Modern Jungles

A Hmong Refugee's Childhood Story of Survival

Pao Lor

As a five-year-old boy, Pao Lor joined thousands of Hmong who fled for their lives through the jungles of Laos in the aftermath of war. After a difficult and perilous journey that neither of his parents survived, he reached the safety of Thailand, but the young refugee boy's challenges were only just beginning.

Born in a small farming village, Pao was destined to be a Hmong clan leader, wedding negotiator, or shaman. But the course of his life changed dramatically in the 1970s, when the Hmong faced persecution for their role in helping US forces fighting communism in the region. After more than two years in Thai refugee camps, Pao and his surviving family members boarded the belly of an “iron eagle” bound for the United States, where he pictured a new life of comfort and happiness. Instead, Pao found himself navigating a frightening and unfamiliar world, adjusting to a string of new schools and living situations while struggling to fulfill the hopes his parents had once held for his future. Now in Modern Jungles, Pao Lor shares his inspiring coming-of-age tale about perseverance, grit, and hope.

Included are discussion questions for use by book clubs, in classrooms, or around the dinner table.

PAO LOR holds the Patricia Wood Baer Professorship in Education at the University of Wisconsin–Green Bay, where he also chairs the Professional Program in Education. He has been writing about the Hmong American experience for many years.

The Birdman of Koshkonong

The Life of Naturalist Thure Kumlien

Martha Bergland

Thure Kumlien was one of Wisconsin's earliest Swedish settlers and an accomplished ornithologist, botanist, and naturalist in the mid-1800s, though his name is not well known today. He settled on the shore of Lake Koshkonong in 1843 and soon began sending bird specimens to museums and collectors in Europe and the eastern United States, including the Smithsonian. Later, he prepared natural history exhibits for the newly established University of Wisconsin and became the first curator and third employee of the new Milwaukee Public Museum.

For all of his achievements, Kumlien never gained the widespread notoriety of Wisconsin naturalists John Muir, Increase Lapham, or Aldo Leopold. Kumlien did his work behind the scenes, content to spend his days in the marshes and swamps rather than in the public eye. He once wrote that he was not “cut out for pretensions and show in the world.” Yet, his detailed observations of the Midwest's natural world—including the impact of early agriculture on the environment—were hugely important to the fields of ornithology and botany. As this carefully researched and lovingly rendered biography proves, Thure Kumlien deserves to be remembered as one of Wisconsin's most influential naturalists.

MARTHA BERGLAND is the coauthor, with Paul Hayes, of Studying Wisconsin—a Society Press biography of famed Wisconsin naturalist Increase Lapham, which won the Milwaukee County Historical Society's Gambrinus Prize. She taught for many years at Milwaukee Area Technical College. She lives in Glendale, Wisconsin.

The Sower and the Seer

Perspectives on the Intellectual History of the American Midwest

Edited and with an introduction by

Joseph Hogan

Jon K. Lauck

Paul Murphy

Andrew Seal

Gleaves Whitney

This collection of twenty-two essays, a product of recent revivals of interest in both Midwestern history and intellectual history, argues for the contributions of interior thinkers and ideas in forming an American identity.

The Midwest has been characterized as a fertile seedbed for the germination of great thinkers, but a wasteland for their further growth. The Sower and the Seer reveals that representation to be false. In fact, the region has sustained many innovative minds and been the locus of extraordinary intellectualism. It has also been the site of shifting interpretations—to some a frontier, to others a colonized space, a breadbasket, a crossroads, a heartland. As agrarian reformer (and Michigander) Liberty Hyde Bailey expressed in his 1916 poem “Sower and Seer,” the Midwestern landscape has given rise to significant visionaries, just as their knowledge has nourished and shaped the region.

The essays gathered for this collection examine individual thinkers, writers, and leaders, as well as movements and ideas that shaped the Midwest, including rural school consolidation, women’s literary societies, Progressive-era urban planning, and Midwestern radical liberalism. While disparate in subject and style, these essays taken together establish the irrefutable significance of the intellectual history of the American Midwest.

