"It is not enough to be busy. So are the ants. The question is, what are we busy about?"

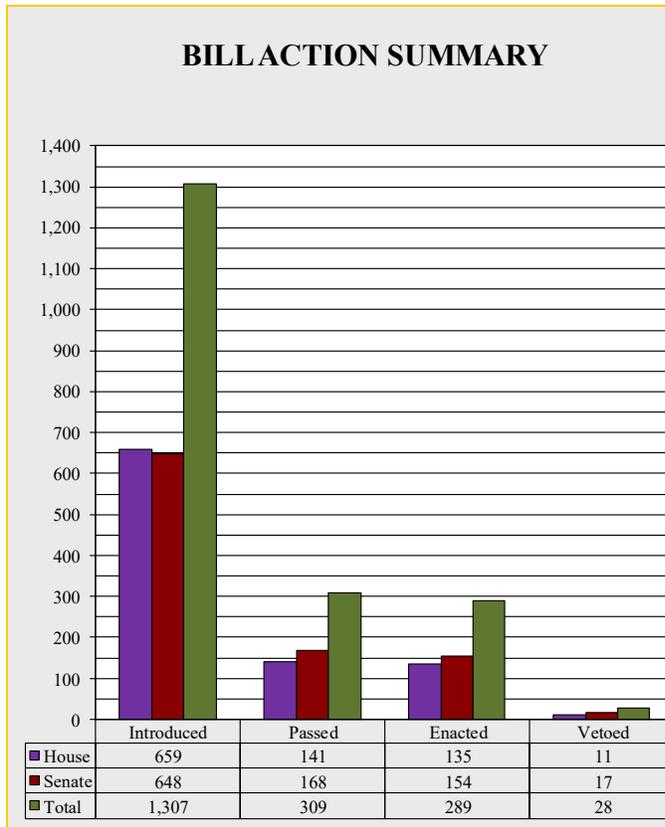

- Henry David Thoreau

It may be a bit of an understatement, but busy is a good place to start in describing the 2019 legislative session. Most sessions begin slowly and build to a frenzied crescendo over the final several days. Others begin with a burst of activity as the legislature seeks to address particularly urgent matters, then taper off in intensity until the last push. In contrast, the 2019 session began at a furious pace, and kept that pace throughout, as the legislature went about its business with a fervor usually reserved for the endgame. A confluence of money, political circumstances and legal obligations provided the legislature with plenty to be busy about.

As with any session, the story of the 2019 session begins well before the third Tuesday in January. In some ways, its stage was set in the 2010 election, with the election of a governor that would spend two terms at almost constant odds with the legislative branch. Eight years later, election of a new governor aligned the political interests of both the executive and the legislature. The 2018 election was also marked by victories for Democrats in every statewide election, congressional races and an overall pickup of eight seats in the state House of Representatives, giving Democrats a 46 to 24 majority in that chamber. The election and its aftermath resulted in a total of 20 new members in the house and three new senators (due to two resignations and elevation of one member from the senate floor to the lieutenant governor's desk). It is worth noting that after the election, in part because of national trends, New Mexico's political landscape, particularly the legislature, now features more women in elected positions than at any other time in its history. Lastly, voters overwhelmingly approved creation of a State Ethics Commission in the 2018 election, meaning that the legislature would have to develop language actually creating an ethics commission.

Two other important factors heavily influenced the work of the 2019 session well before it began. First, a district court judge ruled that New Mexico was violating the constitutional right of at-risk students to a sufficient education and ordered the legislature and the governor to establish a funding system that meets those constitutional requirements. Second, mostly because of increased oil and gas activity in the southeastern corner of the state, the state found itself with $1.2 billion in additional revenue.

Once the curtain was raised on the session, work began almost immediately on the so-called "rocket docket", a package of 42 bills passed by the legislature during the 2017 and 2018 sessions with little or no opposition that had been vetoed by the previous governor. All 42 bills were given fewer committee referrals than is customary and received expedited hearings. They were each passed by the legislature and signed by the governor within the first three weeks of the session, and while none of them likely required such quick action, their passage helped set the tone for the weeks to come. In addition to the rocket docket, the house spent the first half of the session with a series of three-hour debates on more controversial bills, including repealing a statute that criminalizes abortion, election of the president by national popular vote, background checks on all firearm sales and increasing the minimum wage. Subtle rule changes allowed house leadership to bring matters up for debate on the floor more quickly, which led to the minority party using its limited but procedural ability to slow down the legislative process. Three-hour debates on controversial bills gave way to three-hour debates on numerous other bills, and by the session's midway point, floor sessions were already stretching well into the night (another ritual traditionally reserved for a session's last several days).

One of the primary tasks for any legislative session is development of a state budget. After years of flat or declining revenue, the influx of additional revenue allowed the legislature to produce a $7.7 billion budget – an 18.6% increase over the General Appropriation Act of 2018. Much of the increased spending went toward public education, but the legislature was also able to backfill some budget shortfalls left over from leaner years, as well as increase reserves significantly. 2019 also saw the return of so-called "junior" funding bills for the first time in over a decade.

The session was packed with high-profile bills, many of which managed to pass, including a massive tax package, a separate tax bill reworking the film production tax credit, criminal justice reform measures, the Energy Transition Act (which sets New Mexico on a path toward significantly increased reliance on renewable energy sources), a minimum wage increase, a so-called 50-year Election Code tune-up, two almost identical education bills addressing the policy requirements raised in the recent court ruling and a proposed constitutional amendment changing the makeup and appointment of members of the Public Regulation Commission (PRC). In any other session, just one of those bills would have kept the legislature busy enough. Each of these bills is discussed in greater depth in its respective section.

As with any session, there were also a number of high-profile bills that did not pass. These included bills or resolutions to repeal unconstitutional abortion laws, legalize and tax recreational marijuana and increase distributions from the Land Grant Permanent Fund for early childhood education and dueling bills regarding daylight savings time.

Upon adjournment, the legislature had considered 1,307 substantive bills, passing 309 of them, numbers that dwarf the 2018 session and represent a sizeable increase over 2017's numbers. Of the 309 bills that passed, the governor signed 281, twice the number signed by the governor in the last 60-day session. Also considered were another 32 resolutions and joint resolutions and 261 memorials and joint memorials – a slight decline from previous years, due in part to an effort by house leadership to reduce the number of simple memorials proclaiming various days in the legislature.

The Highlights is an annual publication of the Legislative Council Service (LCS) that summarizes much, but not all, of the legislative action during each session. The omission of certain legislation or issues should not be interpreted as an indication that those are not important; each is important to someone. Many issues in the Highlights defy single-topic categorization, so every effort has been made to organize and cross-reference the contents. A complete listing of bills that passed is included in the Concordance located in Appendix E.

FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE
FIRST SESSION, 2019

AGING

In the 2019 session, the one bill relating to aging that was signed into law addresses food security for senior citizens. Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 84 (Chapter 152) requires the Aging and Long-Term Services Department to permit any senior center to coordinate the planting, cultivation, growing, tending and harvesting of edible fruits and vegetables on its premises for inclusion in food service or distribution to eligible senior participants.

ALCOHOL

Several laws relating to alcohol were enacted this year, which ranged from renaming the division of the Regulation and Licensing Department (RLD) that regulates the liquor industry to addressing complex issues that have long challenged the industry.

The title of the Alcohol and Gaming Division of the RLD included the word "gaming" even though the division has not regulated gaming since 2005. Senate Bill 149 (Chapter 29) corrects this anomaly by changing the division's official title to the "Alcoholic Beverage Control Division".

Senate Bill 413 (Chapter 229) amends several laws that affect New Mexico's craft alcoholic beverage industry. These amendments include, in the Liquor Excise Tax Act, increasing the allowable alcohol content of cider; modifying the definition of "microbrewer"; and altering the volumetric liquor excise tax on beer, cider and spirituous liquors. In the Liquor Control Act, the bill adds pears to the definition of "cider"; adds cider as a product that may be produced under a winegrower's license; allows winegrowers, craft distillers and small brewers to serve and sell their products at private celebrations; allows these beverage producers to begin Sunday sales at 11:00 a.m.; and sets new sale or production thresholds for renewal of a small brewer's license.

For several years, New Mexico has experienced a shortage of freight truck drivers with commercial driver's licenses, yet some restrictions have limited the ability of companies to hire certain licensed drivers. For instance, a company may be prohibited from hiring an otherwise qualified delivery driver if that driver is under 21 years of age and the company's products include packaged alcoholic drinks. House Bill 15 (Chapter 103) addresses this issue by allowing commercial driver's license holders who are 18 to 20 years old to deliver "sealed, unbroken packages, including containers such as bottles, cans and kegs".

Prior to 2007, restaurant patrons who purchased a bottle of wine with dinner were forced to decide whether to drink the whole bottle or leave the remains to be poured down the drain by restaurant staff. In 2007, the legislature amended the Liquor Control Act to allow restaurants to re-cork and seal a partially consumed bottle of wine if the customer had also purchased a meal. However, the law only applied to restaurants and other food providers. House Bill 549 (Chapter 58) allows for the same practice at wineries but does not require that the customer purchase a meal.

ANIMALS AND LIVESTOCK

The legislature grappled with varying proposals concerning animals during the 2019 session, with five bills signed into law that address stewardship of wildlife, fair chase hunting and fishing practices, coyote-killing contests, the practice of veterinary medicine and fees associated with transferring livestock.

With the goal of mitigating barriers to wildlife movement and reducing the threat of wildlife-vehicle collisions at high-use wildlife crossing areas, Senate Bill 228 (Chapter 97) enacts the Wildlife Corridors Act to identify and protect wildlife corridors. The Department of Transportation (DOT) and the Department of Game and Fish are required to work together to develop a wildlife corridors action plan and, from that, develop a prioritized wildlife corridors project list using criteria included in the law.

Fair chase is a tenet among hunters and anglers that stresses the ethical and lawful pursuit and taking of game animals in a manner that does not give the hunter or angler an improper or unfair advantage over the animal. Senate Bill 383 (Chapter 99) provides the State Game Commission with the authority to promulgate rules that embody the principles of fair chase, including rules that prohibit hunters and anglers from using certain technologies or wildlife location data.

After having been debated in multiple past legislative sessions, pursuant to Senate Bill 76 (Chapter 151), New Mexico becomes the third state to ban contests that are organized for the purpose of killing coyotes for prizes or entertainment. Pursuant to this bill, a person who organizes or sponsors a coyote-killing contest is guilty of a misdemeanor, and a person who participates in a contest is guilty of a petty misdemeanor.

To encourage veterinary students to practice in New Mexico, Senate Bill 545 (Chapter 257) allows the New Mexico Department of Agriculture (NMDA) to enter into agreements with schools of veterinary medicine in other states to allow students to intern with New Mexico veterinary clinics and practices as part of the students' degree programs. The NMDA is also tasked with coordinating the program with New Mexico veterinarians and encouraging their participation in the program.

The New Mexico Beef Council imposes a state assessment not to exceed $1.00 per head on the transfer of ownership of cattle. However, anyone paying such an assessment has the option of requesting a refund of the assessment, thereby making the assessment essentially voluntary. Senate Bill 193 (Chapter 36) provides for cattle owners to opt out, for a three-year period, from having to pay the state transfer assessment to begin with, thereby avoiding the necessity of requesting a refund if an owner objects to the assessment.

APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

The 2019 legislative session was exceptional for the level of spending in the General Appropriation Act of 2019 (GAA) and the capital outlay bill, as well as for amounts dedicated to reserves in the event of an economic downturn. From the start of the session, there was no disagreement between the executive and the legislature on this point: education funding would be a high priority. With copious amounts of "new money" available to craft a state budget due to the oil and gas boom, the GAA backfilled many gaps left due to the budget austerity of prior years. Optimism reigned, but caution was taken by the legislature. The ever-volatile oil and gas revenue is the main cause for the sunny outlook, but it is also the "Achilles heel" of the state budget, directly and indirectly responsible for approximately one-third of all General Fund dollars. For this reason, lawmakers crafted a budget that leaves in reserve an estimated $1.53 billion, or approximately 20% of recurring appropriations.

General Appropriation Act

After action taken by the governor, the GAA, enacted in House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bills 2 and 3 (Chapter 271, p.v.), appropriates over $7.7 billion in fiscal year (FY) 2019 and FY 2020, an increase of 18.6% over the General Appropriation Act of 2018. Appropriations to agencies total $7 billion, a year-over-year increase of $701.2 million. This amount includes compensation appropriations of $56.9 million to provide across-the-board raises for state employees, including raises of 4% for most state government workers and employees at the state's higher education institutions; for employees making less than $25,000, a 5% raise in pay; and a 6% increase in pay for judges. In the "Public School Support" section of the bill, $121.7 million in General Fund dollars is earmarked to provide 6% pay raises for licensed teachers, school administrators, instructional staff and other licensed and unlicensed staff.

◆ Public School Support; Other Education

Public school support receives the most recurring General Fund appropriations of any other category of the GAA at $3.17 billion, broken down as follows: $3.07 billion for K-12 public education, also known as the state equalization guarantee distribution, an increase of $531.8 million, or 21%, over the prior year; $88.6 million for transportation distribution; $1.3 million for supplemental distribution; $1 million for instructional materials; and $6 million each for the Indian Education Fund and standards-based assessments. This year's education appropriations address concerns raised in a decision and order issued in the consolidated Yazzie and Martinez lawsuits last year, namely by amending the public school funding formula by increasing the "at-risk" index from 0.13 to 0.25, which increases the public school support appropriation in FY 2020 by approximately $103.2 million. See the Education section of these Highlights for a more detailed explanation of Yazzie/Martinez and public school funding changes.

The "Other Education" category appropriates $77.6 million from the General Fund in FY 2020, which includes the operating budget of the Public Education Department (PED), appropriations to regional education cooperatives and "below the line" appropriations to the PED. Overall, General Fund appropriations in this category decreased by 23.9%, or $24.3 million, primarily due to a one-time appropriation in the previous fiscal year for the K-3 Plus Program. However, the GAA does reference changes to the state equalization guarantee distribution to include K-5 program units in the calculation going forward, and it also appropriates $39 million from the General Fund to the Public Pre-Kindergarten Fund, an increase of $10 million over the prior year.

◆ Judiciary

The judiciary, which includes the district courts, district attorneys, the Public Defender Department, the Court of Appeals and the New Mexico Supreme Court, saw recurring General Fund appropriations, as a group, grow 7.7% over the prior year to $307.4 million, which does not include compensation appropriations. On average, the 13 district courts are allocated increases of 48% over the prior year's General Fund appropriations.

◆ General Government

General government agency General Fund appropriations are raised 12.7%, or $16.1 million, to $142.7 million for FY 2020. The Office of the Governor's budget receives a boost of 25.9%, or $836,400, with the majority of the growth in the personal services and employee benefits category for the new governor's staff. In addition, the Taxation and Revenue Department (TRD) recurring budget increases from $53.1 million to $62.1 million – a 16.9% gain – and the Office of the Secretary of State appropriation for FY 2020 is increased by 8.7%, or $739,800.

◆ Commerce and Industry

Commerce and industry agencies, including professional licensing boards, the Office of Superintendent of Insurance (OSI), the PRC and agencies with programs aimed at economic development, saw their appropriations surge 15.2% to $60.7 million. The Tourism Department is awarded an increase of $3 million for its Marketing Division and Promotion Division to increase national awareness of New Mexico as a premier tourist destination. The Economic Development Department (EDD) gains $2.7 million (24.8%), of which $1 million is for the Development Training Fund, $400,000 is for the New Mexico Economic Development Corporation and $200,000 is for "main street" grants.

◆ Health, Hospitals and Human Services

An overall increase of 6.8% is slated for health, hospitals and human services category agencies. A few of the more notable agency funding enhancements over the prior year include: the Children, Youth and Families Department (CYFD) with $31.4 million (11.3%); the Department of Health (DOH) with $22.7 million (7.8%); and the Human Services Department (HSD), which manages the Medicaid program, with $56.6 million (5.4%). Moreover, the Workforce Solutions Department budget grows by $883,600 (9.7%), and the Veterans' Services Department budget is boosted by almost $2 million (51.4%).

◆ Public Safety

General Fund appropriations to public safety agencies are raised $25.2 million (5.8%). Two agencies, the Corrections Department with a $20.2 million increase (6.7%) and the Department of Public Safety (DPS) with a $4.6 million increase (3.8%), make up the bulk of the recurring appropriations growth in this budget category.

◆ Transportation

The GAA appropriates $389 million of nonrecurring General Fund revenue to the DOT, with a majority of the funding ($250 million) to specific DOT priority projects. Additionally, the six transportation districts receive $89 million for project construction and maintenance, and $50 million is appropriated to the Local Government Transportation Project Fund.

◆ Fund Transfers

Nonrecurring fund transfers from the General Fund totaling $81 million are made to the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund ($40 million), the Teacher Loan Repayment Fund ($20 million), the State-Support Reserve Fund ($10 million), the Water Project Fund ($6 million), the Primary Care Fund at the New Mexico Finance Authority (NMFA) ($4 million) and the Rural Libraries Endowment Fund ($1 million).

Feed Bill

House Bill 1 (Chapter 1), known as the "feed bill" because of its funding for the legislative session, appropriates $25.8 million from the General Fund to the legislature and legislative agencies for expenditure in FY 2019 and FY 2020. Of that amount, $9.2 million provides for the operations of the 2019 legislative session, and the remainder supports interim activities and year-round operational costs of the legislative agencies that include the LCS ($5.9 million), Legislative Education Study Committee ($1.4 million), Legislative Finance Committee ($4.4 million), house and senate chief clerks' offices ($1.1 and $1.2 million, respectively) and Legislative Information System ($835,500) for non-salary expenses. The bill also includes funding of $19,100 for the Senate Rules Committee's interim expenses.

*Includes appropriations in Chapter 1 (Feed Bill) and portions of Sections 4, 5, 8, 9 and 12 of Chapter 271 (GAA), HB 548 "Appropriations & Expenditures" (Laws 2019, Ch. 279, p.v.) and SB 536 "Appropriations & Expenditures" (Laws 2019, Ch. 278, p.v.).

Supplemental Appropriation Bills

In addition to the GAA, two bills, House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 548 (Chapter 279, p.v.) and Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 536 (Chapter 278, p.v.), also known as "HB 2 Juniors", supplement the state budget with numerous one-time agency appropriations. After action taken by the governor, there are 333 itemized appropriations in the house version totaling $28.3 million and 259 appropriations in the senate version totaling $27.4 million. See Tables 7, 8, 9 and 10 in Appendix B for an itemized list of appropriations and vetoes.

Public Finance

Due to the unprecedented amount of revenue available for spending this year, projects in the capital outlay bill are paid with General Fund appropriations instead of borrowing by issuing bonds. Since projects will not be paid with bond proceeds, the estimated amount that would have otherwise been used for debt service, $236.9 million, will be transferred over the course of 10 years from the Severance Tax Bonding Fund to the Severance Tax Permanent Fund by Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 535 (Chapter 273). This bill limits the amount of supplemental severance tax bonds that can be issued in 2019 by the State Board of Finance to $181.8 million to ensure that money will be deposited in the Severance Tax Permanent Fund. Also, House Bill 203 (Chapter 8) amends the Statewide Economic Development Finance Act to allow agricultural enterprises to be eligible for funding under the act, which permits all agricultural activity, including traditional agricultural activity, to qualify for funds.

In the past, municipalities were restricted on how they could use gross receipts tax revenue, gasoline tax revenue and revenues of any utility or joint utility. Senate Bill 165 (Chapter 72) strikes those restrictions and specifically provides that a municipality may pledge any type of revenues for the payment of refunding bonds.

