"All around the world, same song"

-Gregory Edward Jacobs

Although it is certainly the obvious place to start, sufficient volumes have already been written about the COVID-19 pandemic and its seismic effects. Still, it would be impossible to tell the story of the 2021 session of the legislature, and the special sessions bookending it, without at least mentioning some of the ways the session intersected with the pandemic. Tempting as it may be to discuss the First Session of the Fifty-Fifth Legislature, and the events leading up to it, in terms of how monumentally different it all was, a broader view shows the legislature murmuring a refrain heard around the world, one of staying safe while finding unorthodox new ways to perform the same functions. By the end of 2020, in-person meetings had largely been replaced by video conferencing, just as restaurant meals were replaced by curbside pickup. It was similar for the New Mexico Legislature: constitutional provisions meant meeting, but the pandemic meant doing so in ways undreamt of in 2019.

By the middle of 2020, as the pandemic death toll continued to climb, businesses, schools, governments and families had all begun to make massive adjustments in order to perform even the most basic functions, all in the name of public health. Although a vaccine was developed and approved in late 2020, it was clear that its rollout would take months, at best. The writing on the wall said that things were still dangerous, and it was not safe to return to normal just yet.

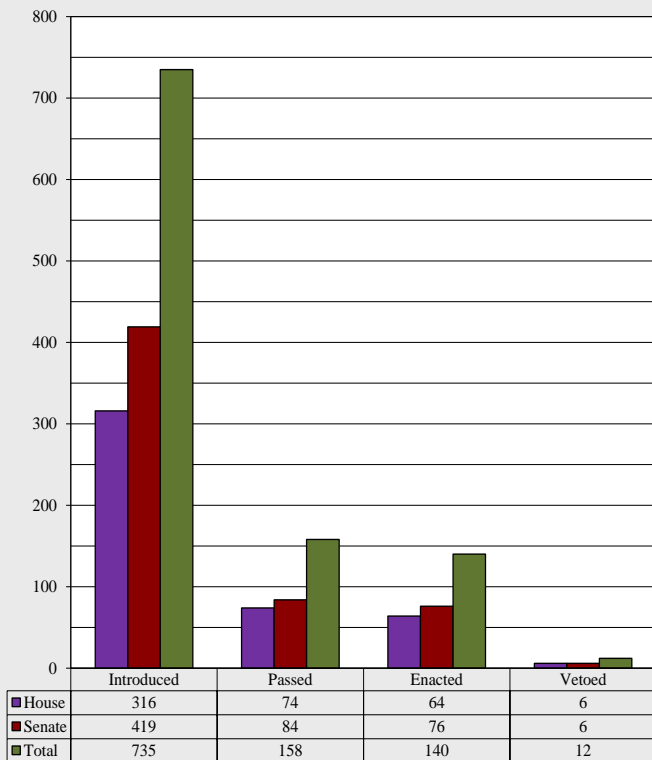

Thus, the legislature had to develop entirely new ways of performing its duties, a task that began in preparation for a June 2020 special session. Rules put in place for the June special session were mostly kept in place for a one-day special session in November 2020 to continue to address pandemic relief measures.

While both the House and Senate had relatively different approaches to the first and second special sessions (the House allowed members to participate and vote remotely, while the Senate limited the number of members in the chamber at any one time), it became clear that what worked for short special sessions would need to be further developed for a full 60-day session. In the end, committee meetings for both chambers, and floor sessions for the House, were largely held via videoconference. The platform, while far from ideal, had some unforeseen-at-the-time benefits.

At the same time as the legislature was grappling with how to meet, two other national plot lines were developing. One, a national reckoning over racial justice, spurred by police shootings of minority citizens, saw widespread protests and civil unrest in cities across the United States. Second, a fiercely contested presidential election led to unsubstantiated claims of voter fraud, which in turn led to an attack on the United States Capitol on January 6, 2021. As the start date for the regular session in New Mexico neared, concerns about the safety of the State Capitol, particularly in response to the events of January 6, resulted in erection of a fence around the State Capitol complex. Security checkpoints were set up for members, staff and media, and no other visitors were allowed inside. In the end, the switch to videoconference for committee meetings, because of health reasons, allowed the public to participate in the legislative process in an unprecedented way, as security reasons would likely have denied them the chance to participate in person anyway.

While many staff members and legislators were able to work and participate remotely, many others continued to work in the building. Although the fence around the State Capitol complex and security checkpoints were striking enough, the scene inside of the building was no less surreal. Long lines for COVID-19 testing replaced the bustle of displays and ceremonies in the rotunda, plexiglass barriers and hand sanitizing stations were placed throughout the building (including in both chambers) and the normal vibrant energy of the building was replaced with an eerie quiet. Joint sessions of the House and Senate, including the traditional opening day address from the governor, were scrapped, as were most other ceremonial proceedings that accompany other sessions.

Of course, the building's atmosphere was not the only thing replaced in 2021. The 2020 primary and general elections saw the defeat of a number of powerful legislators, including the sitting senate president pro tempore and the chair of the Senate Finance Committee, and the resulting election of many new faces. In all, 23 new members of the legislature, 12 House members and 11 Senate members, were sworn in on opening day. As a result, a handful of measures that failed to pass in recent sessions found success.

Despite calls to delay it, health and security concerns and new rules and untested procedures in place, the First Session of the Fifty-Fifth Legislature began on January 19, 2021 and adjourned on March 20, 2021. During that time, 735 bills were introduced: 316 House bills and 419 Senate bills. Of those, 158 passed (74 House bills and 84 Senate bills) and 140 were signed into law by the governor. One joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment was also passed.

As required by the Constitution of New Mexico, one of those passed bills included a $7.4 billion budget. Other notable measures enacted by the legislature and signed by the governor included liquor license reform, decriminalization of abortion, a significant tax package, COVID-19 relief for individuals and businesses, increased broadband internet access for New Mexicans, the New Mexico Civil Rights Act, paid sick leave for privately owned businesses and numerous environmental law and education changes. Each of those bills is discussed in further detail in their respective sections in the Highlights.

Each session, a number of high profile bills fail to pass, and the same was true in 2021. Bills capping interest rates on installment loans and ending daylight savings time met their demise upon adjournment. However, the governor deemed one issue, legalization of recreational cannabis, important enough to call the legislature back into special session on March 30, a mere 10 days after the regular session adjourned.

The Highlights is an annual publication of the Legislative Council Service (LCS) that summarizes much, but not all, of the legislative action during each session. The omission of certain legislation or issues should not be interpreted as an indication that those are not important; each is important to someone. Many issues in the Highlights defy single-topic categorization, so every effort has been made to organize and cross-reference the contents. A complete listing of bills that passed is included in the Concordance located in Appendix E.

FIFTY-FIFTH LEGISLATURE
FIRST SESSION, 2021

AGING

This year, two aging-related bills were enacted that affect long-term care facilities. One is a new law that provides protections for residents with dementia in long-term care facilities, and the other updates existing law to require long-term care facility providers to be more accountable to their residents.

To improve training for staff working with persons with dementia in long-term care facilities, House State Government, Elections and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 250 (Chapter 111) requires long-term care facilities licensed by the state to provide training and continued education to staff members on recognizing and treating Alzheimer's disease and dementia. Training on person-centered care, activities of daily living and other subjects identified by the Department of Health are also required.

Senate Bill 152 (Chapter 56) makes changes to the Continuing Care Act to increase transparency and provide additional protections to actual and potential residents of continuing care communities. The Continuing Care Act is amended to require comprehensive, instead of summarial, actuarial analyses from the owner or manager, known as the provider, of continuing care communities. Providers must now also submit a time line for disclosure statements to the Aging and Long-Term Services Department and provide a resident relocation plan in resident contracts. Provisions to enhance enforcement are also included to allow anyone to report a violation of the Continuing Care Act to the attorney general, who is now required to review the violation report and take appropriate action.

ALCOHOL

For decades, the legislature has been seeking ways to revamp how alcohol is sold and sellers are licensed in New Mexico. This year's efforts place the state more in line with how other states regulate the sale of alcohol, allow for the delivery of alcoholic beverages, create new avenues for restaurants to be licensed to sell alcoholic beverages and provide economic relief for liquor license holders negatively affected by the COVID-19 pandemic shutdowns.

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 255 (Chapter 7) makes the first comprehensive revisions to the Liquor Control Act in many years. Among its varied provisions, the bill allows a person who holds a liquor license to obtain a permit for the delivery of limited amounts of alcoholic beverages; however, certain provisions apply for a licensee whose licensed premises are within a class A county and whose indoor retail space exceeds 10,000 square feet. If the licensee is a restaurant, the delivery of alcoholic beverages must be accompanied by a food delivery of at least $10.00. Two new types of restaurant licenses, restaurant A and B licenses, are created by this bill. Restaurant A licensees are initially restricted to selling and serving only beer and wine, but food sales must be at least 60% of the restaurant's business. After 12 months of operation in good standing, a restaurant A licensee may apply for a New Mexico spirituous liquors permit authorizing the licensee to sell and serve spirituous liquors produced or bottled by or for a New Mexico craft distiller. Restaurant B licensees may sell and serve beer, wine and spirituous liquors, but food sales must be at least 60% of the restaurant's business and a patron may only be served three drinks with spirituous liquors. A restaurant with an A or B license may now be located within 300 feet of a church or school. There is a flat license fee of $1,050 imposed for new restaurant A licenses and a $10,000 fee for new restaurant B licenses.

In addition, for four years, persons who are dispenser license holders or lessors as of June 30, 2021, and who have sales of alcoholic beverages for consumption off premises that account for less than 50% of total alcoholic beverage sales, are eligible for a tax deduction from taxable income or gross receipts of an amount equal to receipts from sales of alcoholic beverages, but not exceeding $50,000 per year. Liquor license fees are waived for 10 years for those who purchased their licenses during calendar years 2017 through 2021. Except for McKinley County, the long-standing restrictions on the sale and service of alcoholic beverages on Sundays and Christmas Day are repealed. Furthermore, the sale of "mini" bottles of spirituous liquors (fewer than three fluid ounces) for off-premises consumption is prohibited statewide, while in McKinley County, a convenience store or other retailer that sells gasoline can sell only beer with less than 10% alcohol by volume. An expired identification document is now valid for verifying a person is of lawful age to consume or purchase alcoholic beverages, and, with the exception of delivered alcoholic beverages, a person is not required to produce an age-verifying document if the person clearly looks older than 35 years of age.

The Liquor Control Act already prohibits an importer, manufacturer, nonresident licensee or any type of wholesaler from providing a retailer, restaurant, club, governmental or other licensee with anything of substantial value in order to persuade or influence those licensees to purchase specific brands of alcoholic beverages. With the enactment of House Bill 303 (Chapter 117), a retailer, restaurant, club or other type of licensee is now prohibited from soliciting or accepting financial or other inducements from suppliers or wholesalers.

In order to minimize the burden of COVID-19 pandemic-related closures on businesses in the state, Senate Bill 2 (Chapter 6) waives the next annual renewal fee for all licenses issued pursuant to the Liquor Control Act.

ANIMALS

The sole bill to pass the legislature in 2021 regarding animals, Senate Bill 32 (Chapter 25) enacts the Wildlife Conservation and Public Safety Act, widely referred to as Roxy's Law, named after a dog that was caught and killed by a trap on public land. The bill prohibits the use of traps, snares and wildlife poison on public lands, but provides exceptions for tribal members and certain depredation trapping. Violations of the act could be met with misdemeanor charges and penalties to reimburse the enforcement of the act by state agencies.

APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

The 2021 regular legislative session began with the nation no longer in recession, but far from recovered. Recently approved vaccines offered a possible path out of the pandemic both medically and economically, but it was not assured. Amid a mix of encouraging economic news and continued uncertainty, the legislature took action to maintain, stabilize and, in some cases, expand state services to struggling New Mexico residents and businesses. The month before the session began, the United States Food and Drug Administration issued an emergency use authorization for the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine, soon followed by authorization of the Moderna vaccine. At the opening day of the session 2% of the nation's population and 3% of New Mexicans had been inoculated against COVID-19. The pace of vaccination accelerated throughout the session, and by the closing day, 23% of the United States and 26% of New Mexicans were covered by vaccinations.

The revenue picture in New Mexico changed rapidly leading up to the legislative session. The June 2020 consensus revenue estimate sounded alarms with expectations of fiscal year (FY) 2021 revenue at only $5.9 billion and recovering to only $6.2 billion by FY 2022. Shortly after seeing negative oil prices for the first time in history, the June 2020 forecast was based on oil averaging only $31.00 per barrel for FY 2021 and $41.00 per barrel for FY 2022. However, surprisingly higher-than-predicted, stabilizing oil prices, coupled with hopes of a successful vaccine, led to the estimate made in December 2020 for FY 2021 revenue to be revised upwards by more than a billion dollars to $7 billion and expectations for FY 2022 General Fund revenues to recover to $7.4 billion.

By the mid-session revenue update in February 2021, there were further reasons for hope and further revisions upward, bringing expectations for revenue in FY 2021 to $7.2 billion and recovery in FY 2022 up to $7.5 billion, although these levels were still hundreds of millions below the recurring General Fund revenue received in FY 2020 of $7.9 billion. Pre-pandemic revenue levels were not expected to be regained until FY 2024. On a positive note, expectations for oil prices by mid-session had improved to $43.50 per barrel for FY 2021 and $47.00 per barrel in FY 2022. Furthermore, giving some relief from uncertainty and struggling revenue, General Fund reserve balances at the end of FY 2020 were $2.5 billion, or 35.4% of recurring appropriations.

While inflationary cost increases are not uniform across the provision of government services, it is useful to examine budget growth in comparison to actual and future expectations of inflation. As measured by forecasts for growth in the major United States inflation index (the overall Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers), most national forecasts for FY 2022 inflation at the time of the legislative session were between 2% and 3%. The two national forecasters used by the Consensus Revenue Estimating Group predicted FY 2022 inflation of 2.4% (from IHS Global Insight) and 2.3% (from Moody's Analytics) at their January 2021 forecasts. Inflation-adjusted targeting of flat salaries and flat budgets (zero real growth) would require nominal increases somewhat above 2%.

