Re: Notice of Data Breach

Dear <Name>

At Intermountain Farmers Association, we value transparency and respect the privacy of your information, which is why, as a precautionary measure, we are writing to let you know about a data security incident that may involve your personal information. As such, we are providing you with background about the incident, what we did in response, and steps you can take to protect yourself against possible misuse of your personal information.

What Happened

On April 8, 2021, we discovered that we were the victim of a sophisticated ransomware attack that resulted in unauthorized access to our network. At that time, we took immediate steps to stop the threat and to understand the full scope of the situation. This included hiring third-party forensic experts to conduct a thorough investigation, remediation efforts, and contacting the FBI to seek assistance with the incident.

As of now, we have no evidence indicating that your information was obtained and or misused, but our initial investigation revealed that the cybercriminal was able to obtain some of the data and information contained on our systems. However, out of an abundance of caution, we wanted to let you know that your information could have been involved in the attack.

What Information Was Involved

The information that could have been involved included your <PII>.

What We Are Doing

The security and privacy of the information contained within our systems is a top priority for us. As stated above, while we have no evidence indicating your information was obtained and or misused, we strongly recommend you remain vigilant, monitor and review all of your financial and account statements, and report any unusual activity to the institution that issued the record and law enforcement.

Additionally, in response to this attack, we implemented additional safeguards and employee training related to cybersecurity. Further, we are working with our external legal and cybersecurity experts to improve our cybersecurity policies, procedures, and protocols to attempt to minimize the likelihood of this type of attack succeeding again.

Also, we are offering a complimentary one-year membership through Cyberscout's Single Bureau Credit Monitoring* services at no charge. Signing up for these services will not impact your credit score. These services provide you with alerts for twelve months from the date of enrollment when changes occur to your credit file. Remain Vigilant, Review Your Financial Account Statements and Notify Law Enforcement of Suspicious Activity

As a precautionary measure, we recommend that you remain vigilant by closely reviewing your financial account statements and credit reports. If you detect any suspicious activity on an account, you should promptly notify the financial institution or company that maintains the account. You also should immediately report any fraudulent activity or any suspected incidence of identity theft to proper law enforcement authorities, including your state attorney general and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). Complaints filed with the FTC will be added to the FTC's Identity Theft Data Clearinghouse, a database made available to law enforcement.

To file a complaint or to contact the FTC, you can (1) send a letter to the Federal Trade Commission, Consumer Response Center, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20580; (2) go to IdentityTheft.gov/databreach; or (3) call 1-877-ID-THEFT (877-438-4338).

Consider Placing a Fraud Alert on Your Credit Report

You may want to consider placing a fraud alert on your credit report. An initial fraud alert is free and will stay on your credit file for at least 90 days. The alert informs creditors of possible fraudulent activity within your report and requests that the creditor contact you before establishing any accounts in your name. To place a fraud alert on your credit report, contact any of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies identified above. Additional information is available at <https://www.equifax.com/personal/credit-report-services/credit-fraud-alerts/>

Security Freeze (also known as a Credit Freeze)

You may have the right to put a credit or security freeze on your credit file. A security freeze makes it harder for someone to open a new account in your name. It is designed to prevent potential creditors from accessing your credit report without your consent. As a result, using a security freeze may interfere with or delay your ability to apply for a new credit card, wireless phone, or any service that requires a credit check.

You must separately place a security freeze on your credit file with each credit reporting agency. To place a security freeze, you may be required to provide the consumer reporting agency with information that identifies you, including your full name, Social Security number, date of birth, current and previous addresses, a copy of your state-issued identification card, and a recent utility bill statement, or insurance statement. There is no charge to request a security freeze or to remove a security freeze. Since the instructions for how to establish a security freeze differ based on your state residency, to find out more information, please contact the three nationwide credit reporting agencies (contact information provided above in the “Obtain and Monitor Your Credit Report” section).