The state treasurer and county and municipal treasurers are responsible for the deposit and investment of public funds held by their governments. Senate Bill 473 (Chapter 170) requires Class A counties and municipalities with populations of more than 65,000 in those counties to have a written investment policy that identifies investment goals and risk. Also, the bill adds to the types of investments that the state treasurer and county and municipal treasurers can make by including the securities issued by United States government-sponsored enterprises. Finally, the bill allows the state treasurer and the treasurers of the larger counties and municipalities to invest in: (1) securities that are issued by supranational issuers, which are member institutions of the World Bank Group; (2) certain corporate commercial paper; and (3) shares of certain investment companies.

The Tax Stabilization Reserve operates as the state's "rainy day fund". With the passage of House Bill 393 (Chapter 138), the state investment officer, with the approval of the State Investment Council, is now permitted to invest the money in the reserve in accordance with the Uniform Prudent Investor Act and in consultation with the state treasurer.

New Mexico Finance Authority

House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 241 (Chapter 127), the annual authorization bill for projects funded from the Public Project Revolving Fund (PPRF) that are over $1 million and require legislative authorization, gives approval to 222 state and local entities to apply for funding through the PPRF. The authorization is valid for three years and expires if a qualified entity does not notify the NMFA by the end of FY 2022 of its intent to pursue a loan from the NMFA. Under Senate Bill 18 (Chapter 20), $3 million is appropriated from the PPRF to the Local Government Planning Fund, which provides funding for infrastructure planning documents, area master plans, economic development plans and energy audits. Additionally, the date on certain state projects is extended and the NMFA is granted temporary authorization to close Economic Development Revolving Fund loans with the passage of Senate Bill 37 (Chapter 69). This temporary exemption from prior legislative authorization was set to expire at the end of the fiscal year and is now scheduled to expire on June 30, 2023.

Senate Bill 43 (Chapter 70) appropriates $2.5 million from the PPRF to the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund to be used as a match to the federal FY 2019 capitalization grant estimated at $11.8 million for federal Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974 projects. Also, the Wastewater Facility Construction Loan Fund is allocated $1 million in Senate Bill 117 (Chapter 26) for the state's required matching funds for federally sponsored projects and to carry out the purposes of the Wastewater Facility Construction Loan Act. Furthermore, the NMFA is authorized to make loans or grants from the Water Project Fund for 30 qualifying projects on terms and conditions established by the Water Trust Board and the NMFA in Senate Bill 326 (Chapter 76).

Amending the Behavioral Health Capital Funding Act, Senate Bill 128 (Chapter 156) enables behavioral health care clinics owned by local governments that are operated in rural or other health care underserved areas of the state to be eligible for behavioral health capital funding, and it further allows the NMFA to use money in the Behavioral Health Capital Fund to cover some of the costs of originating loans and administering the fund. Similarly, Senate Bill 126 (Chapter 276) amends the Primary Care Capital Funding Act to allow local-government-owned primary care clinics that are operated in a rural or other health care underserved area of the state to be eligible for primary care capital funding and for money in the Primary Care Capital Fund to be used by the NMFA for some of the costs of originating loans and administering the fund. Also, the NMFA is granted authority to issue $1.25 million in revenue bonds for the Regional Cancer Treatment Center at the Gila Regional Medical Center in Grant County in House Bill 558 (Chapter 204) to improve facilities and equipment.

Capital Outlay

Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 280 (Chapter 277, p.v.) authorizes $925.1

million in capital outlay project expenditures for FY 2019 through FY 2023. The bill includes $851.7 million in General Fund appropriations, a departure from the previous 10 years when most capital project funding has been derived from severance tax bond proceeds. Other state fund appropriations in the bill total $73.4 million and include appropriations from the Water Project Fund, the Capitol Buildings Repair Fund, the Public School Capital Outlay Fund and the Game Protection Fund. Fifty-five projects totaling $7.9 million were vetoed.

The PED receives over $69 million in the capital outlay bill for a range of projects, including roughly $33 million to purchase school buses and $4.2 million for a dormitory and cafeteria for the New Mexico School for the Arts. In addition, the Public School Facilities Authority receives $5 million for construction and equipping of pre-kindergarten (pre-k) classrooms statewide and $34 million to provide teacher housing and educational infrastructure improvements for school districts located in federal impact aid districts. The governor used her veto power to make significant changes to the language in the impact aid district appropriations, eliminating the requirements for local matching funds and for project approval by the Public School Capital Outlay Council.

Appropriations to the Indian Affairs Department top $75 million in the bill, more than doubling the total appropriations over the past six years. Roughly $75 million is included in the bill for the Office of the State Engineer and the Department of Environment for a range of state and local projects. Additionally, the Interstate Stream Commission receives over $9 million for a variety of local acequia projects, including $2 million for an acequia grant program operated by the commission. Local governments receive close to $178 million for 436 projects located throughout the state, and $16 million is appropriated to the Cultural Affairs Department for facilities improvements and acquisitions. Also, DOT projects to improve roads, streets, bridges and airports throughout the state receive over $85 million in the bill.

The bill also devotes funding to deferred maintenance on state-owned buildings and to improve existing and recently acquired facilities, including a Capital Program Fund appropriation of $29.3 million to renovate a facility acquired last year to serve as a child wellness center and to house staff for the CYFD and HSD. A total of $20 million is appropriated for green energy infrastructure improvements to state facilities, and $2.5 million is appropriated to install electric car charging stations at state-owned facilities in Santa Fe and to purchase a fleet of electric vehicles. A variety of other facility improvements are scheduled to be completed with the $137 million appropriation to the Capital Program Fund, with over $33 million allocated to construct a new evidence, records and crime laboratory facility for the DPS as well as $16 million for improvements to state correctional facilities.

The capital outlay reauthorization bill, House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 568 (Chapter 280, p.v.), reauthorizes 112 prior-year appropriations to extend the time of expenditure, change the administering agency or expand, change or clarify the purpose of the original appropriation. The "freezes" placed on capital project expenditures in FY 2016 and FY 2017 resulted in some project completion delays that carried over into FY 2019. In the bill, 88% of the reauthorizations extend the time of expenditure for those appropriations, and 27% of those reauthorizations also include a change or expansion of purpose. Roughly 12% of the reauthorizations change or clarify the project purpose or change the administering agency without a time extension. The governor vetoed one of the proposed reauthorizations; in that case, the provisions of the original appropriation remain intact.

Details of projects funded in all capital outlay bills may be found in Appendix C.

BUSINESS, CONSUMERS AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

An array of measures became law that are intended to expand, streamline or clarify procedures for conducting various forms of business in the state. The measures address a number of industries and include a consumer protection measure prohibiting price discrimination against a person based upon the person's real or perceived gender identity.

The Industrial Hemp Research and Development Program, enacted in 2017, authorized the NMDA to issue licenses to allow certain persons to grow hemp for research and development purposes. House Bill 581 (Chapter 116) expands the statutory provisions establishing the program by enacting the Hemp Manufacturing Act to allow for full commercialization of hemp. The bill establishes a regulatory framework that allocates jurisdiction over hemp production to the NMDA and hemp manufacturing to the Department of Environment. The bill also authorizes both departments to enter into cooperative or joint powers agreements with federally recognized Indian nations, tribes and pueblos regarding hemp production, manufacturing and related activities on tribal lands.

Certain business entities must have a registered agent within New Mexico in order to do business in the state. Many of those entities regularly employ other business entities to provide that service. In order to ensure that a business entity does not unknowingly lose its registered agent, Senate Bill 162 (Chapter 159) requires that, as a condition of dissolution, a New Mexico corporation, nonprofit corporation, foreign corporation, New Mexico limited liability company or foreign limited liability company must confirm that it has resigned as a registered agent or is not currently serving as a registered agent for any entity registered in New Mexico.

As noted above, Senate Bill 25 (Chapter 214) amends the Unfair Practices Act to prohibit price discrimination in commercial transactions based on a person's gender or perceived gender identity. However, the bill exempts persons regulated by the OSI.

House Bill 229 (Chapter 13) enacts the Regional Air Center Special Economic District Act, which provides municipalities and counties the authority to form a regional air center special economic district in an area that has an industrial air center composed of land and infrastructure associated with a former United States military base. A governing body of a district is empowered to use economic development tools to revitalize the district and is tasked with managing airport operations, creating jobs and fostering economic development. Furthermore, a governing body may manage the land and property associated with the district, including imposing rental charges and fees for the use of that land, issuing revenue bonds to encourage the location of businesses and other enterprises in a district or acquiring or improving infrastructure or facilities in a district.

The Local Economic Development Act allows municipalities and counties to use public resources to support economic development projects undertaken by private entities. House Bill 37 (Chapter 208) clarifies that the act does not allow municipalities and counties to provide private entities with public support for the purchase, lease, grant or other acquisition or conveyance of water rights.

The Severance Tax Bonding Act requires the state investment officer to make a commitment to the Small Business Development Corporation to invest 1% of the market value of the Severance Tax Permanent Fund to provide capital for land, buildings or infrastructure for facilities to support new or expanding businesses. Senate Bill 10 (Chapter 46) raises the investment commitment to 2%.

CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

As in previous sessions, issues relating to children garnered significant attention from the legislature. The legislature passed and the governor signed bills with the intent to prevent child abuse and neglect by increasing the flexibility and responsiveness of the CYFD, prioritize kinship placements for abused or neglected children, create plans of care for substance-exposed newborns and establish children's advocacy centers. Early childhood education was also a priority for the governor and the legislature, which resulted in the creation of the cabinet-level Early Childhood Education and Care Department. Other bills signed into law include requirements to notify Indian tribes when Indian children become involved with delinquency proceedings, extensions of the foster care system and the enactment of the Student Diabetes Management Act.

While New Mexicans may disagree about many legislative issues, one topic that everyone can agree upon is the need to end child maltreatment. As demonstrated by recent tragic cases, the CYFD has struggled to identify and prevent child abuse and neglect across the state. To give the CYFD more flexibility and allow for limited resources to be allocated as needed, House Bill 376 (Chapter 137) allows the CYFD to create a multilevel response system that provides an alternative to traditional investigation and allows for the provision of community services based upon intake assessment results indicating that there is no immediate concern for a child's safety. The CYFD conducts a family assessment and offers social work services or referrals to other community-based services. The bill also allows for a case to move from the multilevel response system to a formal investigation in certain instances, and the CYFD may pilot the multilevel response system and report on its implementation to the legislature before deploying it statewide.

In the case of a child from a family in need of services or a child alleged to be neglected or abused, prior law provided that placement of the child in a home of a relative of the child was only one of four unprioritized options. Senate Bill 28 (Chapter 21) provides that preference shall be given to placement of a child in the home of a relative of the child if such placement is in the best interests of the child, the relative agrees not to return the child to a parent, guardian or custodian alleged to have committed abuse or neglect of the child and the relative within three days of placement completes an application for licensure to operate a foster home. The CYFD is obligated to make reasonable efforts to locate a relative of the child to provide foster care.

House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 230 (Chapter 190) clarifies that staff at hospitals and birthing centers cannot report child abuse or neglect of a newborn child based solely on a toxicology screen that shows that the mother is using drugs. Instead, the bill lays out guidelines for staff to create a plan of care for the child and the child's family, which is accomplished in part by requiring the CYFD to train staff in identifying and differentiating between those circumstances when a plan of care is appropriate and when a report of child abuse or neglect is appropriate. While a plan of care and referral to services are the first steps for newborns in certain situations who are born exposed to drugs, the bill also requires reporting to the CYFD of families that fail to adhere to the plan of care, in which case the CYFD may perform a family assessment and offer further services. Although the child's family is not required to participate in the services offered, the CYFD may open an investigation if the family does not participate. Lastly, the bill aligns New Mexico law with federal reporting requirements related to children who are born exposed to drugs.

Another effort to address child abuse and neglect, House Bill 314 (Chapter 134) establishes the Children's Advocacy Centers Act, which defines what a children's advocacy center is, who must be a part of the multidisciplinary teams that work with the centers and what the duties of the teams are. The teams, which include representatives from child protective services, law enforcement and behavioral health services, will be established in each judicial district and must meet at least every other month. A children's advocacy center is required to have staff trained according to national standards, provide case tracking of child abuse cases processed through the center and provide family and victim advocacy services to abused and neglected children and the non-offending caregivers of those children.

Senate Rules Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 22 (Chapter 48) enacts the Early Childhood Education and Care Act, which creates the twenty-third cabinet department, the Early Childhood Education and Care Department, composed of the Child Care Licensing and Services Division, the Early Childhood Education Division and the Early Intervention Services Division consisting of the Home Visitation Bureau and Family, Infant, Toddler Program. The act provides for: (1) an assistant secretary for Native American early childhood education and care advised by the Indian Education Advisory Council; (2) an advisory council on early childhood programs that will annually report to the governor and the legislature; and (3) the formulation of a four-year early childhood education and care finance plan and an annual report on outcomes for children and families receiving services through early childhood programs. In addition, the bill amends the Pre-Kindergarten Act to: (1) include early pre-k for three-year-old children as well as pre-k for four-year-old children; (2) provide for equal funding of pre-k programming by public schools and by other eligible providers; and (3) authorize the new department to establish standards and performance measures for early pre-k and pre-k programs statewide.

Senate Bill 48 (Chapter 22) enacts the Student Diabetes Management Act to provide guidelines to schools to support the educational environment for students with diabetes, including allowing students to carry medical supplies, prohibiting schools from pressuring parents to provide diabetes care during school or school activities, providing for privacy and creating a complaint process to report noncompliance. The law requires that a diabetes medical management plan be prepared for diabetic students that sets out the services the student needs at school. Also, the bill mandates annual diabetes training programs for all school nurses and diabetes care personnel, who are defined as school employees who volunteer to be trained to help students manage their diabetes when in school or at school events. Each school attended by a student with diabetes must have two of these employee volunteers.

The Children's Code requires notice to Indian tribes when the state becomes involved with Indian children and their families who are in need of court-ordered services and in abuse, neglect or adoption proceedings. House Bill 149 (Chapter 125) extends this notice requirement to include a delinquency proceeding involving an Indian child. The CYFD is also required in cases of juvenile justice services involving an Indian child to notify the child's tribe for the purpose of collaborating on appropriate referrals for services and case planning.

Pursuant to House Bill 303 (Chapter 132), foster parents and children in the custody of foster parents who are New Mexico residents are provided free admission to state-owned museums and state parks if they can demonstrate eligibility in accordance with rules adopted by the Cultural Affairs Department and the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department (EMNRD).

To better serve youth transitioning from foster care, Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 23 (Chapter 149) enacts the Fostering Connections Act, which provides foster care services through the Fostering Connections Program to eligible adults up to age 21 who meet certain criteria.

Through a voluntary services and support agreement between the CYFD and the young adult, the CYFD must provide medical and behavioral health coverage, housing, foster care maintenance payments and case management services to the participating individual. A court is required to review the agreement annually and determine whether the provided services are appropriate for the young adult.

Individual development accounts allow eligible individuals and families to obtain federal and state matching money for certain purposes, including education, homeownership or repair and starting or expanding a business. Senate Bill 95 (Chapter 225) amends the Individual Development Account Act to allow refugees, asylees or other persons legally present in the United States to obtain individual development accounts. It also allows program administrators to expend no more than 12% of allocated funds for administrative costs. The qualifications for membership on the Individual Development Account Council are defined and ensure that at least one member represents a rural area. Also, the allowable uses of money are expanded to include car repairs and home purchases by persons not first-time buyers.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Of the 25 joint resolutions proposing amendments to the Constitution of New Mexico that were introduced this session, only one passed both houses and will appear on the November 2020 ballot. The LCS publishes an analysis of and arguments for and against proposed constitutional amendments prior to any election in which they appear. The next publication, titled Summary of and Arguments For and Against the Constitutional Amendments Proposed by the Legislature in 2019 and 2020, will be released by the LCS in the summer of 2020.

Currently, the PRC consists of five commissioners elected from districts who serve for staggered four-year terms. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Rules Committee Substitute for Senate Joint Resolutions 1 and 4 (C.A. 1) proposes to amend Article 11, Section 1 of the Constitution of New Mexico to make the PRC a three-member commission whose members would be appointed for six-year terms by the governor, with the consent of the senate, from a list of nominees submitted to the governor by the PRC Nominating Committee. The proposed amendment would also amend Article 11, Section 2 of the Constitution of New Mexico to narrow the scope of the PRC's constitutionally granted regulatory powers to public utilities, while still allowing the legislature to assign responsibility for the regulation of other public service companies to the PRC by law.

CORRECTIONS

This session saw the legislature debate and pass laws related to corrections that consider the unique circumstances and concerns of the inmate population. Of the two bills enacted into law, one bill considers some of the important needs of female inmates, while the other changes New Mexico's approach to the use of solitary confinement for certain inmates, including pregnant women.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 124 (Chapter 71) requires correctional facilities to develop and implement breastfeeding and lactation policies for lactating female inmates.

House Floor Substitute for House Bill 364 (Chapter 194) limits the use of solitary confinement, also known as restricted housing, for certain inmates in any jail, prison or other detention facility that is used for the confinement of adult or juvenile persons, whether operated by the state, a political subdivision of the state or a private contractor. Restricted housing is prohibited entirely for persons younger than age 18 or who are pregnant, and the bill sets limits on the use of restricted housing for inmates with serious mental disabilities. Each detention facility must provide a quarterly report on the use of restricted housing to either the board of county commissioners where the detention facility is located if the facility is a jail or to the legislature if the facility is a prison. Finally, private correctional facilities must provide to the board of county commissioners where the facility is located and to the legislature a quarterly report of all monetary settlements paid to current or former inmates or their estates.

COURTS

Regarding courts, the 2019 session saw the legislature pass bills that ranged in scope from judicial education to appellate and original jurisdiction to the creation of a fund for the use of temporary judges.

Judicial education is an important aspect of ensuring that judges receive continuing legal education. The Judicial Education Center at the University of New Mexico School of Law provides education, training and instruction to all of the state's judges. With Senate Bill 313 (Chapter 183), the Judicial Education Center may now provide education to tribal judges within the state.

New Mexico voters approved Constitutional Amendment 1 in November 2018, which provided, among other changes, that appeals of final judgments of probate or other inferior courts may be appealed as provided by law. Pursuant to this new constitutional authority, House Bill 279 (Chapter 281) specifies that appeals of judgments rendered by a metropolitan court will be heard by the court of appeals. Prior to the enactment of this law, appeals from a metropolitan court were heard by the district court of the county in which the court sits.

With the enactment of Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 173 (Chapter 246), the legislature changed the procedure for municipalities to transfer jurisdiction over municipal ordinances from municipal court to the nearest magistrate court, subject to New Mexico Supreme Court approval.

The judiciary has a need for pro tempore (temporary) judges that fluctuates from year to year. To address this, Senate Bill 197 (Chapter 37) creates a nonreverting Judge Pro Tempore Fund under the direction of the Administrative Office of the Courts to pay pro tempore judges.

Senate Bill 198 (Chapter 38) specifically authorizes the director of the Administrative Office of the Courts to apply for and receive private or public funding, including federal funding, to carry out the programs, duties or services of the office.

