"Money isn't everything, but it ranks right up there with oxygen."

- Rita Davenport

Legislative sessions are sometimes punctuated by a defining moment: a flashpoint that long-time members of the legislative community recall, with varying degrees of clarity, years later. Many other sessions come and go without much fanfare, as the legislature sets about its work. Given its role as the appropriating body of state government, almost all sessions revolve around money in one way or another. However, few sessions were as thoroughly dominated by money as the 2024 legislative session was. For decades, the oil and gas industry has been the dominant factor in the legislature's approach to appropriating money. Lean years feature discussions about trimming budgets and sweeping funds in pursuit of solvency. Boom years are all about spending extra money. 2024 was a boom year, and it was all about the money.

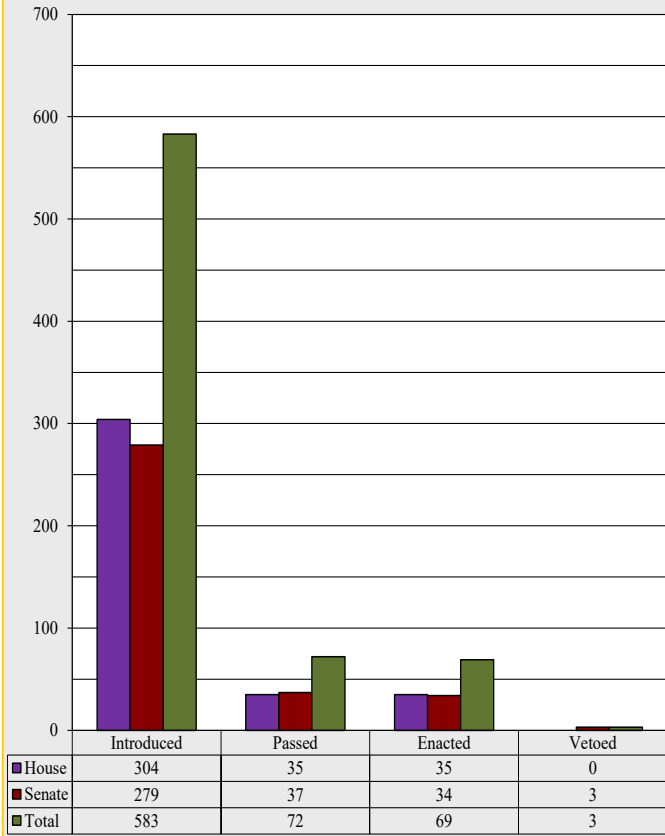

Another year of massive oil and gas industry-related income resulted in about $3.5 billion in new money for the state. Many times in the past, the legislature's tendency has been to establish a healthy reserve, then spend the rest as quickly as possible. However, a legislative branch more mindful of the volatile nature of the oil and gas industry has taken a more measured approach in recent years, establishing trust funds and various other accounts to help insulate the state when oil and gas revenue declines. For example, the Higher Education Trust Fund and the New Mexico Match Fund were both created in 2024.

That said, in 2024 the legislature still developed a record-setting $10.2 billion budget, a 6.8% increase over the previous year, and sent it to the governor. It featured measures to address affordable housing (and, by extension, homelessness), literacy initiatives, public safety recruitment and retention and additional funding for some of the funds created by the legislature in 2023.

One other major component of most sessions is a tax package. With much of the tax package passed in 2023 being vetoed by the governor, the bill passed in 2024 encompassed two years' worth of tax policy changes. Those changes included a restructuring of the state's personal income tax brackets, tax credits for advanced energy and geothermal projects and electric vehicles and tax credits for families recovering from a devastating 2022 wildfire in northern New Mexico.

The last big money-related measure developed each year by the legislature is a capital outlay package. The 2024 version, totaling $1.5 billion, included significant appropriations for higher education institutions, tribal projects, transportation projects, public safety, water and wastewater projects and parks and recreation.

Of course, each session the legislature sends scores of bills that do not necessarily have anything to do with money to the governor. In 2024, the legislature passed a pair of firearm bills (a seven-day waiting period for firearm sales and a ban on guns near polling places), set standards for clean fuels, created standards for meat inspections and changed graduation requirements for high school students.