General Appropriation Act

After action taken by the governor, the General Appropriation Act of 2021 (GAA), enacted in House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bills 2 and 3 (Chapter 137, p.v.), appropriates $7.9 billion in recurring and nonrecurring spending in FY 2021 and FY 2022. In FY 2022, appropriations to agencies for operating expenses total over $7.4 billion, a year-over-year increase of 5.4%. The GAA also allocates $64 million to provide a 1.5% cost-of-living salary increase for state government employees and employees at the state's public and higher education institutions, as well as an additional 2% increase in pay for judges. Additionally, $34 million is appropriated to fund a 1% employer contribution increase to retirement for employees in public and higher education served by the Educational Retirement Board system.

Where year-over-year comparisons are noted, they represent the difference between an appropriation recipient's FY 2022 appropriation under the GAA and the prior year's ultimate recurring appropriation it received, incorporating both initial appropriations and subsequent reductions, or "sanding", in the 2020 first special session.

◆ Public School Support; Other Education

The "Public School Support" category receives the most recurring General Fund appropriations of any category of the GAA at $3.35 billion, which includes funding for the state equalization guarantee distribution that finances K-12 public education as well as the public school personnel salary increases noted above. The appropriation includes $120 million for the K-5 Plus Program, $160 million for extended learning time programs and $35 million for school districts and charter schools to purchase culturally and linguistically appropriate instructional materials for eligible students.

In the "Other Education" category, $34.3 million is appropriated from the General Fund in FY 2022. Of that amount, $14.4 million is appropriated for the operating budget of the Public Education Department (PED), $1 million is allocated to regional education cooperatives and $18.9 million is provided for special appropriations to the PED. See the Education section of these Highlights for a more detailed summary of public school initiatives funded in the GAA.

◆ Higher Education

The GAA appropriates $866.8 million from the General Fund for New Mexico's public post-secondary educational institutions and the Higher Education Department. The Higher Education Department receives just under $40.4 million, including $7 million for the Opportunity Scholarship Program, and the two largest universities in the state are allocated more than 61% of the funding, with the University of New Mexico and New Mexico State University set to receive $326 million and $208.4 million, respectively.

◆ Judiciary

Judicial agencies are appropriated $323.3 million in the GAA, an overall increase of 0.6%. District attorneys in all districts and the Administrative Office of the District Attorneys receive flat budgets in the GAA. The New Mexico Supreme Court budget increases by 3.9% to $6.5 million, whereas the budget for the Administrative Office of the Courts decreases by 3.3% to $37.2 million. The Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court receives $25.1 million; its 0.6% increase from the prior year was smaller than any of the 13 district courts that saw increases ranging from 0.9% for the Seventh Judicial District Court to 2.7% for the First Judicial District Court. Additionally, the Public Defender Department receives an increase of 1.8%, bringing its FY 2021 appropriation to $57.2 million.

◆ General Control

In the GAA, general control agency General Fund appropriations increase 4.4% to $156.7 million for FY 2022. The agency receiving the largest General Fund appropriation in this category, the Taxation and Revenue Department, has a budget increase of 0.9% to $64.7 million. The Office of the Governor's budget is raised 3.4% to $4.56 million, while the Secretary of State is allocated $16.6 million from the General Fund, a 55.8% increase.

◆ Commerce and Industry

Taking a small step back after the prior year's increase of almost 14%, the "Commerce and Industry" category appropriations are decreased 0.7% to $64.3 million for FY 2022. Although most agencies saw decreases, the Spaceport Authority and the Public Regulation Commission appropriations both grew about 8%, bringing the Spaceport Authority's appropriation slightly above $2 million and the Public Regulation Commission's appropriation to $9.5 million. Almost one-half of the Commerce and Industry category is composed of the two agencies with the largest budgets in this category, the Tourism Department and the Economic Development Department, which are reduced by 3.3% and 1.7%

¹Includes appropriations in Chapter 1 (Feed Bill) and portions of Sections 4, 5, 9 and 12 of Chapter 137 (GAA). Does not include appropriations in Section 8 of Chapter 137 or in Chapter 138 (Capital Outlay Bill).

respectively, to $16.6 million and $13.6 million. Four agencies in this category are tied for the steepest cuts, with the appropriations for the State Ethics Commission, the Gaming Control Board, the Cumbres and Toltec Scenic Railroad Commission and the Office of Military Base Planning and Support all reduced by 5%.

◆ Health, Hospitals and Human Services

An overall increase of 3.7% is provided for health, hospitals and human services agencies for a total of almost $2 billion. The Human Services Department receives the largest share, by far, at over $1.15 billion, a 5.7% increase, followed by the Department of Health at $313 million, a 3.6% increase. The third largest share of $210.9 million is appropriated to the Children, Youth and Families Department, a 1.2% decrease; this lower budget is attributed to savings in lower out-of-home placement of children in the care of the Protective Services Division. Like most agencies in this category, the preponderance of Department of Environment funding comes from federal funds and state funds other than the General Fund. Targeting the Department of Environment's ability to meet federal grant requirements, its General Fund appropriation is boosted significantly by 17.1% to $15.4 million.

◆ Public Safety

Public safety agencies are appropriated $474.1 million in FY 2022, a 0.5% decrease from their prior budgets. The Corrections Department receives over two-thirds of the appropriations in this category, although its $328 million allocation is a 0.6% reduction. The second largest recipient in this category, the Department of Public Safety, is flat at $129 million. Furthermore, the Parole Board and Juvenile Parole Board appropriations are both reduced by 5%.

◆ Other Appropriations and Fund Transfers

In most years, the Department of Transportation does not receive appropriations from the General Fund, but instead relies on funding from the Federal Highway Administration and the State Road Fund. However, the GAA appropriates $300 million from the General Fund to the Department of Transportation in FY 2021 and subsequent fiscal years. The appropriation is split into three parts, with the largest amount of $170 million designated for acquisition of rights of way, planning, design, construction, equipment and capital facility improvements and to match federal and other state funds for projects, specifically including a number of projects named in Section 9 of the GAA that are divided among the six transportation districts in the state. Another $121 million is appropriated to the Department of Transportation for the Transportation Project Fund, which is used to make grants to counties, municipalities and Indian nations, tribes and pueblos. The last $9 million portion is for essential air service.

The GAA makes a number of fund transfers from the General Fund into funds supporting education in New Mexico, including: $20 million to the Teacher Preparation Affordability Scholarship Fund; $15 million to the College Affordability Endowment Fund; and $5 million each to the Teacher Loan Repayment Fund, the National Board Certification Scholarship Fund and the Higher Education Endowment Fund.

The Appropriation Contingency Fund of the General Fund is available for disaster relief for emergencies declared by the governor. Due to larger-than-normal disaster allotments out of the Appropriation Contingency Fund for COVID-19-related responses, an appropriation of $50 million is made to the fund in FY 2021.

Feed Bill

House Bill 1 (Chapter 1), known as the "feed bill" because it funds the legislative session, appropriates $29.7 million from the General Fund for the legislature, legislative agencies and session-related funding for two public safety agency agencies for expenditure in FY 2021 and FY 2022. Of that amount, $8.4 million provides for the operations of the 2021 legislative session, and the remainder supports interim activities and year-round operational costs of the legislative agencies that include the LCS ($6.2 million), Legislative Education Study Committee ($1.3 million), Legislative Finance Committee ($4.4 million), house and senate chief clerks' offices ($1.7 and $1.8 million, respectively, including additional funding for leadership staff) and Legislative Information System ($1.6 million) for non-salary expenses. The bill also includes funding of $35,000 for the Senate Rules Committee's interim expenses. Due to abnormal demands stemming from the pandemic, the feed bill also includes rare one-time appropriations to non-legislative agencies, the Department of Public Safety ($1.48 million) and the Department of Military Affairs ($674,000), to support the provision of security of the State Capitol during the legislative session.

Other Appropriations

After a couple of years' hiatus, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 377 (Chapter 140, p.v.), known as "House Bill 2 junior", came roaring back to spend a grand total of $246 million from several funding sources, for both nonrecurring and recurring expenditures, on a variety of projects throughout the state. The three biggest appropriations in the bill are: $110 million for broadband infrastructure and services throughout the state, including support for unserved areas in the state, public schools and local governments; $100 million to repay federal Unemployment Trust Fund loans; and $10.6 million for Native American students. See Table 7 and Table 8 in Appendix B for details of these appropriations and line-item vetoes.

Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 439 (Chapter 126) appropriates $165,000 from legislative cash balances to provide $300 to all legislative permanent, temporary and contract staff who worked in the State Capitol during the public health emergency.

Public Finance

Senate Bill 64 (Chapter 29) provides a technical fix to clarify the type of federally insured obligations in which a county or municipality may invest. The bill replaces the specific phrase "registry services" with the general phrase "placement service", which allows local governments more flexibility in how they invest in federally insured obligations.

Once available funding became clearer following the changes to state transportation project bonds during the First Special Session of the Fifty-Fourth Legislature, the enactment of Senate Bill 121 (Chapter 43) allows the issuance and sale of state transportation project bonds to fund eligible transportation projects. The bill authorizes bonding in an amount not to exceed $234.6 million.

With the enactment of Senate Bill 187 (Chapter 60), an additional distribution to the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund is authorized in FY 2022. Traditionally, all tobacco settlement revenue is deposited into the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund, and 50% of that amount is then deposited into the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund annually. For FY 2022, the bill requires that the additional 50% remaining in the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund be transferred to the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund.

To ensure proper funding for municipal and county fire departments, Senate Bill 256 (Chapter 125) enacts changes to the Fire Protection Fund and the Fire Protection Grant Fund. The bill provides that the projected balance in the Fire Protection Fund be periodically transferred to the Fire Protection Grant Fund. In addition, the bill extends the use of the grant fund to recruiting and retention programs for volunteer firefighters and removes the provision that stipends be provided only to volunteer firefighters in underserved areas.

New Mexico Finance Authority

Unlike in previous years when appropriations from the Public Project Revolving Fund (PPRF) were made in several bills, this year a single bill was signed into law to appropriate money to four different funds administered by the New Mexico Finance Authority (NMFA). Senate Bill 70 (Chapter 30) allocates $2 million from the PPRF to the Local Government Planning Fund for qualified entities to develop plans for infrastructure, water and wastewater projects; $2.5 million to the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund to carry out the purposes of the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund Act and provide state matching funds for federal Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974 projects; $5 million to the Cultural Affairs Facilities Infrastructure Fund to pay the costs of Cultural Affairs Department facilities and exhibits; and $1.8 million to the Wastewater Facility Construction Loan Fund to carry out the purposes of the Wastewater Facility Construction Loan Act and to provide matching funds for federal Clean Water Act of 1977 projects.

Additionally, the governor signed two bills authorizing the financing of local public projects around the state. Senate Bill 88 (Chapter 35) authorizes the NMFA to make loans from the PPRF to qualified entities for 160 public projects that require a loan of more than $1 million relating to building, equipment, infrastructure, debt refinance, road, land acquisition, water, wastewater, water rights and solid waste. The other bill, Senate Bill 137 (Chapter 48), authorizes the NMFA to make loans or grants from the Water Project Fund to qualified entities for 37 local public water projects. Lists of the projects authorized in these bills may be found in Table 9 and Table 10, respectively, in Appendix B.

Capital Outlay

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 285 (Chapter 138, p.v.) authorizes $511,591,153 in capital outlay project expenditures for FY 2021 through FY 2025. The bill includes $471,399,053 in severance tax bond projects and $18,208,100 in General Fund appropriations. Other state fund appropriations in the bill total $21,984,000 and include appropriations from the Public School Capital Outlay Fund, the Educational Retirement Fund, the Game Protection Fund and the Habitat Restoration Fund. The governor vetoed projects totaling $6,150,660, including $5,750,660 in severance tax bond appropriations and $400,000 in General Fund appropriations.

In the bill, more than $130 million is appropriated to the Local Government Division of the Department of Finance and Administration for 389 projects addressing a wide range of infrastructure needs in 30 of New Mexico's 33 counties. Fifteen Capital Program Fund projects, including major renovations and improvements to state-owned facilities and implementation of the Santa Fe Capitol Complex Master Plan, receive appropriations totaling nearly $58 million. The Department of Transportation receives almost $50 million for 115 projects concentrated heavily in Bernalillo and Dona Ana counties and includes over $1 million to develop a network of electric vehicle charging stations across the state. One hundred six projects receive $35 million through the Department of Environment, and the PED receives over $24 million for public and charter school capital improvements and school bus replacements.

The Department of Information Technology is allocated just over $15 million for two major projects involving the expansion of broadband services statewide and improvements to the statewide radio communications system, while Indian Affairs Department projects receive legislative statewide appropriations of $30 million in addition to individual appropriations, for a total of roughly $49 million for infrastructure improvements on tribal lands. The Public School Facilities Authority receives $4 million for construction and equipping of pre-kindergarten classrooms statewide and $850,000 for infrastructure and facilities that fall outside the statewide adequacy standards at an elementary school project in the Grants-Cibola County School District. Appropriations vetoed by the governor include appropriations in excess of $2.6 million for New Mexico State University and over $3 million for the University of New Mexico.

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 296 (Chapter 139, p.v.) reauthorizes 93 prior-year appropriations to extend the time of expenditure, change the administering agency or expand, change or clarify the purpose of the original appropriation. The governor vetoed four of the proposed reauthorizations; in those cases, the provisions of the original appropriation remain intact.

Details related to funded capital outlay projects may be found in Appendix C.

BROADBAND, TELECOMMUNICATIONS AND UTILITIES

The COVID-19 pandemic highlighted the need for improved telecommunications, particularly access to high-speed internet connectivity, across New Mexico for school, business and government operations and services. In response, three statutes enacted this year are directed toward improving broadband access and development, and a fourth bill is aimed at opening access to the Public Regulation Commission's telecommunications assistance program to newer, rural service providers. In addition, one bill was enacted regarding the use of industrial revenue bonds for construction of electric generation and transmission facilities.

For years, the state's broadband planning, information and development programs have been widely distributed among numerous state agencies and offices. A report commissioned by the Department of Information Technology in early 2020 indicated that this distribution made it difficult to coordinate the state's broadband development efforts and track progress on a statewide basis. As a result, Senate Bill 93 (Chapter 123) enacts the Broadband Access and Expansion Act and establishes a central Office of Broadband Access and Expansion to provide greater cohesion and efficiency to the state's broadband efforts. The new office, with a director appointed by the governor, is tasked with: creating a comprehensive and regularly updated database and maps on a county-by-county basis regarding the quality, or lack thereof, of broadband service available and the existing or shovel-ready state and local governmental broadband infrastructure; developing, updating and implementing a statewide plan for broadband development with recommendations for both legislative and executive action; providing outreach to local and tribal governments and planning and technical assistance to those governments to further their own broadband development efforts and establish regional broadband collaborations; and consulting and negotiating with federal, local and tribal agencies to create uniform permitting, regulation and right-of-way requirements for broadband facilities, including the installation of fiber-optic cables and microwave towers.