The guardianship and conservatorship provisions of the Uniform Probate Code underwent significant revision in the 2018 legislative session. Senate Bill 395 (Chapter 228) makes additional revisions to the Uniform Probate Code, including priorities for the appointment of guardians and conservators; definition and certification of professional guardians and conservators; participation by incapacitated and protected persons in hearings for the appointment of guardians and conservators; requiring a guardian ad litem to file a report prior to a hearing on the appointment of a guardian; requiring a report by a court-appointed qualified health care professional and visitor prior to a hearing on the appointment of a conservator; filing of annual reports by guardians and conservators; confidentiality of reports; penalties for late-filed annual reports; procedures for terminating a guardianship or conservatorship; and provisions for the appointment of a court investigator and filing grievances against a guardian or conservator.

When an incarcerated person is considered for release or bond and in the computation of good time credit, Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 192 (Chapter 73) requires judges to take into consideration whether a female inmate is pregnant or lactating. If a pregnant or lactating inmate is temporarily released, she may be kept in the custody of the Corrections Department or released into the community on the least-restrictive conditions that would ensure return to custody. The consideration of conditions of release is weighed against effectively returning the person to custody when necessary.

CRIMINAL LAW

It was a busy session for criminal justice reform, with two criminal justice reform packages making their way through the legislature and to the governor for her consideration, with one being signed and the other vetoed. In addition to the criminal justice reform package, bills became law creating a statewide criminal justice data network, removing prostitution as a delinquent act, helping convicts reenter society, creating a new crime for driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs with a minor in the vehicle and regulating the sale and use of firearms.

In House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 342 (Chapter 211), the legislature implements many criminal justice reform initiatives, which include: (1) providing assistance to criminal offenders with behavioral health diagnoses; (2) providing immunity to probationers and parolees who report a person experiencing an alcohol or drug overdose; (3) providing procedures for post-conviction consideration of DNA evidence; (4) expanding prosecutors' discretion in preprosecution diversion programs; (5) eliminating the imposition of parole for those sentenced to imprisonment for one year or less; (6) expanding the eligibility for crime victims to receive reparations; (7) requiring law enforcement agencies that conduct eyewitness identifications to adopt and comply with written policies that must be sent to the DPS and made public; and (8) requiring the New Mexico Sentencing Commission to provide fiscal impact statements for certain crime bills.

The New Mexico Sentencing Commission is charged with many responsibilities, and with the passage and signing of House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 267 (Chapter 192), it can count the creation and maintenance of a statewide criminal data-sharing network among them. The commission is charged with providing data analysis to criminal justice agencies and promulgating rules to fulfill its new missions. In addition, the DPS is required to collect biometric identifying information to streamline the identification of an individual upon arrest and to assist prosecutors, defense attorneys and the courts in effectively tracking and maintaining records of individuals in the criminal justice system. Finally, the bill creates the Crime Reduction Grant Act, which allows certain state agencies to provide funds to criminal justice coordinating councils that exist in each judicial district.

The state's criminal statutes apply to children but do not necessarily impose the same sanctions as they do for adults. In House Bill 56 (Chapter 101), the legislature eliminates prostitution as a delinquent act and provides that a child age 18 or younger alleged to be engaged in prostitution or a victim of human trafficking receive family services by intervention of the court. Also, the bill requires law enforcement to take a child into protective custody if an officer has reasonable grounds to believe the child is engaged in prostitution or is a victim of human trafficking, and the CYFD must refer the child to community-based services and may place the child in the community if such placement is best for the child. This bill is one attempt to tackle the problem of human trafficking in New Mexico.

To help individuals who have served their time to reenter society, the legislature passed and the governor signed Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 96 (Chapter 176), otherwise known as "ban the box". This bill prohibits employers using written or electronic employment applications from inquiring on the application whether the applicant has been arrested or convicted of a crime. Significantly, this bill does not prohibit employers from considering the applicant's criminal history after review of the application nor from disqualifying the applicant from certain positions. The bill also provides that if an applicant believes a potential employer violated the prohibition, the applicant can attempt to seek relief under the Human Rights Act.

Concurrent legislative jurisdiction allows the federal government to have regulatory and enforcement authority over land owned by the state, and over the past 25 years, this jurisdiction has been granted to the federal government with respect to criminal matters over 12 units of the national park system in New Mexico. With the passage of Senate Joint Resolution 3, concurrent legislative jurisdiction is additionally granted to the federal government over Petroglyph National Monument and the Valles Caldera National Preserve, allowing the federal government to share law enforcement workload and responsibilities with local and state officers over these lands.

Bills introduced to decriminalize and regulate the sale of recreational marijuana failed to pass both houses. However, Senate Bill 323 (Chapter 217) reduces the penalty for possession of up to one-half ounce of marijuana from a petty misdemeanor to a noncriminal penalty assessment of $50.00, and it also reduces the penalty for possession of drug paraphernalia without intent to distribute from a misdemeanor to the same noncriminal penalty assessment of $50.00. Finally, the bill establishes the procedures for imposing and enforcing the penalty assessment.

Testimony before the interim Courts, Corrections and Justice Committee has indicated that the inability to obtain gainful employment is a significant factor in criminal recidivism. Further, an applicant's criminal record often deters hiring. House Bill 370 (Chapter 203) attempts to improve access to jobs by limiting access to criminal records. Under certain circumstances and subject to certain exceptions, the bill allows a person who is a victim of identity theft, who has been released without conviction or who has completed a sentence for certain crimes to petition a district court for an order to prohibit the release of arrest and other public records relating to the criminal matter. Additionally, the bill establishes factors that the court must consider in determining whether to grant the petition.

Numerous changes are made to the Forfeiture Act in House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 312 (Chapter 133), including clarifying that abandoned property is not subject to the act and allowing agencies to recover certain costs related to storage and disposal of forfeited property rather than directing all proceeds of sales to the General Fund. Animals and real or personal property located on that real property under circumstances that involve public health and safety are no longer subject to forfeiture, and the bill also prohibits forfeiture based on liens for charges or assessments provided for or fixed by state or local laws. Finally, the revisions include clarifying the rights and duties of innocent owners and for criminal defendants seeking to use property to pay for legal representation and permitting a court to consider the nonmonetary impact of forfeiture on a defendant.

Driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs has long been a crime in New Mexico. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 517 (Chapter 79) creates a new crime of driving a vehicle while intoxicated with a minor under the age of 13 in the vehicle when the minor does not suffer great bodily harm or death. A person who violates this new law is guilty of a misdemeanor that is punished as an offense separate from and in addition to punishment pursuant to Section 66-8-102 NMSA 1978, which is the statute that lists driving while intoxicated offenses and penalties.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 328 (Chapter 253) has the purpose of preventing the possession of firearms by certain persons associated with domestic violence. To do so, the bill makes firearm possession unlawful for a person who is subject to an order of protection pursuant to the Family Violence Protection Act or a person convicted of misdemeanor battery against a household member, misdemeanor criminal damage to property of a household member, a first offense of stalking or certain federal prohibitions against possession of a firearm. Felony-level punishment is continued for prior felons in possession of a firearm, and a misdemeanor punishment is added for other persons unlawfully possessing a firearm. When issuing orders of protection against a restrained person, courts are now provided with the authority to order the restrained person to relinquish firearms in the person's possession to a law enforcement agency or to a federal firearms licensee and to refrain from possessing a firearm while the order is in effect. Additionally, detailed procedures are provided for the handling and return or disposition of a relinquished firearm by a law enforcement agency. The bill contains a detailed list of the provisions of an order of protection relating to the relinquishment of firearms and prohibits evidence of firearm ownership or possession from being used in any criminal proceeding.

One of the more contentious and hotly debated issues in recent legislative sessions has been the issue of background checks when purchasing firearms. Senate Bill 8 (Chapter 45) prohibits a person who does not hold a current and valid federal firearms license from selling a firearm without arranging for a federal instant background check unless the sale is: (1) to a person who holds a current and valid federal firearms license; (2) to a law enforcement agency; (3) between two law enforcement officers authorized to carry a firearm and certified pursuant to federal law or the Law Enforcement Training Act; or (4) between two immediate family members. Excluded from the definition of "firearm" are antique firearms, construction tools, emergency flares and firearms in a permanently inoperable condition. A federal firearms licensee shall not unreasonably refuse to perform a background check and may charge a fee not to exceed $35.00 for such a check. If there is a sale in violation of this restriction, each party to the sale is guilty of a misdemeanor, and each firearm sold constitutes a separate offense.

With the widespread use of electronic communications and the influx of private intermediary service providers who retain customer communication information on their servers, how to translate the application of constitutional protections for paper communications was not always apparent. In Senate Bill 199 (Chapter 39), the Electronic Communications Privacy Act places private electronic communications on an equal footing with traditional paper mail. Under the act, a government agency: (1) may only access an individual's electronic communications pursuant to judicial orders or in specified emergency situations; (2) must promptly inform that individual about the time frame covered in the disclosure and the justification for the access; and (3) unless granted an extension by a subsequent judicial order, must destroy the information it obtains within 30 days if the information was obtained without the individual's consent or within 90 days if the information was obtained with the individual's consent.

CULTURAL AFFAIRS

The 2019 session saw numerous bills introduced that related to cultural affairs. Ultimately, five laws were enacted, which spanned the spectrum from creating an annual day of recognition to providing additional funding for rural libraries across the state.

The New Mexico Museum of Space History Commission provides direction and support in maintaining and operating the Museum of Space History. Senate Bill 433 (Chapter 78) revises the membership requirements for members of the commission by directing the governor to appoint geographically diverse members who are proficient in the scientific study of space, museums or other relevant subject areas.

Opened in 2007 on the State Fairgrounds, the African American Performing Arts Center and Exhibit Hall consists of an art gallery, theater and classroom to promote, support and sponsor programming in the arts and sciences that advances the research and preservation of the contributions of African Americans to culture and history. However, the center has faced administrative challenges due to confusion regarding the role of the New Mexico State Fair in its maintenance. House Bill 158 (Chapter 82) clarifies this by requiring the State Fair Commission to annually request funding for the center and provide staff to support its operations and maintenance. It also creates an African American Performing Arts Center Advisory Committee to advise center staff and its foundation regarding staffing, operations, maintenance, programming and exhibitions.

Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Bill 264 (Chapter 165) creates the Rural Libraries Endowment Fund as a permanent fund to support the preservation, development and establishment of rural libraries throughout the state, including operational and capital needs and the delivery of specialized services. Beginning July 1, 2022, no more than 5% of the year-end market value of the endowment fund may be distributed by the state librarian for developing and established rural libraries, 95% for grants and 5% for the provision of specialized services. Rural libraries are defined in the bill as libraries established by a political subdivision, tribal government or tax-exempt organization that are located in a municipality or census-designated place with a population of 3,000 or less or in an unincorporated area of the state.

The legislature recognized one of the state's most celebrated authors in Senate Bill 270 (Chapter 166) by creating "Rudolfo Anaya I Love to Read Day" to be held annually on October 30 to celebrate Rudolfo Anaya's life and the contributions he has made to New Mexico's culture and literature and to celebrate and encourage reading and literacy.

House Bill 27 (Chapter 231) requires the Local Government Division of the Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) to conduct an analysis and feasibility study of the siting, planning, design and construction of a library and multi-use complex for the residents of Chaparral, which study will assess the community needs that can be met by the construction of the library and multi-use complex.

EDUCATION

2018 and 2019 have been watershed years in New Mexico public education. On July 20, 2018, in the consolidated cases Martinez, et al v. State of New Mexico and Yazzie, et al v. State of New Mexico (informally known as Yazzie/Martinez), the First Judicial District Court found that the state's public education system violates Article 12, Section 1 of the Constitution of New Mexico, which requires that "[a] uniform system of free public schools sufficient for the education of, and open to, all the children of school age in the state shall be established and maintained". The court found, in particular, that the state had provided insufficient resources to "at-risk students", the term the court used to include "children who come from economically disadvantaged homes, children who are English language learners, children who are Native American and children with a disability". The state was given until April 15, 2019 "to ensure that New Mexico schools have the resources necessary to give at-risk students the opportunity to obtain a uniform and sufficient education that prepares them for college and career".

There were 10 bills introduced that were initiated by the plaintiffs' attorneys. The proposals presented, if all had passed, would have cost over $1 billion. Critics of the proposed price tag expressed concern that the system could not handle such a cash infusion in a single year and pointed to over 1,000 vacancies statewide in teacher and instructional support provider positions. In the end, only one of the Yazzie/Martinez bills passed, as did several memorials on the topic. However, the other bills were not necessarily ignored. In fact, the GAA adds funding for pre-k and teacher and other school employee raises. The PED receives $2 million for community school initiatives, $1 million for indigenous education initiatives and $2.5 million for bilingual and multicultural education support. Additionally, part of the PED's pre-k funding is to continue the extended-day pre-k pilot project during the 2019-2020 school year.

A variety of other education-related legislation became law, including bills that address truancy, create a dyslexia screening program, make changes to the School Personnel Act, permit the use of medical cannabis at schools, augment career-technical education programs, create a new school accountability system, allow for armed school security personnel and establish bullying prevention programs.

Public Schools

House Bill 111 (Chapter 200) is the only bill initiated by the Yazzie/Martinez plaintiffs' attorneys that passed, and it provides for culturally and linguistically responsive technical assistance and professional development for teachers and educational assistants and other instructional support staff who teach or otherwise interact with culturally and linguistically diverse student populations. The law sets out how all regional education cooperatives that are interested in being providers must join together and submit one application to the PED for funding. Then, one regional education cooperative will provide the coordination, financial accounting and disbursement of funding received from the PED to all participating cooperatives. Technical assistance and professional development programs must be aligned with state academic content standards, benchmarks and performance standards for bilingual multicultural education, and the law sets out other requirements concerning best practices for teaching language acquisition, language revitalization and differentiated language instruction.

House Bill 5 (Chapter 207, p.v.) and Senate Bill 1 (Chapter 206, p.v.) are nearly identical bills that change the public school funding formula partly in response to Yazzie/Martinez. The bills do the following:

- ◆ make the upper age limit in the definition of "school-age person" 22 for all adults, not just developmentally disabled individuals;
- ◆ convert K-5 Plus from a pilot project to a permanent program and put in a K-5 Plus formula factor of 0.3;
- ◆ require educational plans for all school districts and charter schools and specify certain provisions that must be included in those plans;
- ◆ require that the PED not fund any school program that does not meet statutory requirements and department rules or procedures or approve any operating budget that fails to provide sufficient data to determine if the program meets those requirements;
- ◆ include a factor for extended learning time;
- ◆ make adjustments to size adjustment program units, including the creation of a rural population rate;
- ◆ increase the at-risk index from 0.125 to 0.25;
- ◆ allow additional program units for extended learning time, which includes a minimum of 190 instructional days per school year, with at least five and one-half instructional hours per school day for kindergarten through sixth grade and at least six instructional hours per school day for seventh through twelfth grades; after-school program opportunities for academic learning or extracurricular enrichment; and a minimum of 80 non-instructional hours per school year for professional development for instructional staff;

- ◆ create the Public Education Reform Fund, which will be used to implement evidence-based public education initiatives related to high-quality teaching and school leadership, extended learning opportunities for students, educational interventions for at-risk students, effective and efficient school administration or promoting public education accountability;
- ◆ increase the statutory minimum salaries for teachers and school administrators; and
- ◆ repeal the K-3 Plus Program. See Appendix B for GAA funding for these bills.

In an effort to comply with the Yazzie/Martinez decision, House Bill 589 (Chapter 198) amends the Community Schools Act. The purpose section was amended to ensure that student needs include cultural and linguistic needs of the whole student from early childhood programs and voluntary pre-k through high school graduation. "Community school" is defined as a public school that partners with families and the community, including tribal partners, nonprofit community-based organizations and local businesses, to provide well-rounded educational opportunities and supports for student success. The act requires the development of a community school framework that includes: (1) integrated student supports that address non-academic and out-of-school barriers to learning, e.g., access to health care, case management services and family stability supports that are culturally and linguistically responsive to the needs of students and their families; (2) expanded and enriched learning time and opportunities that include before- and after-school, weekend, summer and year-round programs; (3) active family and community engagement; and (4) collaborative leadership and practices that build a culture of professional learning, collective trust and shared responsibility. The framework may include other items such as public pre-k and other early childhood services. A community school initiative may be created in any public school and may be created as a consortium of public schools, and the PED is authorized to provide grants to eligible applicants.

Senate Education Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 329 (Chapter 174) falls in line with the Yazzie/Martinez finding that public schools must be culturally and linguistically responsive to their students. This bill requires the PED, school districts, charter schools and charter school authorizers to consult with tribal leaders, tribal members and families of students when considering opening or closing a public school on tribal land. Additionally, the bill requires that the school board and superintendent or governing body and head administrator of the charter school discuss factors to improve educational outcomes for Indian students and professional development focused on cultural and linguistic responsiveness to students.

House Bill 250 (Chapter 16) includes provisions intended to benefit Native American students. The bill amends the Indian Education Act to require needs assessments to determine what services that historically defined Indian school districts need to provide to Indian students to help them graduate with a diploma of excellence and be prepared to enter post-secondary education or the workplace. It requires a systemic framework that focuses on measures to close the achievement gap between Indian and all other student groups in the state, including programs, services, culturally relevant activities and professional development that need to be provided to improve Indian education in the state. School districts, defined to include charter schools, must meet with their local tribes to prioritize the needs to be addressed, and they are required to make meeting the needs of Indian students and closing the achievement gap a priority in their school district budgets. They also must develop an accountability tool that measures public school efforts pursuant to the systemic framework and the success or failure of those efforts. The framework is not just school-based but includes family and community needs as well to ensure Indian student success.

Other bills enacted into law address the adverse effects that specific problems, such as truancy, can have on a student's educational success. This year, after two other attempts, the Compulsory School Attendance Law rewrite, enacted as the Attendance for Success Act, passed. House Bill 236 (Chapter 223) requires public schools to develop an attendance improvement plan, which is a tiered data-informed system for identifying students who are chronically or excessively absent and for aiding public schools in developing whole-school prevention strategies and targeted interventions. The law details progressive interventions for absent, chronically absent and excessively absent students. If school interventions fail, the student is referred to the probation services office of the judicial district in which the student resides for an investigation as to whether the student should be considered a neglected child or child in a family in need of family services.

Senate Bill 398 (Chapter 256) requires early screening and intervention for students who display characteristics of dyslexia. Beginning with the 2019-2020 and 2020-2021 school years and then continuing each year, all first grade students will be screened for dyslexia. If the screening demonstrates characteristics of dyslexia, the student will receive appropriate classroom interventions or be referred to a student assistance team. Each school district and charter school is required to provide timely, appropriate, systematic, scientific and evidence-based interventions that comport with PED response to intervention procedures, guidelines and policies, and they also must develop and implement a literacy professional development plan that includes a detailed framework for structured literacy training for all elementary teachers and for training in evidence-based reading intervention for reading interventionists and special education teachers.

While several bills address issues specifically targeted to achieve improved student outcomes, others make broad changes to the School Personnel Act. House Labor, Veterans' and Military Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 431 (Chapter 238) rewrites provisions of that act, including those primarily concerning discharge of licensed and unlicensed school employees in public schools, constitutional special schools (the New Mexico Military Institute, New Mexico School for the Deaf and New Mexico School for the Blind and Visually Impaired), regional education cooperatives and state institutions that educate resident school-age children. Throughout the School Personnel Act, the bill standardizes terminology and also amends the definition of "ethical misconduct", which now "includes unlawful discriminatory practice; sexual harassment, sexual assault or sexual abuse involving an adult or child, regardless of a child's enrollment status; and behavior intended to induce a child into engaging in illegal, immoral or other prohibited behavior". The law clarifies that once a third contract is offered and accepted, a licensed school employee has been employed for three consecutive school years. It also requires that a superintendent must report ethical misconduct of a licensed school employee to the PED and, if the allegation against any school employee involves sexual assault or sexual abuse, to the appropriate law enforcement agency and makes clear that no agreement between a departing school employee and the governing authority or superintendent diminishes or eliminates the responsibility of investigating and reporting the alleged ethical misconduct to the PED or law enforcement.

