

Parler Community Jury

1. A user reports a piece of content—a parley, comment, or user profile.
2. Reports are sent to the Jury Portal for review by members of the Community Jury.
3. Community Jurors review each report and determine whether the Community Guidelines have been violated, and also whether they believe the content is illegal content that should no longer be displayed.
4. The violation reports are passed through a quorum system, in which four/five “guilty” votes are required for a final “guilty” verdict. In the system, which operates successively, once either two not-guilty verdicts or four guilty verdicts are rendered, then a final verdict of not-guilty or guilty is reached (respectively). Points are then assigned, or content permanently removed (in the case of illegality), as appropriate.
5. Users can view the reports that have been made about their content under Moderation > My Violations > Recent Reports.
6. Users will be warned via a notification whenever they receive violation points. It is then their responsibility to monitor the total number of points accumulated. Points lapse 90 days after they are assigned, but users accumulating 20 or more points at any time will be banned.
7. The Community Jury is composed of volunteer, verified Parleyers, who participate in regular training sessions to address any questions they have about applying the Community Guidelines.