A companion bill to Senate Bill 93, House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Transportation, Public Works and Capital Improvements Committee Substitute for House Bill 10 (Chapter 120) establishes the Connect New Mexico Fund to assist in the implementation of broadband projects by local, state and tribal agencies and public education institutions. It also creates the Connect New Mexico Council as a co-coordinator of the state's broadband efforts with the Office of Broadband Access and Expansion. The council's responsibilities include developing a digital equity analysis, which is to be incorporated into the statewide broadband plan, regarding the obstacles to digital inclusion for differing populations across the state posed by lack of infrastructure, devices or digital knowledge and identifying the various local, state and tribal governmental programs and private sector programs that could be used to leverage federal assistance funding and address those obstacles; and reviewing applications to and awarding grants from the Connect New Mexico Fund.

The third piece of broadband-specific legislation enacted this year, Senate Bill 144 (Chapter 49) expands the state's current education infrastructure program to include broadband infrastructure to connect teachers to students for remote learning. This action dovetails with a similar widening of the scope of the federal E-Rate Program so that the state can continue to maximize its leveraging of federal dollars for education directed toward broadband development. The bill also directs the Public School Capital Outlay Council to develop guidelines for the development of an integrated education network and for the use of money to provide broadband Wi-Fi on school buses.

Because of their low population densities, rural communities have often struggled to obtain telecommunications and broadband services. To mitigate the problem and leverage federal rural assistance programs, in 1999 the legislature created the State Rural Universal Service Fund, administered by the Public Regulation Commission and funded by a surcharge on telecommunications services. However, the fund was structured to assist the smaller New Mexico rural telecommunications service providers in existence in 1999, and some areas did not have a local service provider at that time. Any new company established after 1999 has had to comply with a time-consuming and expensive process to access money from the fund. Senate Bill 204 (Chapter 118) creates a more streamlined process for comparable carriers established after 1999 to receive assistance from the State Rural Universal Service Fund.

The final utility-focused bill concerns development of electricity generation and transmission facilities. After initially passing legislation in 2020 to allow for industrial revenue bond financing for electric transmission and generating facility projects and permitting certain in-lieu tax payments for those projects, the legislature revisited the process in House Bill 105 (Chapter 91) to enact clarifying changes to the calculation of the in-lieu tax payments. The bill clarifies who is required to remit payments to the state for an electric transmission facility project and creates a formula for determining the amount of payments in lieu of property taxes that are owed to a school district.

BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

In the face of the COVID-19 pandemic and the myriad ways that it affected businesses and the economy, the legislature took steps during the 2021 regular session to keep the state and its economy afloat by enacting a number of laws that are aimed squarely at ensuring the state's economic health, including bills to provide grants and loans to certain New Mexico businesses, allow greater flexibility in how local economic development funds are used, diversify the state's workforce, expand eligibility for job training for high-wage jobs, provide for the production and sale of certain homemade food items and amend naming conventions of certain businesses.

The legislature enacted the Small Business Recovery Act of 2020 during the First Special Session of the Fifty-Fourth Legislature to address funding shortfalls for businesses affected by the COVID-19 pandemic by providing loans to continue operations. This initial legislation had a sunset for receiving new applications at the end of calendar year 2020. Due to the continued effects of the pandemic and the continued business closures, the legislature passed Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 3 (Chapter 5) to extend and revise the lending program. The bill extends the application period for loans through May 31, 2022. Additionally, to address concerns raised by the NMFA and the public, the bill changes the name of the act to the Small Business Recovery and Stimulus Act and revises definitions in it, permits additional loan opportunities for businesses, changes the loan repayment terms, increases the total investment from the state into the program and permits recipients of loans under the previous act to refinance the loans pursuant to the new changes.

To provide further relief to businesses affected by the pandemic, House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 11 (Chapter 3) authorizes the Economic Development Department and the NMFA to develop a program, paid for by a transfer of $200 million from the General Fund, that will provide grants up to $100,000 each to pay rent, lease or mortgage payments of New Mexico businesses that employ at least one but less than 75 persons and experience a decline in business revenue caused by the pandemic. The bill also prohibits information regarding the applications to be subject to the Inspection of Public Records Act, but the Economic Development Department and the NMFA are permitted to disclose broad demographic information and information relating to the total amount of grants made, the total outstanding balance of grants made and the names of businesses that receive grants.

The Constitution of New Mexico authorizes the enactment of legislation allowing the state and local governments to provide public assistance for economic development projects. The resulting Local Economic Development Act (LEDA) has been a continuing topic for legislative amendment, and this year was no exception. Senate Tax, Business and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Health and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 49 (Chapter 135) provides greater flexibility for the state or local governments to use LEDA program dollars to support retail businesses. Specifically, the bill extends eligibility for state assistance to any retail business within any unincorporated portion of a county without requiring it to be a certain distance from a municipality, and it also allows local governments to use their internally generated LEDA money to provide assistance to retail businesses without first requiring a non-competition finding from the Economic Development Department. Finally, LEDA funding can now be used to remodel or rehabilitate an existing retail building as well as for the construction of new buildings.

To help address the ongoing issue of the state diversifying its economy, Senate Bill 112 (Chapter 42) creates the Sustainable Economy Task Force, which is charged with developing and updating a strategic plan to transition the economy away from reliance on natural resource extraction. The bill administratively attaches the task force to the Economic Development Department and provides that the membership of the task force be made up of the secretaries of various state departments. Additionally, the bill creates the Sustainable Economy Advisory Council, made up of representatives from local governments, the public, industry, business and tribal entities, to assist the task force in the development of the strategic plan.

During the 2017 legislative session, changes were made to the Job Training Incentive Program to reduce the residency requirement for trainees to participate in the program from at least one year of residency in the state at any time before the beginning of the program to at least one day, but only through FY 2022. House Bill 155 (Chapter 96) makes the changes to reduce the residency requirement to one day permanent when training is provided through the program for high-wage jobs.

The Space Flight Informed Consent Act limits the liability of space flight operators for the injury or death of a participant that resulted from the inherent risks of space flight activities. House Bill 68 (Chapter 88) removes a provision that would have repealed the act in 2021 and extends coverage against liability for space flight operators by expanding the definition of what constitutes a space flight vehicle.

The federal Uniform Commercial Code was enacted in 1952 with the goal of harmonizing all laws that govern sales and other commercial transactions. Most states have enacted laws identical to the federal Uniform Commercial Code at the state level, but until this legislative session, New Mexico's Uniform Commercial Code was slightly different. House Bill 66 (Chapter 86) makes New Mexico's law governing sales and other commercial transactions, in particular those related to secured transactions, identical to the federal Uniform Commercial Code. This uniformity will allow more predictability and efficiency in commercial and secured transactions in the state.

Outside of Bernalillo County, people are now able to make and sell shelf-stable foods and non-alcoholic beverages that they have prepared at home without getting permits pursuant to the Food Service Sanitation Act or the New Mexico Food Act with the enactment of the Homemade Food Act in House Agriculture and Water Resources Committee Substitute for House Bill 177 (Chapter 98). While the Department of Environment may continue to investigate and stop the sale of food items that are suspected of being contaminated, the Homemade Food Act provides for minimal state regulation regarding the preparation and sale of nuts, breads and other foods that do not need to be time and temperature controlled for safety. Under the act, homemade food for sale must be properly labeled, and all licensing and tax requirements for businesses continue to apply to the sales of homemade food items. Additionally, because Bernalillo County and the City of Albuquerque have established a combined local health department for the purpose of local health regulation, the Homemade Food Act allows the county and city to establish a separate, joint permitting system for homemade food items if they choose to do so.

For decades, New Mexico businesses were prohibited from having business names that included certain words enumerated by the Pharmacy Act to avoid a perception that those businesses were registered under the Pharmacy Act. Senate Bill 122 (Chapter 9) amends the Pharmacy Act to allow the words "apothecary" and "apothecary shop" and words similar to "pharmacist", "pharmacy", "chemist's shop", "drug store", "drugs", "druggist", "drug sundries" and "prescriptions" to be used in the name or specialization of a business that is not licensed under the Pharmacy Act.

Pursuant to various provisions of Chapter 53 NMSA 1978, corporations, nonprofit corporations and limited liability companies doing business in New Mexico are required to file their articles of incorporation or amendments to those articles with the Office of the Secretary of State. However, some businesses publicly advertise and conduct business under multiple names. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 202 (Chapter 68) requires a corporation, nonprofit corporation or limited liability company to include all of the names that it uses to conduct business in New Mexico in its articles of incorporation or amendments to those articles.

CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

In the 2021 regular session, one bill pertaining to children and families was passed and signed into law. Senate Bill 140 (Chapter 20) updates existing child support statutes by clarifying imputation of income appropriateness and requiring justification; outlining when deviating from child support guidelines is appropriate; and modifying the child support monetary schedule. The time frames for assessing fees, costs and expenses as well as for assessing retroactive child support are also changed.

Pursuant to the bill, incarceration is no longer considered voluntary unemployment in the employment analysis, and child support order modification is now allowed based on health care needs of a minor child. Additionally, the Child Support Guidelines Review Commission is created, and its purpose and duties are defined.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

During the 2021 regular session, 36 joint resolutions were introduced proposing amendments to the Constitution of New Mexico, but only one resolution, proposing an additional distribution from the Permanent School Fund, passed the legislature and will appear on the November 2022 ballot, more than a decade after the idea was first introduced. The LCS publishes an analysis of and arguments for and against proposed amendments to the Constitution of New Mexico prior to any election in which they appear. The next publication, titled Summary of and Arguments for and Against the Constitutional Amendments Proposed by the Legislature in 2021 and 2022, will be released by the LCS in the summer of 2022.

After 11 years of efforts, House Education Committee Substitute for House Joint Resolution 1 (C.A. 1) finally passed the legislature. If voters ultimately vote in favor of C.A. 1, Article 12, Section 7 of the Constitution of New Mexico would be amended to provide for an additional distribution of 1.25% of the average of the year-end value of the Permanent School Fund for the immediately preceding five calendar years to be divided as follows: 40% to public schools for enhanced instruction for at-risk students, extending the school year and teacher compensation; and 60% to provide early childhood education, which is defined as nonsectarian and nondenominational education for children until they are eligible for kindergarten. The revenue-sharing split in C.A. 1 recognizes the need to provide more funding to public schools to pay for the requirements of the First Judicial District Court's finding against the state in the Yazzie/Martinez public school funding sufficiency lawsuit. If C.A. 1 is approved by the voters, the early childhood distribution will require the consent of Congress because early childhood is not part of the public school system and a distribution for that purpose will require a change by Congress to the state's federal Enabling Act.

COURTS

Relating to courts, the 2021 session saw the New Mexico Legislature pass and the governor sign three bills focusing on the duties and responsibilities of the Administrative Office of the Courts and individual judicial districts, affidavits for exemption from jury service for persons over 75 years old and staggering the terms of office for district and metropolitan court judges.

In 2018, magistrate courts and district courts were consolidated to better utilize resources and shift responsibilities from the Administrative Office of the Courts to individual judicial districts. House Bill 146 (Chapter 95) transfers additional duties not addressed in the 2018 consolidation, including the responsibility to designate a presiding magistrate, certify any magistrate court vacancy to the governor, collect drug court fees, employ and select clerical assistants and approve vouchers for salaries and expenses. Also, the bill requires that magistrate courts operate under the direction and control of the Supreme Court and the district court for the judicial district in which the magistrate court resides, and it directs district courts, under the supervision of the Supreme Court, to provide administrative support to magistrate courts.

House Bill 185 (Chapter 101) removes the requirement for a person who is 75 years of age or older from having to file an affidavit to be exempt from jury service. With this change, a person who is 75 years of age or older who wishes to be permanently exempt from jury service must only request the exemption with a local court and is no longer required to present a supporting affidavit.

With the enactment of Senate Bill 266 (Chapter 74), the terms of office for district court judges and metropolitan court judges are staggered in accordance with the number of the division in which a judge serves. According to the legislative findings, the staggered terms are intended to balance the number of judicial positions appearing on the ballot in any one election cycle, enable more effective evaluation of judges by the Judicial Performance Evaluation Commission and create greater continuity of judges at the trial court level by not having all judges up for judicial retention in the same election cycle.

CRIMINAL LAW

Criminal justice reform was a focus during the 2021 regular session, and two bills were signed into law to address various concerns with the criminal justice system. Legislation addressed fines and fees reform for juvenile offenders and collateral consequences of conviction.

With the enactment of House Bill 183 (Chapter 15), certain fines and fees for juvenile offenders are eliminated. For instance, a juvenile offender convicted of possession of marijuana or synthetic cannabinoids is no longer required to pay a fine and the community service requirement is changed to no more than 48 hours. Also, for a juvenile offender who falls under the jurisdiction of the Delinquency Act, the offender's family or a person legally obligated to care for the offender is no longer required to pay court costs, expenses, fines or fees. Juveniles are additionally relieved of the requirement to pay an application fee for representation by the Public Defender Department.

Individuals charged or convicted of a crime now must be made aware of collateral consequences of conviction at various points during a criminal proceeding. Senate Bill 183 (Chapter 58) enacts the Uniform Collateral Consequences of Conviction Act and requires that notice of collateral consequences be provided in a pretrial proceeding, upon a guilty plea, upon sentencing and upon release. Furthermore, individuals convicted of a crime may petition a court for an order of relief from one or more collateral sanctions related to employment, education, housing, public benefits or occupational licensing.

CULTURAL AFFAIRS

In regard to cultural affairs, one bill from the regular session was passed and signed into law that provides clarity to a recently enacted statute pertaining to rural libraries. In 2019, the Rural Libraries Grant Program was created to provide financial assistance to public and nonprofit libraries established in unincorporated areas of the state or municipalities or Indian nations, tribes and pueblos with a population of 3,000 or fewer persons at the time the library was established. Senate Indian, Rural and Cultural Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 273 (Chapter 77) clarifies that the population is measured as of the time the grant program was established on July 1, 2019, and it provides that once a library qualifies for the grant program, it shall continue to be eligible even if the population exceeds 3,000.