Another mainstay of a legislative session is the high-profile bills that fail to pass. One such bill, concerning paid family and medical leave, passed the Senate but failed to pass in the House of Representatives when a number of members in the majority joined with all of the minority members in voting against the bill. Bills to create a trust fund for tribal education and a strategic water supply also failed to pass.

The Highlights is an annual publication of the Legislative Council Service (LCS) that summarizes much, but not all, of the legislative action during each session. The omission of certain legislation or issues should not be interpreted as an indication that those are not important; each is important to someone. Many issues in the Highlights defy single-topic categorization, so every effort has been made to organize and cross-reference the contents. A complete listing of bills that passed is included in the Concordance located in Appendix E.

FIFTY-SIXTH LEGISLATURE
SECOND SESSION, 2024

APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

As the 2024 legislative session began, while moderate growth and lingering uncertainties characterized the global and national economic environment, New Mexico's revenue situation stood out. For the third consecutive year, the state's robust financial health, bolstered by high oil and gas revenues, was unparalleled among statehouses nationwide. This fiscal prosperity would have been celebrated by any legislature throughout the state's history. Despite concerns about the longevity of oil-based wealth and its broader economic impact, New Mexico's financial position provided a solid foundation for legislative action and budget planning.

By some measures, the broader New Mexico economy performed better in 2023 than it had in a long time, but problems remained. After coming close in 2022, New Mexico employment finally fully exceeded its pre-pandemic peak from 2019. In 2023, employment grew by 2.7% to reach 874,000, and while positive, this level was only 3.3% above the level New Mexico had achieved in 2008. When comparing growth since 2008, New Mexico's performance has been well below its neighboring states and the United States average. Over the last few years, New Mexico's employment growth has finally kept pace with the United States average and exceeded some of its bordering states; however, it still did not recover the lost ground from the period of 2010-2018, when it lagged behind nearly all of its neighboring states and the United States average every year.

Inflation-adjusted per capita personal income in New Mexico remained flat in 2023 compared to 2022; both years were below the levels seen with the income supports received by New Mexicans during the pandemic in 2020 and 2021. The outlook for growth in national laboratories, military installations and other federal government spending remained strong, and New Mexico worked to leverage their presence without stifling or monopolizing broader development and diversification. Wage and salary growth in New Mexico was robust at 8.2% in 2023. A bright spot for the New Mexico economy was the number of building permits issued, which exceeded 9,000 in 2023 – the highest level since 2006.

The increasing levels of oil and gas production in New Mexico continued to present new opportunities for the state. Direct oil and gas revenues generated more than $5.4 billion in fiscal year (FY) 2023 and were expected to generate $4.7 billion in FY 2024 and $4.6 billion in FY 2025, with lower prices pulling down continued production volume growth. Before recent changes in the distribution of severance and royalty revenues, such a decline would have crippled the General Fund. Instead, the General Fund's direct oil and gas revenues are forecast to increase by more than $800 million from FY 2023 to FY 2024 and remain stable in FY 2025.

As budgets for the 2024 regular session were initially crafted, the August 2023 consensus revenue estimate projected 8.3% growth in General Fund revenue, increasing from $12.6 billion in FY 2024 at a moderate pace of 3.5% and reaching $13 billion by FY 2025. The August 2023 forecast was based on oil averaging $74.50 per barrel for FY 2024 and $73.00 per barrel for FY 2025. It also assumed oil production levels of 695 million barrels in FY 2024 and 725 million barrels in FY 2025.

In December 2023, preliminary FY 2024 General Fund revenues came in higher than expected at $12.8 billion. The December pre-session estimate projected slightly higher oil prices, averaging $79.50 in FY 2024 and $75.00 in FY 2025; however, it revised oil production levels slightly lower, expecting 685 million barrels in FY 2024 and 710 million barrels in FY 2025. After adjusting for these changes, overall expectations for FY 2025 General Fund revenues remained unchanged at $13 billion.

