was a piece of information which 21 PETER HORROCKS: Not my -- well, I was not formally leading 22 22 I battled with myself whether to include, I decided it Panorama at that point. I think, yes, I don't think 23 is sufficiently important that even though that is me 23 24 I knew that. I knew about the Panorama because Fran had passing on to the inquiry information which I gained in 24 been asking me about it and I had had some phone calls 25 my senior corporate capacity, because it was just, it is 25 Page 28 Page 26 through the course of Thursday, as I said, I was 1 was not even handed about the nature of the 2 2 investigation. traveling and appearing at the literary festivals. 3 NICK POLLARD: As it turns out, if you look at the position 3 I had had calls about it, I was gaining knowledge, when I read the story in The Times and then read the way it 4 that the BBC later reached, later acknowledged, it was 4 5 the very opposite of ridiculous. I mean, ridiculous was 5 was being described on the call I thought there may be a gap between my emerging understanding and how I took 6 a very considerable overstatement, was it not? 6 7 PETER HORROCKS: Well, I said to people that I thought 7 the corporate position to be. ALAN MACLEAN: What was the thrust of the times story? 8 ridiculous was the wrong description, as you see from my 8 9 subsequent communication with the general council and 9 PETER HORROCKS: The thrust was what was being referred to when it was described as ridiculous was the definition 10 the conversation I had with Jessica Cecil, the chief of 10 staff to the Director General. I noted it was being of the story, the nature of the investigation, IE 11 11 focused on Surrey Police and their handling of it. 12 described as ridiculous, I assessed that myself because 12 I was trying not to take a position on anything, as you NICK POLLARD: The suggestion by The Times was that it was 13 13 14 can see. I initially thought the Panorama view was not true? 14 15 loaded, I was trying to keep as neutral a view as 15 PETER HORROCKS: It was the first of the series of emails that started to appear which showed the production did 16 possible and find out what was going on. I thought 16 17 talking to Meirion might be useful. 17 not hold that view. NICK POLLARD: Just before you leave the press call, who do 18 18 ALAN MACLEAN: So The Times was questioning the story or the you think Milray would have got that line from, do you line that had been put out that Newsnight was looking at 19 19 20 20 what the police had been doing and The Times was saying PETER HORROCKS: I don't have a clear view of how the we have a document that suggests it was doing something 21 21 corporate perspective has come together through this. 22 22 different? My main understanding of the corporate perspective is PETER HORROCKS: It was probably the Liz MacKean email, 23 23 largely through communication with Milrea of a different 24 24 something like that, that subsequently appeared in nature, not a conference call but interacting with him 25 25 a number of other places and also my sense was the --Page 31 Page 29 and how the corporate side has organised itself, has not sorry, was that the context of leaking, and I can't 1 been immediately apparent to me, that has been kept 2 2 remember what other stories had already appeared by this separate for obvious reasons. I know the BBC has an 3 3 stage so please forgive me, doing a pull of the press instant command system, gold command, so if is appointed 4 4 stuff against the time would help with this, but my as gold command my understanding is that has not been sense was I don't know if I can talk about it. I then 5 5 Director General because they are involved in the story 6 6 have some conversations and write some emails and send and it is not good practice for somebody caught up in 7 7 some texts in the afternoon, after I have spoken to something to be taking those even-handed decisions. My 8 8 Meirion, to a number of people on the corporate side. understanding is for part of this period Roger Mosey was ALAN MACLEAN: What was ridiculous? What was described as 9 9 10 that person which is the reason why the email came to me 10 ridiculous? from Roger saying I was given responsibility for 11 PETER HORROCKS: I suppose what was being said was that 11 12 Panorama. The Times was read to have swallowed the version of the 12 ALAN MACLEAN: He is? 13 13 story because we know from the BBC corporate point of PETER HORROCKS: Acting Director for BBC Vision. He was 14 14 view that is not true, was what I read into the use of previously responsible for BBC's coverage of the 15 15 the word ridiculous. ALAN MACLEAN: But Mr Milrea is a comms man, not somebody 16 Olympics. 16 NICK POLLARD: When George Entwistle moved up from Director 17 17 directly involved in the events the year before. PETER HORROCKS: This is a conversation that is happening 18 of Vision --18 ALAN MACLEAN: The George Entwistle --19 19 about the BBC's handle before. As I say, the PETER HORROCKS: His substantive role is Director of Vision. 20 Director General did correct him or adjust his view, he 20 In this role, as I understand it, he has taken on the 21 21 said, "I think you ought to nuance this, there are acting DG responsibility because of George. Once he has 22 22 people who have different views." There was a sense by commissioned you guys he is no longer allowed to be 23 23 that stage, now he know the direct information available 24 taking decisions in relation to that, although there are by that stage, but it was still for me there was still 24 some things he communicates to me so I am not quite sure 25 a -- it was still clear the corporate mindset certainly 25

Page 32

PETER HORROCKS: Yes, it is used as a noticeboard when the non-editorial, that was a mistake, but even in that 1 2 2 event there was room for an investigative journalist, if BBC wants to get a point of view about launching a new 3 programme or something like that. Also when there is 3 you come to see me or come to see Tom Giles at least 4 something awkward, say inappropriate pictures on the 4 there would have been another kind of scrutiny. 5 10 o'clock news, somebody will confess their sins in 5 NICK POLLARD: We will ask in detail about his reaction. 6 6 Okay. Just take us through the things that you did, if ALAN MACLEAN: It is a way of doing things in public? 7 you like, as a result of your conversation with Meirion 7 8 PETER HORROCKS: It is significant. We do have a policy of 8 9 9 RICHARD SPAFFORD: Do you mind, you said in the linking to it prominently, particularly if it is 10 something to do with the core BBC News. If there has 10 conversation, "It appears he has some strong points." 11 I think you say in your timeline, 14, 15, "Meirion --11 been a mistake about something you will see the links to 12 other aspects of the story. Editor's blog apology, 12 convinced me he had some strong points about it not 13 13 going ahead and..." Can you tell me about the strong something like that, if it is relevant. ALAN MACLEAN: It is an established mechanism? 14 14 points about the item not going ahead? PETER HORROCKS: It is a serious accountability and 15 PETER HORROCKS: Well, he tells me about the fact there were 15 16 two interviews, the strength of the testimony he has 16 transparency mechanism the BBC uses, it is not a sop, it is serious and people take it seriously. We often have 17 other research information that was not on camera but 17 18 a discussion about how far should we go and the 18 was helping to substantiate it and I think his point is 19 press office are often saying, "Come on, we don't have 19 why were we stopped, why didn't we continue it? At 20 to go that far" and we have tried to encourage a culture 20 least if there were legitimate doubts about it why of editors honestly describing their mistakes because 21 didn't we, they seemed to be legitimate. It is actually 21 22 having a trusting relationship with the audience by 22 on the second side of it that I am getting an even 23 stronger concern about whether the BBC's position is 23 being clear and honest about error is important for us 24 to do. It is important for us to have. 24 an appropriate one because so much of the information ALAN MACLEAN: I think I have read some suggestion this 2.5 that he has does contradict both the blog and also other 25 Page 39 Page 37 1 particular blog was to some extent subject to drafting inaccuracies that the BBC is committing itself to in 1 2 by committee. Do you know who actually --2 public and it is that second aspect of it that becomes 3 PETER HORROCKS: I don't have any knowledge of that. in many ways my strong concern in relation to the 3 ALAN MACLEAN: What would you expect, would you expect the 4 4 corporate position. 5 editor himself to sit down and write it? 5 RICHARD SPAFFORD: What you are saying here is you think PETER HORROCKS: Yes, I would, yes, with input from whoever 6 6 there is strength in the first point as well, is that else has information and I would also expect the comms 7 7 right? team would have sight of it. In fact, I think there was PETER HORROCKS: I do, I do. This is not to say the reasons 8 8 9 something that was introduced in our first flush of Peter Rippon may have had in his mind were invalid, 9 enthusiasm for transparency, I think blogs were written 10 10 there could have been other reasons, but the questions Meirion is raising are legitimate ones that would lead 11 without the press team having sight of them and signing 11 12 them off and when I was head of the newsroom, which me not to be so absolute the statements the BBC is 12 13 included responsibility for online, digital and radio, 13 currently making, in other words there is at least the comms team said, "We need to see these in advance." 14 14 enough to create some doubt about the position the BBC 15 Exactly what happened in this case, whether there was 15 is taking. involvement, I don't know. NICK POLLARD: At around about this time you are getting 16 16 17 ALAN MACLEAN: They need to see them so they can handle 17 increasingly exercised, I think, about the BBC's 18 auestions --18 position. Just so I am clear, the blog, the blog has PETER HORROCKS: Yes, yes, I am saying where we got to, the 19 19 been up in its original form for how long by then? editor needs to be able to express clearly and honestly 20 PETER HORROCKS: 2 October, I think. 20 ALAN MACLEAN: It is dated 2 October. When you were 21 the explanation for what it might be, positive or 21 negative, but the comms team should know about that and 22 22 Newsnight editor when blogs were not around did you have be able to handle follow up queries. Sometimes it would 23 23 one? be, in effect, have you thought about this, thought 24 24 PETER HORROCKS: No, but I had responsibility -about that, the comms team would say to look at that ALAN MACLEAN: So it has been around for a while, has it? 25 Page 40 Page 38

- drafting, but the commitment is always to a transparent
- 2 relationship with the audience.
- 3 ALAN MACLEAN: It is not supposed to be a lines to take
- 4 document?
- 5 PETER HORROCKS: No, it is not. I have explained its
- origins and the intention of it. It was originally 6
- 7 designed to open up the BBC's editorial processes. We
- 8 thought it was something we might update two or three
- 9 times a day, thinking about this, thinking about that,
- 10 but that didn't happen. It became more of
- 11 an alternative communications tool but with the
- 12 intention of it being, I suppose, not like a press
- 13 release or a press statement. It is more in the
- 14 authentic voice of the editor who is talking directly to
- 15 the audience.
- 16 NICK POLLARD: This was clearly Peter's authentic voice, is
- 17 that right?