EDUCATION

In what has become a familiar refrain, education accounted for a significant portion of bills introduced in the 2021 regular session; after all, between public schools and higher education, the subject consumes around 55% of the state budget. There were 34 bills and one constitutional amendment introduced covering post-secondary education and 80 bills, five constitutional amendments and seven memorials introduced on public school topics. In the end, a number of public-education-related bills became law, including bills that eliminate local and federal revenue credits in the funding formula calculation, make changes to the extended learning and K-5 Plus programs, create a family income index to better direct funding to at-risk students, promote racial and cultural sensitivity and equality in public schools, create a special education ombud and aim to protect students through preventing ethical misconduct by school employees, volunteers and contractors.

Because of major changes made to the Public School Code, and other laws discussed in this section, as well as other recent events such as Yazzie/Martinez lawsuit requirements, pandemic-related problems with virtual and in-person education and reopening safely, enrollment growth changes and extended learning time and K-5 Plus program changes, the legislature passed House Joint Memorial 5, which calls for the Legislative Education Study Committee and the Legislative Finance Committee to appoint a joint subcommittee to study the effects of these and other changes on the funding formula. The committees must provide recommendations to the Second Session of the Fifty-Fifth Legislature.

Public Schools

In 1974, New Mexico became a national leader in public school funding when it adopted its equalized funding formula and guaranteed the same per student funding for every school district to provide equal access to programs and services appropriate to each student's educational needs regardless of geographic location or local economic conditions. The funding formula is designed to distribute operational funds objectively to school districts and as discretionary funds to provide for local control. Each school board has the discretion, as long as it complies with requirements of state law, to spend its formula dollars according to local priorities and needs. Part of the equalization included taking credit for 75% of the money raised by school districts, either through property taxes (the half-mill levy) or through federal forest reserve distributions or federal impact aid, which provides a type of payment in lieu of taxes to school districts that contain military or Indian reservations or other tax-exempt federal property. Approximately 80% of credits are derived from impact aid.

This year, the legislature passed and the governor signed House Bill 6 (Chapter 52), which eliminates local and federal revenue credits in the calculation of the funding formula. The GAA includes almost $83 million to offset the elimination of the credits. The bill requires school districts and state-chartered charter schools to report in their annual educational plans, which are required to be provided with their proposed budgets each year, how the formerly credited 75% of local and federal revenues have been and will be used to improve outcomes for students or improve school building conditions. Those reports are evaluated by the PED and it, in turn, is required to report to the Legislative Education Study Committee and Legislative Finance Committee on effective programs and strategies to improve student outcomes. Specifically, the law requires that this newly obtained revenue stream may be used for purposes related to the Indian Education Act, teacher housing, the Public School Capital Outlay Act, the Public School Capital Improvements Act, the Public School Buildings Act and at-risk student interventions. In addition, the bill changes the public school capital outlay local-state match formula and requires the Public School Capital Outlay Council to define unrestricted revenue for purposes of the match formula, and it also clarifies that enrollment growth program units are not included in the determination of save harmless program units for school districts or charter schools with 200 or fewer students.

To more accurately distribute funding for at-risk students, the legislature passed Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 17 (Chapter 18), the Family Income Index Act. The bill requires the PED to calculate a family income index for each public school by calculating the percentage of student households in that school in the extremely low, very low, low, moderate and above average income categories. The number of students in each category is divided by the public school's total enrollment to determine the percentages of student households in those categories, and the PED ranks all public schools in the state from lowest to highest family income yearly. Fifty percent of public schools with the highest family income index are eligible for a distribution of at least $20,000 or the public school's proportionate share of the statewide appropriation, whichever is greater. A public school is required to use the distributed funds as follows: at least one-third of total funding must be used for proven, evidence-based, structured literacy interventions; at least one-third for evidence-based mathematics instruction and interventions, including educational programming to improve career and college readiness of at-risk students, dual or concurrent enrollment and career and technical education; and no more than one-third on interventions that include tutoring and after-school and summer enrichment programs, culturally relevant professional and curriculum development, whole school interventions, instructional resources and materials, services to engage and support parents in the education of students and services to engage and support tribal communities in the education of Native American students.

Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 40 (Chapter 134) makes significant changes to the extended learning time and the K-5 Plus programs in order to provide school districts with flexibility on how they offer these two programs, since some school districts calculate their school calendars in days and others calculate in hours. Originally, K-5 Plus required 25 additional days and extended learning time required 10 additional days, which made it difficult for school districts to employ both programs at their public schools. In the bill, eligibility of a public school to offer extended learning time programming will require the addition of at least 190 instructional hours or 10 additional days per school year, whichever requires the fewest number of additional instructional days; for four-day public schools, the additional time will be 160 instructional hours or eight additional days, with the same caveat. If an elementary school qualifies for both programs, it may structure the school year to provide additional instructional days by extending the total number of instructional hours by no fewer than 55 additional hours. An extended learning time program must be implemented for all students in the participating public school and is considered an extended school calendar for the entire school. As for K-5 Plus, its programming has to provide no fewer than 205 days per school year or 25 instructional days, whichever requires the addition of the fewest number of instructional days, and it must be provided to all students enrolled in the elementary school; four-day public schools must provide no fewer than 175 instructional days or 20 additional days per school year, whichever requires the addition of the fewest number of instructional days. Moreover, the application process for both the extended learning time and K-5 Plus programs is simplified, requiring only that the school district or charter school notify the PED of the intent to offer the same programming in the coming year.

In response to the Yazzie/Martinez lawsuit, House Bill 52 (Chapter 12) statutorily creates the Bilingual Multicultural Education Advisory Council within the Bilingual Multicultural Education Act that is an advisory council to the PED; prior to the signing of this bill, this council was an ad hoc council to the state. In the bill, the council is tasked with advising the PED on matters related to implementing the Bilingual Multicultural Education Act in the areas of curriculum, instruction, assessment, teacher preparation and evaluation, professional development, teacher licensure and student and family services.

The council consists of 15 members, including five representatives from Indian nations, tribes and pueblos, eight education representatives and two parents whose students are enrolled in a bilingual multicultural program.

House Bill 43 (Chapter 51) enacts the Black Education Act, which follows in the steps of the Hispanic Education Act and the Indian Education Act to provide for a Black education liaison in the PED as well as to create a Black Education Advisory Council to advise the secretary of public education, school districts and charter schools on matters related to improving public education for Black students, encouraging parental involvement and community engagement and increasing the number of Black students who graduate from high school and succeed in post-secondary academic, professional or vocational education. Additionally, the bill requires racial sensitivity and anti-racism training and a hotline for reporting racially charged incidents and racialized aggression in public schools.

In an effort to reduce incidents of racial, cultural and religious discrimination in public schools, House Bill 29 (Chapter 37) and Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 80 (Chapter 19) are identical bills that prevent school districts, charter schools and workplaces from imposing discipline, discrimination or disparate treatment against a student based on race, religion or culture or due to a student's use of protective hairstyles or cultural or religious headdresses.

House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 222 (Chapter 53) creates the Special Education Ombud Act and establishes the Office of the State Special Education Ombud within the Developmental Disabilities Council. The office is charged with working collaboratively with the PED to investigate and resolve concerns brought to the office by parents of students receiving or trying to obtain special education services and to provide assistance to these parents regarding these students' educational rights.

In response to House Memorial 57 from the 2019 regular session, the PED convened a task force to review and identify issues regarding ethical misconduct in public schools. House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 128 (Chapter 94) is the product of the task force and is designed to help eliminate bad actors from moving between school districts and causing harm to students. In the bill, the School Personnel Act is amended to require that prospective school employees, volunteers and contractors report their background and work history related to previous ethical or sexual misconduct, and it requires former employers to share this information with prospective employers. Additionally, all school personnel at public schools must report instances of child abuse and neglect and ethical misconduct, the circumstances of when an official report has to be made are expanded and local superintendents and governing authorities for school districts and charter schools are allowed to publicly disclose termination decisions and record termination and appeal hearings. Moreover, the bill requires school personnel, volunteers and contractors to undergo training on reporting of child abuse and neglect, ethical misconduct and professional responsibilities at the beginning of their contractual terms and allows licensure action against them for not reporting instances of child abuse and neglect and ethical misconduct.

Regarding teacher licensure, two bills were passed and signed into law. House Bill 188 (Chapter 102) provides for teacher license endorsement in secondary computer science, while House Bill 266 (Chapter 129) creates a level 1 alternative teaching license for individuals who teach students with disabilities.

In an effort to lessen the burden on charter school teachers and employees with children in multiple school districts, the legislature passed Senate Bill 51 (Chapter 28), which allows charter schools to give enrollment preferences to children of employees of the school beginning in the 2021-2022 school year.

Senate Bill 271 (Chapter 75) requires the PED to develop a Purple Star Public Schools Program, which provides a mechanism for public schools to ease the transition of students of active-duty military families into new schools and to honor the accomplishments of veterans and active and reserve members of the military and the National Guard. By meeting certain application criteria, any public school is eligible to become a purple star public school.

One more hurdle in the way of military families enrolling their children in public schools has been removed by the enactment of Senate Bill 272 (Chapter 76). Usually, a military family knows several months in advance where the next duty station will be, but, until now, the family had to wait until moving to the state to enroll children in school. The new law allows a parent to preregister school-age children before the family arrives in the state, which will significantly improve the enrollment and placement process, including sending educational records, submitting the child's name for a charter school lottery, selecting courses and demonstrating interest in specific sports. After the arrival date in the official military order, the parent has 45 days to provide proof of residence, which may include temporary on-base billeting, off-base military housing or a purchased or leased residence.

Public School Capital Outlay

To assist public schools with demolition costs of abandoned facilities, Senate Bill 43 (Chapter 27) allows the Public School Capital Outlay Council to fully fund the demolition of abandoned facilities through the council's systems-based awards program if award applications can demonstrate that the costs of continuing to insure an abandoned facility outweigh its benefits and that there is no practical use for the abandoned facility.

Post-Secondary Education

Higher education students in need of financial assistance received a bit of sunshine amid the gloom of the past year. The GAA provides $11 million in nonrecurring appropriations and $7 million in recurring appropriations for opportunity scholarships and gives an infusion to the Lottery Tuition Fund of $15.5 million, which will allow scholarships to cover 90% of tuition. Also of note are new laws establishing a pilot project to ease students' transition from community colleges to universities and improve graduation rates, expanding the availability of certain scholarships and allowing student athletes to receive compensation for certain uses of their names, images and likenesses.

The legislature and the Higher Education Department have tried for years to align curricula, course numbering and course credits between community colleges and universities. As a result, the legislature passed and the governor signed Senate Bill 77 (Chapter 33), creating the "two plus two" pilot project, a six-year pilot project between public post-secondary educational institutions in the southeastern region of the state that will establish a seamless transition from community college to university in order to improve graduation rates at both educational systems; reduce student credit hour accumulation; reduce student debt; reduce student remediation; and increase collaboration and efficiency by and among the participating institutions. Three four-year cohorts of students will be tracked in two plus two, beginning with those academic students in the freshman class of 2022 at a participating community college who declare their intention to attend and receive a bachelor's degree at Eastern New Mexico University and ending with the 2024 cohort.

In another bill aimed at developing the role of post-secondary education in New Mexico, House Bill 23 (Chapter 85) sets out requirements for the licensure of medical schools in the state. Moving forward, the Higher Education Department is limited to issuing or renewing a license to operate a medical school only if the school provides certain training, has obtained certain agreements with clinical affiliates and demonstrates the ability to facilitate the creation of new graduate medical education residency programs within the state.

As part of ongoing efforts to increase access to higher education, the legislature passed two bills related to scholarships. House Bill 22 (Chapter 11) expands the availability of Grow Your Own Teachers Act scholarships beyond educational assistants to a broader range of school employees, and it also requires public schools to provide professional leave to educational assistants to attend a teacher preparation program in New Mexico. The second scholarship bill, Senate Bill 234 (Chapter 73), ensures that legislative lottery tuition scholarships are made available to students who have completed the requirements of a home-based or non-public-school primary educational program in the state.

In an effort spearheaded by a higher education task force led by the Carlsbad mayor, the legislature passed House Bill 212 (Chapter 104) to rename New Mexico State University Carlsbad as Southeast New Mexico College and remake the institution as an independent community college.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has been considering changes to its rules to allow a student athlete to be compensated beyond the cost of attending college. However, the association changed course in January 2021 when the United States Department of Justice notified the association that the proposed rule changes might raise concerns under federal antitrust laws. In response, many states have been considering legislation to allow student athletes to be paid beyond the cost of attending college. Senate Bill 94 (Chapter 124) allows for student athletes in New Mexico to receive compensation for the use of their name, image, likeness or athletic reputation and to be represented by an agent.

ELECTIONS

Several bills relating to elections were passed and signed into law this year. With regard to representation and candidates, one bill addresses a process for drawing maps for redistricting of the state and federal electoral districts, and another expands the offices for which candidates are eligible for public campaign financing. Pertaining to the conduct of elections, one bill provides protections for polling locations located on Native American lands, and another establishes alternative procedures to conduct an election to fill a vacancy in the office of United States representative in 2021 while the COVID-19 pandemic is ongoing.

Every 10 years, following completion of the federal decennial census, the Constitution of New Mexico requires that the legislature reapportion its membership. Several other electoral districts, including congressional districts and the Public Education Commission, are required to be redistricted to ensure compliance with the fundamental representational government concept of "one person, one vote". Senate Bill 304 (Chapter 79) creates the Citizen Redistricting Committee to develop and recommend to the legislature, with public input and distinct criteria, district maps for all state districts requiring redistricting. Additionally, with enactment of this legislation, the secretary of state is directed to collect and make publicly available on the secretary of state's website the geographic information system data for each voting district in the state.

Formerly, only candidates for the office of public regulation commissioner and for statewide judicial offices were eligible to access the public campaign financing under the Voter Action Act. Senate Bill 160 (Chapter 57) removes candidates for the office of public regulation commissioner from the Voter Action Act, as those positions will be appointed beginning January 1, 2023, and includes candidates for the office of district judge in that act. For candidates for the office of district judge, the required amount of contributions to qualify for public campaign financing and the amount of public campaign financing accessible are scaled, depending on the number of voters in the district of the office for which the candidate is running.

House Bill 231 (Chapter 107) protects polling places on Native American lands by requiring the written agreement of an Indian nation, tribe or pueblo to eliminate or consolidate with other polling places a polling place located on the land of an Indian nation, tribe or pueblo. Additionally, in response to the circumstances revealed during the COVID-19 pandemic, procedures are provided to ensure accessibility to polling locations in case of a declared emergency that limits the accessibility of voters registered within the Indian nation, tribe or pueblo to polling places on Native American lands or otherwise in the relevant county.