A great amount of New Mexico's revenues hinge on the single globally priced commodity of crude oil, directly affecting severance and royalty revenues, as well as a substantial share of gross receipts tax and corporate income tax revenues. Three factors now serve to insulate the General Fund from short-term fluctuations in oil and natural gas prices and production uncertainty: 1) high levels of General Fund reserves; 2) distributions of above-trend severance and royalty revenues to separate trust funds; and 3) growing, more stable interest earnings flowing into the General Fund. At the end of FY 2023, General Fund reserve balances were $4 billion, or 48% of recurring appropriations, and were estimated to grow to $5.1 billion, or 53% of recurring appropriations, in FY 2024 before any 2024 legislative actions.

Additionally, before any 2024 legislative actions, the FY 2025 "new money" estimate (defined as FY 2025 recurring revenue less FY 2025 recurring appropriations) was forecast to be $3.5 billion. Standing next to the new money amounts in the two prior years of $1.6 billion and $3.6 billion, these new money figures were unprecedented not just in nominal terms but also as percentages of prior year appropriations, with amounts of 21%, 43% and 36% of their prior year recurring appropriations, respectively. These percentages were the highest by far in the modern budgetary history of New Mexico, with no new money amounts before these three years ever exceeding 20% of prior year appropriations. With these substantial resources at their disposal, the legislature sought to avoid profligate spending on one hand and imprudent parsimony on the other, aiming instead for a balanced approach of wise stewardship for New Mexico.

At the mid-session revenue update, there was no official revision to the General Fund forecast by the Consensus Revenue Estimating Group. The update reviewed the most recent revenue and economic data and forecasts. It noted that the direct severance revenues into the General Fund are currently much more shielded due to the "insulating measures enacted over the last several years". These measures include the distributions of oil and gas emergency school tax revenue and federal mineral leasing payments above their five-year averages to the tax stabilization reserve and the Early Childhood Education and Care Fund. However, there are no insulating measures for gross receipts tax or personal or corporate income tax revenues. The mid-session review again highlighted the potential risk of uncapped growth in film tax credit payments and cautioned that "revenue volatility remains a major forecasting challenge". It noted that a $1.00 change in the annual average price of New Mexico's oil has an impact of approximately $54 million on severance tax and royalty revenues, while a $0.10 change in the annual average price of New Mexico's natural gas has an impact of approximately $34 million.

Energy price fluctuations during the short 30-day session provided a clear reminder of their volatility. While the more critical oil prices remained relatively stable, natural gas prices fell by over one-half during the session, dropping from $3.25/MMBtu on the opening day of the session to $1.53/MMBtu on the closing day, a level not seen in more than three years. By the time the governor signed both the omnibus tax bill and the general appropriations act (both with line-item vetoes) on March 6, oil prices had risen above $80.00, reaching their highest level in four months, while natural gas prices remained low but steady.

General Appropriation Act

After line-item veto action taken by the governor, the General Appropriation Act of 2024 (GAA), enacted in House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bills 2 and 3 (Chapter 69, p.v.), appropriates $27.8 billion from all sources for the operation of state government in FY 2025. This includes $10.1 billion from the General Fund (a year-over-year increase of 7.3%) and $12.1 billion from the federal government. Special appropriations from FY 2024 nonrecurring revenue account for another $1.2 billion, and supplemental and deficiency appropriations claim another $155 million in FY 2024 revenue from all sources.

The GAA directs $12.9 billion in recurring and nonrecurring appropriations and transfers from the General Fund in FY 2024 and FY 2025. The total General Fund effort for the GAA represents a 10.5% increase over last year.