In an effort to reduce the probationary period for nonlicensed school employees and licensed educational assistants, House Bill 47 (Chapter 232) amends the School Personnel Act to decrease the probationary period for these employees to one year. School boards or governing authorities would still be allowed to terminate a licensed educational assistant for any reason prior to the completion of the first year of employment, but after completing a year of employment, a licensed educational assistant can only be terminated by a showing of just cause and has the opportunity to speak to the school board about the termination decision.

Expanding the requirements for a level two teaching license, House Bill 240 (Chapter 191) amends the School Personnel Act to allow an applicant's years of teaching service on an alternative level one license to count toward an applicant receiving a level two teaching license. The PED is now required to issue a level two license to an applicant who successfully has taught at least three, but no more than five, years as a level one teacher or an alternative level one teacher, or a combination of the two, or who is granted reciprocity as provided by PED rules.

Senate Bill 593 (Chapter 80) changes school administrator reciprocity requirements. While New Mexico school principals and other administrators will continue to need teaching experience to receive a level three-B license, a person licensed as a school administrator in another state that does not have such a provision may be licensed through reciprocity if that person has worked as a school administrator in good standing for at least six years.

Everyone gets sick, but now teachers statewide can breathe a sigh of relief that their use of personal and sick leave will not count against them in teacher evaluations. In House Bill 227 (Chapter 12), teachers are now allowed to use personal leave and up to 10 days of sick leave without attendance affecting their annual performance evaluations. However, if a teacher's use of leave is inconsistent with school board or charter school governing body policy, the teacher's attendance portion of the annual performance evaluation may reflect the lowest score possible.

Students in public and charter schools will now be able to use medical cannabis at school through the passage of Senate Bill 204 (Chapter 261). School boards and charter school governing bodies are required to adopt policies and procedures to authorize the possession, storage and administration of medical cannabis on school grounds, which policies and procedures must state that: (1) the student shall not possess, store or self-administer the medical cannabis in a school setting; (2) the administration of the medical cannabis by a parent, legal guardian or designated school personnel shall not disrupt other students' educational environment; (3) the parent or legal guardian and the school principal or the principal's designee shall sign a written treatment plan; and (4) the school shall obtain and maintain a copy of the student's certification for medical cannabis and obtain a statement from the parent or legal guardian that absolves the school from liability for proper use of the medication. A public school, school district or charter school may choose to opt out of allowing medical cannabis in a school if it is shown that the use of medical cannabis would result in a loss of federal funding, although parents may appeal this decision in district court. In addition, the bill removes criminal and civil liability for the use of medical cannabis on school premises or buses or other public vehicles.

The legislature also focused its attention on bills pertaining to school credits, career-technical education courses and alternatives for adults who have not graduated from high school. Students who transfer to another public school receive credit for completed course work even if a grading period has not occurred pursuant to Senate Bill 341 (Chapter 218).

Vocational education, more recently referred to as career-technical education, has seen increased emphasis as there is a recognition that not all students want or need to go to college. House Bill 44 (Chapter 2) requires that professional development for career-technical teachers and educational assistants be given the same importance as professional development for teachers of academic courses for college-bound students. The PED is required to develop a systemic framework for career-technical professional development that provides training to ensure quality teachers, educational assistants and school principals and that improves and enhances student achievement. The framework must include guidelines for integrating career-technical educational content into academic instructional practices, including training on best practices to understand state and regional workforce needs and transitions to post-secondary education and the workforce. The PED and school districts are instructed to use all available funding sources, including federal Every Student Succeeds Act Title 2 funding, to provide the professional development to career-technical teachers and educational assistants.

A companion bill to House Bill 44, House Bill 91 (Chapter 61) creates a seven-year career-technical education pilot project to be administered by the PED to fund high-quality career-technical education programs and monitor their effect on student outcomes, including achievement scores, academic growth, remediation rates and graduation rates. Working with the Higher Education Department and the Workforce Solutions Department, the PED will develop measures to determine what constitutes a high-quality career-technical education program and what students should know and be able to demonstrate to an employer or to succeed in a post-secondary career-technical program.

In an effort to increase high school graduation and interest in career-technical education, House Education Committee Substitute for House Bill 664 (Chapter 148) allows high school students to take career-technical education courses or participate in work-based training programs in lieu of taking one required unit of English and one required unit of science needed for high school graduation. However, the career-technical education courses or work-based learning programs must satisfy state English, math and science academic content and performance standards.

Current law is amended in Senate Bill 576 (Chapter 59) to remove the limitation that required the establishment of an area vocational high school only on the campus of a public post-secondary educational institution, which allows school districts to create vocational high schools in areas that do not have a public post-secondary educational institution or that do not have such an institution that seeks to have a vocational high school on its campus.

Senate Education Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 391 (Chapter 185) provides an alternative to equivalency certificates, which sometimes are viewed as not equal to a high school diploma. It requires the PED to authorize a diploma program for adults who have not graduated from high school and who want a program that: (1) documents their educational attainment through college and career readiness standards; (2) assesses high-school-level skills in applied life and work contexts; and (3) prepares them to enter college or the workforce, upgrade their skills, advance to a better job or move from one field of work to another. The diploma will be awarded by the PED.

Providing large-scale changes to the manner in which New Mexico's schools are evaluated, Senate Bill 229 (Chapter 249) enacts the School Support and Accountability Act and repeals the A-B-C-D-F Schools Rating Act. The PED, in consultation with school districts, charter schools, school personnel, tribes and the Legislative Education Study Committee, will create the support and accountability system, which must differentiate Title 1 support to public schools using the metrics provided in the act to assign for each public school a designation of targeted support, comprehensive support or more rigorous intervention to comply with the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. Academic achievement indicators include student proficiency on the New Mexico standards-based assessments; student growth; progress of English language learners toward language proficiency; four-, five- and six-year adjusted cohort graduation rates; and school quality and student success indicators that are valid, reliable, comparable and statewide, including chronic absenteeism, college, career and civic readiness and the school's "educational climate". Each public school must use the PED's dashboard platform to report school and cumulative student information on a variety of indicators to school stakeholders and local and state policymakers. The PED is required to ensure that school boards prioritize the resources of a public school that has received a designation of targeted support, comprehensive support or more rigorous intervention toward improving student performance using evidence-based programming and a continuous improvement plan until the school is no longer so designated.

New Mexico has had two brushes with school shootings, one in Aztec in 2017 and the other in Rio Rancho this year. In response, House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 129 (Chapter 189) authorizes the hiring and training of armed public school security personnel. The bill provides that only the school board or the governing body of a charter school may authorize school security personnel to carry firearms on school premises, and these personnel cannot perform any other job in the school district, by title or duty, other than school security while carrying a firearm. School security personnel must come from the ranks of former certified and commissioned law enforcement officers and must be employees of the school district or charter school. Prior to being allowed to carry firearms, they must successfully pass a physical and psychological evaluation to determine suitability to carry a firearm. The PED and the Public School Insurance Authority will work together to approve one or more school security personnel and firearms training programs, which must include training on working with students with special needs, cultural competency and prohibited profiling practices. The bill makes clear that school security personnel are not the same as school resource officers, who are commissioned law enforcement officers who work in the public schools.

All schools in New Mexico, public and private, are required to perform a variety of emergency drills over the course of the school year. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 147 (Chapter 158) specifies that each school must conduct evacuation drills, fire drills and shelter in place drills to respond to an active shooter.

The Safe Schools for All Students Act, which is enacted in Senate Bill 288 (Chapter 181), is a concerted effort to make schools safer for students by addressing the problem of bullying, including cyberbullying, in public schools and among students. By January 2020, every school board must adopt bullying prevention policies, which are delineated in the act, and the means to enforce those policies, and the policies and procedures are required to be published in student handbooks using developmentally and culturally appropriate language. Each public school must establish annual bullying prevention programs, provide annual training to all employees and volunteers who have significant contact with students and incorporate the policies into new employee training.

While school safety is the subject of several bills in the 2019 legislative session, the legislature also examined methods to improve monitoring of student safety outside of school to prevent child abuse and neglect. A problem with inadequate reporting involved the murder of a 13-year-old child who had not been enrolled in a public school for seven months. House Bill 447 (Chapter 195) requires that the PED and the CYFD work together to convene a task force to develop a system to track children moving between public schools and CYFD services. The task force must report to the Legislative Education Study Committee by December 1, 2019 on its system design and recommendations for implementing the tracking system. The law requires public schools to assign a unique student identification number to each student, which could be cross-checked with the uniform case number required for neglected and abused children and any other identification numbers used by the CYFD. The student identification number cannot be reused for or assigned to any other student and must be used on all forms, student records, transcripts and databases in which a student is identified by name. Every school district and charter school in the state is responsible for determining if a student has ever enrolled previously in a public school in New Mexico and must use the original student identification number.

Public School Capital Outlay

Two bills pertaining to public school capital outlay became law. Senate Bill 230 (Chapter 179) makes changes to the Public School Capital Outlay Act to provide for a pre-k classroom facilities initiative to support the expansion of public pre-k. Senate Bill 231 (Chapter 180) makes technical corrections to the Public School Capital Outlay Act, which mostly involve the state and local match formula calculation that determines the portion of project costs school districts and charter schools must pay for Public School Capital Outlay Council-funded projects. See Appendix C for other capital outlay projects for public schools provided in the capital outlay bill.

Post-Secondary Education

For years, the legislature has attempted to provide opportunities for people to better themselves and their lives with higher education. This year, the state took a variety of steps to achieve that goal. New schools and off-campus instruction sites are now approved, which will allow for communities to have increased access and outreach that had not previously existed. Perhaps the most significant changes in higher education in 2019 are various incentives to give a number of people access to higher education either by paying for that education or through loan forgiveness.

House Bill 20 (Chapter 230) enacts the Grow Your Own Teachers Act, a scholarship program for educational assistants who want to become teachers, as a way to fill the multitude of teacher vacancies throughout the public school system. In addition to providing need-based scholarships of up to $6,000 per year for tuition, fees, books and course supplies, the act requires public school employers to provide professional leave for college classes, examinations and practice teaching as needed. The act also provides for distance education courses, if necessary.

House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 275 (Chapter 193) provides two more options to recruit and retain teachers. The first option substantially changes the Teacher Loan Repayment Act to focus on high-need teachers, who are defined as those who are endorsed and teach bilingual education, special education, early childhood education, science, technology, engineering and mathematics or career-technical education courses; or for teachers who are minorities, who teach in low-performing schools or who serve a high percentage of economically disadvantaged students. Awards are also available for other teachers based on a variety of factors. The intent is to take the place of the Teacher Loan for Service Act, which has had few participants and a high default rate. Awards may be up to $6,000 per year. The other option is a new Teacher Preparation Affordability Act, a teacher education needs-based scholarship program that is modeled on the College Affordability Act. Like the teacher loan repayment program, scholarships are worth up to $6,000. Scholarships may be used to pay the cost of attendance at the school.

Creating new requirements for public post-secondary educational institutions, House Bill 420 (Chapter 139) mandates that these institutions accept student scores of three or higher on advanced placement tests for the tests to count for course credit in a corresponding course beginning with the 2019-2020 academic year. If no corresponding course exists, the institution may provide elective course credit. Each public post-secondary educational institution may require higher scores if the school's chief academic officer provides evidence-based research explaining why this is necessary, and each institution is required to publish an updated course-granting policy on its website before the beginning of the 2019-2020 academic year. The Higher Education Department will collect each course-granting policy and report its findings to the legislature and the governor.

Another scholarship program, this one for adults returning to school, is the College Affordability Act. House Bill 127 (Chapter 56) increases the value of this needs-based scholarship from $1,000 to $1,500 per semester and also increases the annual distribution from the College Affordability Endowment Fund to the College Affordability Scholarship Fund from $2 million to $3 million. In past years, the legislature used the endowment fund to meet current government expenses; this year, it appropriated $20 million for the endowment fund in the GAA.

As a state with a significant rural population, New Mexico has implemented many programs to encourage and support health care professionals working in areas where there is a shortage of those professionals. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 21 (Chapter 68) creates a loan repayment program for osteopathic primary care physicians licensed in New Mexico who provide medical services in areas of the state that the Higher Education Department designates as underserved.

"Centers of Excellence" are established in four of the state's institutions of higher learning through House Bill 7 (Chapter 60) to develop and promote innovation in and expand the following industries: the New Mexico Bioscience Authority within the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center for the bioscience industries; New Mexico State University for agricultural industries; the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology for cybersecurity industries; and San Juan College for sustainable and renewable energy industries.

In addition, three bills passed this year that pertain to specific institutions. Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Bill 314 (Chapter 267) allows New Mexico State University to establish a university campus in San Luis Potosi, Mexico, although its board of regents cannot use state funds for capital investment or make financial contributions to private investors for the operation of the campus. Another bill, Senate Bill 431 (Chapter 77), allows Northern New Mexico College to administer a branch community college that one or more area school districts create to provide technical and vocational courses. Lastly, by providing an exception to the 20-year-old moratorium on most new creations of public post-secondary educational institutions, branch campuses or off-campus instructional centers, Senate Bill 163 (Chapter 178) authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of New Mexico to create an off-campus instructional center in Valencia County.

Expanding the variety of options that institutions have to further their causes, the College District Tax Act is amended by Senate Bill 322 (Chapter 252) to permit community and branch colleges and vocational and technical schools to enter into lease-purchase arrangements for educational technology. The expenses may be paid for through a property tax that may be imposed without voter approval, and the bill spells out the procedural steps that must be followed to enter into and pay for such lease-purchase arrangements. The process is similar to that provided in the Education Technology Equipment Act for school districts and charter schools. The annual debt service on lease-purchase arrangements, in combination with the college district's general obligation bonds, cannot exceed a specified cap.

The legislature passed bills to benefit varying groups of students. With the expansion of the scope of the Senior Citizens Reduced Tuition Act, House Bill 128 (Chapter 124) increases the amount of credit hours from six to 10 hours per semester to which the reduced tuition applies. The bill also amends the conditions of eligibility to require that a New Mexico resident age 65 or older who pays for and enrolls in a course at an eligible institution qualifies for the reduced tuition, and the number of credit hours a senior citizen may enroll in is no longer restricted.

Another group gaining improved access to higher education is foster children. Five years ago, the legislature passed a law that waived tuition and fees to state-operated universities, colleges and vocational schools for foster children. Now, with the passage of Senate Bill 251 (Chapter 163), it is easier for foster children to take advantage of this as certain restrictions are removed.

After numerous failed attempts over the years, Senate Bill 407 (Chapter 54) amends the Legislative Lottery Tuition Scholarship Act to make students who attend tribal colleges located in New Mexico eligible to receive lottery scholarships. Finally, Senate Bill 179 (Chapter 33) changes the definition of "qualified student" in the Legislative Lottery Tuition Scholarship Act to expand eligibility to a New Mexico resident who left the state to be educated elsewhere because of the student's disability.

ELECTIONS

Legislation on election issues was numerous this session and touched on almost every aspect of elections in the state. Addressing issues related to elections at the local level up to how the state allocates its presidential electoral college votes, several election bills were passed and signed into law.

Dubbed the "Election Laws 50-Year Tune-Up", House Bill 407 (Chapter 212) updates and revises the Election Code and other election-related provisions throughout the NMSA 1978. The bill standardizes election cycles, procedures and definitions used throughout all jurisdictions of the state, harmonizes changes that were made to the Local Election Act during the 2018 legislative session and conforms election procedures found outside of the Election Code with the provisions of the Election Code. The bill includes changes and additions regarding the election-related duties of the secretary of state; absentee voting and overseas military voting; recall elections; terms of office; nonpartisan judicial retention elections; primary elections, nominating petitions and candidate qualifications; precinct boundaries; election proclamations and ballots; election funding; special, municipal and bond election procedures; and requirements for the formation of certain special districts.

With the enactment of Senate Rules Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 672 (Chapter 67), a person may now register to vote, and voters may update their certificates of registration, at a county clerk's office or early voting site through the Saturday immediately preceding a statewide election. The bill also streamlines voter registration procedures for persons renewing their driver's licenses or applying for state benefit programs. Other provisions extend same-day registration to election day polling sites effective January 1, 2021.

Through amendments to the Campaign Reporting Act, enacted in Senate Bill 3 (Chapter 262), independent expenditures are defined and required to be reported. Certain advertisements purchased with a campaign, coordinated or independent expenditure must disclose the person, campaign or candidate that authorized and paid for the advertisement. Legislative caucus committees representing each party in each house of the legislature may be created and participate in campaigns in the same manner allowed for political committees. Additionally, the bill updates contribution limits, expenditure reporting requirements and the requirements to be registered as a political committee.

Public campaign financing for certified candidates running for any office of the judicial branch subject to statewide elections and the office of public regulation commissioner is provided through the Voter Action Act. Amending the Voter Action Act, Senate Bill 4 (Chapter 175) removes a requirement that a candidate must collect seed money in order to be eligible for public campaign financing and further allows a candidate to accept donations of up to $100 from individual donors during the election cycle and still qualify for public financing. Moreover, the bill restricts the uses of public financing funds and addresses the distribution of funds in contested and uncontested races.

The confidential substitute address program provides a process by which a victim of domestic violence may protect the confidentiality of the victim's residential and delivery addresses in public records. The Intimate Partner Violence Survivor Suffrage Act, enacted in Senate Bill 190 (Chapter 226), provides a procedure for a person participating in the confidential substitute address program to vote in statewide or special elections in a manner that is secure and that maintains confidentiality of the person's address and election-related communications.

The president of the United States is elected through a process of attaining a majority vote of electors of the electoral college. New Mexico currently has five electoral votes of the total 538 electoral votes nationwide, and New Mexico's electors have historically been appointed for the candidate receiving the majority vote within the state. House Bill 55 (Chapter 199) enters New Mexico into a multistate compact that would require the secretary of state to appoint electors for the candidate who receives the majority of the popular vote nationwide. For the compact to take effect, it must be adopted by enough states to constitute a majority of the electoral votes.

EMPLOYMENT AND LABOR

New laws passed in 2019 improve employees' lives by raising wages, providing sick leave to employees to care for an ill family member and ensuring certain protections. Legislators also looked toward the future by creating a training program for those interested in becoming farmers.

Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 437 (Chapter 114) increases the New Mexico minimum wage rates for the first time in 10 years. It does so by phasing in an increase in the state's regular minimum wage rate from the current $7.50 an hour to at least $12.00 an hour beginning January 1, 2023, with annual incremental increases for hourly rates during that period to at least $9.00 in 2020, at least $10.50 in 2021 and at least $11.00 in 2022. The bill also sets a reduced minimum wage rate of $8.50 an hour for an employer to pay secondary school students. Finally, the bill phases in an increase in the employer-paid portion of a minimum wage for employees who earn tips, from the current $2.13 an hour to $3.00 an hour beginning January 1, 2023. As the law currently provides, an employer must pay a tipped employee a wage that, when combined with tips, is at least equal to the prevailing minimum wage rate. Another exception to New Mexico's minimum wage laws that previously allowed employers to pay less than minimum wage to domestic workers working in private homes is removed by Senate Bill 85 (Chapter 242).