Lastly, in anticipation of a June 2021 special congressional election called to fill a vacancy in the state's First Congressional District, Senate Bill 286 (Chapter 17) establishes temporary emergency provisions for the safe conduct of that election during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. The bill establishes polling day locations; provides for the automatic delivery of notices to voters of the election, polling locations and instructions to request a mailed ballot; establishes procedures for the handling, qualification, challenging, secure storage and counting of mailed ballots; requires the procurement and distribution to the county clerks of personal protective equipment and supplies; and instructs the secretary of state and State Board of Finance to timely deposit or distribute sufficient funds to cover necessary and reasonable expenses related to the election.

EMPLOYMENT AND LABOR

An area of heightened interest during the 2021 legislative session was the effect of the COVID-19 pandemic on the state's workforce. The legislature took action to ensure that sick leave is provided to private sector employees and also enacted conforming changes to unemployment laws, which will permit the state to provide extended benefits in times of need. Additionally, two years after an overhaul of the state's minimum wage laws, the legislature returned to the issue to remove an exception that had prevented some workers from benefiting from the increased minimum wage.

One of the most debated bills in the legislature this session concerned mandating private employers to provide sick leave to employees, a topic that was pushed to the forefront due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. The Healthy Workplaces Act, enacted in House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Labor, Veterans' and Military Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 20 (Chapter 131), requires all private employers to provide employees at least one hour of paid sick leave for every 30 hours worked. Sick leave can be carried over from year to year, but may be capped, and unused sick leave is not required to be paid upon termination of employment. Additionally, sick leave may be used for any type of personal or family member illness or medical care as well as for absences due to domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking. Enforced by the Labor Relations Division of the Workforce Solutions Department, the Healthy Workplaces Act addresses many issues relating to the implementation of required sick leave, including when it can be taken, notice prior to using sick leave, documentation of need to use sick leave, employer notice of sick leave policies, non-retaliation for employee use of sick leave, enforcement actions and penalties for violation of that act.

Introduced on behalf of the Workforce Solutions Department, Senate Bill 52 (Chapter 8) ensures conformity between state unemployment laws and federal regulations. The bill removes language that prohibits the state from providing extended unemployment benefits in certain scenarios, which is an issue that is of particular importance during the heightened period of unemployment due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

As part of the legislature's continuing efforts to raise the minimum wage, Senate Bill 35 (Chapter 10) removes an exception to the minimum wage requirement and requires that the prevailing minimum wage be paid to students who are regularly enrolled in secondary school. Also, the bill changes the definition of "employee" in the Minimum Wage Act to include those persons who are 18 years of age or under who are not students.

ENERGY

One of the two energy-related bills passed this year and signed into law remedies a technical error in an existing law that encourages projects by public utilities to modernize New Mexico's electric grid, and the other authorizes a community-based model for the generation of solar energy, known as community solar.

House Bill 245 (Chapter 110) makes a technical fix to grid modernization legislation that was enacted in the 2020 legislative session. It clarifies that a public utility may seek approval for cost recovery from the Public Regulation Commission for a grid modernization project that includes distribution system hardening projects for substations designed to reduce service outages or service restoration times.

With the enactment of the Community Solar Act in Senate Tax, Business and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 84 (Chapter 34), residences and governmental and community organizations have the option of accessing and supporting solar energy generation without having to purchase or lease a rooftop solar system. The Community Solar Act allows certain retail customers of public utilities to purchase a subscription to a community solar facility that is within the service territory of a public utility and interconnected to the electric distribution system of the public utility and to obtain a public utility bill credit for the portion of the energy generated by the community solar facility that is assigned to the subscription. Thirty percent of the electricity generated by the community solar facility is reserved for low-income customers and low-income service organizations, and the community solar program will be administered pursuant to rules adopted by the Public Regulation Commission by April 1, 2022. Among other subjects, the Public Regulation Commission is tasked with adopting rules to provide for consumer protections, statewide capacity caps, the selection of community solar facilities and interconnection processes and costs.

ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

Several bills were signed into law this session regarding the environment and natural resources. Legislation was passed that gives the state more power to deny permits and enact rules regarding the management of air quality and hazardous materials; creates an environmental database; allows the use of prescribed burning to mitigate the potential for wildfires; and establishes a fund for the reclamation of land used in mining operations.

House Bill 76 (Chapter 89) amends the Air Quality Control Act to allow the Department of Environment or a local air permitting agency to deny a new permit or revoke an existing permit for cause. Actions that may result in the denial or revocation of a permit include knowingly misrepresenting a material fact in a permit application; refusing to disclose required information; having a felony conviction in the last 10 years related to an environmental crime; or having had a permit revoked or permanently suspended in other states or under federal law.

The federal Clean Air Act and the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of 1976 permit the states to impose rules more stringent than those established in federal law for the protection of air quality and the management of hazardous waste, respectively. Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 8 (Chapter 133) amends the Air Quality Control Act and the Hazardous Waste Act to allow the state, and local boards, to enact rules more stringent than the federal laws and rules upon determining, based on substantial evidence and after notice and public hearing, that the proposed rule will be more protective of public health and the environment.

Multiple state agencies collect and maintain data on the state's environmental resources, but the data is siloed within the individual agencies. House Bill 51 (Chapter 121) enacts the Environmental Database Act and provides a framework for the consolidation of the state's environmental data into one publicly accessible database hosted by the Natural Heritage New Mexico Division of the Museum of Southwestern Biology at the University of New Mexico.

Many people in New Mexico live in areas where wildfires pose an elevated risk of damage to person and property. House Bill 57 (Chapter 13) allows a private landowner to conduct a prescribed burn on the landowner's property under appropriate weather conditions to mitigate the potential for wildfires, protect vulnerable communities and improve wildlife management.

To support the reclamation of land used for a mining operation, House Bill 157 (Chapter 14) creates the Mining Act Forfeiture Fund. Money in the fund is appropriated to the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department to complete the reclamation plan or closeout plan for the specific mining operation for which financial assurance has been provided.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

Numerous bills were introduced during the legislative session related to the regulation of financial institutions. In the end, three bills passed, which include changes to how the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority may administer the New Mexico Housing Trust Fund, clarifying changes to the New Mexico Work and Save Act, including a delay to the implementation of certain provisions of that act, and changes to the adjustment of certain mortgage rates.

The availability and preservation of affordable housing arose as an issue during the legislative session and is yet another area that has been exacerbated by the pandemic. Senate Bill 27 (Chapter 24) expands the ways in which the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority may use the New Mexico Housing Trust Fund. The bill provides that in addition to production of housing, the trust fund may be used to preserve existing housing. Additionally, the bill permits the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority to award funds on based on need.

Enacted in 2020, the New Mexico Work and Save Act created the New Mexico Work and Save Board within the Office of the State Treasurer to implement a retirement savings program for all New Mexicans. After a year of developing and beginning the program, some efforts were stalled by the pandemic, and certain changes were required to ensure effective administration. Senate Bill 129 (Chapter 46) delays the implementation of certain provisions of the act, such as the development of the New Mexico retirement plan marketplace. The bill ensures that the board is shielded from directly managing funds and thus from certain liabilities. Furthermore, the bill enacts numerous clarifying changes to the act to address uncertainties that have arisen since its inception.

In response to changes made by government-sponsored entities related to mortgage products, Senate Bill 365 (Chapter 82) changes the frequency at which an adjustable rate home loan may be adjusted. Under this bill, adjustable rate home loans may be adjusted no more than once every six months. These interest rate adjustments remain effectively capped at 2% annually, by limiting the increase every six months to no more than 1%.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

During the 2021 regular session, the legislature passed a variety of bills related to health and human services. While many of these bills aim to improve access to health care, other noteworthy bills repeal statutes criminalizing abortion, enact a law to provide terminally ill persons with options to end their lives and amend the Medical Malpractice Act for the first time since its enactment. Additionally, bills were passed and signed into law to protect low-income patients from certain types of medical debt collection, safeguard electronic medical records, better serve individuals with developmental disabilities and improve guardianship services.

The Urban Institute estimates that approximately 66,000 uninsured non-citizens currently reside in New Mexico, with 18,000 of them having an income below 138% of the federal poverty level. Aside from certain emergency services, non-citizens, who would otherwise be eligible for Medicaid, are not eligible due to their immigration status. Out of concern that this population was also being denied access to health care from state- and county-funded programs for the indigent, House Bill 112 (Chapter 127) amends both the Hospital Funding Act and the Indigent Hospital and County Health Care Act to add language to ensure that immigration status is not an obstacle to qualifying for such care.

For the past 20 years, the practice of teledentistry in New Mexico has been limited to dentists providing patients with certain diagnostic and treatment plans remotely using technology platforms. Senate Bill 200 (Chapter 63) amends the Dental Health Care Act to update the definition of "teledentistry" to conform with the New Mexico Telehealth Act, thereby allowing dentists, as well as dental hygienists and dental therapists, to provide more comprehensive care via telehealth.

To improve access to primary care in New Mexico, House Bill 67 (Chapter 87) creates the Primary Care Council. Duties of the council will include developing policies to increase access to, improve the quality of and lower the cost of delivering primary care services statewide. The secretary of human services is tasked with creating the council and appointing its members.

A well-established principle of United States law is that state statutes conflicting with federal laws are invalid pursuant to the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution. Under this principle, three statutes, enacted by the New Mexico legislature over 50 years ago, banning abortion and criminalizing the provision of such services, barring a narrow set of subjective exceptions, were invalidated by the United States Supreme Court's 1974 Roe v. Wade decision. Nonetheless, these unenforceable statutes remained on the books. With the passage of Senate Bill 10 (Chapter 2), the legislature repeals these three statutes.

As a result of the enactment of House Bill 47 (Chapter 132), New Mexico joins 10 jurisdictions that provide certain terminally ill patients with end-of-life options. In particular, the legislation allows certain terminally ill adults to make the decision to obtain a prescription for lethal medication and therefore die on their own terms. It also establishes safeguards, including requirements for a mental health evaluation of the patient; a second opinion that the patient's death is imminent; a waiting period; and a requirement that the patient be able to self-administer the prescription to ensure that the patient's decision to die is informed, made without coercion and carried out in a dignified manner. Moreover, the legislation protects health care providers and health care facilities, who act in good faith and in compliance with the provisions of the statute, from criminal liability, licensing sanctions and other professional disciplinary action for either participating or refusing to participate in the process.

House Bill 75 (Chapter 16) amends the Medical Malpractice Act for the first time since its enactment in 1976 and focuses on strengthening the solvency of the Patient's Compensation Fund. In 2009, an actuarial study of the fund showed no deficit; however, five years later, an actuarial study showed a $5.3 million deficit, and by 2016, the deficit had grown to $36.5 million. The deficits resulted after the state's hospitals and outpatient facilities as well as their nurses were granted qualified health care status and use of the Patient's Compensation Fund, which provided unlimited coverage and occurrences, in conflict with some of the requirements and limitations of the Medical Malpractice Act. Among its many provisions, this bill limits the access of health care providers, hospitals and outpatient facilities to the Patient's Compensation Fund. It also raises the amount of insurance that a health care provider must carry in order to qualify for coverage under the act. Additionally, the medical review process, which involves the medical claims panels that review malpractice claims prior to a complaint being filed in court, is now only available to independent providers. The amended act also provides a phased increase in the caps on recovery limitations per occurrence, not including punitive damages or past and future medical care and related benefits. Furthermore, until January 1, 2027, amounts due against a hospital or outpatient facility in excess of $750,000 will not be paid from the fund, and, beginning January 1, 2027, no amounts shall be paid from the fund. Under the amended act, all qualified and participating hospitals and outpatient facilities shall be required to cure any fund deficit attributable to them by December 31, 2026. Other changes in the law concern the implementation of measures to safeguard the fund, including a requirement that the superintendent of insurance contract with a third-party administrator for the fund's administration and operation and seek the advice of the Patient's Compensation Fund Advisory Board, which is created by the bill. The superintendent is required to contract for an annual independent actuarial study, which will be paid for by levying an annual surcharge on all qualified health care providers. Hospitals and outpatient facilities are included in the surcharges until January 1, 2027, and, beginning in 2021, surcharges shall be set with the intention of bringing the fund to solvency with no projected deficit by December 31, 2026.

Low-income New Mexicans who have incurred medical debt may face collection action that can result in garnished wages, liens on their property and lower credit scores. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 71 (Chapter 31) addresses this problem by creating the Patients' Debt Collection Protection Act, which prohibits collection action against indigent patients for medical debt. Additionally, the bill prohibits health care facilities and medical creditors from hiring third-party debt collectors to perform collection actions against indigent patients.

To bring state law into conformity with the federal Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, House Bill 269 (Chapter 113) amends the Electronic Medical Records Act to allow the disclosure of individual electronic medical records to providers, health care institutions or health care group purchasers for treatment, payment or health care operation activities.

Senate Bill 222 (Chapter 71) amends the Health Information System Act to remove providers and hospitals from the definitions of "record level data" and "aggregate data". These changes were needed to conform these definitions to a 2015 amendment to Section 24-14A-8 NMSA 1978, which allows the Department of Health to release data relating to a specific hospital or other type of health facility.

The Maternal Mortality and Morbidity Prevention Act is amended in Senate Bill 96 (Chapter 40) to clarify the scope of cases that the Maternal Mortality Review Committee reviews. In order to provide increased representation of those demographics disproportionately affected by maternal mortality and morbidity, the committee's membership is changed to include two members nominated by the secretary of Indian affairs and two members nominated by the director of the Office on African American Affairs. The bill also creates an executive committee of the Maternal Mortality Review Committee to enable it to perform its work year-round. Finally, the legislation clarifies who may attend committee meetings and requires trauma training for committee members.

In order to strengthen the services that the Office of Guardianship can provide and to clarify its role, House State Government, Elections and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 234 (Chapter 128) establishes certain new definitions, powers and duties of the office. Among its provisions, the bill expands legal and professional services offered by the state to income-eligible adults and establishes a network of stakeholders to better serve the community of people who rely on guardians. With the bill's passage, service providers are required to consider less restrictive alternatives to guardianship, which will provide more autonomy to protected persons. To monitor guardianship cases, the bill creates the court visitor pilot program. Also established is the Working Interdisciplinary Network of Guardianship Stakeholders to evaluate adult guardianship and conservatorship laws, practices and services in New Mexico.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Health and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 190 (Chapter 61) renames the Developmental Disabilities Planning Council as the Developmental Disabilities Council and makes changes to the council's membership. The bill requires the council to conduct a comprehensive review and analysis of the services, supports and other assistance available to those with developmental disabilities and the extent of the unmet need for these services, and it also requires a number of state agencies to annually report to the council on the types of services provided, any policy changes and gaps in services that may pose barriers to those with developmental disabilities receiving services.