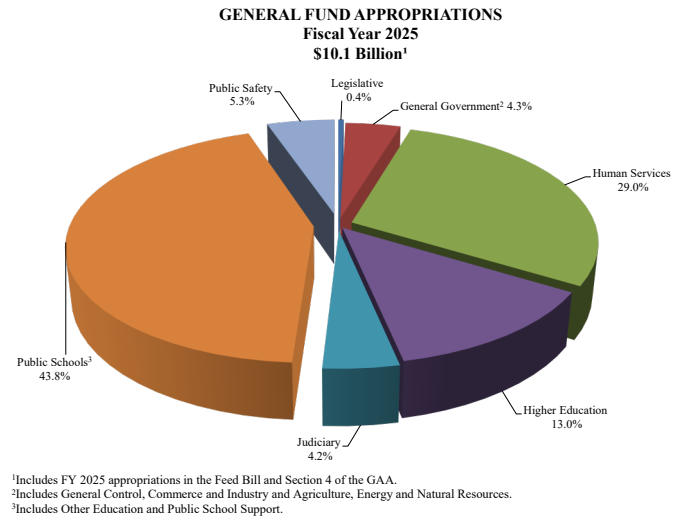

In FY 2025, recurring General Fund appropriations are 7.7% higher than they were 16 years earlier when adjusted for inflation and population. If the state General Fund share of Medicaid is removed, FY 2025's recurring appropriations are only 4.8% higher than they were 16 years ago. However, there have been significant spending increases, primarily in the form of tax cuts and General Fund payments for capital outlay, transportation and new trust funds.

As part of the recurring FY 2025 appropriations, Section 8 of the GAA allocates $89 million for direct compensation increases, primarily to provide a 3% cost-of-living salary increase for state employees directly funded by the General Fund. Also included in the Section 8 compensation appropriations are additional targeted funding of $10.2 million for New Mexico State Police officers and $4 million for judicial salary increases.

As is usually the case, the "Public School Support" category receives the most recurring General Fund appropriations of any category in the GAA at $4.3 billion. This includes $4.17 billion for the state equalization guarantee distribution, which finances K-12 public education (a 4.9% increase), and $134 million for the FY 2025 transportation distribution. Additionally, this category includes $10 million for standards-based assessments and a $20 million General Fund appropriation for the Indian Education Fund for the second year in a row.

The second largest category of General Fund appropriations is the "Health, Hospitals and Human Services" category, which receives $3 billion from the General Fund and $9.7 billion in federal funding. The majority of General Fund appropriations in this category, almost $2 billion, go to the newly named Health Care Authority, with $1.3 billion allocated for that agency's Medical Assistance Program.

Rounding out the top three categories with the highest total of General Fund appropriations, the "Higher Education" category receives $1.3 billion in recurring funding from the General Fund, which is split among the Higher Education Department and New Mexico's 18 higher education institutions. Continuing the major change first implemented in the prior year, the Opportunity Scholarship Program is again fully funded in the same amount of $146 million in recurring General Fund appropriations.

◆ Other Appropriations and Fund Transfers

2024 marks the fifth consecutive year that General Fund money is allocated to the Department of Transportation in the GAA, with $220 million appropriated to that department for expenditure beginning in FY 2024, which will revert to the General Fund if unexpended by the end of FY 2027. The appropriation is divided into several parts, with the largest amount, $120 million, designated for statewide road maintenance. The second largest portion, $70 million, is appropriated for a list of specific possible projects around the state that include acquisition of rights of way, planning, design, field supplies, roadway preservation, rehabilitation, maintenance, reconstruction, new construction and matching other state or federal funds. Lesser amounts include $15 million for rural air service enhancement, $10 million for roadway beautification and litter control and $5 million for the Wildlife Corridors Fund.

The GAA makes several fund transfers, totaling $1.3 billion, from the General Fund into various funds. The two largest transfers are to the newly created government results and opportunity system, with $512.2 million transferred to the Government Results and Opportunity Expendable Trust (GRO Trust) and $325.8 million to the Government Results and Opportunity Program Fund (GRO Fund), both of which are detailed on the next page under the "Other Appropriations" heading. Following its initial creation in the prior session with $50 million in seed funding, a transfer of $300 million is made to fully fund the Conservation Legacy Permanent Fund this year, and the Water Trust Fund and the New Mexico Housing Trust Fund receive transfers of $50 million each. Other transfers include $30 million to the new Workforce Development and Apprenticeship Trust Fund, $20 million to the Public Liability Fund, $11 million to the Emergency Medical Services Fund and $5 million to the Teacher Loan Repayment Fund.

Feed Bill

House Bill 1 (Chapter 1), known as the "feed bill" because it funds the legislative session, appropriates $41 million from the General Fund for the legislative session in January and February 2024 and for legislative agencies in FY 2025. Of that amount, $7 million provides for the operations of the 2024 legislative session, and the remainder supports interim activities and year-round operational costs of the legislative agencies that include the LCS ($10.6 million), Legislative Education Study Committee ($1.9 million), Legislative Finance Committee ($7.3 million) and house and senate chief clerks' offices ($3.4 million each). Also, the bill includes $7 million from the General Fund for interim expenses ($3 million), pre-session expenses ($510,000), the legislative internship program ($60,000), dues and fees for public policy organizations ($475,100), information technology hardware and software ($2.8 million), Senate Rules Committee interim activities ($35,000) and consultant services for the Capitol Buildings Planning Commission ($250,000). An appropriation of $400,000 to the New Mexico Compilation Commission is also included in the bill.