Private employers are not required to provide sick leave to employees. If, however, a private employer chooses to provide sick leave, Senate Bill 123 (Chapter 177) requires employers to allow employees to use that sick leave to care for sick family members on the same terms and conditions. The bill also requires the state to allow this for public employees.

At the federal level, it is illegal for an employer to discriminate on the basis of several protected categories, including sex. The United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission interprets this requirement to also include pregnancy, gender identity and sexual orientation. Senate Bill 227 (Chapter 96) aligns state law more closely with federal law by prohibiting employers from discriminating against any person based on sexual orientation or gender identity. Previously, this prohibition had been limited to employers with 15 or more employees; this bill applies the prohibition to all employers.

The National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) guarantees the rights of private sector employees to organize into unions, engage in collective bargaining and take collective action, and it preempts state law with respect to regulating private sector labor relations. However, the act specifically provides states the ability to regulate the application of union security agreements within a state's jurisdiction. House Bill 85 (Chapter 81) exercises this limited state jurisdiction under the NLRA, affirming that employers or labor organizations in New Mexico may execute and apply an agreement requiring membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment to the full extent allowed by federal law and preempting local laws to the contrary.

In recognition of New Mexico's dwindling agricultural workforce, House Bill 315 (Chapter 236) creates the New Mexico Agricultural Workforce Development Program to encourage agricultural businesses to create internship programs to train the next generation of New Mexico's agricultural industry. The program is administered by the NMDA, and qualifying agricultural businesses may be reimbursed up to 50% of their costs of participation.

ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

In this session's new environment and natural resources laws, the New Mexico Outdoor Recreation Division is created in the EDD, programs are developed to support healthy soils and forest and watershed restoration projects, produced water from oil and gas operations is specifically regulated and the Oil Conservation Division of the EMNRD is provided with greater tools and funding to carry out its duties and to enforce the Oil and Gas Act.

The EDD estimates that the outdoor recreation economy in New Mexico annually generates approximately $9 billion in revenue and $623 million in local and state taxes and employs approximately 100,000 New Mexicans. In recognition of the robustness of the outdoor recreation economy, Colorado, Utah and California have established offices of outdoor recreation to support and promote this industry. With the enactment of Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 462 (Chapter 117), New Mexico joins these other western states and creates the New Mexico Outdoor Recreation Division in the EDD to: (1) increase outdoor recreation-based economic development, tourism and ecotourism in the state; (2) recruit out-of-state-based outdoor recreation businesses to locate in New Mexico; (3) promote stewardship and preservation of New Mexico's unique environment and cultural assets; and (4) promote education about and the use of outdoor recreation assets to enhance public health. The division will work with relevant state agencies to carry out its duties, and an Outdoor Recreation Advisory Committee will advise the division. The bill additionally creates the Outdoor Equity Grant Program, administered by the New Mexico Youth Conservation Corps Commission, to provide competitive grants to counties, municipalities or other political subdivisions of the state, nonprofit organizations or Indian nations, tribes or pueblos to fund outdoor recreation programs, in whole or in part, for youth up to age 18.

The Healthy Soil Act, enacted in House Bill 204 (Chapter 126), creates the Healthy Soil Program in the NMDA to promote and support land management practices that increase soil organic matter, aggregate stability, microbiology and water retention to improve the health, yield and profitability of the state's soils. The program provides training and educational opportunities regarding soil health practices and stewardship, and eligible entities that have proven land management capacity to support healthy soil may be awarded grants to help producers and land managers advance soil health principles and implement methods that support soil health.

Enacting the Forest and Watershed Restoration Act, House Bill 266 (Chapter 62) establishes the Forest and Watershed Advisory Board to review and recommend to the Forestry Division of the EMNRD eligible forest and watershed projects for funding. A project is eligible for funding if it: (1) is part of certain forest or watershed plans; (2) incorporates actions recommended by current forest or watershed plans or seeks to integrate forest, fire and water management with community and economic development plans; (3) protects watersheds that are the source of drinking or irrigation water; (4) targets an area at high risk of catastrophic wildfire; or (5) if not a planning project, has obtained all requisite permits and authorizations necessary to initiate the project. The division will prioritize funding for projects that: (1) leverage funding from other sources; (2) are in an area where wood may be used for biomass, small-diameter trees may be used for other commercial uses or traditional forest products are produced; (3) are clustered around priority areas that can supply a useful amount of wood products for industry; or (4) create incentives to increase investment. Annually, the division will report to the legislature and governor on the division's activities pursuant to the Forest and Watershed Restoration Act, the projects implemented and any recommended legislation.

The Oil Conservation Division has jurisdiction over various types of applications related to the conservation of oil and gas. Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 553 (Chapter 260) imposes fees for such applications that are paid to the division. The fees are subject to appropriation to the division for specific purposes, including to develop and modernize the division's online application processing system, online case management system and case file systems and for other technological upgrades and hearing administration costs.

Enacting the Produced Water Act, House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Energy, Environment and Natural Resources Committee Substitute for House Bill 546 (Chapter 197) establishes what entity has control of and is responsible for produced water, including treated or recycled produced water, and requires the EMNRD to regulate its use in oil and gas operations, while leaving the regulation of produced water in all other circumstances to the Department of Environment. With this act, the enforcement provisions of the Oil and Gas Act are also amended to allow the Oil Conservation Commission to seek compliance and civil penalties through administrative processes in addition to going to court, and the civil penalties for violations of the Oil and Gas Act are increased.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

In regard to the financial institutions industry, the legislature passed three bills, two of which involve lending provisions and one that makes technical amendments. House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Commerce and Economic Development Committee Substitute for House Bill 150 (Chapter 201) amends the New Mexico Bank Installment Loan Act of 1959 and the New Mexico Small Loan Act of 1955 to: (1) clarify certain consumer protections; (2) specify penalties if an installment loan is made in violation of the provisions of either act; (3) provide consumers the right to rescind a loan at no cost within one day of entering into a loan agreement; and (4) revise annual reporting requirements for lenders and for annual reports issued by the Financial Institutions Division of the RLD.

The Mortgage Loan Company Act, New Mexico Mortgage Loan Originator Licensing Act and Uniform Money Services Act all use the services of the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry to issue licenses pursuant to those acts. House Bill 584 (Chapter 144) recognizes that the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry changed its name to the Nationwide Multistate Licensing System and Registry and amends statutory references accordingly. Moreover, the bill requires that the director of the Financial Institutions Division of the RLD use the Nationwide Multistate Licensing System and Registry when processing licenses pursuant to the Motor Vehicle Sales Finance Act and Collection Agency Regulatory Act and adjusts accordingly the renewal periods for licenses issued pursuant to the Collection Agency Regulatory Act.

Senate Bill 262 (Chapter 75) makes technical amendments to the Uniform Money Services Act so that certain references to the act's provisions reflect the appropriate sections of the NMSA 1978.

GAMING

While tribal gaming in the state is governed by state-tribal Class III gaming compacts, the legislature enacts laws to oversee other gaming activity in the state. This year, new laws passed regarding horse racing, slot machines at horse racetrack casinos and pull-tab games offered by bingo licensees.

As a condition of receiving a license to operate a horse racetrack in New Mexico, the Horse Racing Act requires a licensee to deposit a percentage of winning purses and other wagered amounts into a non-public fund, administered by the New Mexico Horse Breeders' Association, from which merit and incentive awards are paid to the breeders and owners of winning horses. The purpose of the payments is to encourage successful breeding of racehorses and the promotion of horse racing in New Mexico. House Bill 503 (Chapter 142) updates how the award money is distributed and how the fund is administered. The bill also requires recipients of the awards to be members of the New Mexico Horse Breeders' Association; obligates the State Racing Commission to promulgate rules establishing fiduciary, security and insurance safeguards for money in the fund; limits the time for an award check to be negotiated to one year from the date of issuance; and makes eligibility for an award payment conditioned on the recipient providing necessary information for the association to comply with state and federal tax law.

Technology is constantly changing how gaming businesses operate. For example, new slot machines do not work exactly like the one-armed bandits of the past. House State Government, Elections and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 331 (Chapter 135) takes these technological changes into account by amending statutory language to remove references to equipment that is no longer used.

Previously, bingo licensees could only operate pull-tab dispensers while holding a bingo event. With the passage of Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 177 (Chapter 161), bingo licensees that are veterans', fraternal or 501(c)(3) organizations may operate pull-tab games even at times when they are not hosting bingo.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Myriad bills relating to health and human services were enacted this year, marked by an interest in issues such as consumer protections, access to medical services, regulation of certain insurance products, financial and other reporting requirements for the New Mexico Health Insurance Exchange, prior authorization requirements, reduction of certain copayments and coinsurance payments and facilitation of enrollment in Medicare Part B. The legislature also delved into topics such as clean air, physician education, licensing of dental therapists and naturopaths, the medical cannabis program and Medicaid reimbursement rates. After New Mexico's behavioral health crisis in 2013, the legislature also enacted two bills that strike a balance between eliminating fraud and abuse among Medicaid providers while taking into account due process and economic needs of those providers. Additionally, there are new laws to support telemedicine, protect small, independent pharmacies and nurses and modernize licensing requirements and scopes of practice in various health care fields.

Since its enactment in 2010, the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA) has increased access to health insurance coverage for tens of millions of people, but it has also increased costs for some and decreased choice for others. It requires health insurers to provide a package of essential health benefits and prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex or preexisting medical conditions. However, the ACA also requires most individuals to purchase health insurance or pay a fee, which has proved to be particularly controversial. The ACA has faced numerous challenges and, in 2018, a federal judge issued a ruling that could invalidate the law. To provide stability and continuity for the New Mexico health insurance markets in the face of a possible ACA repeal, House Bill 436 (Chapter 259) enacts many provisions of the ACA while allowing health insurance companies to use reasonable techniques to control costs. The bill requires a package of essential health benefits, coverage for preexisting conditions, gender parity for premium rates and mental health coverage parity that matches other types of health insurance coverage. It also allows certain individuals the flexibility to move from Medicaid to other types of insurance during a special enrollment period and to maintain both group health insurance plan coverage and Medicaid coverage. Lastly, the bill allows for certain exemptions to group retiree health plans and other group health plans.

Changes in health insurance regulations at the federal level increased the availability of a type of health insurance that is meant to cover only limited conditions for a limited amount of time. These insurance products are relatively unregulated and are considered supplemental to major medical insurance coverage. While there may be good reasons for some people to buy this type of insurance, the OSI noticed that consumer complaints rose as families experienced real financial harm from purchasing these types of policies, thinking that they had purchased major medical insurance instead. To address this issue, House Health and Human Services Committee Substitute for House Bill 285 (Chapter 235) enacts the Short-Term Health Plan and Excepted Benefit Act to allow the OSI to regulate benefits, terms of coverage and the ratio of premiums that an insurance company offering this type of coverage must spend on a customer's actual medical expenses. It also requires more effective consumer disclosures so that buyers are aware of what the insurance product covers and what it does not.

Ultrasound screening is a low-cost and highly effective tool used by gynecologists and obstetricians to provide a clear picture of female anatomy and to monitor pregnant women and their unborn babies. Last fall, a large New Mexico health insurer announced plans to require prior authorization for every obstetrical ultrasound, which raised concerns about possible burdens on women's health specialists and risks to patients due to delayed care. Following a groundswell of opposition from several women's health practices and professional societies, the health insurer reconsidered implementing the change. To ensure that this does not occur again, Senate Bill 309 (Chapter 182) prohibits insurance companies under the authority of the OSI and group health insurance purchased by the state from requiring prior authorization for medically necessary gynecological or obstetrical ultrasounds. The HSD is directed to prohibit Medicaid managed care organizations from imposing such a requirement as well. However, this prohibition will not prevent a health insurer from denying payment for an ultrasound that is not medically necessary or not a covered benefit.

House Bill 89 (Chapter 263) requires that private, nonprofit and public health insurance programs cover contraception, with the exception of vasectomies and male condoms, and includes clinical services related to providing or using contraception, such as consultations, examinations and medical procedures. The bill generally prohibits cost sharing but does allow certain plans to impose cost sharing of brand-name items that have a generic equivalent. If a person is denied coverage for contraception, the bill lays out the general guidelines for an appeal. The bill also incorporates existing religious exceptions into new language for group and blanket health insurance contracts and nonprofit health care plans.

Autism does not go away when an autistic person reaches the age of 19. However, state law has, for years, limited health insurance coverage for autism treatment to only children and teenagers. House Bill 322 (Chapter 119) removes the age limitation on coverage for autism spectrum disorder, allowing adults with autism to benefit from a wide range of services that otherwise may have been prohibitively expensive, including speech, occupational and physical therapy and applied behavioral analysis. The bill also removes dollar limits on coverage and requires that Medicaid cover screening and treatment for autism spectrum disorder.

The New Mexico Health Insurance Exchange was created as a quasi-governmental organization to administer and sell health insurance on the federally mandated marketplace, which exempted it from many of the fiscal requirements of a typical state agency. Senate Bill 294 (Chapter 266) requires that the exchange increase its transparency and that the exchange, its employees and members of its board adhere to several existing accountability statutes.

Insurers require that patients or their doctors get prior authorization for certain medicines, devices and procedures. This process can take time, and often patients cannot wait. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 188 (Chapter 187) enacts the Prior Authorization Act to standardize and streamline the process of getting prior authorizations for medicine, medical devices and procedures. To accomplish this, the OSI is required to create a uniform prior authorization form for medical care, pharmaceutical benefits or related benefits to be used by every health insurer and health care provider and to use technology to provide nearly instant decisions. Certain denials will be reviewed by health professionals, and all denials will be appealable by electronic means. Further, if a decision on a prior authorization request is not made within seven days, or 24 hours if a health care professional requests an expedited review, the authorization will be considered approved. The OSI must report to the governor, the legislature and the public regarding prior authorization data and any complaints about the process.

One strategy intended to contain health insurance costs is the creation by insurance companies of networks of doctors, hospitals and clinics, which are created through contractual agreements related to pricing, payments and services. A patient signs up for medical insurance and, in exchange for agreeing to stay in-network, receives predictable and lower-cost bills. If the patient goes out-of-network for services without prior authorization from the insurance carrier, the cost of those services will often be higher. When this happens, patients can receive considerably high out-of-network bills, which is often called "surprise billing" or "balance billing" because the patient is responsible for the balance of an out-of-network bill after the patient's insurer pays a small portion of it. Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 337 (Chapter 227) ends certain types of surprise billing when a patient has no choice regarding medical care, including when a patient needs medically necessary care that is unavailable within the network or receives emergency care. Also, in an emergency, insurers cannot require prior authorization and cannot bill the patient more for out-of-network copayments or coinsurance than it would for an in-network emergency visit.

Traditionally, physical therapy has been treated by insurers as though it were a specialty service, which means that cost-sharing strategies such as copayments have been higher than other medical services. House Bill 81 (Chapter 188) puts physical therapy services on the same footing as primary care services by mandating that insurers may not require higher payments from patients at the physical therapist's office than they would pay if seeing a doctor for primary care services.

Medicare Part B is a federal program that people may qualify for if they are over age 65 or are disabled. However, many people who qualify do not know that they qualify, do not know how to enroll or do not understand the program. House Bill 371 (Chapter 136) requires the HSD to write to certain people who are eligible for Medicare Part B to inform them of the program and explain how they may become automatically enrolled.

Unlike Medicare, which is a purely federal program, Medicaid is a joint state-federal program that pays for certain health and medical needs of eligible people. The calculation that determines how much money the state must provide, versus how much money the federal government must contribute, is complicated. In New Mexico, the federal government pays for around 75% of the cost of Medicaid. With health care costs rising, however, even this cost-sharing arrangement leaves states with a very large bill. To address this, states have developed various ways of closing Medicaid funding gaps. One of these strategies is to tax health care providers and leverage that state income to increase the federal match and then redistribute these increased funds to Medicaid providers as higher reimbursement rates. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 246 (Chapter 53) moves New Mexico in that direction by enacting the Health Care Quality Surcharge Act, which requires certain skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities to pay a tax, calculated annually by the HSD, based upon the number of non-Medicare bed days for each facility. The surcharge is paid into the Tax Administration Suspense Fund and then is distributed to the newly created Health Care Facility Fund to be used to increase per diem and reimbursement rates for skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities and to make supplemental payments to those facilities based upon quality performance data. Payments may also go to the newly created Disability Health Care Facility Fund to be used to increase per diem and reimbursement rates for intermediate care facilities for individuals with intellectual disabilities. This tax-leveraging strategy requires careful compliance with federal guidelines and ultimately relies on receiving authorization from the federal government. The surcharges, increases in per diem and reimbursement rates and supplemental payments are effective only through December 31, 2022, and failure to get federal authorization may jeopardize parts of the bill. However, the bill also includes reporting requirements that could be useful in future health care market planning.

As mentioned above, New Mexico reimburses medical providers that provide services to patients who are on Medicaid. The money used to reimburse these providers is largely federal money but also includes state money. Medicaid fraud and abuse occur when providers improperly file claims for reimbursement. Senate Bill 41 (Chapter 215) creates procedures for expedited hearings and informal conferences to recover overpayments made by the HSD to Medicaid providers and managed care organizations that are being investigated for fraudulently filing reimbursement claims. Providers may challenge tentative or final findings of fraud and may appeal a final decision in district court. Payments that are suspended during an investigation may be released if the provider posts bond, and the HSD may require that the provider receive training in billing practices.

Access to dental care is a concern throughout New Mexico. A 2015 report of the New Mexico Health Care Workforce Work Group showed that over 50% of the counties in New Mexico had a shortage of dentists, with four counties having no dentists at all. To address this, proponents pushed for years to create a different model of dentistry that includes a mid-level licensed dental professional called a "dental therapist" who works remotely under the supervision of a licensed dentist to provide preventive and restorative care. As a result of years of effort by all stakeholders to reach an agreement, House Health and Human Services Committee Substitute for House Bill 308 (Chapter 107) creates the scope of practice and educational and licensing requirements for dental therapists and places them under the authority of the New Mexico Board of Dental Health Care. It also requires that they practice only in certain facilities and locations. Moreover, the bill explicitly exempts from state regulation dental therapists who work on tribal lands, leaving it to the individual tribes to set their own requirements.

Residency and graduate medical education programs provide necessary medical training for students and resident physicians. These programs also provide an employment pipeline for medical institutions. House Education Committee Substitute for House Bill 480 (Chapter 141) creates the Graduate Medical Education Expansion Grant Program Act, which allows the HSD to provide grant funding to approved medical residency and internship programs across the state. The bill also requires the HSD to establish and operate a review board to develop a state strategic plan for expanding graduate medical education training programs and to review grant applications and awards.

Everyone can breathe easier now that House State Government, Elections and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 256 (Chapter 128) has been signed into law. The bill amends the Dee Johnson Clean Indoor Air Act to include e-cigarettes under its scope, expands the definitions of "secondhand smoke" and "smoking" to include the vapor emitted from e-cigarettes and eliminates indoor workplaces, limousines under private hire, enclosed areas within restaurants, bars, hotel and motel conference or meeting rooms and businesses of a sole proprietor as smoking-permitted areas.

House Bill 72 (Chapter 5) revises the definition of "occupational therapy" and the scope of practice for occupational therapists. The classification of "occupational therapy aide or technician" has been removed and subsumed within the definition of "occupational therapy assistant".