INSURANCE

Two insurance-related bills passed and were signed into law during the 2021 regular session, with one bill that enacts significant changes to the New Mexico Insurance Code and one bill that makes behavioral health services more affordable and increases the health insurance premium surtax.

An overhaul of the New Mexico Insurance Code, House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 235 (Chapter 108) adds and amends definitions in an effort to clarify the role of the superintendent of insurance and to ensure that the compliance with the code comports with modern technology. The bill includes variances that may be put into effect upon the invocation of a state of emergency and allows certain waivers, and there are sections dedicated to hearings, advertising, limitations on rebates, interest on claim payments, scope, content and cancellation of policies and deductibles. Finally, the bill raises the maximum age a person can be considered as a dependent from 25 to 26 years of age.

To make behavioral health services more affordable, Senate Bill 317 (Chapter 136) adds new sections to the Health Care Purchasing Act and the New Mexico Insurance Code to place a five-year moratorium on all forms of cost sharing currently borne by insured individuals for those services. It also requires the Office of Superintendent of Insurance and Legislative Finance Committee to report on the effects of the elimination of cost sharing, including on providers and patients. When the bill reached its final destination on the House floor, it was amended to include the provisions of House Bill 122, which had stalled in committee. Those provisions increase the health insurance premium surtax and distribute a portion of the surtax to a newly created Health Care Affordability Fund, the purpose of which is to reduce health care premiums and cost sharing for New Mexico residents and small businesses. However, if Congress imposes a fee on health care providers pursuant to the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, or a similar fee, the tax will be reduced proportionally.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND PUBLIC SAFETY

Law enforcement and public safety issues were addressed this session through the passage of two bills. Specifically, the New Mexico Civil Rights Act, which applies largely to law enforcement officers, was enacted. Also, law enforcement agencies are now prohibited from disclosing the location of a missing person who has recently been found in certain circumstances.

New Mexico residents and individuals present within the state now have a cause of action against a public body for a violation of a right, privilege or immunity secured by the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of New Mexico. House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 4 (Chapter 119) enacts the New Mexico Civil Rights Act to prohibit the use of the defense of qualified immunity, with this exception applying most notably to law enforcement officers. Any money damages received by the plaintiff will be paid by the public body, although there is a cap on damages awarded of $2 million per claimant. The court may, in its discretion, allow plaintiff attorney fees to be paid by the defendant.

Law enforcement agencies are now required to keep information confidential under certain circumstances when dealing with a missing person case. Senate Bill 92 (Chapter 39) prohibits a law enforcement agency from reporting that a missing person has been located to a custodian or immediate family member of a missing person when the missing person has informed the law enforcement agency that the person wishes that confidentiality regarding the person's location be maintained.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT AND SPECIAL DISTRICTS

Under the topic of local governments and special districts, the legislature passed a bill to assist unincorporated communities with the transition into a municipality and another bill to amend an existing statute to facilitate legal assistance to mostly rural, traditional and unincorporated colonia communities.

To address some of the costs associated with incorporating as a municipality, including the requirement that a census be conducted in the area proposed to be incorporated, House Bill 261 (Chapter 112) was enacted into law. The bill allows a petition for incorporation to include readily available data that shows that the proposed area contains the requisite population density. A territory petitioning for incorporation is now required to obtain this data from the University of New Mexico Geospatial and Population Studies Group.

In 2019, the legislature passed the Community Governance Attorney Act establishing a tuition waiver for service program designed to create an incentive for law school students to learn about the areas of law that govern New Mexico's historic land grant and acequia communities and that affect indigent people living in colonias. The program authorizes two participants a year to have 50% of the costs of their third year of law school forgiven in exchange for working for an entity that provides legal services to these communities and people. House Bill 189 (Chapter 103) allows the Community Governance Attorney Commission to adjust the salaries of the program participants to be at the same rate as entry-level attorneys are paid at New Mexico Legal Aid.

MILITARY AND VETERANS' AFFAIRS

This year, the legislature continued its efforts to modernize its laws related to military affairs, improve the lives of military personnel and their families and develop and improve the New Mexico National Guard and the State Defense Force through the passage of three bills.

While the Uniform Code of Military Justice has been updated over the last few decades to reflect current concepts of criminal law, New Mexico's Code of Military Justice has not kept pace. House Bill 31 (Chapter 67) updates New Mexico's code by amending the elements, definitions and penalties for several sex crimes.

On the heels of a 2020 law that provided expedited and free reciprocal licensure to certain members of military families, House Bill 120 (Chapter 92) significantly expands the group of potential beneficiaries of these efforts. Moving forward, all professional and occupational licenses that fall under Chapter 61 NMSA 1978, all school personnel and construction industry licenses and registrations, certificates of registration, certificates, permits or certifications are expedited and offered at no fee for the first three years to military service members, their spouses and their dependent children as well as for veterans.

Senate Bill 146 (Chapter 55) makes significant changes to the role of the adjutant general of the Department of Military Affairs, the manner in which the New Mexico National Guard and the State Defense Force are activated and the events that can justify the governor to call for these entities to be activated. In addition, the new law removes the age limit on volunteers for the State Defense Force, and it enacts new sections of the Code of Military Justice to prohibit sexual contact between recruits or trainees and recruiters and training leaders and to ban members of the National Guard and State Defense Force not in federal service from wearing certain unauthorized items.

MOTOR VEHICLES AND TRANSPORTATION

Motor vehicle and transportation bills passed and signed into law in the 2021 regular session include those that affect the administrative duties of the Department of Transportation and transportation-related funds. In addition, certain rural communities may apply for competitive grants to attract commercial airlines, the surety bond is increased for driver education schools and New Mexico will join several other states that allow the testing of autonomous vehicles.

Two bills make changes to the administrative duties of the Department of Transportation. Senate Bill 186 (Chapter 59) transfers a variety of powers and duties from the Department of Public Safety and other state agencies to the Department of Transportation and expands the duties of the Department of Transportation. These powers and duties are related to the trip tax, weight distance tax and permits, special fuel user permits, oversight at ports of entry, accepting credit card payments, caravan fees, setting limits and exceptions and investigating vehicle heights, lengths and weights, special farm permits and vehicles used to transport seed cotton modules and agricultural products. In addition to adding items to the list of what is an unlawful use of highways, Senate Bill 325 (Chapter 80) allows the Department of Transportation to settle or collect by suit damages caused by one of those unlawful uses.

Two other bills affect transportation-related funds, including Senate Bill 73 (Chapter 32), which provides that revenue remitted to the state from fees imposed by the federal Unified Carrier Registration Act of 2005 will be deposited in the Motor Transportation Fee Fund. This fund pays per diem to witnesses appearing pursuant to subpoenas issued by the Public Regulation Commission. At the end of each month, any unencumbered balance in the fund is transferred to the State Road Fund. The other bill, Senate Bill 20 (Chapter 22), changes a distribution of 18.75% of the motor vehicle excise tax from the formula-based Local Governments Road Fund to the competitive- and needs-based Transportation Project Fund that provides funds for county, municipal and Indian nation, tribe and pueblo projects.

Enacted in Senate Bill 133 (Chapter 47), the Rural Air Service Enhancement Act provides that rural counties and municipalities meeting certain qualifications may apply for competitive grants to pay minimum revenue guarantees to commercial airlines providing flight services on new routes. The bill creates the Rural Air Service Enhancement Grant Program, to be administered by the director of the Aviation Division of the Department of Transportation, and provides maximum amounts for grants and requires matching funds from the county or municipality. Additionally, the bill creates the Rural Air Service Enhancement Fund, 10% of the balances of which may be used each year by the Aviation Division for infrastructure improvements related to the rural air service enhancement grants.

With the enactment of Senate Bill 106 (Chapter 41), the required amount of a surety bond a driver education school must post with the Traffic Safety Bureau of the Department of Transportation is raised from $5,000 to $15,000. The increase in the required surety bond raises the bond amount in line with many other states and is intended to ensure that any students impacted by the closure of a driver education school will be compensated for any loss of school fees.

With advances in technology, the concept of autonomous, or self-driving, vehicles has become a reality. Now, with the enactment of House Floor Substitute for House Commerce and Economic Development Committee Substitute for House Bill 270 (Chapter 114), New Mexico is eligible on July 1, 2022 for the testing of autonomous vehicles, including commercial motor vehicles, with Level 3, 4 or 5 driving automation systems. This does not include consumer motor vehicles using options such as cruise control, lane control and following too closely warnings. Persons wanting to test autonomous vehicles must give the Department of Transportation five days' advance notice using forms provided by the department, and the department has the authority to promulgate rules regarding notification and regulation processes for testing autonomous vehicles. Operators of autonomous vehicles are required to report accidents. However, if an autonomous vehicle has no human driver, the vehicle's owner or a person working for the owner is required to make the report. Local jurisdictions are preempted from regulating the testing and operation of autonomous vehicles.

PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL LICENSURE AND REGULATION

In 2021, the legislature made a number of changes to professional and occupational licensure and regulation laws, including: removing barriers for undocumented people to receive licensure or certification; consolidating the Board of Osteopathic Medicine and the New Mexico Medical Board; modifying license requirements to make it easier for out-of-state social workers, psychologists, counselors and therapists to practice in New Mexico; requiring that alcohol and drug abuse counselors have a certain amount of clinical work experience; and increasing recovery amounts for a person who suffered financial losses due to the mismanagement of property by a licensed real estate broker.

Senate Bill 219 (Chapter 70) expands on legislation passed in the 2020 legislative session to make an affirmative statement that a person is eligible for professional licensure or certification for which that person is qualified, regardless of the person's citizenship or immigration status, by allowing for a tax identification number to be used in place of a social security number and removing specific requirements that an applicant for professional or occupational licensure provide proof of citizenship.

At the request of the Regulation and Licensing Department, Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 279 (Chapter 54) was enacted to consolidate the Board of Osteopathic Medicine and the New Mexico Medical Board in order to improve efficiency and cut costs related to the licensing and oversight of health care providers. The bill repeals the Osteopathic Medicine Act and amends the Medical Practice Act, thereby providing a mechanism for phasing out the Board of Osteopathic Medicine and bringing osteopathic physicians and osteopathic physician assistants under the authority of the New Mexico Medical Board. This legislation also requires the governor to appoint at least two osteopathic physicians to the New Mexico Medical Board.

For years, New Mexico has been struggling with a shortage of behavioral health providers, and the demand for their services is expected to sharply increase due to pandemic-related trauma. House Bill 125

(Chapter 93) modifies licensing requirements so that experienced social workers, psychologists, counselors and therapists, who are already licensed in other jurisdictions and in good professional standing, to relocate to New Mexico and seamlessly continue practicing their respective professions. Additionally, this bill extends the life of provisional licenses during declared states of emergency so that new behavioral health providers can continue to practice in their communities. The bill also allows each of the behavioral health licensing boards to consider rule changes to allow professional supervision to be conducted remotely.

House Bill 178 (Chapter 99) expands definitions within the Counseling and Therapy Practice Act to ensure that a licensed alcohol and drug abuse counselor has three years of supervised clinical work experience in the field of alcohol and substance abuse counseling and that human services and family services are included in the list of degree types that qualify for inclusion in the field of alcohol and substance abuse counseling.

In 1980, the Real Estate Recovery Fund was created to compensate persons aggrieved by fraud, knowing or willful misrepresentation or wrongful conversion of funds on the part of a licensed real estate broker or associate broker arising out of certain real estate transactions. House Bill 230 (Chapter 106) extends recovery to losses arising out of property management as well as real estate transactions and raises potential reimbursement for unpaid actual damages from $10,000 to $50,000 per claimant, and from $30,000 to $100,000 for claims against any one licensee during a calendar year. The time frame for seeking compensation is extended from one year to two years following a final judgment against a real estate licensee, and some of the procedures for obtaining such compensation are revised.

PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

In contrast to the 2020 legislative session, which saw substantial changes to public retirement benefits, the 2021 legislative session provided legislation to clarify existing and intended benefits and require slight contribution increases. Retirees of the Public Employees Retirement Association have increased options to change survivor beneficiaries, firefighters can receive credit for scheduled tours of duty in calculating their salary and certain officers are permitted to move into the state public safety plan. Changes are made to the Retiree Health Care Act to ensure conformity with federal law, and employers under the Educational Retirement Act are due to make slightly higher contributions on behalf of their employees.

To allow a retired member of the Public Employees Retirement Association more control over the form in which that member receives a retirement benefit and who may receive a survivor benefit, House Bill 277 (Chapter 115) was enacted into law. This bill permits a retiree to make a one-time change to the retiree's designated survivor beneficiary option. If the current survivor beneficiary is a current spouse, the retiree must submit a notarized document from the spouse relinquishing the spouse's status as a beneficiary. If the retiree is divorced from the current survivor beneficiary, the retiree may change the beneficiary, provided that the former spouse does not have a legal right to the benefit.

Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 90 (Chapter 38) addresses an issue on calculating the public employee retirement benefit of certain public safety employees. While the bill keeps the exclusion of overtime in the calculation of salary, it creates an exception for overtime that is required by a regular scheduled tour of duty. This allows for the capture of time worked for employees that are on staggered shifts, such as firefighters. To fund this increased calculation to salary, and thus increased liability to the retirement fund, member contribution rates of the municipal fire member plans are increased by 1.5%.

In 2015, certain public safety employees were moved between state general retirement plans and state police retirement plans. To ensure uniformity, Senate Bill 315 (Chapter 36) permits an election, among affected members who were placed into the state general plans, to decide whether to move into the State Police Member, Correctional Officer Member and Probation and Parole Officer Member Coverage Plan 1. This bill contains provisions to retroactively adjust credits for the members, provided they chose to move plans, to reflect credited service up to 2015. Funding to offset these changes is provided in the GAA.

Introduced on behalf of the Retiree Health Care Authority, Senate Bill 21 (Chapter 23) provides clarifying and conforming changes to the Retiree Health Care Act. The bill ensures conformity with the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and removes references to outdated language. Additionally, the bill repeals provisions of the act related to the state discount prescription drug program, which was no longer funded, nor administered, after similar federal programs became available.