JOSEPH HOGAN is the director of fact-checking at Retro Report. JON K. LAUCK is a professor of history and political science at the University of South Dakota and the editor-in-chief of the Middle West Review. PAUL MURPHY is a professor of history at Grand Valley State University. ANDREW SEAL is a lecturer in the Peter T. We Will Always Be Here

A Guide to Exploring and Understanding the History of LGBTQ+ Activism in Wisconsin

Jenny Kalvaitis
Kristen Whitson

JUNE 2021

Paperback: $15.00

160 pages, 60 b&w photos, 5½ × 8¼

ISBN: 978-0-87020-961-1

E-book Edition Available

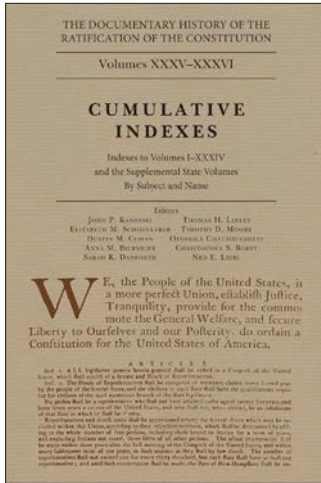

This inspiring and educational book presents examples of LGBTQ+ activism throughout Wisconsin’s history for young people to explore and discuss. Drawing from a rich collection of primary sources—including diary entries, love letters, zines, advertisements, oral histories, and more—the book provides a jumping-off point for readers who are interested in learning more about LGBTQ+ history and activism, as well as for readers who want to build on the work of earlier activists.

We Will Always Be Here shines a light on powerful and often untold stories from Wisconsin’s history, featuring individuals across a wide spectrum of identities and from all corners of the state. The LGBTQ+ people, allies, and activists in this guide changed the world by taking steps that young people can take today—by educating themselves, telling their own stories, being true to themselves, building communities, and getting active. The aim of this celebratory book is not only to engage young people in Wisconsin’s LGBTQ+ history, but also to empower them to make positive change in the world.

JENNY KALVAITIS has a master’s degree in Public History from Indiana University–Purdue University Indianapolis, and she has worked in informal education and museum education for over ten years. KRISTEN WHITSON has a master’s degree in Library and Information Science from the University of Wisconsin–Madison, and she has worked in digital preservation, community and indigenous archives, and LGBTQ+ archives.

Ratification of the Constitution by the States

Cumulative Indexes:
Volumes I and II

John P. Kaminski

This two-volume cumulative index will serve as a portal through which the magnificent eighteenth-century debate over the ratification of the Constitution can be more readily perceived and appreciated. Begun in 1976, The Documentary History of the Ratification of the Constitution Series is a reference collection that aims to preserve the state-by-state debates about the ratification of the United States Constitution. This documentary series is a research tool of remarkable power, an unrivaled reference work for historical and legal scholars, librarians, and students of the Constitution.

DID YOU KNOW? Most Wisconsin Historical Society Press books are available in E-BOOK EDITIONS as well as print.

You can find our e-books through most major vendors, including GooglePlay, Nook, Kindle, OverDrive, iTunes, ProQuest Ebook Central, and Kobo (the online e-book vendor for many local bookstores), as well as school e-book vendors like EPIC, EBSCO ebooks, Chegg, and more.

The Society Press recently published this updated e-book only edition of its classic Voices & Votes: How Democracy Works in Wisconsin, a New Badger History Series volume. The e-book is designed to be used by educators and parents to help children learn the basics and history of how government—and elections—work in Wisconsin. Publication of an updated print edition of this top-selling education market book is anticipated in 2022. Until then, find the current edition of Voices & Votes at your favorite e-book vendor.

Examination Copies for Instructors

Examination copies will be sent to instructors considering a book for classroom adoption. An invoice, with a 10% faculty discount, will accompany the book. If ten or more copies are ordered within 60 days, the invoice should be returned to the order department with notification the book has been adopted. The invoice will then be cancelled and the book may be kept as a desk copy. If not adopted, the book can be purchased at the invoiced price or returned within the 60-day period. Requests should be made on institutional letterhead, provide the course and projected enrollment, and be faxed to (800) 621-8476.