In 2002, New Mexico became the first state in the nation to grant licensed psychologists who met certain training requirements the authority to prescribe psychotropic medications. Senate Bill 9 (Chapter 19) broadens who may supervise a prescribing psychologist to include osteopathic physicians, nurse practitioners, psychiatric nurse practitioners and clinical nurse specialists. The bill clarifies that a prescribing psychologist does not have to give prior notice to a patient's health care practitioner before prescribing psychotropic medication to that patient, as long as the psychologist notifies that health care practitioner within 24 hours of issuing a prescription, and it also allows for denial, revocation or suspension of a psychologist's license if that psychologist fails to adequately supervise a psychologist holding a conditional prescription certificate.

Naturopathic doctors are trained health care professionals who focus on prevention and treatment of disease through diet, healthy lifestyle and the use of natural, nontoxic therapies. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 135 (Chapter 244) allows naturopathic doctors to be licensed in New Mexico and sets out their scope of practice. The New Mexico Medical Board has the authority to regulate naturopathic doctors, and these doctors may practice primary care in collaboration with an allopathic or osteopathic physician who is licensed to practice in New Mexico. In addition, the bill creates the Naturopathic Doctors' Advisory Council to advise the New Mexico Medical Board regarding the training and licensure of naturopathic doctors.

Prior to this year, registered lay midwives, particularly those in rural and underserved communities, were unable to procure necessary medications for their patients. To address this issue, House Bill 226 (Chapter 11) adds registered lay midwives who are licensed by the DOH to the list of practitioners who are subject to certain privileges and responsibilities conferred by the New Mexico Drug, Device and Cosmetic Act. Registered lay midwives cannot prescribe drugs, but they can procure, carry and administer drugs that are subject to that act.

A health care provider writing a prescription for eyeglasses or contact lenses or performing an eye examination in-state must be licensed pursuant to the Optometry Act, the Medical Practice Act or the Osteopathic Medicine Act, as outlined in the provisions of House Bill 242 (Chapter 15). Furthermore, an in-person eye examination is required prior to writing such a prescription rather than relying solely on a remotely used computer or automated testing device.

House Bill 539 (Chapter 143) modernizes and clarifies the scope of practice, titles and licensing requirements for social workers. The bill also removes the requirement for the Board of Social Work Examiners to create a code of ethics and allows it to adopt the code of ethics of a national social work organization. Further, prior to passage of this bill, board members could not hold membership in any other organization, making it difficult to recruit board members. Now, the bill allows board members to participate in professional organizations organized exclusively to promote the improvement of the practice of social work.

When sports teams visit New Mexico, they often employ and bring their own doctors who have developed professional relationships with their athletes. While visiting, it is not uncommon for these athletes to sustain injuries that require treatment on or near the field. Senate Bill 349 (Chapter 184) allows for these visiting physicians to practice in New Mexico as long as they meet certain requirements and only treat members of the sports team with which the physician is contracted in connection with the sports event.

House Bill 48 (Chapter 100) requires the Speech-Language Pathology, Audiology and Hearing Aid Dispensing Practices Board to add to its ethical guidelines by requiring, at the time of a patient's first exam, that audiologists and hearing aid dispensers provide information about hearing aid options that incorporate the latest standards for technology and design.

In Senate Bill 207 (Chapter 92), licensed substance abuse associates who enroll as Medicaid providers can qualify for Medicaid reimbursement. Reimbursements for certain services provided by these associates are then paid to the associate's employing behavioral health organization. Services that qualify for reimbursement include providing direct interventions; providing screening, assessment, consultation and development of treatment plans; taking a social history; and conducting a home study.

Facilities that perform mammograms are required in House Bill 66 (Chapter 4) to include a notice to a patient whose test results indicate that the patient's breast tissue density is heterogeneously dense or extremely dense. The notice alerts the patient that those results may be associated with a higher risk of cancer and may make it more difficult to detect cancer, and it urges the patient to discuss the mammogram results with the patient's health care provider.

To encourage more individuals to join the bone marrow registry, House Bill 638 (Chapter 112) requires the DOH to provide information and education regarding the need for bone marrow donations, patient populations that would benefit from the donations, how to join the registry and how to acquire a free buccal swab kit from the registry.

According to the DOH, 32 of New Mexico's 33 counties are designated as geographic health care provider shortage areas or contain smaller service areas or populations designated as such, which presents substantial barriers to health care for these rural and underserved populations. Over the years, telemedicine, the delivery of medical services via technology rather than traditional face-to-face meetings, has increased patient access to services and has been shown to improve patient outcomes, particularly in mental health and intensive care situations. With the goal of continuing that trend, Senate Bill 354 (Chapter 255) strengthens New Mexico's telemedicine practice by requiring that businesses that provide health care insurance must cover telemedicine on an equal footing with coverage for traditional medical services. Insurers may not impose extra fees, copayments or limits for services received via telemedicine that are not imposed on all terms and services provided under the health care plan.

Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 406 (Chapter 247) expands New Mexico's medical cannabis program. The bill offers clarity to both qualified patients who are enrolled in the program and the DOH regarding its role in regulating and licensing those who participate in the entire medical cannabis pipeline, from growers and producers to couriers and even places for consumption and use of medical cannabis. In addition, the bill adds medical conditions that qualify a patient for the medical cannabis program, allows for diagnosis via telemedicine and allows for certification to last three years, though patients must still be seen by a doctor annually and report to the DOH to remain eligible. Visitors and those who have moved to New Mexico now have the benefit of a reciprocity program that will be created by the DOH, and employment protections are included to address the needs of employers to maintain a safe work environment.

Containing health care costs, particularly prescription drug costs, was a recurring theme during the 2019 session. To help accomplish this, Senate Bill 131 (Chapter 91) creates a council of state agencies called the Interagency Pharmaceuticals Purchasing Council to explore various ways to keep costs down when buying drugs and pooling risk for pharmacy services among the agencies. The council is also charged with finding ways to extend the benefits of the agencies' purchasing power to private citizens who buy pharmaceuticals or pharmacy benefits.

With changes to federal drug laws enacted in 2013, Senate Bill 271 (Chapter 98) aligns New Mexico law with these changes and allows the Board of Pharmacy to license and regulate new types of pharmacy-related businesses, namely outsourcing facilities, repackagers and third-party logistics providers. These businesses compound, repackage and provide or coordinate warehousing and other logistics services for pharmaceutical drugs, including medicinal gases.

While performing a long list of management services for pharmacies, the role of the pharmacy benefits manager (PBM) has quickly grown over the years. While initially seen as a cost-containment strategy, some now assert that PBMs use their positions as go-betweens in the pharmaceutical drug pipeline to reduce competition between independent pharmacies and national pharmacy chains. New Mexico began licensing and regulating PBMs in 2014 through the OSI, but advocates for small, independent pharmacies still contend that the regulations missed some critical issues. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 415 (Chapter 269) addresses these issues by increasing transparency regarding how PBMs calculate drug reimbursements and clarifying that certain provisions of the New Mexico Insurance Code are applicable to PBMs, particularly those laws requiring a strict time line for PBMs to make reimbursement payments and laws relating to fair trade practices and the power of the OSI to obtain records. The bill also requires PBMs to create quick and simple appeals processes for pharmacies that are refused reimbursement claims, and contracts between PBMs and pharmacies may not void or nullify statutory requirements in the Pharmacy Benefits Manager Regulation Act. Lastly, the bill reduces the types of fees that PBMs may charge to pharmacies.

Small, independent pharmacies have also advocated for changes to the process by which pharmacies are audited for fraud and abuse, particularly as the audit process is practiced by PBMs. Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 394 (Chapter 268) extends audit guidelines and requirements to PBMs and their subcontractors and limits various audit practices. The bill requires that audit procedures cannot be more stringent than federal and state guidelines and that clerical or recordkeeping mistakes be treated more leniently than actions that are clearly fraudulent or that abuse the reimbursement system.

According to the HSD, New Mexico's drug overdose death rates continue to be higher than the national average, despite some improvements. To address one factor in overdose deaths, Senate Bill 221 (Chapter 94) requires doctors who prescribe or provide a five-day supply or more of an opioid pain reliever to also prescribe an overdose antidote called an opioid antagonist, which can neutralize the life-threatening effects of an opioid overdose. The opioid antagonist prescription must include instructions for administration and for immediately calling 911. The bill also requires doctors to advise patients on the risks of overdose and the availability of an opioid antagonist any time a patient receives an opioid pain reliever, even if the supply is for less than five days.

In 2013, New Mexico's behavioral health system collapsed, which was due in part to changes in fraud and abuse prevention laws at the federal level. These laws prompted the HSD, as the state Medicaid agency, to refer certain Medicaid providers for investigation. The HSD determined that it had to stop paying Medicaid funds to any provider that allegedly committed fraud. Thus, in June 2013, the HSD suspended payments to 15 behavioral health Medicaid providers, which served most of the state's Medicaid population, and referred them to the Attorney General's Office for investigation. Following lengthy and serial investigations, the attorney general declined to prosecute any of the accused Medicaid providers, but this process fundamentally disrupted those providers' income, forcing them to shut their doors. Arizona companies were brought in to fill the void, but most of those providers have now left and the state's behavioral health services have not been restored to pre-2013 levels. To prevent something like this from reoccurring, Senate Bill 41 (Chapter 215) provides for due process to Medicaid providers by establishing procedures that the HSD must follow both before it makes an allegation and during the investigation process. The bill also creates rights for providers to challenge allegations and allows providers to continue being paid through the Medicaid program if they post a bond while allegations are investigated. In addition, providers that are cleared of any wrongdoing are entitled to recover reasonable administrative and litigation costs and interest.

Effective services to address the behavioral health and substance abuse needs of people in county and municipal jails can reduce recidivism. House Bill 43 (Chapter 222) requires that the HSD create a framework for adult and juvenile offenders that will support their behavioral health needs in jail and connect them with services when they are released, which can be accomplished by creating a process for counties and municipalities to apply for and receive funding for behavioral health services.

The Maternal and Child Health Plan Act is replaced by the County and Tribal Health Councils Act as a result of the enactment of House Bill 137 (Chapter 57). The new act allows county commissioners or tribal leadership to create county or tribal health councils composed of diverse stakeholders to prepare and update health plans that inventory health resources, identify health priorities and develop strategies to address those priorities. Health councils will also monitor health programs, collaborate with other entities, advise counties and tribes and facilitate communication.

In an effort to gain a better understanding of deaths and other adverse health consequences of giving birth in New Mexico, the Maternal Mortality and Morbidity Prevention Act is enacted by Senate Bill 215 (Chapter 41). The act establishes a Maternal Mortality and Severe Maternal Morbidity Review Committee to review all instances of maternal deaths and of the mother being admitted to an intensive care unit of a health care facility or receiving a transfusion of four or more units of red blood cells within one year of giving birth. The committee must annually report on maternal mortality and severe maternal morbidity, including recommendations to reduce these incidents, and an abstractor subcommittee is responsible for the removal of personal identifying information from the records provided to the committee.

The Safe Harbor for Nurses Act, enacted by Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 82 (Chapter 52), requires health care facilities to develop processes by which a nurse may invoke a safe harbor provision when given an assignment where the nurse believes he or she lacks the knowledge, skills or abilities to deliver the minimum standard of care and that may violate the Nursing Practice Act, or when a nurse questions the reasonableness of another health care provider's order that the nurse is required to execute. A nurse may request to be allowed to reject a nursing assignment and would not be subject to adverse action by a health care facility for making such a request.

Unless otherwise required by federal law, House Bill 280 (Chapter 129) requires health facilities to give certified nurse practitioners, certified nurse-midwives and clinical nurse specialists the same status as physicians in regard to admitting or discharge privileges, authorizing continuing patient care, service on the facility's medical staff, credentialing and conducting peer review.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States generally and in New Mexico. Heart attacks are the most common form of heart disease and include ST-elevation myocardial infarctions (STEMI). Senate Bill 145 (Chapter 28) requires the DOH to coordinate with local and regional emergency medical services to develop and implement triage and transport plans for STEMI patients to ensure that they get the most appropriate care as fast as possible.

HOUSING

The sole law enacted relating to housing regards changes to regional housing authorities, which assist local and statewide efforts and implement their own programs to provide housing assistance and planning programs. In a 2009 amendment to the Regional Housing Law, the seven regional housing authorities were consolidated into three entities. House Bill 505 (Chapter 85) clarifies that the 2009 consolidation included the transfer of any property owned by the original seven authorities to the relevant three authorities. In addition, it standardizes the sizes of and increases representation on the governing commissions of the regional housing authorities by having the governor appoint at least seven commissioners for each region, no more than two of whom can be residents of the same county.

INDIAN AFFAIRS

One bill concerning Indian affairs that passed in the 2019 session makes New Mexico the fifth state to celebrate Indigenous Peoples' Day. In House Consumer and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 100 (Chapter 123), the second Monday in October of each year is now called Indigenous Peoples' Day and not the previously named Columbus Day.

INSURANCE

The legislature passed a number of measures relating to insurance regulation. In addition, there were many new laws enacted addressing health insurance, which are described in the Health and Human Services section.

House State Government, Elections and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 311 (Chapter 84) resolves an important notice issue concerning residential property insurance premiums. Certain national organizations publish information regarding the effectiveness of community fire protection or building codes, including public protection classifications, community grading, building code effectiveness classifications or fire suppression rating schedules. The information is used by residential property insurers to determine insurance rates, but this practice recently resulted in significant insurance cost increases with little or no prior warning to property owners in certain areas of the state. This bill requires that organizations that publish this information must provide notice of any unfavorable change in a community's classification to the OSI. The superintendent of insurance then issues a bulletin notifying insurers of the changes. After publication of the bulletin, insurers have 90 days to inform affected consumers.

The Mandatory Financial Responsibility Act requires an owner or operator of a motor vehicle to either maintain coverage under a motor vehicle insurance policy or provide other evidence of financial responsibility. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 107 (Chapter 154) allows an owner or operator of a motor vehicle to provide proof of a motor vehicle insurance policy through either a paper copy or through a portable electronic device.

In Senate Bill 164 (Chapter 32), property and casualty insurers and their agents are allowed to provide customers and prospective customers with limited gifts, not exceeding $100 in value in any calendar year.

The Service Contract Regulation Act regulates contracts through which a provider is obligated to maintain, repair or replace personal property. Senate Bill 350 (Chapter 254) addresses automatic renewal provisions in these contracts by establishing the terms of renewal provisions and specifying how the terms must be disclosed to the purchaser. The bill also specifies the manner in which the purchaser may cancel the service contract, including the cost to the purchaser of any cancellation.

Lastly, a new insurance product is created in Senate Bill 378 (Chapter 219), which enacts the Self-Service Storage Insurance License Act. The act permits owners of storage facilities to apply to the superintendent of insurance to become licensed insurance producers. Once licensed, the owners and their agents may sell, solicit and offer insurance to protect the contents of their customers' storage units. The bill requires owners to offer training to their employees, maintain registries of locations at which insurance is offered and disclose relevant terms to potential customers. Failure to comply with the act may result in fines, suspension or revocation of the owner's insurance sales license.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND PUBLIC SAFETY

Regarding law enforcement and public safety, the legislature took steps to address and investigate the tragedies of missing and murdered indigenous women and missing persons in general by passing bills that will help law enforcement to find these individuals and pursue justice for these victims and their families. Changes were also made to the duties of certain law enforcement officers and to the use of the Fire Protection Fund. To address the systemic issues of domestic violence and sex crimes, two bills were signed into law, one creating a sexual assault survivor's bill of rights and another exempting personal identifier information of victims of certain crimes from the inspection of public records.

House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 278 (Chapter 106) creates the Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women Task Force to work with tribal governments to study how to increase state resources for reporting and identifying missing and murdered indigenous women in the state. The bill identifies the members of the task force and calls for a report of its findings prior to November 1, 2020.

To assist in the effort to locate and identify missing and unidentified persons, the DPS is now required under House Bill 16 (Chapter 120) to share all information in its missing persons information clearinghouse with the national missing and unidentified persons system created by the United States Department of Justice's National Institute of Justice. In addition, public notice required pursuant to the Missing Persons Information and Reporting Act was expanded by Senate Bill 42 (Chapter 50) to include a "silver alert" when a person suffering from dementia or Alzheimer's disease goes missing, regardless of the age of the missing person. The bill also clarifies the responsibilities of the various agencies and of cellular service companies involved in the notice process.

In New Mexico, there are employees within police departments called public service officers who may transport intoxicated people to treatment facilities or detention centers. Once at the treatment facility or detention center, however, these public service officers could not request commitment for those intoxicated people that they transported. House Bill 234 (Chapter 272) addresses this issue by authorizing public service officers to request commitment of intoxicated or incapacitated people.

Codifying the practice that is already in place in a number of locations, House Bill 237 (Chapter 14) allows university police officers to have the powers of peace officers in areas immediately adjacent to a campus.

For various reasons, incidents of sexual assault often go unreported or, if reported, are not successfully prosecuted. House Bill 135 (Chapter 102) attempts to increase reporting and improve prosecution by creating certain rights for sexual assault survivors and clarifying the obligations of the various agencies and individuals involved in the investigation and prosecution process. Survivor's rights include: (1) the right to certain information from the initial treatment provider and law enforcement, including sources of free and low-cost medical services; (2) the option to release a sexual assault examination kit to law enforcement; (3) the right to have the kit tested within 180 days; and (4) the right to be informed as to whether the law enforcement agency was able to match a DNA profile before the agency destroys the kit. Law enforcement agencies' and prosecutors' duties include providing information and notice regarding the survivor's rights and important developments in the investigation and prosecution. A prosecutor is also prohibited from prosecuting a survivor for any nonfelony crime based on evidence obtained through investigation of the sexual assault.

Generally, the public has a right to inspect the state's public records, but there are instances when inspection is not allowed. Senate Bill 118 (Chapter 27) exempts certain portions of law enforcement records from public inspection. This bill does not allow the public to inspect, before charges are filed, the address, contact information or protected personal identifier information of victims of or witnesses to alleged crimes involving certain criminal sexual penetration offenses and stalking.

In the past, fire and smoke dampers and smoke control systems in certain private and public buildings and structures were only inspected and tested at the time of installation. Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 143 (Chapter 66) changes this by directing the PRC to issue rules requiring that inspection and testing of fire and smoke dampers and smoke control systems in these building and structures be conducted upon installation, after one year and every four years thereafter in accordance with National Fire Protection Association Standards. The inspections are conducted by state or political subdivisions with fire and life safety programs or another person with a certification from a program accredited by the American National Standards Institute. Findings of noncompliance must be reported to the property owner and the state fire marshal.

The Fire Protection Fund is a major source of funding for municipal and county fire protection services. House Bill 124 (Chapter 55) permits municipalities and county fire districts to use distributions from the fund to purchase and refinance land for fire stations and substations. Additionally, distributions may be used only with the permission of the state fire marshal for purposes related to water supply systems, fire hydrants and other water distribution appurtenances but may not be used for potable water supply.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT AND SPECIAL DISTRICTS

New Mexico has a variety of local governments and special districts with differing degrees of governing authority and responsibility. The 2019 session featured several bills signed into law that affect municipal and county governments, irrigation and conservancy districts, community land grants and community ditch and acequia associations.

The Infrastructure Development Zone Act requires a person petitioning to organize a proposed infrastructure development zone or for inclusion of additional territory in an existing infrastructure development zone to provide notice of a public hearing on the petition to property owners in the zone. House Bill 217 (Chapter 10) allows the required notices to be sent to property owners through electronic mail as an alternative to sending them by first class mail. It also establishes that a failure to notify property owners by first class mail is not grounds to challenge the hearing being held. Also, in an amendment to the New Mexico Subdivision Act, House Bill 216 (Chapter 9) eliminates the requirement that county regulations for subdivisions be filed with the state records administrator.