- l₁₈ PETER HORROCKS: In reading it I never thought it was in
- somebody else's hands, the questions you are asking, I 19
- 20 have not heard second-hand about that either. I have
- 21 not genuinely heard any discussion about that. That is
- 22 partly because you need to speak to Meirion James and
- 23 there is a key part of this, their view is they had very
- 24 little knowledge themselves and most of my information
- 25 has come from them rather than people in the corporate Page 41
 - machine because by the time I was involved in it I was
- in a separate box from the corporate machine and they 2
- 3 had not been telling me what was going on.
- NICK POLLARD: Did you get the impression when you talked to 4
- 5 him that as soon as this blog had gone up he had
- 6 realised that it effectively ran counter to his view --
- PETER HORROCKS: It is all in his communications with 7
- management about inaccuracies with BBC position. 8
- 9 I think yesterday I sent it through to you, he quotes
- very clearly the number of efforts he makes. This is 10
- both before and after the publication of the blog to try 11
- 12 and get that across, the meeting which was previously
- confidential with David Jordan, the email to George
- 13
- 14 Entwistle and the attempted doorstep of the
- 15 Director General within the building to alert him to it.
- 2 October, "Talk to George in the fourth floor lifts." 16
- ALAN MACLEAN: "Briefly". 17
- 18 PETER HORROCKS: So it is, you know.
- NICK POLLARD: So there are two parallel things going on, 19
- 20 you see. There is the blog which is there in print as
- 21 the existing BBC view of why the thing was dropped and
- then, of course, there is a whole range of other 22
- 23 statements being made, interviews given by David Jordan
- 24 and the Director General --
- 25 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, yes.

Page 42

- NICK POLLARD: -- and then you get involved in a fire 1
- 2 fighting, as it were, of trying to make sure that the
- 3 right version or a not quite as conspicuously wrong
- 4 version takes precedence, is that right?
- 5 PETER HORROCKS: It takes intellectual and emotional energy,
- that is how it feels after two weeks of this. There is 6
- difference between the Newsnight and Panorama teams, 7
- 8 that is one of those, and then as I say --
- 9 ALAN MACLEAN: You, as it were, discovers -- this is 14 and
- 10 15 on the 19th, on the Friday.
- 11 PETER HORROCKS: Yes.
- 12 ALAN MACLEAN: There was a second. Jones had told you
- 13 already there were two -- 18

- PETER HORROCKS: No, I don't think he had and at that stage 14
- I had not been cross-examining his story. What I had 15
- done was establish there was enough credible on him 16
- casting doubt on the BBC's account of events and I was 17
 - asking him to write his account. It was a short
- 19 meeting, it was sufficient to say he had doubts about
- 20 the BBC was saying, I had not tested him about that.
- 21 The testing starts when the information comes to me
- 22 through different routes. On Thursday night, on the
- 23
- 18th, Newsnight do the Savile story for the first time 24 and Liz MacKean appears on Newsnight and it is through
- the editorial process the so-called second interview is 25

Page 43

- discovered. So there is turmoil on Newsnight.
- ALAN MACLEAN: Discovered by Newsnight --
- PETER HORROCKS: Yes.
- ALAN MACLEAN: He stood down though --
- PETER HORROCKS: No, no, not at this stage. I am going back 5
- to the previous. No. no. So, Thursday October 18, 6
- after the exposure has been transmitted more than a week 7
- earlier, Newsnight finally do an item on Savile and 8
- Meirion details this and debate in the programme whether 9
- 10 it is appropriate. Peter says he does not want to do
- 11 it. Eventually he is recused because of Pollard being
- 12 set out. He makes that item, in making that item the
- 13 second interview is discovered --
- NICK POLLARD: Has it been lying somewhere --14
- PETER HORROCKS: I don't think Meirion is involved, he 15
- appears as the reporter on process. 16
- ALAN MACLEAN: You say Mr Rippon has been recused, by the 17
- 18 time of this broadcast he is not --
- 19 PETER HORROCKS: I think that is right, I am not a direct
- witness to that, about the atmosphere within Newsnight. 20
- 21 As I understand, you will have to speak to people more
- directly involved. The interview with people who worked 22 at the aunt's home in Surrey is used as part of, well, 23
- this is what Newsnight found out but somebody realises 24
- 25 there is also a section in that interview which refers

- to possibility that the aunt has been complicit with
- 2 Savile. So a huge turnaround and Newsnight are now
- 3 saying they want to do on Friday evening the story of
- 4 how Meirion Jones withheld this interview but included
- 5 the information about the aunt. It is clearly a serious
- 6 allegation and it goes to the relationship between
- 7 Rippon and Meirion Jones.
- 8 Just to draw a line under it quickly, you can come
- 9 back to it at some other stage, what I established was
- it was not germane to the issue of why Newsnight dropped
- the film. It might have been wrong for Meirion Jones
- not to disclose it, he said there were reasons: it was
- done when the story was being killed, it was not
- dono whom the story was being kined, it was no
- relevant. He says the fact of him doing this
- 15 investigation has

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1

2

7

10

11

20

21

He insists the fact Peter Rippon did not know about it is nothing to do about why the story was dropped. It has only come out on Thursday 18th, ages after the issues that are in dispute.

So I work that through and I think, okay, it might be something Panorama might touch on if they feel the chemistry between the producer and the editor is relevant but in the end that is all far too intricate

Page 45

Liz Gibbons that Panorama will look into it, trust inside BBC stuff and dismiss it. Fran says to

- Peter Horrocks to look into it, Newsnight is not going
- 3 to do that story on Friday night and two hours of a load
- 4 of nonsense to deal with that to get back to the more
- 5 important thing which is my perception of the position
- 6 has not properly taken into account the concerns -- has
 - not taken into account the possibility that things have
- 8 not been understood.9 There is a conversa

There is a conversation I have not included in this, probably because I have been working off my email and

- text account of things, I did have a conversation with
- 12 Jessica Cecil, chief of staff, and I say to her that
- 13 I think this is like Greg Dyke and Richard Sambrook
- with the aftermath of the Alistair Campbell complaint.
- 15 The organisation has gone into a bunker mentality
- because the stories are being run very, very hard,
- especially by the Mail and The Times, and you are
- 18 rightly and understandably concerned about leaking
- 19 coming from some of the protagonists.
 - Those things are true and there is also the big claim that the Newsnight was pulled because of the
- 22 Christmas schedules. Everybody who knows anything about
- BBC News knows that is never likely to have happened.
- People may have interpreted that, but BBC News is proud
- of its independence and the director of BBC's News would

Page 46

- not lose a moment's sleep over the Christmas schedules
- 2 being disrupted if it was a sign of strength.
- 3 So all of those things, the stories the papers are
- 4 telling, makes people think it is all wrong in the words
 - used. What was not ridiculous is there were legitimate
- 6 concerns about how the decision had been reached and how
- 7 it had then subsequently been described. That is what
- 8 I say to the chief of staff, the Director General and
- 9 also on the Saturday morning --
- 10 ALAN MACLEAN: When was that conversation?
- 11 PETER HORROCKS: 5 o'clock, 6 o'clock on the Friday.
- 12 ALAN MACLEAN: Your concern was that the enemy is at the - gate in the form of the press, we must react because
- 14 they are throwing spears into the castle, we must throw
- something out, without taking a step back and looking at
- 16 the underlying facts?
- 17 PETER HORROCKS: Correct.
- 18 NICK POLLARD: That is what got the BBC dug deeper and
- 19 deeper in a hole?
- 20 PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I was on the news board at that time,
- 21 I remember it well. I didn't have direct involvement
- 22 except, as I say, in producing Panorama which helped
- 23 create circumstances where -- I certainly had
- an awareness of that, I certainly thought it is
- 25 hamaning assis
- 25 happening again.