To reduce the infinite funding period facing the Educational Retirement Fund and increase the solvency of the fund, the legislature passed Senate Bill 42 (Chapter 44). This bill increases employer contributions to the fund by 1% per year for two years. Furthermore, the bill requires that the Educational Retirement Board provide future solvency proposals that do not require additional increases to employer contributions, and it also provides a two-year extension to the sunset of certain return-to-work provisions.

Lastly, Senate Bill 303 (Chapter 78) increases the membership of the Educational Retirement Board by two members. The additional members include the secretary of higher education or the secretary's designee and one member to be elected by the American Federation of Teachers New Mexico, both of whom are slated to serve for a term of four years.

STATE GOVERNMENT

During the 2021 regular session, the legislature passed a range of bills addressing general government operations, including enforcement and administration duties, the designation of agencies for compliance with federal programs and changes to the structure of community action boards. Notable bills affecting the operation of state agencies were passed in response to the COVID-19 pandemic and to increase access to services, including per diem rate modification to accommodate virtual attendance and replacement of acts pertaining to notarization, which include remote notarization procedures. Other legislation was enacted to expand access to vital records, increase accountability of public funds used in capital outlay projects and extend the lives of certain state agencies. Finally, relating to property and procurement, the legislature passed measures that provide for a design and build project delivery system regardless of the funding source, ratify a decision by the General Services Department to sell a permanent easement over seven parcels of state property to the Village of Los Lunas for a traffic relief corridor and approve the transfer of multiple tracts of land and port-of-entry facilities to the Department of Transportation.

Entities

House Bill 244 (Chapter 109) amends provisions of the Campaign Reporting Act, the Voter Action Act, the Financial Disclosure Act and the Lobbyist Regulation Act to clarify the respective enforcement and administrative duties of the secretary of state and the State Ethics Commission in investigating and remediating violations of those acts and to revise penalty provisions under the Campaign Reporting Act. This legislation additionally subjects the State Ethics Commission to the disclosure requirements of the Financial Disclosure Act and removes the requirement that ethics complaints filed with the State Ethics Commission be notarized.

The National Flood Insurance Program is a federal program enabling persons to purchase subsidized flood insurance for buildings and other real property improvements. In House Bill 168 (Chapter 97), the Homeland Security and Emergency Management Department is designated as the state agency responsible for ensuring compliance with the program and adopting rules for meeting federal floodplain management regulations. Moreover, the Construction Industries Division of the Regulation and Licensing Department is designated as the state agency that ensures that all buildings owned or funded, in whole or in part, by the state meet floodplain management rules, including floodplain review by a certified floodplain management professional prior to the start of development.

House Bill 224 (Chapter 105) amends the structure of community action boards and limits the terms of board members provided under the Community Action Act. The bill eliminates the 15-member composition requirements for community action boards, providing no additional specification for the number of members that comprise a community action board. Also, community action board member terms are reduced to five consecutive years of service on a community action board.

Legislature

To increase the accountability for the use of public funds, House Bill 55 (Chapter 122) makes public the names of each individual's allocations of funding for capital outlay projects. No later than 30 days after each legislative session, including the First Session of the Fifty-Fifth Legislature, the Legislative Council Service will provide on the legislature's website a list of funded capital projects and the name of the individual legislator or governor who allocated the funding for that project.

Operations

To update the state's per diem laws, the legislature passed Senate Bill 345 (Chapter 81). This bill changes the definition of "attend" to take into account virtual attendance, an issue that was made clear during the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally, the bill makes changes to the per diem amounts provided to public officers and employees. Per diem rates are now set annually by the Department of Finance and Administration, taking into account the rates set by the United States General Services Administration. The bill also prevents a recipient from receiving per diem for more than one meeting that occurs on the same day. Furthermore, the amount that a public officer or employee receives is affected by whether the meeting was virtual or the actual length of physical attendance at the meeting by that public officer or employee.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 12 (Chapter 21) enacts the Revised Uniform Law on Notarial Acts and repeals the Notary Public Act and the Uniform Law on Notarial Acts. This bill provides a comprehensive replacement for the requirements of notaries under the repealed acts and adopts requirements for remote notarization. Along with the commission of a notary public, notarial officers are granted authority to perform notarial acts. However, the bill distinguishes between the requirements for a notary public and notarial officers to perform notarizations. The secretary of state is required to maintain an electronic database of notaries public and is authorized to administer and promulgate rules necessary to carry out the provisions of the bill. The bill also allows for remote notarizations under certain circumstances. Compliance with the provisions of the Revised Uniform Law on Notarial Acts is enforced by the State Ethics Commission.

To reduce barriers faced by youths experiencing homelessness, House Bill 179 (Chapter 100) amends sections of the Vital Statistics Act to require the state registrar to issue birth certificates to unaccompanied youths requesting their vital records without an adult's signature. The bill additionally deems local education agency homeless liaisons, school counselors, school nurses and social workers to have direct and tangible interests to request certified copies of the birth records of homeless youths and unaccompanied youths as required under the Vital Statistics Act. Moreover, the bill eliminates fees charged for copies of vital records when these records are requested by homeless youths.

Senate Bill 145 (Chapter 50) extends the life of certain state agencies pursuant to the Sunset Act until 2027 and repeals those agencies on July 1, 2028. The agencies affected are the Office of Military Base Planning and Support and the Military Base Planning Commission, the Chiropractic Board, the Nutrition and Dietetics Practice Board, the New Mexico State Board of Psychologist Examiners, the Counseling and Therapy Practice Board, the Board of Osteopathic Medicine, the Board of Examiners for Occupational Therapy, the Advisory Board of Respiratory Care Practitioners, the Massage Therapy Board, the Physical Therapy Board, the Speech-Language Pathology, Audiology and Hearing Aid Dispensing Practices Board and the Athletic Trainer Practice Board.

Property and Procurement

The Department of Transportation has the authority to use a design and build project delivery system for projects with a construction cost in excess of $50 million if funded in whole or in part by federal funds. Senate Bill 34 (Chapter 26) allows such a delivery system to be utilized for such projects regardless of the funding source.

The Village of Los Lunas has provided a number of presentations to legislative interim committees in recent years describing how its population has outgrown its existing road system and is experiencing traffic congestion. With the passage of House Joint Resolution 14, the legislature ratified a decision by the General Services Department to sell a permanent easement over seven parcels of state property to the Village of Los Lunas for a traffic relief corridor. The new traffic corridor will run east-west along an expanded Morris Road and will include a new interchange with Interstate 25. The approval is contingent upon the Village of Los Lunas paying the appraised value of the easements and completing various actions it has agreed to with the General Services Department to move installations on the properties or otherwise mitigate the construction of the traffic corridor.

Throughout New Mexico, the Department of Transportation operates ports of entry in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety and the Taxation and Revenue Department. Senate Joint Resolution 13 ratifies and approves the transfer of multiple tracts of land and port-of-entry facilities located in Quay, Curry, Guadalupe, Eddy, Dona Ana, Union, Lea, San Juan, Colfax and Hidalgo counties from the Facilities Management Division of the General Services Department and the Department of Public Safety to the Department of Transportation.

TAXATION

This year, the legislature took measures to provide significant tax relief for individuals and businesses, including permanent relief for low-income individuals and temporary relief for certain individuals and businesses, negatively affected by the pandemic. The legislature also expanded a few tax deviations, enacted multiple tax administration bills and added another option for taxpayers to donate their personal income tax refunds.

Intended to provide immediate tax relief to essential workers and food and beverage establishments especially affected by the pandemic, Senate Bill 1 (Chapter 4) creates a one-time $600 tax rebate for taxpayers eligible for the working families tax credit and who had taxable income of $31,200 or less for individuals, or $39,000 or less for heads of household, surviving spouses and married individuals filing joint returns, payable upon the filing of the taxpayer's 2020 taxes. Beginning March 1, 2021 and prior to July 1, 2021, food and beverage establishments may claim a gross receipts tax deduction for the sale of prepared food or non-packaged beverages that are served or picked up at the establishment or delivered to customers. Any amount passed on to a customer in lieu of the gross receipts tax for these sales will not be considered gross receipts for purposes of the tax.

A bill that took many twists and turns during the session, House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 291 (Chapter 116) ultimately was enacted to provide tax relief to low-income individuals and working families. Among the bill's provisions, the low-income comprehensive tax rebate, which had not been amended since 1998, increases the income threshold to be eligible for the rebate, increases the amount of the rebates and creates an automatic adjustment of the rebates based on inflation. The working families tax credit is increased to 20% of the federal earned income tax credit for two years, then to 25% of the federal credit thereafter. In addition, eligibility for the working families tax credit is expanded to taxpayers without a social security number and those ages 18 to 24 without qualifying children, neither of whom are eligible for the federal credit. Lastly, the bill requires employers to provide to their employees information regarding assistance for low-income New Mexicans from the Taxation and Revenue Department, including information on how to claim the low-income comprehensive tax rebate, the working families tax credit and other tax rebates and credits for low-income filers.

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 278 (Chapter 66) expands a manufacturing gross receipts tax deduction, intended to reduce the effects of anti-pyramiding on the sale of tangible personal property, to include manufacturing service providers. Sellers of manufacturing consumables, and sellers or lessors of qualified equipment, will be required to obtain a nontaxable transaction certificate from the buyer to be eligible to claim the deduction. The bill also clarifies the definition of "manufacturing" and creates a definition of "manufacturing services" in the Gross Receipts and Compensating Tax Act.

Providing for the termination of the new sustainable building tax credits – now deemed the 2015 sustainable building tax credits – and the creation of the new 2021 sustainable building tax credits, House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 15 (Chapter 84) updates and expands personal and corporate income tax credits for sustainable buildings in New Mexico that meet or exceed state and national environmental codes and standards. The 2021 sustainable building tax credits will be available for the construction of sustainable buildings, the renovation of existing buildings, the permanent installation of manufactured housing that is a sustainable building and the installation of energy-conserving products to existing buildings.

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 98 (Chapter 65) is a technical cleanup bill that makes changes to various tax acts, including language to clean up obsolete statutory references; clarify language in gross receipts statutes related to licenses and leases; make tax penalty provisions more fair for "innocent" spouses; limit wage garnishment of unpaid taxes for low-income taxpayers; fix potential loopholes in tax expenditure statutes; streamline administration of the Uniform Unclaimed Property Act (1995); clarify gross receipts tax deduction language to allow the food deduction for food delivered to households; standardize oil and gas industry volume measurements for tax purposes; finalize the transition of premium tax administration to the Taxation and Revenue Department; and allow the Taxation and Revenue Department to require electronic payment of various taxes.

In response to changes to complex federal tax laws and how larger corporations are audited, assessed and file amended returns, the legislature enacted Senate Bill 410 (Chapter 83) to address issues arising from a federal partnership audit or adjustment requests that result in underpayment or overpayment of state income taxes that require changes to New Mexico's tax laws to fill a gap in enforcement. The bill also adds a new section of the Withholding Tax Act to allow a pass-through entity to file a composite income tax return on behalf of electing nonresident members. Meanwhile, Senate Bill 218 (Chapter 69) eliminates a provision in the Multistate Tax Compact that allows a taxpayer to elect to apportion and allocate income pursuant to the Model Version of the Uniform Division of Income for Tax Purposes Act. As a result, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2021, taxpayers are required to apportion and allocate income pursuant to New Mexico's Uniform Division of Income for Tax Purposes Act.

The NMFA is authorized by the enactment of Senate Bill 223 (Chapter 72) to issue an additional $22 million in cigarette tax revenue bonds for the purpose of designing, constructing, equipping and furnishing additions and improvements at the Comprehensive Cancer Center at the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center. Cigarette tax revenue will be used to pay for the bonds, after which the revenue will be distributed to the General Fund. The bill also cleans up inaccurate statutory references in several sections of law caused by the partial veto of Laws 2010 (2nd S.S.), Chapter 5, Section 1 that amended Section 7-1-6.11 NMSA 1978.

Finally, House Bill 89 (Chapter 90) allows taxpayers to donate all or a portion of their individual personal income tax refunds to the New Mexico Department of Agriculture's Healthy Soil Program. This program's purpose is to promote and support farming, ranching and other forms of land management to improve the health, yield and profitability of New Mexico's soil.

WATER

The one water bill that passed this year did not address water rights, allocations or adjudications, but rather how the state will use federal money given to the state for water utilization projects in southwest New Mexico. The federal Arizona Water Settlements Act of 2004 provided $6.6 million a year for 10 years to the State of New Mexico to meet water supply demands in the Southwest Planning Region of New Mexico, composed of Catron, Luna, Hidalgo and Grant counties. The federal law allows the money to be used for construction of a Gila diversion, referred to as the New Mexico Unit, or for other non-diversion projects. House Bill 200 (Chapter 64) directs the Interstate Stream Commission to use the remaining money received from the federal government in the New Mexico Unit Fund only on non-diversion, water utilization projects in the four-county region and tasks the Water Trust Board with evaluating and recommending projects for funding to the Interstate Stream Commission.

FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE
SECOND SPECIAL SESSION, 2020

Five months after the First Special Session of the Fifty-Fourth Legislature adjourned, the governor brought the legislature back to Santa Fe on Tuesday, November 24, 2020, for a second special session. While the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic was the primary reason for both special sessions, the second special session in November differed in that the governor's proclamation was much narrower in scope. This time, amid an autumnal surge in New Mexico COVID-19 cases, hospitalizations and deaths, the governor tightened public health order restrictions that resulted in many businesses closing for several weeks and many people out of work. With no additional federal help on the immediate horizon, the governor and the legislature sought to provide financial aid to several affected groups. In one day, the legislature, which conducted its business virtually with the State Capitol closed, passed one bill that provides immediate help to the unemployed and small businesses in New Mexico and appropriates money to several state agencies for COVID-19-related initiatives.