County ordinances do not normally apply within the boundaries of incorporated municipalities. However, House Bill 440 (Chapter 110) creates an option for municipalities with regard to a solar energy improvement special assessment adopted under the Solar Energy Improvement Special Assessment Act. A municipality within a county that has enacted such an assessment may now pass its own ordinance to allow it to be applied within the municipality as well. Additionally, counties are now authorized to contract with third parties to assist in the planning and administration of solar energy improvement special assessments.

Traditional historic communities are subject to municipal annexation through procedures that are more restrictive than are applicable to other locations. House Bill 74 (Chapter 6) eliminates the requirement that traditional historic communities be located only within Class B counties with a population between 95,000 and 99,000 based upon the 1990 federal decennial census; such communities can now be located in any county and may be annexed only with the approval of a majority of the registered voters within the community.

A community land grant has jurisdiction, including land use planning or zoning, over the lands it owns as common land. However, there is always the potential for a particular plan to be in conflict with the land use plan established by the local county. Prior to this year, the law governing community land grants stated that a conflict regarding land use plans must be initially submitted to the DFA, which decision could then be appealed in district court. Senate Bill 17 (Chapter 213) removes the requirement by allowing a land grant to take a land use conflict with a county directly to district court for resolution.

Since 2004, elections for the boards of governors at specific community land grants have revealed that applicable election laws for these bodies were not adequately comprehensive. In several instances, election challenges resulted in years of litigation. Senate Bill 223 (Chapter 248) updates the statutes governing community land grant elections by mirroring the Election Code in many respects while also accommodating the unique aspects of the structure and voter qualifications of these political bodies.

To address the need for a larger pool of attorneys who have the knowledge to serve community land grants, acequia associations and colonias, Senate Bill 244 (Chapter 43) enacts the Community Governance Attorney Act to create a tuition waiver for service program at the University of New Mexico School of Law. In the program, two governance attorney waiver positions are available annually for third-year law students. Through a contract between the participant and the Higher Education Department, the state provides loans that pay for the tuition, materials and living expenses for a participant's third year of law school. After graduation, the state provides 50% of the participant's salary (up to $50,000 a year) for a position at a nonprofit organization or state agency to provide legal services to community land grants, acequias and low-income residents of colonias for two years. In addition, for each year that a participant provides the legal services, one-half of the amount loaned and accumulated interest on the loan is waived; however, an interest penalty applies if a participant chooses to accept different employment.

The general statute that gives community land grants political subdivision status does not apply to land grants that have their own specific statutes. However, a land grant may request the legislature to repeal its specific statute and bring it within the political subdivision structure. House Bill 592 (Chapter 241) does just this by repealing the specific statutes concerning the Manzano Land Grant-Merced and including it in Chapter 49, Article 1 NMSA 1978, thus designating it as a political subdivision.

Community land grants may not be eligible for certain types of state funding otherwise provided to political entities. Senate Bill 44 (Chapter 150) provides land grants that can demonstrate financial hardship with the eligibility to receive equipment purchased through the Local Governments Road Fund, which would otherwise be sold at auction as unusable by the DOT.

An acequia or community ditch may bring a lawsuit to recover fees, assessments or penalties owed to it. House Bill 379 (Chapter 108) authorizes and provides a process for an acequia or community ditch to obtain a lien on property to which the water rights that incurred the fees or assessments are appurtenant pursuant to a money judgment rendered in either a magistrate or district court.

Irrigation and conservancy districts typically encompass large areas of land with many miles of internal roadways that often represent the most efficient routes for travel within a rural community or county. Accordingly, local governments and the state have had an interest in incorporating various district roadways into their respective transportation systems, but the issue of potential liability for a district has been an obstacle. House Bill 202 (Chapter 104) provides that if a local government or state agency has entered into a written agreement to operate and maintain a roadway within a district, liability for that roadway will apply to that government or agency and not to the district.

MILITARY AND VETERANS' AFFAIRS

In the lone military and veterans' affairs-related bill that was signed into law this session, oversight of the New Mexico State Veterans' Home near Truth or Consequences is transferred from the Veterans'

Services Department to the DOH by House Bill 643 (Chapter 146). Along with oversight, the home's property, funds and staff are also transferred to the DOH.

MOTOR VEHICLES AND TRANSPORTATION

Motor vehicle and transportation-related laws enacted this year cover a variety of topics from infrastructure funding to livestock fencing to driver's licenses to mobility limitation protections and also authorize new special vehicle registration plates.

Local governments participate in a multi-year transportation planning process coordinated by the DOT that helps to identify priority projects for federal and state funding assistance. However, in recent years, all levels of government have found that the funding for road construction, maintenance and other transportation projects has not kept up with the identified demand. To assist the development of local transportation systems, House Transportation, Public Works and Capital Improvements Committee Substitute for House Bill 694 (Chapter 205) creates the Local Government Transportation Project Fund. Each year, the State Transportation Commission will review a project list recommended by the secretary of transportation based on the planning process and award grants according to the funding available. A grant will require a 5% funding match from the relevant local government, unless the DFA determines that the local government qualifies for hardship assistance, in which case the State Transportation Commission may require a smaller, or no, local funding match for a grant under this program.

For several years, New Mexico has been the only state that prohibited local general aviation airports from charging landing fees for commercial aircraft, which fees could be used to augment other revenue sources for maintenance of landing strips and service facilities at these airports. Now, pursuant to Senate Bill 239 (Chapter 250), airports that receive funding under the Aviation Act, and therefore may receive federal assistance funding, may charge landing fees for commercial aircraft that weigh more than 12,500 pounds. The fees must be assessed and used in accordance with federal law.

In the 2018 legislative session, certain provisions relating to the DOT's duties to maintain fencing and signs related to cattle on highways were repealed from the statutes. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 121 (Chapter 155) reinstates the DOT's statutory duties to maintain fences along highways that may be entered by livestock, to provide cattle underpasses, water pipelines and cattle guards as necessary and to post proper signs warning of livestock on highways.

Under House Bill 631 (Chapter 145), recovery and repair vehicles are no longer permitted to use their flashing lights unless they are stopped on a roadway and actually engaged in removing a disabled vehicle.

To assist individuals with significant mobility limitations, two bills became law this year. Senate Bill 189 (Chapter 34) extends the use of parking spaces reserved for those individuals with severe mobility limitations to include vans or buses displaying a state-issued placard identifying the vehicle as primarily being used for the transport of people with severe mobility limitations, which removes an obstacle that has confronted nursing homes, rehabilitation centers and other entities that provide services to people who are mobility-limited. With a similar goal, House Bill 248 (Chapter 265) makes it illegal to park in a manner that blocks access to spaces reserved for individuals with significant mobility limitations.

In 2016, a law was enacted to get New Mexico into compliance with the federal REAL ID Act of 2005. Having achieved compliance, the state is making a number of changes to create more consistency regarding the naming conventions and issuing requirements for driver's licenses and identification cards. In addition to those changes, Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 278 (Chapter 167) removes the requirement that the Motor Vehicle Division of the TRD take certain applicants' fingerprints and submit them for a background check; requires that every state agency and public accommodation accept non-REAL ID-compliant documents for any purpose for which they accept REAL ID-compliant documents; and establishes that a law enforcement officer who serves a driver with written notice of revocation and of a right to a hearing before the Administrative Hearings Office pursuant to the Implied Consent Act can no longer seize that driver's license.

Starting October 1, 2019, the state will create an administrative suspension of a person's driver's license for failure to comply with certain requirements. In addition to administrative suspension, House Bill 427 (Chapter 224) alters the penalties for driving a motor vehicle while a driver's license is suspended and, in some cases, allows for the immobilization of the motor vehicle that was being driven.

New Mexico issues a variety of specialty vehicle registration plates and distinctive decals that typically either recognize a vehicle owner's service to the public or show support for an organization or cause. To recognize the service of vehicle owners who are military veterans, a disabled veteran may obtain up to two specialty veterans' plates with the distinctive "disabled veteran" decal for free. Senate Bill 236 (Chapter 42) expands the options available to disabled veterans under this program by allowing them to now choose any two vehicle plates, recognizing military veterans or otherwise, that the veteran would otherwise qualify for and receive them free of charge. The legislature also added a new distinctive recognition decal that may be requested for a military veteran specialty vehicle registration plate to the list offered by the Motor Vehicle Division. Senate Bill 225 (Chapter 95) creates an Air Medal designation decal. Additionally, Senate Bill 234 (Chapter 162) creates a pollinator protection registration plate to express support for protection of bees and other pollinators. The DOT receives a portion of the fees for this plate for planting roadside vegetation and producing educational signage and materials about the value of pollinator species.

PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL LICENSURE

The legislature made a number of diverse changes to the regulatory processes regarding professional and occupational licenses, ranging from streamlining the licensing and renewal processes to reducing licensing costs and encouraging participation in various professions and occupations.

House Bill 98 (Chapter 209) reduces the cost of renewing certain licenses. In the past, a person holding a business, professional or occupational license was often required to submit new fingerprints upon renewing a license, and the licensee had to pay the cost of fingerprinting. House Bill 98 prohibits this requirement for certain business, professional and occupational licenses. The bill provides an exception for the Financial Institutions Division of the RLD when the division uses the Nationwide Multistate Licensing System and Registry.

Senate Bill 109 (Chapter 243) increases the duration of a license issued to a barber, hairstylist, cosmetologist, instructor, esthetician, manicurist-pedicurist or electrologist from one year to two years. The bill also increases the license fee from $50.00 to $100.

The Massage Therapy Practice Act is amended in Senate Bill 200 (Chapter 40), which allows out-of-state massage therapy instructors to teach continuing education classes in New Mexico without registering. The bill also narrows the bases for denying a license or imposing discipline on a licensee from conviction of any felony to conviction of a crime substantially related to the qualifications, functions or duties of a massage therapist. Finally, the bill defines the scope of practice for massage therapists.

Senate Bill 142 (Chapter 245) requires the Board of Body Art Practitioners to grant credit for out-of-state training and experience obtained by applicants for body art tattoo or piercing-scarification licenses if the training and experience are equivalent to that required pursuant to the Body Art Safe Practices Act. The bill also changes the membership of the board from one public and four industry members to three public and two industry members.

After many years of operating without governmental oversight, home inspectors must now obtain and maintain a state-issued license. House Bill 433 (Chapter 239) enacts the Home Inspector Licensing Act and provides for a comprehensive licensing scheme beginning January 1, 2020. The scheme includes: oversight by the newly created New Mexico Home Inspectors Board; licensure requirements; penalties for providing home inspections without a license; an operational fund; fees; and continuing education and insurance requirements.

The Funeral Services Act is amended in Senate Bill 263 (Chapter 164) to ensure the availability of qualified professionals in the funeral services field. Changes include adding new licenses for embalmers and funeral arrangers, both of whom must work in properly licensed funeral establishments. The bill also lowers the requirement for licensure through reciprocity for all license types, other than interns, and it removes the active practice requirement for out-of-state applicants and requires only evidence of current licensure in a jurisdiction whose licensing standards are at least equivalent to those in New Mexico.

Creating an exception to the real estate broker licensure requirements, Senate Bill 120 (Chapter 90) authorizes a person to auction or offer to auction real property without holding a real estate broker's license if the person is working under an agreement with a qualifying broker and is paid by the qualifying broker to conduct the auction.

The State Board of Licensure for Professional Engineers and Professional Surveyors maintains a large fund balance from the collection of licensing fees from engineers and surveyors. In Senate Bill 447 (Chapter 220), the board is authorized to use a portion of the funds to create a scholarship program to support students pursuing careers in engineering or surveying. The bill also provides alternative requirements for the board to issue licenses on the basis of reciprocity, allowing individuals licensed out of state to more easily become licensed in New Mexico.

Finally, a licensee who conducts business as an automobile dealer, auto recycler or title service company must meet annual continuing education requirements. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 248 (Chapter 216) increases the continuing education requirement from four hours every two years to four hours every year.

PROPERTY

The legislature passed several bills relating to the rights and responsibilities of property owners and the disposition of property. Namely, one area of focus concerned the duties of a property owner in providing restroom access and amenities to the public in a gender-neutral, nondiscriminatory manner. This focus culminated with the passage of two bills that require certain property owners to provide gender-neutral access to restrooms and design buildings with baby-changing facilities in all restrooms.

State law releases a landowner from certain liabilities when the landowner allows the landowner's property to be used for recreation purposes, such as hunting, fishing, trapping, camping, hiking or sightseeing, without charging a fee. With the enactment of Senate Bill 77 (Chapter 24), the same liability protections extend to landowners who similarly allow cave exploration on their private property.

Access to restrooms, regardless of gender or sex, has been a hotly debated topic nationwide in recent years. House Bill 388 (Chapter 109) enacts the Gender-Free Restrooms Act to require purveyors of public accommodations to provide gender-neutral access and signage for all currently existing or newly constructed single-user toilet facilities on the premises. However, the bill does not require the construction of any new restrooms.

Gender equity in restrooms includes more than gender-neutral signage and use. For many years, buildings have been constructed to include facilities for safely and sanitarily changing babies only in women's restrooms. House Consumer and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 205 (Chapter 105) establishes a building permit approval process that requires certain proposed buildings to include baby-changing facilities in all restrooms. Local full-service building departments must add this requirement to existing review processes, and noncompliant building designs will not be approved or receive certificates of occupancy.

The question of the validity of a conveyance or title for property is an issue that has caused uncertainty for landowners and countless lawsuits within New Mexico. House Bill 293 (Chapter 130) permits the filing and recording of a duplicate instrument of writing if accompanied by an affidavit that explains the reason for the unavailability of an original, information relating to the execution of the original and the accuracy of the duplicate. The bill also creates actual authority for certain individuals within a business entity to execute conveyancing instruments and contracts for the transfer or encumbrance of real property. The business entity may proactively strip this authority by revoking the authority in writing and filing that writing with the county clerk in the county where the property is located. Property conveyed without authority is deemed valid or cured after a period of 10 years if the conveyance is unchallenged.

Prior law allowed a real estate appraisal management company to remove an independent appraiser from its appraiser panel without notice of the reasons for removal during the first 30 days that the independent appraiser was on the panel. Senate Bill 56 (Chapter 51) removes this ability by requiring a real estate appraisal management company to provide notice and allowing the independent appraiser to contest the removal by filing a complaint with the Real Estate Appraisers Board.

With the passage of Senate Bill 503 (Chapter 221), the Uniform Probate Code and Uniform Powers of Appointment Act have been updated to mirror current trends and changes nationwide. This bill specifies that under certain scenarios, a will, or a will making general disposition of all of the testator's property, expresses an intention to exercise a power of appointment. The bill provides an additional scenario of appointment in which a powerholder of a general power of appointment may create a nongeneral power in a permissible appointee to appoint one or more persons if the permissible appointees of the new nongeneral power include the permissible appointees of the original nongeneral power.

PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

Most bills relating to public officers and employees that became law this year relate to retirement benefits, including per diem effective dates and contributions for legislators, several measures to address solvency of the two largest pension funds, providing for the designation of a beneficiary if a vested member dies without doing so, allowing the conversion of unused sick leave into earned service credit and temporarily allowing the adjustment of service credit for volunteer firefighters.

Pursuant to Senate Bill 307 (Chapter 251), legislators who have elected to join the legislative retirement plan will have the basis for pension benefits, which is the effective date of the per diem rate, change from the beginning of the calendar year to the beginning of the fiscal year. The bill also increases the amount of the annual legislator contribution from $600 to $1,000. Finally, legislators who had not initially joined the legislative retirement plan are given a limited opportunity to do so now.

As a measure to address the solvency of the Public Employees Retirement Act funds and the Educational Retirement Fund, beginning July 1, 2019, House Bill 501 (Chapter 237) raises the Public Employees Retirement Act employer contribution rate for each coverage plan and the Educational Retirement Act employer contribution rate by .25% of a retirement plan member's salary. This means that the employer contribution rate for the main Public Employees Retirement Act coverage plan will be 17.24% and for the Educational Retirement Act plan, it will be 14.15%.

House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 360 (Chapter 258) addresses the solvency of the Educational Retirement Fund. Currently, the fund has assets to pay 63% of its total liability to retirees, which makes the fund subject to market volatility and negatively affects the state's bond rating. At the current level of local administrative unit (employer) and employee contributions to the fund and investment returns, it will take many years for the fund to reach an acceptable level of solvency. The bill makes changes to the Educational Retirement Act that will somewhat reduce the period for full funding, including: (1) raising the threshold for lower-pay employee contribution rates from $20,000 to $24,000; (2) beginning July 1, 2019, raising the local administrative unit contribution rate by .25% to 14.15% of an employee's annual salary; (3) requiring certain retired members who return to work with a local administrative unit to suspend their retirement benefits or make non-refundable contributions to the fund; (4) requiring a local administrative unit to make contributions to the fund for certain return-to-work retired employees; (5) creating a tiered pension benefit system for employees hired on or after July 1, 2019; (6) addressing salary "spiking" by not allowing salary increases over 30% per year to be used in final average salary computation for retirement benefits; and (7) adding certain substitute teachers as regular members in the retirement plan who will then make contributions to the retirement fund, as will their local administrative units.

Under the Educational Retirement Act, when a member of the educational retirement plan retires, the member may elect payment options that include a designated beneficiary to receive payments in certain situations after the retiree's death, and a member may designate a beneficiary to receive benefits if the member dies before retiring. However, the act did not address the situation where a non-retired vested member, who is thus entitled to some retirement benefit upon retiring, dies without designating a beneficiary, other than payment of the benefit to the member's estate. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 664 (Chapter 173) provides that if a vested member dies without designating a beneficiary, an eligible surviving spouse or eligible surviving domestic partner shall be considered the designated beneficiary. What determines an eligible surviving spouse or domestic partner will be established by the Educational Retirement Board.

Senate Bill 157 (Chapter 31) allows eligible members pursuant to the Educational Retirement Act to pay to convert unused sick leave into a maximum of four quarters of earned service credit, which translates into the maximum requiring at least 173 days of unused sick leave. The cost to convert unused sick leave to earned service credit depends upon the actuarial present value of the service credit received from the converted unused sick leave.

The Volunteer Firefighters Retirement Act provides retirement benefits for volunteer firefighters. The amount of retirement benefits depends in part upon a firefighter's years of service credit, which is recorded annually by the chief of each fire department, but can only go back two years. House Bill 512 (Chapter 240) permits firefighters, for a limited one-year period, to retroactively post or adjust service credit earned after January 1, 1984, if appropriate documentation is provided.

When firefighters are diagnosed with a number of medical conditions and a particular condition is not revealed in an initial employment medical screening, a presumption exists that the condition was proximately caused by the employment and that the employer is responsible for the cost of the medical treatment of the condition. House Bill 324 (Chapter 118) adds posttraumatic stress disorder to the list of conditions that qualify for this presumption.

The bar has been raised for conducting investigative interviews of full-time firefighters, emergency medical technicians and paramedics. The Hazardous Duty Officers' Employer-Employee Relations Act, amended by House Bill 208 (Chapter 83), now requires an order of the officer's department director to trigger an investigative interview. In addition, at the beginning of the interview, the interviewee must be advised of all legal rights with respect to the interview. Furthermore, statements by the employee compelled under threat of any employment sanction by the employer shall not be released by the employer except upon court order.

The Search and Rescue Act prepares, organizes and coordinates government and volunteer resources for the search and rescue of persons who are lost, trapped or in physical danger. House Bill 225 (Chapter 234) provides that the search and rescue resource officer submit to the Risk Management Division of the General Services Department claims by volunteers for damage to their personal property while the volunteer is participating in an authorized search and rescue mission.