Page 47

- 1 NICK POLLARD: Can you send us an addendum to this timeline
- with the details of this?
- 3 PETER HORROCKS: I won't be able to recall it more than we
- 4 have, if you can just take it from the notes.
- 5 NICK POLLARD: It was a conversation with George, was it?
- 6 PETER HORROCKS: No, no, with Jessica Cecil. If I just
- 7 briefly explain, it is like an episode of
- 8 The Thick Of It where I work because there is an open
- 9 plan office space where I work and Helen Boaden works
- and then there is a glass screen and outside is the
- 11 Director General work. There are a small number of
- meeting rooms, we are going in and out, playing
- different roles, Chinese walls where there are no walls.
- 14 ALAN MACLEAN: You don't want to knock on one of the glass
- walls, you send a text to somebody instead.
- 16 NICK POLLARD: There is not a Malcolm Tucker figure in this,
 - is there, identifiably?
- 18 Okay. Saturday, presumably, I mean, you are working
- 19 unbelievably long hours to the middle of the night.
- 20 PETER HORROCKS: On Thursday, on Saturday I go to Oxford for
- 21 my daughter's graduation. I do bang off something in
- 22 the morning.
- 23 NICK POLLARD: You could not sleep at 3.09.
- 24 PETER HORROCKS: You will see similarly for the course of
- 25 the next ten days or so because it has been so intense.

Page 48

17

NICK POLLARD: Just a question about that list of questions There are streams and streams of emails, trying to find 1 2 2 sent to the Corporation. In what capacity were you the ones germane to your interests. I am even more 3 doing that then? Is this, if you like, partly -anxious about it because I am aware the 3 PETER HORROCKS: Editorial, editorial, clearly editorial. 4 Director General is going to be appearing in front of 4 5 Parliament on Tuesday and in terms of responses and lack 5 NICK POLLARD: Okay. 6 PETER HORROCKS: So the letter actually comes from 6 of responses I have had so far I am not sure the 7 organisation has properly understood the discrepancies, 7 Karen Wightman but the team is saying we have written 8 at least that are in existence. I have expressed that 8 these right to reply letters and I am saying I can see 9 why the BBC is not going to respond to those individual 9 concern through the course of Saturday, as it were, 10 10 wearing a corporate hat. Send the Corporation the letters because the position of the individuals about to be arraigned in front of Pollard. But the Corporation 11 letter from Panorama and I am thinking, "What more can 11 12 I do to try and get this through to people?" 12 should be asked whether it stands by the public 13 Then it suddenly comes to me I have been asked to 13 statements of its employees and so I consolidate the 14 take editorial responsibility for the BBC News Savile 14 right of replies into a set of questions for the 15 15 coverage so I have the authority to decide: if it is Corporation. inaccurate it should be taken down. That is why I say 16 NICK POLLARD: Were you forming a view by this time that 16 17 actually, well, I think you probably were because of the 17 it should be taken down but I realise I can't take that 18 decision in my own right, not for editorial reasons 18 way you express the previous day, that the BBC is wrong 19 because it would have implications for the BBC's 19 in the public position it is taking and digging itself corporate position which is why I ask for advice from 20 a big hole? I think it probably is clear what you say. 20 PETER HORROCKS: If you look at 9.30, Sarah Jones general 21 the general council in relation to it. Because I don't 21 22 get a response to that and I am also starting to realise 22 council, I see a BBC person describes yesterday's Times 23 other things, it is not just the blog, you see it at 23 story as being ridiculous. 24 06.18 I am beginning to realise the way the BBC is 24 ALAN MACLEAN: Embattled, that is pure --25 PETER HORROCKS: Exactly, exactly. I am deliberately using 25 defining it -- no, that is not true. I am wrong to be Page 51 Page 49 1 focusing solely on the blog, that there are other that language to try and get through the mindset that 1 2 statements that senior BBC people have made that are 2 I am aware of. I do think, to be fair, that some of our different from and could be construed as possibly more corporate mindset was already shifting -- and this is 3 3 4 inaccurate than the blog itself. 4 speculative -- but my sense of it was that already 5 ALAN MACLEAN: So the blog is a symptom? 5 started and what I overheard the Director General saying PETER HORROCKS: It is part of a set of BBC inaccuracies. 6 6 on Friday morning, this position needs to be nuanced, NICK POLLARD: At the very least, they are not following the different perspective, is starting to be understood. My 7 7 8 same line? 8 sense of it is it is not being understood as rapidly as PETER HORROCKS: Not the same line. So the blog is I am understanding from the facts I have brought about 9 9 10 referring to two rationales, two motives for the 10 and the way I have tried to understand the conflicting investigation: the nature of the allegations and the 11 11 12 Surrey Police. The statements by the NICK POLLARD: Is Lucy Adams a colleague of Sarah Jones? 12 Director General and Lord Patten, although I had not PETER HORROCKS: She is the Director of Human Resources for 13 13 14 spotted it at this stage, and -- those are more 14 the BBC. ALAN MACLEAN: By the middle of the night, Sunday morning by 15 inaccurate than the blog. I am thinking to myself, 15 "I need to get a response to this for Panorama" which is 5.41, you decided the blog needs to be dealt with. That 16 16 one responsibility but I also, as a senior BBC person, 17 17 is the conclusion you had come by then, is that right, want the organisation to understand that if 48 hours 18 at this time you decide this it needs to be grappled 18 19 before going before Parliament that is the mindset it is 19 with? 20 important to get that across. PETER HORROCKS: Yes, so I wake up again -- what is also not 20 21 That is what leads me to the view that it is 21 in this is all the stuff dealing with the Panorama, so 22 legitimate to write a letter to Lord Patten from 22 there is plenty of other activities going on through 23 this period, driving the Panorama and making sure the 23 Panorama because of his role in holding the 24 Director General in particular accountable for the Panorama is in. I am talking to people about that, 24 accuracy of his statements and the BBC's and that is 25 25 leave that to one side, I had left that out of it. Page 52 Page 50

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19 20

21

22

23

24

1

2

3

5

6

7

10

11

12

- a way of trying to jog the organisation. I draft it, 2 talk about it with the Panorama team, say, "Do you want 3 to send the letter?" They say, "No, we would rather you 4 sent it." I talk to Tim Davie, director of audio music, 5 reporting line to the executive who has kept those two 6 things a Chinese wall in his own mind. He says that is 7 an editorially correct thing to do, so I send that 8 email. Not to the Chairman, I don't have his email 9 address, but Nicholas Kroll, director of trust and the 10 (inaudible) the person I ranked with for world service. 11 Then I wait to see what happened. 12 ALAN MACLEAN: If this was done in studied calm, which 13 clearly it was not for obvious reasons, you would expect 14 Mr Kroll and the Director General -- and Lord Patten, 15 indeed -- to be singing in public from the same 16 hymn sheet that it had been prepared and agreed. One of 17 the things you spot is they are not saying the same 18 things and not saying the same things, they are not 19 taking the blog and saying, "This is our position, we 20 will say that." I mean, Lord Patten presumably is not 21 going to be producing the document he speaks to in 22 interview. So who would you expect to provide the 23 information to those people who have been put out in 24 public and --PETER HORROCKS: I don't know, I don't want to speculate too 25 25 Page 53 1 much in this area. There is a communications team in 2 the BBC and a communications team within the BBC trust, 3 that would be one route of communication or it would be,
- the meeting, otherwise what is the point of having a meeting if the information is not acted on? Anyway, all of that and it is only Meirion's version of it. I know the way some of that was interpreted by some of the people handling it on the corporate side would not be the same as Meirion has put it, that needs to be tested through your process. Things were flagged up over a number of days and the organisation -- well, let us put it this way. When I asked the questions or Panorama asked the questions of the individuals of the Corporation and then finally of the Chairman, the BBC did not respond immediately with a complete single clarification of its position. It came out over a period and was then -- there was not a single statement, there was a correction to the blog and then a subsequent clarification which was not described as a correction we can come to. Page 55 All I would observe from those facts is at the time Panorama was asking the questions the organisation was not in a position to provide a timely single accurate account of what had happened.

ALAN MACLEAN: One of those questions was about the witness

PETER HORROCKS: I can't say. I know who it was but I can't say. Peter Rippon was at the lunch with Helen Boaden to the Boaden/Entwistle conversation at this lunch.

ALAN MACLEAN: Who was that witness?

PETER HORROCKS: What --

ALAN MACLEAN: 1305.

PETER HORROCKS: Yes.

NICK POLLARD: This is presumably where Meirion told confidential, until referred to later on?

what the nature of the confidentiality was. My understanding is it was in relation to the meeting

David Jordan, "This is completely wrong and it ought to be corrected" and somehow that meeting is deemed to be having happened rather than the information passed on in

PETER HORROCKS: You can ask Meirion and David, I imagine,

5 NICK POLLARD: It is clear to you by that point, if not earlier, this whole process is severely disfunctional? 6 7 Without putting words into your mouth. PETER HORROCKS: I think you are putting words into my 8 mouth. I was aware there were discrepancies and I was 9 10 trying to alert the Corporation to them. NICK POLLARD: Yes, yes. Am I right in thinking that by 11 this Sunday morning you are aware of the criticism about 12 the blog's accuracy? Has that criticism gone further up 13 14 the chain? I mean, is David Jordan aware of the 15 criticisms of the blog and, if necessary, 16 George Entwistle as well? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, this is all in the timeline, that is 17 18 probably the best thing to refer to. NICK POLLARD: That is the source? 19

PETER HORROCKS: All those things have happened well before

I get involved. I don't know about all of those things and there is one confidential meeting which only gets disclosed, you know, quite a lot later on the media show and then leads to the ruckus in the Panorama office, the

Page 54

as it were, between the principals.