In addition to appropriating funds to pay the costs of the special session, House Bill 1 (Chapter 1) appropriated all of the money remaining from the $750 million allocation of federal Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act relief funds transferred to the Appropriation Account of the General Fund pursuant to Laws 2020 (1st S.S.), Chapter 5, Section 14. The remaining money provides the following: one-time, $1,200 supplemental unemployment compensation benefits to eligible claimants; grants up to $50,000 to certain New Mexico businesses, with priority given to hospitality and leisure businesses and businesses experiencing severe economic impacts from the pandemic; up to $750 in assistance for certain low-income state residents; emergency housing assistance and assistance for the homeless; and emergency food bank services. Since the federal law requires that the relief funds be spent before the end of 2020, the bill provides that any unexpended balance remaining on December 28, 2020 will be deposited in the Unemployment Compensation Fund to address severe solvency issues due to historic layoffs caused by the pandemic. Appropriations are also made to the Department of Health for contact tracing, testing and vaccine implementation and to the Administrative Office of the Courts for expenses related to implementing and complying with public health orders related to the pandemic.

FIFTY-FIFTH LEGISLATURE
FIRST SPECIAL SESSION, 2021

Ten days after the regular session ended, the governor called legislators back to Santa Fe for the third special session in less than one year. The theme of the First Special Session of the Fifty-Fifth Legislature could be taking care of unfinished business, as the governor specified in her special session proclamation two areas of legislation that did not make it across the finish line of the previous regular session: legalizing recreational cannabis use for persons 21 years of age and older and allowing a portion of state and local gross receipts and compensating taxes to be used for LEDA projects. In response to the governor's proclamation, the legislature met for two days on March 30 and 31, 2021 and passed four bills that were signed by the governor into law.

The quest to legalize recreational cannabis in New Mexico, which began under Governor Gary Johnson over 20 years ago, finally ended when the legislature passed House Bill 2 (Chapter 4), which enacts the Cannabis Regulation Act and amends the Lynn and Erin Compassionate Use Act, the Controlled Substances Act and other sections of the NMSA 1978. In the Cannabis Regulation Act, the Cannabis Control Division of the Regulation and Licensing Department is created as the entity responsible for licensing and regulating cannabis producers, manufacturers, retailers and couriers in whatever form their businesses take. The time line for the roll-out of cannabis licensure is:

- ▶ on June 29, 2021:
 - cannabis is no longer illegal in New Mexico; and
 - the licensing and regulatory authority over the medical cannabis program is transferred to the Cannabis Control Division, but the medical cannabis registry functions of the Department of Health stay with that department;
- ▶ no later than September 1, 2021:
 - members are appointed to two newly created entities, the Cannabis Regulatory Advisory Committee and the Public Health and Safety Advisory Committee; and
 - the Cannabis Control Division begins accepting and processing license applications for cannabis producers, cannabis producer microbusinesses and anyone properly licensed and in good standing as a licensed cannabis producer under the Lynn and Erin Compassionate Use Act;
- ▶ by January 1, 2022:
 - regulatory and licensing regulations, which are extensive, must be finalized and promulgated, including rules the division must promulgate in consultation with the Department of Health, the Department of Environment, the Economic Development Department and the New Mexico Department of Agriculture as well as the state engineer and the state fire marshal; and
 - the Cannabis Control Division begins accepting and processing all other license types;
- ▶ no later than April 1, 2022, retail sales of commercial cannabis products begin; and
- ▶ beginning December 1, 2024, the Public Health and Safety Advisory Committee shall provide to the legislature and the public an annual report on the health effects of legalizing cannabis products for adult use.

The Cannabis Regulation Act makes a clear distinction between commercial use, known popularly as recreational use, and medical use. A person must be 21 years of age or older to produce, manufacture, sell, courier, purchase, possess or consume commercial cannabis products. Retail purchases are limited to two ounces of cannabis, 16 grams of cannabis extract and 800 milligrams of edible cannabis at any one time, and a person cannot possess more than that outside the person's private residence. Individuals are allowed to have no more than six cannabis plants, 12 per household, for personal use without having a license.

In an attempt to spread the economic benefits of the cannabis industry throughout the state, during rulemaking, the Cannabis Control Division must provide procedures that promote and encourage full participation in the cannabis industry by rural, economically disadvantaged and underserved communities such as tribal, acequia, land grant-merced and other rural historic communities; and communities that have been disproportionately harmed by rates of arrest through the enforcement of cannabis prohibitions in law and policy.

The Cannabis Regulation Act details the licenses, which must be renewed annually, and corresponding fees for a variety of cannabis retailers, manufacturers, producers, couriers, laboratories and microbusinesses. Except for the microbusinesses, a licensee cultivating cannabis plants will also be assessed an annual fee of not more than $50.00 per mature cannabis plant at the time of licensing or renewal. A licensee may increase the number of mature plants licensed at the time of renewal and one other time during the year in increments of 500 plants. Licenses must clearly state whether they are for medical cannabis activity, commercial cannabis activity or both, or for cannabis training and education programs. To aid small producers, the Cannabis Control Division may issue a cannabis retailer license at a discount if the retailer agrees to accept consignment from a licensed cannabis producer microbusiness or integrated cannabis microbusiness.

There are two associated worries about legalization of recreational cannabis that the bill takes into account. To address concerns about water use in arid New Mexico, the law requires producers and manufacturers to submit energy and water efficiency plans with their license applications. As a condition of licensure, an applicant must demonstrate that the legal right to a commercial water supply, water rights or another source of water sufficient to meet the water needs as determined by the Cannabis Control Division related to the license and as evidenced by documentation from the state engineer of a valid water right or from a water provider that the use of water for cannabis production is compliant with that water provider's rules. The other worry is that commercial sales could imperil the medical cannabis supply, so the law requires that a certain percentage of supply and sales be set aside for people on the medical cannabis registry.

It is against the law for a licensee to sell, serve or give cannabis products to a person under the age of 21 or allow them to consume cannabis products on a licensed premises; it is also illegal to buy cannabis products for or procure the sale or service of cannabis products for a person under the age of 21. A licensee can be fined up to $10,000, and the license may be suspended or revoked.

Also enacted in the bill is the Cannabis Tax Act, which imposes a cannabis excise tax on cannabis retailers selling cannabis products in New Mexico. The tax starts at 12% applied to the price paid for a cannabis product until July 1, 2025, when yearly 1% increases in the tax are implemented until July 1, 2030, when the tax is 18%. Those persons qualified to purchase medical cannabis are exempt from paying the excise tax.

A companion bill to the Cannabis Regulation Act, Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 2 (Chapter 3) provides for the expungement of arrest and conviction records for certain cannabis offenses and provides for dismissal of sentences of incarcerated persons who were convicted of offenses that are no longer crimes under the provisions of the Cannabis Regulation Act. The law also mandates that criminal records, including arrest records that do not result in conviction; convictions that have been sealed, dismissed, expunged or pardoned; juvenile adjudications; or convictions for a crime that is not job-related, cannot be used to determine eligibility for public employment or licensure or certification to engage in an occupation, profession or a business. In addition, human trafficking is now among the list of crimes that may disqualify a job or license/certificate applicant from eligibility, licensure or certification.

In addition to providing funding for the special session, House Bill 1 (Chapter 1) appropriates $6.95 million for activities related to the passage of the Cannabis Regulation Act and the expungement law changes as follows: $1.7 million to the Regulation and Licensing Department to administer the Cannabis Regulation Act; $750,000 to the Department of Public Safety for drug recognition expert field certification for law enforcement officers in the state and to develop or purchase roadside impairment tests that are validated for testing cannabis impairment; $4 million to the Taxation and Revenue Department to implement the Cannabis Tax Act; and $500,000 to the Administrative Office of the Courts to address expungement of arrest and conviction records for cannabis-related offenses.

In the final bill to be enacted during the special session, the LEDA is amended by Senate Bill 1 (Chapter 2) to allow tax revenue sharing for new, large economic development projects that incur at least $350 million in construction-related expenses within 10 years. The entity that owns the project will be entitled to 50% of the revenue from state and local gross receipts and compensating taxes imposed on expenses related to the construction of the project. Both the Economic Development Department and the Taxation and Revenue Department are required to perform administrative and oversight duties.

$63,939,000 is appropriated from the general fund to the department of finance and administration for expenditure in FY 2022 to provide salary increases to employees in budgeted positions who have completed their probationary period subject to satisfactory job performance. Police officers of the department of public safety shall be exempt from the requirement to complete their probationary period. The salary increases shall be effective the first full pay period after July 1, 2021.

63,939.0

$34 million is appropriated from the general fund to the department of finance and administration to provide incumbents in positions covered by a pension plan created under the Educational Retirement Act a 1% employer-paid pension contribution increase contingent on enactment of Senate Bill 42 or similar legislation in the first session of the fifty-fifth legislature increasing employer-paid pension contributions. Any unexpended balances remaining at the end of FY 2022 shall revert to the general fund.

Notes:

- ¹There are several court cases and attorney general opinions the LCS relies on when considering line-item vetoes, the main cases being State ex rel. Segó v. Kirkpatrick, State ex rel. Coll v. Carruthers, State ex rel. Taylor v. Johnson, State ex rel. Smith v. Martinez and State ex rel. Cisneros v. Martinez. In Segó, the New Mexico Supreme Court said, "The power of partial veto is the power to disapprove. This is a negative power, or the power to delete or destroy a part or item, and is not a positive power, or the power to alter, enlarge or increase the effect of the remaining parts or items. It is not the power to enact or create new legislation by selective deletions. . .". In State ex rel Coll v. Carruthers, the court said that an improper intrusion into the executive managerial function is one in which a legislative condition "purport[s] to reserve to the legislature powers of close supervision that are essentially executive in character" or attempt to "make detailed, miniscule, inconsequential executive management decisions". In Segó et al, the court made clear that "a partial veto must be so exercised that it eliminates or destroys the whole of an item or part and does not distort the legislative intent, and in effect create legislation inconsistent with that enacted by the Legislature, by the careful striking of words, phrases, clauses or sentences". Court decisions have distinguished between proper and improper conditions or limitations. A governor may veto an improper condition or limitation and retain the appropriation; conversely, if a line-item veto is made to a proper condition, the appropriation fails.
- ²The LCS believes the line-item veto may have nullified this appropriation; however, DOIT has met the legislative contingency. Regardless, the veto eliminated a condition precedent to the appropriation, which is contrary to Segó and other pertinent case law. The governor's veto message said she vetoed the language as unnecessary because the legislature has several opportunities throughout the year to monitor the progress of executive projects; however, the language does not relate to monitoring; it requires a cybersecurity plan be submitted to LFC by May 1, 2021 before money may be expended.
- ³This veto is problematic because it eliminates the funding category, personal services and employee benefits, in which the legislature included $300.0 to the Office of Guardianship to strengthen oversight of contract guardians; the inclusionary appropriation was contingent on passage of HB 234, which became Chapter 128. The governor's veto message indicates that DDPC should be free to use the appropriation for purposes other than salaries and benefits for Office of Guardianship employees, thus substituting executive policy judgment for that of the legislature's and enlarging the legislature's appropriation.
- ⁴This veto is problematic because it strikes the purpose of a portion of the personal services and employee benefits category that the legislature appropriated to increase compensation for public correctional officers. The effect could be determined to "alter, enlarge or increase" the use of the appropriation to employees who are not correctional officers.
- ⁵This veto is problematic because it strikes the purpose of a portion of the appropriation and leaves behind a sentence that states that the appropriation to the inmate management and control program in the other category includes a certain amount that is smaller than the total. At issue, though, is whether the legislature's appropriation was proper. Presumably, the legislature has properly included money to increase per diem rates at private prisons as allowed by contractual provisions; if that is not the case, the condition could falter under Coll.
- ⁶This veto is problematic because it strikes the purpose of a portion of the appropriation in a specific category and leaves behind a sentence that states that the appropriation for the victim compensation program includes a certain amount that is smaller than the total. The legislature intended to set aside a specific amount to be used for "care and support" (a category line item) without the specificity as to expenditures, thus, arguably staying within its constitutional appropriating boundaries. Note that the similar OSF appropriation was not vetoed.
- ⁷It is difficult to evaluate the appropriateness of the line-item vetoes on the appropriation to a nonstatutory program. Note, the veto of the reversion clause likely has no effect since the general provisions of the GAA require that unexpended balances revert to the General Fund unless otherwise specified.
- ⁸This veto is problematic as it eliminates an expenditure limitation for elementary physical education programs, thereby increasing or enlarging the appropriation/expenditure beyond the limit set by the legislature.
- ⁹This veto is problematic because the effect of vetoing "northwest" is to expand or enlarge the purpose of the appropriation, which the governor wrote in the veto message was the purpose of the veto.
- ¹⁰This veto is problematic because the legislature is within its right to impose a contingency on an appropriation. Arguably, neither the match requirement or the instruction to increase insurance premiums next year are so prescriptive as to run afoul of Coll's micromanagement concerns.
- ¹¹In spite of the veto, the local governments have provided the match. However, issues with the veto remain because it attempts to erase the legislature's right to condition an appropriation; in this case by including a match requirement. Note that the match is 50% of expenditures, not the total appropriation.
- ¹²This veto is problematic as an expansion or enlargement of the legislative appropriation, as the veto message indicated was the reason for the veto.
- ¹³This veto is problematic as an expansion or enlargement of the legislative appropriation. In addition, the governor's reasoning for the limitation veto is does not indicate any programmatic or federal requirements that the legislature would not have known when it appropriated up to $10 million of revertible balances of FY 2021 rather than all revertible balances of that fiscal year. Unexpended balances for this program are approximately $36 million, a factor of a little over 3.5 times what the legislature allowed.
- ¹⁴This veto is problematic as the elimination of a constitutional limitation. The legislature, within its constitutional power, appropriated General Fund money for hazard pay only in the event federal funds were not available for that purpose.
- ¹⁵This veto is problematic as the elimination of a constitutional limitation. The legislature, within its constitutional power, appropriated General Fund money for emergency response efforts along the Mexico border only if the federal government did not provide funding.
- ¹⁶The rationale for vetoing the word "fund" was not explained in the veto message on this item. The veto of the 50% local match is problematic as discussed in other veto footnotes. It is unclear from the veto and the veto message what the intent of the veto is; schools still must meet the requirements of the Community Schools Act, in particular, Section 22-32-4 NMSA 1978, before applying for grants. Although appropriated from the Public Education Reform Fund, balances revert to the Community Schools Fund.
- ¹⁷This veto is problematic as the elimination of a constitutional limitation. It is unclear what the veto is meant to accomplish. CYFD is currently implementing the pilot; the system, and receipt of federal money, is dependent on federal approval.
- ¹⁸Vetoes of "average salary" throughout the compensation section has become a standard veto by several recent governors. It should be noted, however, that the appropriation is predicated on a calculation of average salary of each agency and it may not be sufficient to provide a salary increase to every employee.