The secretary of human services is now required to conduct background checks on employees and prospective employees who have or will have access to federal tax information in House Bill 556 (Chapter 111), which lays out a number of requirements and limitations on employee background checks to be conducted by the HSD.

STATE GOVERNMENT

Perhaps the most significant legislation concerning state government signed into law this session was an act implementing the provisions of Article 5, Section 17 of the Constitution of New Mexico, which created the State Ethics Commission. Still, there were other bills of note affecting the operation of state agencies that also became law this session, including a major revision of the business model upon which the New Mexico Compilation Commission has operated for decades, the reestablishment of the Mesilla Valley Bosque State Park and a bill that allows individuals to change the sex designation on their birth certificate without a statement signed by a physician or other medical professional.

Agencies and Public Accountability

In the 2018 general election, voters approved adoption of Constitutional Amendment 2, which established a seven-member State Ethics Commission. The amendment, however, left it up to the legislature to determine the scope of the commission's jurisdiction and the operational procedures and structure of that state agency. To these ends, Senate Education Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 668 (Chapter 86) enacts the State Ethics Commission Act, which provides for the hiring of an executive director, general counsel, support staff and hearing officers and prescribes their respective duties and also establishes procedures for investigations, the issuance of subpoenas and the conduct of hearings. In addition, the act grants the commission authority to investigate complaints of alleged civil violations of various acts, including the Campaign Reporting Act, the Financial Disclosure Act, the Gift Act, the Lobbyist Regulation Act, the Voter Action Act, the Governmental Conduct Act, the Procurement Code, the State Ethics Commission Act and Article 9, Section 14 of the Constitution of New Mexico. While the commission's jurisdiction is limited to investigation of complaints against state-level actors subject to the listed acts, the legislation anticipates future expansion of the commission's jurisdiction following the commission's submission of required reports and recommendations to the legislature after initial operations are evaluated.

Previous amendments to the Lobbyist Regulation Act created a loophole whereby lobbyists were not required to report expenditures of $100 or less. Senate Bill 191 (Chapter 35) addresses that deficiency by requiring the reporting of the cumulative total of all individual expenditures of less than $100 made or incurred by a lobbyist's employer or lobbyist during the covered reporting period. The total must be separated into the categories for meals and beverages, other entertainment expenditures and other expenditures.

Records

Senate Bill 20 (Chapter 89) allows individuals to change the sex designation on their birth certificate without a statement signed by a physician or other medical professional. Specifically, the bill allows for a designation that reflects an individual's gender identity of male, female or X, which is a new designation representing a gender identity that is undesignated or that is other than male or female. This change requires only a signed statement by the person making the change or the person's parent, guardian or legal representative. A new birth certificate that is updated and reissued in this manner will not be marked "amended".

Operations

The New Mexico Compilation Commission has traditionally published the official compilation of New Mexico's statutes in both hard copy and electronic formats. Senate Bill 261 (Chapter 74) changes the New Mexico Compilation Commission's operational model for distributing statutory and legal publications to provide for free online access to the official annotated compilation of statutes in a searchable format to state and local agencies, public officials and the general public. As a result, certain state agencies are no longer required to purchase and maintain hard-bound copies of the compilation. The commission is authorized to enter into licensing agreements with publishers for print versions of certain publications, the sale of which provide revenue to the commission, and it will maintain and provide online access to the master database of session laws; the NMSA 1978, including parallel tables; attorney general opinions and advisory letters; and appellate court opinions and court rules.

The Local Government Investment Pool allows public entities to voluntarily participate in the pool for their short-term investment needs. House Bill 97 (Chapter 7) specifically authorizes the Educational Retirement Board, Public Employees Retirement Association and State Investment Council to invest in the pool.

The Public Employees Retirement Association, Educational Retirement Board, Office of the State Treasurer and State Investment Council all must provide the state auditor with an annual financial audit report. House Bill 50 (Chapter 3) requires those agencies to provide their annual financial audit report to the State Board of Finance within six months after the report is due to the state auditor.

The Accountability in Government Act is intended to provide for more cost-effective and responsive government services by using the state budget process and defined outputs, outcomes and performance measures to annually evaluate the performance of state government programs. Senate Bill 58 (Chapter 23) requires the State Budget Division of the DFA to notify agencies required to submit performance-based program budgets for selected programs for which the agency is responsible and requires the agency to inventory and identify each sub-program as evidence-based, research-based, promising or lacking evidence of effectiveness and compile an inventory of specified components for each sub-program. The results will be submitted annually with the agency's budget requests, and the governor's proposed annual budget is required to contain the amount of the budget recommendation that is intended for evidence-based, research-based and promising sub-programs.

Prior to taking final agency action, the commissioner of public lands is now required pursuant to Senate Bill 458 (Chapter 115) to publish notice of, and hold a public meeting to receive public comment regarding, land sales, land exchanges, right-of-way permits for electrical transmission lines in excess of 230 kilovolts situated on state trust land and right-of-way permits for oil or gas pipelines in excess of 24 inches in diameter and at least 10 contiguous miles in length situated on state trust land.

Many boards and commissions established in state statutes terminate after a set time period. Senate Bill 356 (Chapter 168) extends for six years, until July 1, 2026, the existence of the Board of Nursing Home Administrators, the Board of Barbers and Cosmetologists, the Board of Landscape Architects, the Coal Surface Mining Commission and the Water Quality Control Commission.

Property and Procurement

In 2018, land and buildings owned by the State Parks Division of the EMNRD that were part of Mesilla Valley Bosque State Park were transferred to the State Game Commission. Senate Bill 533 (Chapter 171) requires the State Game Commission to return the property to the State Parks Division for the purpose of reestablishing Mesilla Valley Bosque State Park as it existed prior to the transfer.

In 2008, the Cultural Affairs Department purchased the historic Los Luceros farm and ranch property near the village of Alcalde in Rio Arriba County. The history of the 148-acre property and ranch house dates back to the Spanish colonial development of land grant communities. House Local Government, Land Grants and Cultural Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 692 (Chapter 113) formally designates the Los Luceros property as part of the Museum of New Mexico and places it under the management of the State Historic Sites and Monuments Division of the Cultural Affairs Department.

In the 1930s, the Department of Game and Fish acquired approximately 22 acres of land within the historic boundaries of the Tierra Amarilla Land Grant-Merced and established a stock pond on the location. Senate Joint Resolution 2 ratifies a decision by the State Game Commission to transfer the stock pond to the Tierra Amarilla Land Grant-Merced rather than simply decommissioning the facility.

The Historic District and Landmark Act was initially enacted to give counties and municipalities the power to preserve and protect historic areas and landmarks within the state. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 219 (Chapter 93) applies the provisions of this act to any construction or renovation of a state building.

Senate Bill 88 (Chapter 153) transfers the professional services contract review responsibilities of the Contracts Review Bureau of the Administrative Services Division of the DFA to the Purchasing Division of the General Services Department. Additionally, the bill requires state agencies to annually report information on the amount of state agency contracts awarded to in-state and out-of-state contractors to the Purchasing Division and clarifies requirements relating to the award of sole-source and emergency procurement contracts.

Lastly, House Bill 430 (Chapter 63) adds clarifying language to current law providing that the purchase of library materials for public, school and state libraries and publishing and distribution services for materials produced by the Cultural Affairs Department are exempt from the Procurement Code.

TAXATION

Tax-related bills passed by the legislature and signed by the governor incorporate issues that have been discussed by legislators for several years, including providing for the taxation of internet sellers and nonprofit and government hospitals in a tax package, addressing the backlog of owed credits pursuant to the Film Production Tax Credit Act and excluding contractors that operate national laboratories from a gross receipts tax exemption. In addition, tax expenditures are expanded, limited, clarified and created; local governments get more say over what their tax revenue can pay for; it is made clearer that increments from the state gross receipts tax for tax increment development districts can only be used to secure bonds authorized by the legislature; and much more.

The tax package that passed this session is House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 6 (Chapter 270, p.v.), which makes substantial and complex changes to the tax code, including:

- ◆ applying the state gross receipts tax and, beginning July 1, 2021, local gross receipts and compensating taxes to third-party marketplace sellers that use marketplace providers, such as online retailers, to facilitate sales;
- ◆ also beginning July 1, 2021, sourcing sales subject to gross receipts taxes to the location of the buyer instead of the seller;
- ◆ subjecting for-profit hospitals to state and local option gross receipts taxes, nonprofit hospitals to the state gross receipts tax and government hospitals to the governmental gross receipts tax. The bill also allows the hospitals a 60% deduction from those taxes;
- ◆ requiring corporate income tax combined reporting for multistate corporations;
- ◆ creating a new top personal income tax bracket of 5.9% on higher-income taxpayers;
- ◆ increasing the working families tax credit from 10% to 17% of the federal earned income tax credit;
- ◆ creating a dependent deduction to offset impacts from the federal Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017;
- ◆ increasing the cigarette tax to $.10 per cigarette;
- ◆ imposing the tobacco products tax on e-cigarettes and reducing the tax on cigars; and
- ◆ increasing the motor vehicle excise tax from 3% to 4% and distributing the new revenue for road projects.

Significant changes are made to the Film Production Tax Credit Act by Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 2 (Chapter 87). This bill increases the $50 million annual aggregate cap on credits that can be paid to $110 million, except that expenditures from New Mexico film partners, a newly defined term, are excluded from the cap and are not subject to the limitation. In addition to the new cap, the bill authorizes the TRD to pay off up to $225 million of the backlog of credits, $30 million of which is contingent on FY 2019 revenues exceeding the consensus revenue forecast. The bill also makes structural changes to clarify and simplify administration of the credits.

Other tax expenditures are amended to expand or limit their fiscal impacts or to clarify administration. Senate Bill 425 (Chapter 186) extends for an additional 10-year period a gross receipts tax deduction for sales by a qualified contractor of qualified research and development services and qualified directed energy and satellite-related inputs when sold pursuant to a contract with the United States Department of Defense. Senate Bill 11 (Chapter 44) limits a gross receipts tax exemption for nonprofits by excluding contractors that manage national laboratories such as Los Alamos National Laboratory and Sandia National Laboratories, as well as contractors that operate research facilities owned by the state. House Bill 165 (Chapter 233) amends the high-wage jobs tax credit by reducing the value of the credit, but it also increases the per job maximum amount, which makes the change more revenue neutral. To be eligible for the credit, businesses now only need to meet the requirements of the Job Training Incentive Program provided by Section 21-19-7 NMSA 1978, and the deadline to create new jobs is extended to July 1, 2026. The amounts that can be used to assist small businesses and be claimed as a national laboratory partnership with small business tax credit are doubled by House Bill 526 (Chapter 64), but the annual aggregate cap is kept the same so there is no fiscal impact. Senate Bill 16 (Chapter 49) clarifies that a gross receipts tax deduction for receipts from testing and transporting milk can be taken against either activity individually instead of both having to be performed. A gross receipts tax deduction for selling certain chemicals and reagents is amended by Senate Bill 549 (Chapter 172) to limit sales in lots in excess of 18 tons to certain hard-rock mining and milling companies. A new tax expenditure is created in the Income Tax Act by House Bill 163 (Chapter 264), which allows a taxpayer that is an estate or trust to claim a deduction for income that is set aside for future distribution to an individual beneficiary who is not a resident of New Mexico.

Several bills affect municipalities and counties, particularly changes to local option gross receipts taxes made by House Bill 479 (Chapter 274). This bill removes requirements of how municipalities and counties can use revenue from certain local option gross receipts taxes and allows the revenue to be used for any municipal or county purpose. Many individual local option gross receipts taxes with specific purposes are repealed, and increments from those taxes are shifted to the general purpose municipal gross receipts tax and county gross receipts tax. House Bill 257 (Chapter 17) expands the permissible uses of revenue from the municipal environmental services gross receipts tax to include the collection of solid waste and disposal of demolition debris and infrastructure necessary for storm water runoff control. Senate Bill 106 (Chapter 25) strikes an exemption from the occupancy tax for vendors that do not offer at least three rooms within or attached to a taxable premises for lodging or at least three other premises for lodging. Regarding property tax, the income limitation for a property tax valuation freeze for certain low-income property owners who are age 65 or older or disabled is increased from $32,000 to $35,000 by House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 429 (Chapter 140). The increased income limitation is indexed to the Consumer Price Index.

Pursuant to the County Local Option Gross Receipts Taxes Act, eligible counties have been able to impose a local option gross receipts tax in increments of up to .25% to provide for medical and behavioral health services and the operation of emergency communications centers. This tax is known as a county area emergency communications and emergency medical and behavioral health services tax. These counties may also issue tax revenue bonds to be repaid by this gross receipts tax for the purpose of purchasing emergency communications equipment. House Bill 157 (Chapter 210) grants additional authority to counties to use the revenue attributable to the tax for construction or purchase of an emergency communications center building.

Many changes are made to the Tax Increment for Development Act by Senate Bill 566 (Chapter 275), primarily to clarify that the act only allows increments of the state gross receipts tax to be used to secure bonds that are authorized by the legislature. The bill also requires the State Board of Finance to prioritize in its consideration the creation of new full-time economic base jobs when reviewing a tax increment development plan for approval and requires a district to pay a filing fee and report to the State Board of Finance and the Legislative Finance Committee capital investment and jobs created in the district.

The manner in which taxpayers may appeal tax assessments is addressed in Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 129 (Chapter 157). A taxpayer may initiate an appeal by filing a tax protest or claiming a refund after paying disputed taxes. The bill makes general changes in the process for filing and processing a tax appeal, and a prevailing taxpayer may now be awarded reasonable litigation costs and attorney fees. Changes to the Administrative Hearings Office Act provide for optional informal conferences between the taxpayer and the TRD in an effort to resolve the dispute and establish specific time lines for steps in the appeal process.

Finally, House Bill 162 (Chapter 47) applies the provisions of the Tax Administration Act to the Insurance Premium Tax Act that will go into effect on January 1, 2020. This will bring the Insurance Premium Tax Act under the authority of the TRD so it can be administered like the vast majority of other taxes in the state.

UTILITIES

Several bills affecting utilities became law this year, but one in particular captured a significant amount of attention during the session that will have long-term and far-reaching effects on financing the abandonment of coal-fired power plants and significantly increasing the percentage of retail sales of electricity that must be from renewable energy sources.

Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 489 (Chapter 65) creates and amends multiple sections of various acts, and one of the primary purposes of the bill is to create the Energy Transition Act. This act authorizes the use of energy transition bonds by public utilities as a securitization method for financing the abandonment of coal-fired power plants, which allows the public utility to recover all costs involved with abandoning the plant. Additionally, the act provides that a fee can be imposed by the PRC to contract with bond counsel to assist PRC staff in reviewing an application from a public utility for a financing order for the bonds, and the PRC is required to approve the application if certain requirements of the applicant public utility are met. Funds are created to assist communities affected by the abandonment of a plant, including severance and job training for displaced workers. Another primary purpose of the bill is to increase the renewable portfolio standards for public utilities, which now have a requirement to supply 100% of their retail sales with renewable energy by 2045, and rural electric cooperatives, which have a target, as opposed to a requirement, of achieving a 100% renewable energy supply by 2050. The bill also amends the duties of the Environmental Improvement Board to adopt standards of performance that limit carbon dioxide emissions from coal-fired plants to 1,100 pounds per megawatt-hour beginning January 1, 2023.

House Bill 521 (Chapter 196) requires a public utility to submit an application to the PRC to expand the use of electricity to power vehicles and other equipment that transport goods or people. The bill provides that a person who engages in the retail distribution of electricity to power vehicles is not a public utility pursuant to the Public Utility Act, expanding the existing exceptions to the definition of "public utility".

The Efficient Use of Energy Act provides incentives for public electric utilities to implement energy efficiency and load management programs by removing regulatory disincentives and allowing the recovery of costs expended on the programs. House Bill 291 (Chapter 202) amends the act by creating a duty of the PRC to remove, upon the petition of a public utility, regulatory disincentives by adopting a rate adjustment mechanism that allows the utility to recover the same revenue per customer as approved in the utility's general rate case regardless of the amount of electricity actually sold. The PRC, in removing regulatory disincentives, will ensure that a public utility's return on equity or profit incentives are not diminished. The energy savings requirement for electric utilities of 8% of 2005 retail sales by 2020 is replaced with a savings goal of 5% of 2020 retail sales by 2025 and, by June 30, 2025, the PRC will adopt energy savings targets for years 2026 through 2030.

Amending the voting provisions of the Rural Electric Cooperative Act, House Bill 300 (Chapter 131) authorizes a rural electric cooperative through its bylaws to allow a vote submitted by mailed ballot to be counted toward establishing a quorum for the purpose of voting on the specific issue presented in the mailed ballot.

WATER

In most legislative sessions, only a handful of bills dealing with water issues are introduced and even fewer pass and are signed into law. The 2019 session, however, saw an abundance of bills introduced addressing water concerns in the state. The water bills that became law effectuate nuanced changes to processes surrounding the administration of water rights, codify the Interstate Stream Commission's role in assisting acequias with infrastructure needs and provide tools to support a more robust understanding of New Mexico's waters through aquifer mapping and the collection and management of water data.

Water law statutes require a notice of an application for appropriation of surface water, ground water storage and recovery, water use leasing, appropriation of ground water and export of water outside the state to be published in newspapers to provide the general public with notice of the application.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 12 (Chapter 88) creates a uniform process for the publication of notices affecting water rights and deadlines for filing objections. The state engineer must post on the Office of the State Engineer's website a notice that contains the essential facts of the application, the name of the newspaper in which the applicant will be required to publish notice, the contact information for the state engineer district office where the application and supporting documentation are located and the date by which objections to the application may be filed.

Pursuant to the Water-Use Leasing Act, an owner of a water right may lease to another person the use of all or any part of the water use due the owner in accordance with the procedures of the act. With the enactment of House Bill 17 (Chapter 121), an acequia or community ditch may, in accordance with its rules or bylaws, require the lease of a water right served by the acequia or community ditch, or any lease in which a water right is moved into and then served by the acequia or community ditch, to be approved by the acequia or community ditch commissioners in accordance with the established procedures for acequia or community ditch approval of changes in point of diversion or place or purpose of use. Also related to acequias and community ditches, Senate Bill 438 (Chapter 169) codifies the Interstate Stream Commission's authority to provide funding for the planning, engineering design or construction of irrigation works of acequias or community ditches, creates the Acequia and Community Ditch Infrastructure Fund and establishes a consistent funding source for the fund by transferring $2.5 million annually from the New Mexico Irrigation Works Construction Fund.

Multiple academic, state, regional and federal agencies collect and manage water data in New Mexico, but the data is not integrated, readily accessible or operable among agencies or scientific endeavors. House Bill 651 (Chapter 147) enacts the Water Data Act and provides a framework for the Bureau of Geology and Mineral Resources of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, the Interstate Stream Commission, the Office of the State Engineer, the Department of Environment and the EMNRD to consolidate water data and develop common water data standards and best practices. The agencies will identify key water data sets, whether existent or needed, develop tools that collect, organize, integrate, distribute and archive water data and collaborate with other regional and national efforts to share, integrate and manage water data.

Through the state's regional water planning process, mapping of the state's aquifers has been identified as a priority to achieve effective water planning. To assist in achieving this goal, House Bill 276 (Chapter 18) establishes the Advanced Mapping Fund to be used by the state engineer for technologies such as light detection and ranging; underground aquifer mapping; high-resolution aerial photography; and three-dimensional mapping. Although no money was appropriated to the fund in this session, the fund may receive future appropriations and donations from the state and federal governments, political subdivisions of the state and private entities.