- 13 and George Entwistle. ALAN MACLEAN: And overheard the conversation? 14 PETER HORROCKS: No. As I understand it, he was next to 15 Helen Boaden. Helen Boaden went around to the other 16 17 side of the table, had a rapid conversation and 18 whispered in George Entwistle's ear and then returned to 19 sit down next to it. ALAN MACLEAN: So you mean saw it, literally? He was 20
- 21 a spectator? 22 PETER HORROCKS: Yes. But having established that through someone else, you know, I asked that it be checked, and 23
- 24 you also see that I -- no, this is later, is it not? 25 No, that is not right. I have already established that Page 56

14 (Pages 53 to 56)

meeting of 4 October.

4

20

21

22

23

24

25

That eventually does not happen, late on the Sunday with Helen Boaden about the location and then 1 2 subsequently this information about the duration of the 2 The Daily Mail is clearly briefed in a certain way with 3 something that is corrected with his employment status, 3 conversation comes from another source. 4 it is eventually clarified, I am not sure what "standing 4 NICK POLLARD: On that, there is quite significant 5 5 aside" means. developments, it seems to me, whereby you are thinking 6 The long and short of it is eventually the blog is 6 you will take the blog down but Milrea suggests it 7 7 should be corrected rather than taken down. Is that corrected via BBC statement rather than via Peter Rippon 8 and he has not been able to do what I, wearing 8 right? 9 9 PETER HORROCKS: Quite a lot of this was through phone a managerial hat, suggested to an intermediary that once 10 conversations, I have not been able to go back and 10 I know that there were inaccuracies -- I think it must 11 have been through a phone conversation so I don't 11 establish the date of all of those because what is saved on my phone does not go back that far because there have 12 remember when it was, I remember saying Peter must 12 13 realise some of this blog is not right and would it not 13 been so many calls recently. There is to-ing and 14 be better for him to correct it in his own name as soon 14 fro-ing about it. I brought the News Online senior 15 editors in to prepare to destroy the blog, something we 15 as possible, and I will make that happen as soon as 16 possible. 16 had never done before --17 It is all getting tangled up in lawyers, so the 17 NICK POLLARD: The dynamite. 18 PETER HORROCKS: It was technically difficult, they were 18 moment is lost for Peter Rippon, which I think would 19 have been the best thing for his own editorial and finding it difficult to get a blog out of the system. 19 20 professional status: to correct something in his own 20 They tried it out. There was the first approach we were name once he realised it was inaccurate, which is after 21 21 going to take and then I heard there was likely to be 22 a correction. There was some to-ing and fro-ing over 22 all the BBC's policy as referred to in another document about timely corrections. You know, it is something the 23 23 Peter Rippon correcting the blog in his own name which 24 editorial policy has responsibility for, the BBC's 24 was an earlier version of the BBC statement and the editorial guidelines, policy guidelines and that is 25 25 wording of that is given to me, I reply to that at Page 59 Page 57 about correcting things as soon as possible. That is 1 1 15.56. The wording of that is not the wording 2 something that I don't think we corrected as the BBC did 2 subsequently used. Not that I am saying it was, you not correct its position as soon as it might have done. 3 3 know --We come to the later correction, if you wish, later on. 4 NICK POLLARD: That correction sort of appears via NICK POLLARD: So Sunday passes without the blog actually 5 5 Paul Milrea. We will ask him where that came from but 6 being changed, is that right? 6 it is a, sort of, slightly strange osmotic process, is 7 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, I personally have regrets about not 7 it not? 8 pushing things harder. I did feel quite exposed on PETER HORROCKS: The first strange thing about it is the 8 Sunday, particularly after writing the letter to the 9 9 person who is asking for the clarification from the BBC through the editorial process I am also, in effect, 10 Chairman. I kept being told the blog was going to be 10 11 collected. 11 being asked to provide the clarification because I know 12 NICK POLLARD: Told by? 12 more about what is going on than the organisation does. PETER HORROCKS: Paul Milrea, I think. Then in the evening 13 13 I say that I am not going to do that. Then there is, I am told -- I don't think I put it in the timeline the 14 14 well, is Peter Rippon going to write it or not and 15 right way. No, by late afternoon he tells me the blog 15 I can't remember, I think I picked up from somebody corrections will not happen until Monday morning. That close to Peter Rippon he was considering doing that, or 16 16 17 must have been 5.30, I remember talking about the news 17 perhaps that was Monday I picked up on that. There is editor best placed to do it was ending shift, Paul said 18 18 clearly some to-ing and fro-ing. I have not unpicked 19 it will be after that and it won't be until morning. 19 this and I do not have complete state of knowledge to 20 Should I have put something up but, of course, it would 20 draw inference on the information I have available to 21 have been even more chaos. Anyway, I didn't, I didn't. 21 me. 22 NICK POLLARD: Yes. Okay, Monday Liz sends to the 22 It seems there was discussion about an agreed 23 Director General --23 approach with Peter Rippon which would have been about PETER HORROCKS: And it has already gone in by this point so 24 reaching some agreed statement about his employment 24 25 the organisation has a reasonably full account. It is 25 status and him putting his name to the blog correction.

Page 60

not a massive timeline, but key things. That went in on then I can make sure you get them at the end of this. 1 2 You may feel this is sufficient for your purposes. 2 Sunday afternoon and --3 NICK POLLARD: Halfway through the Monday, that text to 3 ALAN MACLEAN: That is the day before the Director General 4 Sarah Jones really, sort of, crystallises --4 goes to Parliament? 5 PETER HORROCKS: Sorry, what time? PETER HORROCKS: So Meirion's brief comes on Sunday evening, 5 I send it at 7.45 and then as Liz MacKean sends it to me 6 NICK POLLARD: 13.58, October 22nd. 6 7 PETER HORROCKS: Hang on, I think actually we should go to 7 I think I forward it on at lunchtime. So by 7.45 the second document, because I think what I did with 8 8 Meirion's brief is with the Corporation and 9 Liz MacKean's is by lunchtime. They broadly cover the 9 completing this, I put that text in, I dropped the text, 10 the Sarah Jones one and Phil Harrold one, those are same thing so it is not really material. 10 11 anti-chronologicals. It is better to use the second 11 NICK POLLARD: When you see the corrected blog on Monday 12 timeline from October 22nd. morning, were you pleased to see that at that time? 12 13 NICK POLLARD: Okay, fine, I have that. PETER HORROCKS: There was a timing thing, get on and look 13 PETER HORROCKS: In fact, I mean, for the purposes of the 14 14 at it. I must admit some of the things that I read into 15 the personality and comparisons with the blog, 15 documentation I think everything in relation to October 22nd in what I originally sent you was 16 particularly when I have the Panorama statement and the 16 17 additional statement by the BBC that is published at 17 Pollard's statement, should be excised, so 18 Rosie Taylor(?) sends final script to Panorama --08.07 on the Tuesday morning, I don't see at all the 18 19 NICK POLLARD: Yes. 19 significance at that stage, some of it I do, but 20 ALAN MACLEAN: I have read your text as well and, as you 20 I suppose I am thinking the blog has been corrected. 21 say, reading through you dropped those in --21 But then Meirion emails me at 12.05 which I refer to as PETER HORROCKS: Not all of them because they are not 22 22 being -- describing the blog correction as "half-hearted 23 germane, I thought it would be useful. 23 and grudging" and I start to try and get my head around ALAN MACLEAN: The Panorama was actually broadcast on --24 24 all of that. 25 I am also starting to realise that it is also 25 that is the 22nd? Page 63 Page 61 PETER HORROCKS: Yes. Lord Patten's interview, I went back to listen to the 1 1 ALAN MACLEAN: That was broadcast late at night, Newsnight media show. I am trying to juggle, this is the thing 2 2 3 came on and said, "If you switch over you will see not coming through with this, producing an hour long 3 4 Panorama." 4 Panorama and keeping the editorial control and legal PETER HORROCKS: Yes, yes. 5 5 judgments around that is the thing preoccupying me. ALAN MACLEAN: Which is what I did. 6 6 That is what I am paid to do, not to be pursuing all NICK POLLARD: Yes. So the that text to Sarah Jones really 7 7 this stuff and contextual analysis. So I realise that crystallises your view of the problems that the BBC are 8 8 Patten interview is also part of it, although in the end that does not form part of the Panorama. It is part of 9 -- it is 13.58. 9 10 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, that is right. Yes, yes. So that is the picture of broader inaccuracies of Peter Rippon's 10 really my bringing it all together and letting the 11 11 committee unpick all that. It was in control of the So I start to realise that is, you know, part of the 12 12 13 information in front of it but some of where this gets picture as well as dealing with David Jordan about 13 14 to is in particular in relation to the subsequent whether he is going to be interviewed by Panorama which 14 15 statement to the Panorama, IE the one that goes out at is initially on the cards and then the team say they 15 16 08.07 the next morning. 16 don't want to, to-ing and fro-ing and, then Jeremy Paxman moved having interviewed Conrad Black and 17 NICK POLLARD: Yes. 17 18 PETER HORROCKS: This is a separate statement that relates then Caroline Hawley, back from Baghdad, wants to know 18 to the BBC's other inaccuracies, that is not clear but 19 if she put it to Mark Thompson. So some of this stuff 19 20 you can see from that text I am understanding how we about the differences between the corrections, it became 20 corrected our inaccuracies and the timings of those is 21 known to me but not with significance because there was 21 22 something --22 so much else going on. 23 NICK POLLARD: Sorry, the 08.07? 23 NICK POLLARD: Yes. 24 PETER HORROCKS: Sorry, I am jumping about. PETER HORROCKS: By the way, if you want any of these 24

25

NICK POLLARD: Where is that, sorry?

Page 64

25

specific emails -- and you may not need them at all --

RICHARD SPAFFORD: Is it 37 you are talking about? 1 it was about the abuse and, secondly, that it was about 2 investigation of Surrey Police handling. One is clearly 2 NICK POLLARD: On the 22nd? PETER HORROCKS: No, on the 23rd. We will get to that when 3 true, the second is false because that was not known to 3 4 the team when they started making the investigation. It 4 we get to that, actually. Sorry, we are nearly there. What happens is that 5 became how the editor saw the investigation and played 5 6 6 Panorama has had -- this is me going and looking back on a part in judgment about why it should not go ahead. it now as opposed to what I was aware of at the time --7 The important thing is what is a legitimate rationale 7 8 from the BBC subsequently explaining why the programme 8 Panorama has the statement from the BBC in the morning 9 9 of the 22nd, that is at 10.49 in the timeline on the was not proceeded with and it becomes important for the 10 BBC to have something which a clear cut reason why it 10 22nd, which includes the statement, "The BBC is accepting the investigation did not start out as the 11 didn't do it because if it says it was because the abuse 11 investigation Surrey Police is handling." Only Panorama 12 allegations were not stood up, or we didn't believe the 12 13 witnesses, that is more difficult to describe in public. 13 has that at that time. I don't clock, as it were, that 14 This is complicated, it takes minutes to describe 14 should be in addition to the blog and that has been 15 communicated to Panorama. 15 it, it may be to have a clear explanation of the reasons for Newsnight not having gone ahead the position was 16 16 Then what happens is that the film has finished 17 transmission and Paul Milrea emails the BBC media 17 simplified. That may have been what happened but 18 I don't know, I was not involved in those conversations. 18 correspondent with a specific statement, we accept --All I observe is the blog had two reasons, one which the reason I mentioned 08.07 was that was when that 19 19 20 definitely was a reason for the investigation and one 20 statement was put live on BBC press office site. 21 that was not. It moved to it either was or started as 21 NICK POLLARD: So that is Tuesday? 22 an investigation into Surrey Police's handling. 22 ALAN MACLEAN: So that is the BBC catching up with what 23 ALAN MACLEAN: It makes it sound as if, to the man in the 23 Panorama is already saying and broadcast the night 24 street, it makes it sound as if poor old Peter Rippon 24 before? did not understand what the piece was about? Is that --25 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, I say this section is not attributing 25 Page 67 Page 65 1 if you feel, to those who see his position as being inaccuracies to anybody, they largely get ignored. If 1 unfairly produced by this statement. Is this right? 2 2 you look back at that statement, the preamble is all about the Newsnight and then there is the sentence at 3 I am trying to understand why you say people saw this as 3 being dumping on him, not your word. Whoever said that 4 4 the end, "We also accept that" but it does not say who 5 it did start? has previously expressed the view. That was the BBC's 5 PETER HORROCKS: Statements by -- well, the blog talks about 6 6 characterisation. You could be forgiven for not 7 two things. The blog talks about "the nature of the 7 noticing that was a correction of a broader set of BBC abuse" I think is the phrase that it uses, and the 8 8 inaccuracies as opposed to the ones that relate to the 9 blog and that is what leads, I think, a number of people 9 Surrey Police's handling. 10 ALAN MACLEAN: Do you have the blog to hand? 10 rather than instinct more than textual analysis 11 BEN SUMMERFIELD: Yes, I have it here. Peter Rippon is receiving the (inaudible) of the 11 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, because of the nature of the 12 12 responsibility here and in the DCS committee it is all allegations and because the police investigated the 13 13 about inaccuracies from the blog. claims and dropped on the basis he was too old. That is 14 14 Of course, I understand an important perspective is abbreviated, the language I am using about the the inaccuracies stemmed from the inaccuracies from the 15 15 16 Surrey Police's handling. So he refers to the nature of blog, as we have already discussed. The way the BBC's 16 the allegations, IE the abuse itself, and the police 17 17 other statements investigated the reasons for dropping 18 issues. The simpler explanations given in the 18 it are different from the blog itself. 19 Director General's email to all staff, the explanation NICK POLLARD: The point you make is that actually in at 19 20 alluded to or happened in his interviews and most 20 least two of them they are harder, they are more, shall strongly in the way the controller of policy described we say, more anti-Meirion and Liz MacKean than the blog 21 21 22 it when he said, "It started as an investigation into 22 was? More critical? Surrey Police." They may be considered to be important 23 PETER HORROCKS: I would not necessarily say that, I would 23 24 because Surrey Police, there was a legitimate reason for say -- this is somewhat speculative -- but there are 24 not going ahead, if that was the only reason. If you 25 25 clearly two statements in Peter Rippon's blog, one that the grant received was along those lines. It becomes a clearly explicable way of people explaining something which otherwise, in the context of the exposure document having gone out, why didn't the BBC broadcast this? If

Page 68

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19 20

21

22

23

24

25

Interview with Peter Horricks accept that the only reason for the investigation was 2 the Surrey Police then the fact that the CPS's explanation for the investigation, the prosecution not 3 4 having proceeded, even if you think it is a bad reason 5 for not going ahead it is a good knockdown because they 6 gave information --NICK POLLARD: Yes. 7 8 PETER HORROCKS: So that matters an enormous amount because if you are offering an explanation from Newsnight not 9 10 having gone ahead, which is demonstrably the case, then you have a strong explanation for something which 11 12 otherwise is embarrassing for the BBC. If the real 13 nature of the investigation was a two pronged one, IE it 14 was about the abuse itself, then if you are stuck with that people will say, "Hang on, did you not believe the 15 16 abuse you were told about? What about the witnesses and 17 all those things?" So the simplification to a single 18 reason helps you if it is true that it started off being about the Surrey Police. If that is not the case, the 19 20 thing is more a house of cards. ALAN MACLEAN: Your point is actually more sophisticated 21 22 than that. When you look at the blog, the second reason 23 given in the blog is not that it started out as an investigation into Surrey Police, it explicitly says,

- 25 "The key witness told us." Page 69 1 PETER HORROCKS: Exactly, so how could it possibly be it 2 started out as something because that was clearly 3 discovered through the course of the investigation and 4 it says in the blog itself. ALAN MACLEAN: Your point is it says two reasons given in 5 6 the blog and this, maybe it is a poor attempt to 7 summarise one of those reasons, but it is not actually 8 an accurate summary? 9 PETER HORROCKS: It slightly depends which of the descriptions of it you refer to. There is a description 10 in the GD email, in Lord Patten's comments and my 11 recollection is those are the ones -- soft is probably 12 13 the wrong word, but the least absolute of them. There 14 is the position which is the hardest one, the one 15 adopted on the media show by the controller of standards 16 who used the phrase, "Started out as." 17 ALAN MACLEAN: So you take that, you said as you just said 18 a minute ago, this, if it were right, would be a robust 19 defence of the decision to drop the programme, but when you look at what the editor says in his blog it is not 20 the thought process the editor says he went through. 21 PETER HORROCKS: Our investigation was about Surrey Police's 22 23 mishandling. We found out they had not so, therefore, 24 not going ahead, no story. It is one of the things 25 that, according at least to The Daily Mail's account, Page 70
- you define the reason for the investigation in a certain way, people may say that is an odd thing to have decided, at least it has an internal logic to it. If it was not the case in the first place that is not what it was about that undermines it and that is where we are in terms of the information we have in front of us at the moment. NICK POLLARD: Meirion Jones and Liz MacKean line, of course, is that the police thing was pretty much irrelevant. The evidence they had was strong enough on its own, the evidence of abuse was a justifiable --PETER HORROCKS: Of course, of course. But in a way, even if you accept -- and I think it is legitimate to accept that Peter Rippon as editor had the right to define what he thought was an appropriate story for Newsnight without playing mind games what might or might not have been the case in terms of editorial judgment -- if he thought it was the two things as described in the blog that is fair enough. It is only if you then knock away the first of those and you are only left with the Surrey Police handling as being the rationale if that Page 71 was the case, because it was never the starting point of
- 2 it. That makes the justification being offered a less easily defensible one. That is, I think, where we get 3 4 NICK POLLARD: Just to remind you what the 08.37 was, 5 6 because --7 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, in effect it is a repetition, 8 a re-publication, a broader publication of the email 9 Torin Douglas had received eight hours earlier. For other media correspondents or people not picked up on 10 Panorama, the first they know about it is two hours 11 before the Director General appears. The statement --12 13 it does not call itself a correction -- it says, "We also accept that" without alluding to what that was 14 about. So by the time that the Director General and the 15 controller appeared in front of the committee, the thing 16 very much in people's minds is the blog inaccuracies and 17 one of the things I suggest to people that we need to do 18 19 through the course of the coverage of this is to refer to the BBC inaccuracies rather than the blog 20 21 inaccuracies because it is not -- there clearly are inaccuracies in the blog, I am not at all in the 22 position of thinking the blog is no longer a problem 23 24 because there are things that are significant inaccuracies and those are things that need to be looked

Page 72

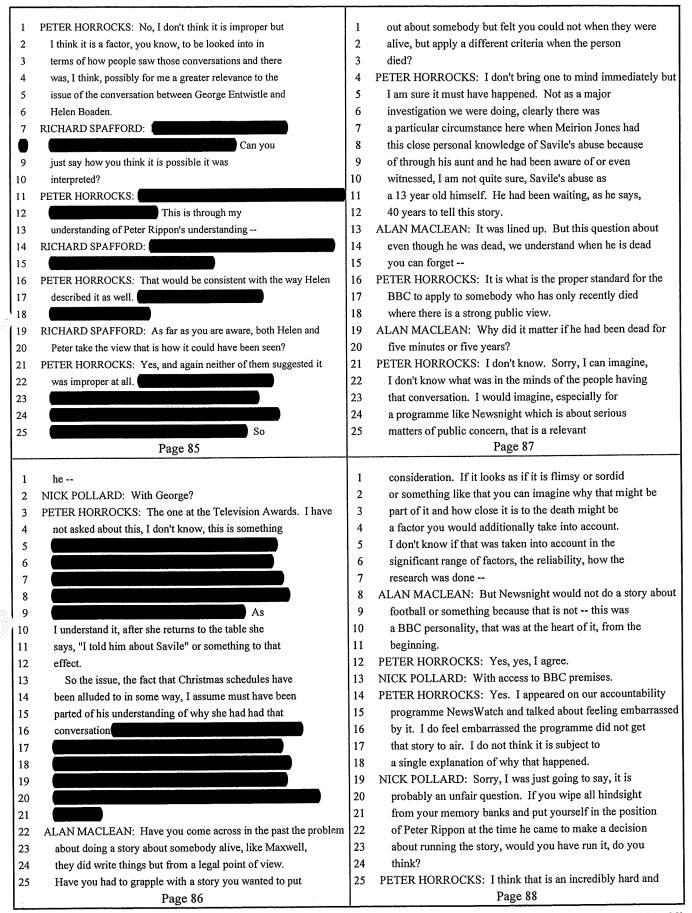

25

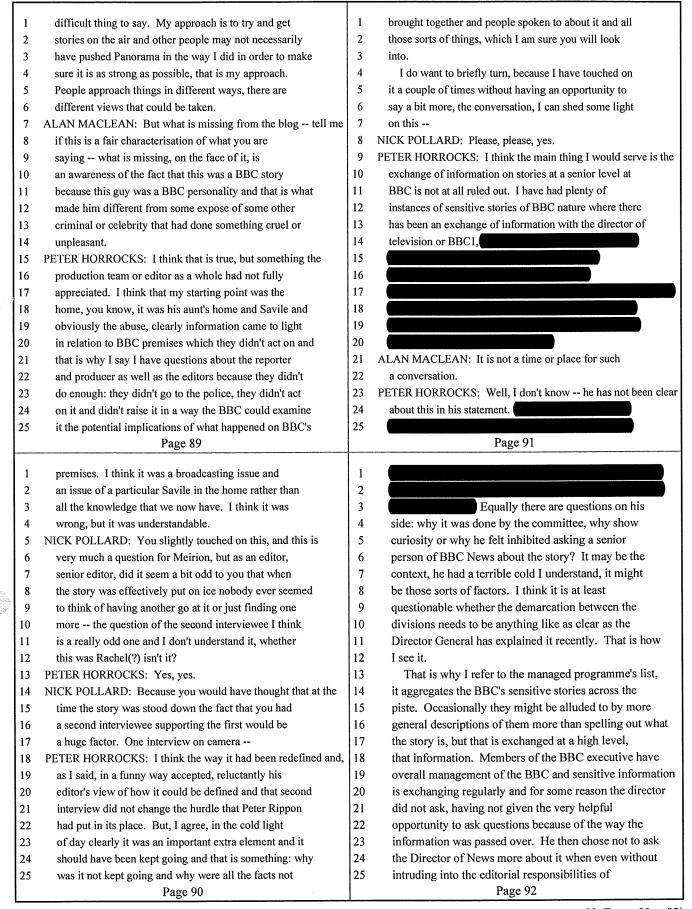

24

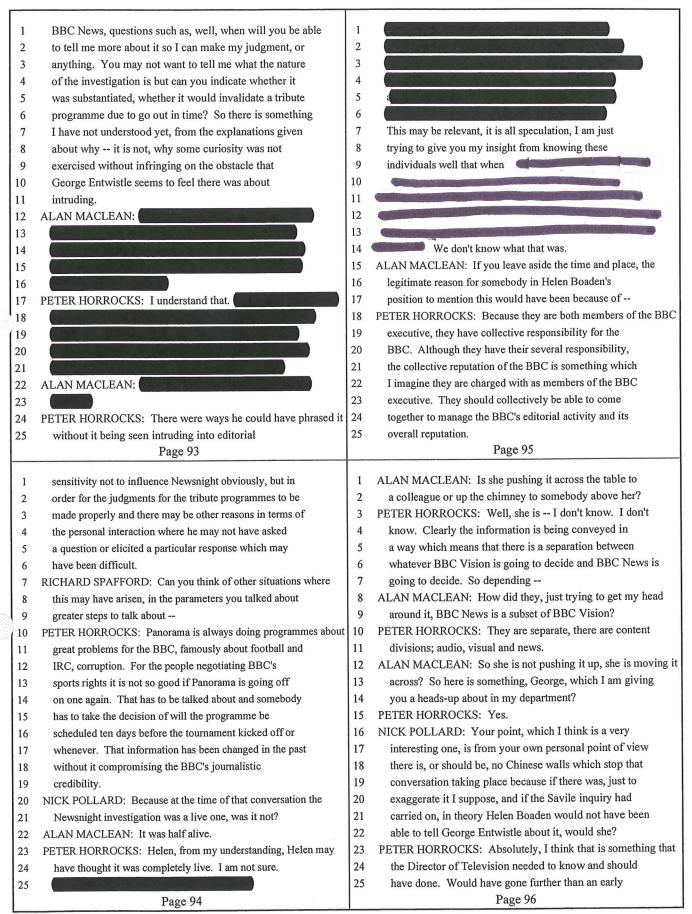

r
	1	at. In terms of what is material for the investigation,	1	was evolving despite the fact that it probably should
١	-2	it is a wider set of inaccuracies than just the blog	2	have been clear that there were people within the
١	3	itself, but the blog inaccuracies is the way in which it	3	Corporation who would vehemently object to the way that
	4	has been described at this stage.	4	decision was being portrayed?
l	5	NICK POLLARD: What seems to be particularly opaque, and you	5	PETER HORROCKS: Well, you have the information
١	6	don't seem to have any involvement in it, is the way	6	Meirion Jones and Liz MacKean made available during that
l	7	that the lines taken by the Chairman, by David Jordan	7	period and exactly how the different expressions evolved
١	8	and the Director General in his email, how those lines	8	and how that interaction worked between the information
l	9	emerged. We will probably be able to ask them.	9	they had made available. There is obviously the meeting
	10	PETER HORROCKS: I have no knowledge of that at all, I am	10	that Ken MacQuarrie, director of BBC Scotland, has
	11	afraid. Quite a lot of it was happening before I even	11	during this period. I am sure they say similar things
	12	had any knowledge of it at all.	12	to him as were said to me. The meeting on the 9th, the
	13	ALAN MACLEAN: The question I asked earlier, your answer	13	Tuesday, the Director General's press conference on the
١	14	was, "I don't know" but you speculated. That might be	14	Friday evening, he was asked, I think by Dan Sabbagh of
١	15	what Mr Meirion was, a corporate	15	The Guardian, about what the reporters say and he said,
١	16	PETER HORROCKS: I really don't know. I don't know in terms	16	"Well, that is something which we will have to wait for l	17	of the different stages of it. I am not sure at what	17	the inquiry to look into." We know that at least
١	18	stage it became an incident that will be managed in that	18	a doubt about that had been lodged with the
1	19	way. It might be in the early stages it was being	19	Director General and also with the controller of
	20	managed through the normal corporate communications,	20	standards at that stage. It is possibly perfect they
١	21	public affairs processes. At some stage I imagine it	21	didn't believe what Meirion and Liz were saying, I think
١	22	became defined as being a serious incident, the	22	the question is when doubt was cast whether the ı	23	different structures put in place. Again, all I can say	23	corporate position and uncertainty of corporate position ı	24	is that is what would happen in terms of the system.	24	was adjusted. I think the right way would be ļ	25	ALAN MACLEAN: One of the supporting walls of the structure	25	a legitimate question to ask for.
l		Page 73		Page 75
	1	is you have the corporate people here and the editorial	1	NICK POLLARD: You obviously had no involvement in the
	1 2	is you have the corporate people here and the editorial people there so when there is a problem with X, the	1 2	NICK POLLARD: You obviously had no involvement in the MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately.
	ĺ	*	1	·
	2	people there so when there is a problem with X, the	2	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not
	2	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the	2	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the
	2 3 4	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to.	2 3 4	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not
	2 3 4 5	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are	2 3 4 5	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote
	2 3 4 5 6	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is	2 3 4 5 6	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had
	2 3 4 5 6 7	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was	2 3 4 5 6 7	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie.
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press	2 3 4 5 6 7 8	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really?
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else?	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests. Everybody in BBC handling it and the corporate machine	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly that information was the responsibility of BBC News. So
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests. Everybody in BBC handling it and the corporate machine would have come together to agree, I think, but I don't	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly that information was the responsibility of BBC News. So I was anxious to make sure BBC News was in a position to
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests. Everybody in BBC handling it and the corporate machine would have come together to agree, I think, but I don't know because I was on the other side of the fence.	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly that information was the responsibility of BBC News. So I was anxious to make sure BBC News was in a position to discuss that in its News Group and I attempted to get
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests. Everybody in BBC handling it and the corporate machine would have come together to agree, I think, but I don't know because I was on the other side of the fence. NICK POLLARD: Before you were involved when the statements	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly that information was the responsibility of BBC News. So I was anxious to make sure BBC News was in a position to discuss that in its News Group and I attempted to get some clarity about whether there would be the space to
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests. Everybody in BBC handling it and the corporate machine would have come together to agree, I think, but I don't know because I was on the other side of the fence. NICK POLLARD: Before you were involved when the statements were made, which turned out had to be corrected, it may	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly that information was the responsibility of BBC News. So I was anxious to make sure BBC News was in a position to discuss that in its News Group and I attempted to get some clarity about whether there would be the space to be able to do that. That was last Thursday.
	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	people there so when there is a problem with X, the people, Y, who know what the facts are, they are the ones X can talk to. PETER HORROCKS: You have to be careful what you are defining as editorial in this context: there is editorial and there is editorial. I am talking about Panorama being separate from the corporate side but throughout the thing, until perhaps there was a different perspective with Peter Rippon, the BBC press team, the corporate press team, were all as a single corporate hold, even if some of those people had editorial responsibilities. In this context, the editorial is the Panorama operation which I am taking responsibility for. ALAN MACLEAN: So the Chinese walls as between Panorama and everybody else? PETER HORROCKS: It is better thinking about it who was handling things coming from external requests. Everybody in BBC handling it and the corporate machine would have come together to agree, I think, but I don't know because I was on the other side of the fence. NICK POLLARD: Before you were involved when the statements	2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23	MacQuarrie meeting and we will pursue that separately. PETER HORROCKS: I had one meeting with him, that was on the Friday morning. I think what happened was I did not know I had been passed the ball, I was on a meeting about something completely different. He said, "Did you speak to Meirion and Liz?" I said yes and I wrote a file note. That was the only direct contact I had with Ken MacQuarrie. NICK POLLARD: Yes, we will see that file. You had the meeting on a Tuesday obviously with George to express some pretty serious concerns about the lack of coordination throughout, really? PETER HORROCKS: Yes. I mean, this may not be much of a direct concern to you, but it was in my mind the question of how BBC News was going to operate following the Director General's testimony when clearly the least significant questions were being posed about the information that had been available to him, when clearly that information was the responsibility of BBC News. So I was anxious to make sure BBC News was in a position to discuss that in its News Group and I attempted to get some clarity about whether there would be the space to

I had not been able to get people to realise I thought have already talked through with you but --1 2 things had changed significantly and some space needs to 2 ALAN MACLEAN: Which one is that? 3 be created for people not directly involved in this 3 NICK POLLARD: The 30602 one. 4 episode to discuss it. I was making that point and it 4 ALAN MACLEAN: Which day are we on now? 5 was coming up through a variety of incidents where 5 PETER HORROCKS: October 23, I think we are. 6 I felt what was Savile editorial and what was Savile 6 ALAN MACLEAN: Yes, okay. 7 NICK POLLARD: October 24, after the long email to George. 7 related, the way that Savile was influencing a variety 8 of things across the organisation was becoming very 8 PETER HORROCKS: So I am reiterating some of the concerns 9 9 about the speed and accuracy of the blog. There is also significant and I felt it was important for the future 10 credential management of BBC News to create some space 10 something that connects to, we have not talked about 11 anything that is about my view about why some of these 11 for those not directly involved to talk about it. That various different miscommunications might have happened 12 12 is what I was trying to pursue. 13 NICK POLLARD: With those editorial board meetings coming 13 and I suppose what I am alluding to here is even after 14 14 all of this has come out the way that the organisation up? 15 is gripping it and providing clarity to BBC News to be 15 PETER HORROCKS: Yes, we were Tuesday afternoon, this very 16 significant thing happened with the committee and 16 able to be managed effectively, there are clearly some 17 individual dynamics that are going on. So I was raising 17 various things started to happen like the handling of 18 18 Liz MacKean, whether she was talking to the press or issues which in my mind I was connecting together 19 because -- and this is about perception, my personal not, and who was responsible for that. Then more 19 20 20 perception, I think it is relevant -- I came to the personal incidents, the news room the next day, the 21 21 view, as expressed in one of these emails, that the issue around the disagreement in the Panorama office, et ability to be able to challenge differing views within 22 cetera, that I felt was important to put in place 22 23 23 the organisation was one of the things that was a thread a clarity of responsibility and some space for those 24 24 through the story as a whole. people who needed to be able to discuss it and given So whether was the discussion that Helen Boaden and 25 25 that some people were recused and had not had Page 79 Page 77 Peter Rippon had about the evidential standard to be 1 1 involvement with the inquiry. It was important and I 2 2 applied during the investigation or Meirion Jones was making those points quite forcibly. I felt the concerns about the decision and not to go ahead with it, 3 3 organisation was moving off the correction of the 4 inaccuracies and more about how the organisation was 4 possibly some of the things about the interchange 5 between George Entwistle and Helen Boaden or 5 starting to respond to the public --Mark Thompson and Helen Boaden and various other things. NICK POLLARD: You made those views known to George, both in 6 6 Then in the aftermath of the committee evidence I was 7 7 that chat you had at 5 o'clock and the email you had the 8 trying to ensure that BBC News had the space to be able following morning? 8 9 to discuss these things and so I needed to challenge my PETER HORROCKS: Exactly. 9 10 NICK POLLARD: You did not have, in the end, responsibility 10 own boss in relation to that and that was not 11 successful, so I needed to go to the for talking to Liz MacKean about leaking to the press, 11 Director General about it. I suppose my perception was 12 12 did you? 13 PETER HORROCKS: It was never clarified until the last gasp, 13 14 NICK POLLARD: Your own boss being? 14 until I spoke to and she came to the conclusion -- it 15 PETER HORROCKS: Helen Boaden. 15 was not right professionally for her to continue to be NICK POLLARD: She had recused herself from this, or is that 16 16 a protagonist here. She had withdrawn. 17 the point you are alluding to? NICK POLLARD: That was not on that day? 17 PETER HORROCKS: I think that is the point I am trying to 18 18 PETER HORROCKS: Um -- I can't remember. make. She had recused editorial control in relation to 19 ALAN MACLEAN: It is really in the process now, after the 19 20 Savile --20 corrections, the Director General, the committee and 21 ALAN MACLEAN: Your point is what was going to happen the 21 Panorama, that is more or less it, is it not? In terms 22 day after tomorrow. 22 of the, kind of, key facts? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, we are going to sit down, the agenda 23 23 NICK POLLARD: You could well take that view, I would is the linked and the update and we need to have 24 understand why you might. I suppose my email to 24 25 a discussion about this and the editorial and the 25 Sarah Jones pulls together quite a lot of things that I Page 80 Page 78 consequences to BBC News. The reply was, "Well, I am 1 Then we talked about what went wrong, the programme responsible for management of BBC News and you have 2 list I told you about earlier. We went around the table 2 3 responsibility for editorial coverage in respect of and asked everybody to identify the risks BBC News needs 3 4 4 Savile," I took that to mean there would not be space. to manage currently because we can't wait for all of you 5 5 I escalated to the Director General, it was 24 hours to take however long it will take to wind through all of 6 6 later IE on the Wednesday evening, a few hours before this and tell us what we have to do. We have to create 7 the space for that to happen, I needed to push in the 7 the board meeting we had, where alteration was put in 8 8 place which meant it was okay. way I have described. 9 ALAN MACLEAN: Can I ask, I meant to ask you earlier but the 9 ALAN MACLEAN: What was okay? 10 PETER HORROCKS: What happened on Thursday morning was there 10 moment had passed. You mentioned the Helen Boaden discussion with Peter Rippon which --11 was a brief agenda Helen shared and then a subsequent 11 PETER HORROCKS: The Rippon one or the Entwistle one? 12 meeting which I chaired --12 ALAN MACLEAN: The Rippon one. In your timeline you got 13 13 ALAN MACLEAN: Which Helen Boaden was not at? 14 PETER HORROCKS: She stepped aside, made comments before we 14 this from her and not from him, I think? PETER HORROCKS: Yes, although I do also have some of this 15 15 went into the session which she and Steve Mitchell did 16 not intend. They may sound -- you can dismiss it as 16 indirectly from Peter as well. 17 ALAN MACLEAN: Taking the timeline from her account, she 17 being my personal perspective in the aftermath of all of 18 this -- but I feel it is relevant because the ability to 18 gave him a view about the importance of evidence even 19 though he was dead. I remember you saying Helen 19 be able to get into a conversation and express 20 speculating whether Peter may have taken too strong a 20 a differing point of view in my perception of somebody 21 state, she may have been forceful in her view. Do you 21 who has been at the BBC News Group and tables programmes 22 in question, I think that did not happen in 22 remember what she says and how --23 PETER HORROCKS: I don't, if I had remembered it more 23 a multiplicity of ways throughout this story and even 24 clearly I would have tried to recall that and put that 24 after the Director General had made it clear he had in the statement. I don't think that the accounts that 25 25 concerns about the system and the way the BBC News had Page 81 Page 83 provided information to him, it was still not Helen gave me herself and I subsequently heard 1 indirectly from a representative of Peter Rippon were immediately possible without taking quite a drastic step 2 2 3 and something, again, one felt quite exposed in doing 3 necessarily at odds with each other and in the description I heard of Peter Rippon's view of it, 4 4 that in order to get an organisational change that 5 certainly at the time that was given to me, the time it 5 I thought was important. That is the only reason why was given to me it was a proper editorial conversation 6 6 I am taking this. 7 that he did not regard it as being inappropriate. It 7 NICK POLLARD: Just so I am clear, in that session after 8 was possible for him to have interpreted as Helen Boaden and Steve Mitchell absented themselves, you 8 an instruction or a very strong recommendation in terms 9 were not necessarily, as I understand it, from what you 9 10 of an editorial course of action and I don't know 10 have said, just talking about pure Savile-related whether Peter absolutely feels it was the right thing to 11 11 developments, you were talking about a wider issue 12 do or it was something he wanted to subsequently within news? People being able to speak freely and 12 13 challenge. 13 challenge decisions --14 I would simply observe, as I said, with 14 PETER HORROCKS: That was the context I wanted that Meirion Jones not being spoken to by BBC management, discussion to happen. We talked about what you would 15 15 I don't know what further conversation happened about 16 expect a management board to talk about following 16 17 the significance of that and the ability to discuss and 17 a corporate crisis. We could not talk about some of the challenge openly is something I think could be part of 18 things you are talking about, I invited the legal reps 18 19 that. I explained he was an editor, he was not in from Global News to come along and give advice about 19 a strong position and as confident as he might have 20 20 what might or might not be appropriate. We talked about personal reactions, doorstepping colleagues, having to 21 been, that was a factor, plus Helen has a clear and 21 strong personality and she acknowledged herself she 22 consider whether Helen Boaden's photograph with 22 23 Jimmy Savile would form part of the news coverage. It 23 expressed herself forcefully. 24 ALAN MACLEAN: You don't find that even surprising or was not the simplest meeting to have on a Wednesday 24 25 improper? 25 morning, et cetera, et cetera. Page 84 Page 82

18

21

9

16

17

18

19 20

21

22

23

24

25

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

17

21

25

heads-up, he did say come back to me. Trying to pull 2 some of these threads together, the communication within 3 BBC news of a sensitive issue and a sensitive decision 4 was less complete than it might have been in terms of 5 everybody's understanding of that and whether it was 6 agreed with. There was communication, inadequate 7 communication, between BBC News and the wider BBC, 8 whether BBC Vision or the director, Mark Thompson, which 9 did not lead to it being interrogated and understood. 10 During the early course of this year stories started 11 to appear and when it was known ITV was exploring it or 12 Sunday Times was asking questions, the state of knowledge in BBC News and the openness of dialogue both 13 within BBC News and the wider BBC led to the BBC not 14 15 understanding all of the facts that it had within its own possession. So by the time I was given the task of trying to pull this programme together and I became aware the organisation, even at that last gasp, did not that I had in my mind so that when the testimony had happened in Parliament and I was trying to make sure there was a proper and full conversation about all the consequences of this my strong sense was there still was conversation in BBC to even deal with the consequences know what was going on, that is the overall thread of it

Page 97 of the biggest editorial problem that we had probably not the ability for there to be an open and full

So that seemed to me to be a common thread lasting up until a few days ago, but it was difficult to have that kind of conversation in a sufficiently open and clear cut way. So I don't know if cultural or personal aspects come into your remit and the recommendations you make or anything you make, but understanding what has gone on here and why people were not having conversations with each other and what they assumed other people would say if they were to have that conversation, my understanding of it from my knowledge of the divisions involved is that is something that is at least worth asking about. NICK POLLARD: Yes. Certainly the issue of the wider 15 cultural aspects, whether they want programme or across 16 the news department is something that we are thinking hard about and we have not quite decided, I think it is 18 19 fair to say, how much fits precisely within the terms of reference. It is clearly there in front of us. 20 PETER HORROCKS: I imagine you use the word "robust 22 editorial culture" where people can go and disagree with 23 each other and have a pint after and it is okay. That is just how it is. All along the lines, different ways 24 for different reasons, as I say, and I think quite a lot of it is about people imagining how other people will react if they say or ask something which the other 2

Page 98

3 person will find uncomfortable and there are threads or

4 consistency through that which might form part of the 5 explanation.

6 NICK POLLARD: Yes. Absolutely. Can I just ask you one

7 specific thing, just briefly. This rather odd issue of

Sarah Jones saying when he was talking, just after the 9 blog was going to be taken down, we decided to do that

10 before you did. Did you get any sense of who supposedly 11 had taken that decision?

12 PETER HORROCKS: No, I didn't. It was also quite curious

13 because we didn't think we could tell you because you were looking after the Panorama, that might give the 14

15 clue. I don't see why that was relevant because the

Panorama was not going out until afterwards and it does 16

not seem when you identify an inaccuracy you would not 17 correct it as soon as possible. I genuinely don't 19 understand the reason offered there.

20 NICK POLLARD: And it was not taken down until the following day anyway, the Monday?

22 PETER HORROCKS: Yes. Either it may not be correct or the 23 reason why it was not done, if it was known at that

24 time, was for other reasons which I can't quite work my 25 way through.

Page 99

- 1 NICK POLLARD: Yes. Okay. Alan, any further questions or
- 2 observations?
- ALAN MACLEAN: No. 3
- NICK POLLARD: It is possible that by the time you come back 4
- 5 I hope we will have talked to a lot more people and we
- will have a room full of documents so it may be we want 6
- 7 to ask you back.
- PETER HORROCKS: There may be things in terms of specific 8
 - responsibility in News Group, why didn't you ask
- questions, things like that, I completely understand. 10
- You may need to ask those sort of things and I am more 11
- than happy to address those. I am not assuming it is 12
- over, if you need to I am happy to come back. I am back 13
- on Monday 19th November, back in the office. 14
- ALAN MACLEAN: Will you be able to receive emails? 15
- 16 PETER HORROCKS: Yes.
- NICK POLLARD: Peter, thank you very much for today and also 17
- the work you have done to help us with the timelines and 18
- your own documentation. I appreciate you have had 19
- a busy time over the past two or three weeks and we have 20
- added to that workload in the past couple of days. 21
- PETER HORROCKS: I was very pleased you accommodated me 22
- before I was going away, going away knowing I had the 23
- 24 bulk of my knowledge, as I said in my email, from the
- organisation's point of view being able to get through 25

this as soon as possible is hugely important because not saying it off the record, as it were, private comments not germane to what you are looking into because of this uncertain situation we are in, how difficult that has been over the past few days, everybody says we have to wait for Pollard and we don't want to. There is stuff we can get on with but quite a lot we can't because your view is determinative for the future of BBC News. That is why I was keen to give you whatever you could to get you going. The sooner we get through this the better. NICK POLLARD: Peter, thank you very much. PETER HORROCKS: Thank you. NICK POLLARD: I appreciate the time you have given us this afternoon. (4.41 pm)
Page 101
	not saying it off the record, as it were, private comments not germane to what you are looking into because of this uncertain situation we are in, how difficult that has been over the past few days, everybody says we have to wait for Pollard and we don't want to. There is stuff we can get on with but quite a lot we can't because your view is determinative for the future of BBC News. That is why I was keen to give you whatever you could to get you going. The sooner we get through this the better. NICK POLLARD: Peter, thank you very much. PETER HORROCKS: Thank you. NICK POLLARD: I appreciate the time you have given us this afternoon. (4.41 pm)