Other Appropriations

Unlike in past years with robust revenues, there was no House Bill 2 Junior bill this year. Its one-time funding structure is replaced with a more medium-term funding program to provide better oversight. House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 196 (Chapter 18) creates the GRO Trust and a parallel GRO Fund. Beginning at the start of FY 2025 and every year thereafter, the greater of $100 million, or 25% of the GRO Trust's balance, is to be transferred to the GRO Fund. Section 9 of the GAA appropriates amounts from the GRO Fund for more than 200 projects across state government, which are identified in Table 2 of Appendix B. The bill also makes changes to the General Fund reserve structure by redirecting the overflow mechanism of the General Fund operating reserve so that, instead of the tax stabilization reserve, excess revenues are distributed to the GRO Trust and by adding the GRO Trust to the list of General Fund reserves.

Public Finance

Significant changes to the capital outlay bonding program are made by House Bill 253 (Chapter 56) to conform the severance tax bonding program from its current structure in a way intended to stabilize and maintain prudent debt ratios and create sustainable funding sources for future capital investments. As a first step, the bill directs the State Board of Finance to convert any excess cash available in the Severance Tax Bonding Fund at the end of FY 2024, up to $500 million, into the Capital Development and Reserve Fund, which is created in the bill as a nonreverting fund managed by the State Investment

Council. Going forward, the Capital Development and Reserve Fund will be funded by savings generated by reducing the maximum long-term debt capacity of the severance tax bonding program. A distribution on January 1 of each year is made into the Capital Development Program Fund, also created in the bill to fund certain capital outlay projects, equal to 5% of the average of the fiscal year-end market values of the reserve fund for the prior three years. In current long-term forecasts by the Legislative Finance Committee, severance taxes, primarily on oil and gas, are expected to stagnate and then decline steeply in the late 2030s; these are the revenues that would pay for severance tax bond debt. Under the bill's new system, the amounts available in the Capital Development Program Fund for capital projects by the 2030s are expected to exceed $200 million a year, providing a new sustainable capital outlay funding source.

In order for certain governmental entities to obtain federal grants, state matching funds are often required. However, coming up with the matching funds can be difficult for some entities. In response, the legislature enacted House Bill 177 (Chapter 7), which creates the New Mexico Match Fund to provide a funding stream for the provision of state matching funds. The fund, administered by the Department of Finance and Administration, can also be used to offset higher project costs that are incurred to comply with federal requirements.

Meanwhile, Senate Bill 153 (Chapter 4) increases the minimum distribution from the Early Childhood Education and Care Fund to the Early Childhood Education and Care Program Fund from $150 million per year to $250 million per year beginning in FY 2024. Even with the greater distribution, the massive inflows of excess federal mineral leasing revenue and excess oil and gas school tax revenue into the Early Childhood Education and Care Fund are still forecast to allow it to reach $9.7 billion in 2027 and to keep the distributions into the program fund relatively unchanged in FY 2025 and beyond. The bill also makes the program fund a reverting fund and stipulates that any unexpended or unencumbered balance in the program fund at the end of a fiscal year reverts to the Early Childhood Education and Care Fund.

Reflecting a more pragmatic accounting of past budgeting practices and future flexibility, Senate Bill 116 (Chapter 25) removes the Tobacco Settlement Permanent Fund from the General Fund reserve funds. The State Investment Council identified that this change will "allow the Council greater investment flexibility, which will result in risk/return optimization and greater returns in the long term". Over time, those greater returns from a fund that can now be treated as a true permanent fund instead of being held in reserve for unexpected fiscal shortfalls should create increased distributions for the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund and its intended purposes.

New Mexico Finance Authority

The Public Project Revolving Fund (PPRF) is one mechanism employed by the legislature and administered by the New Mexico Finance Authority (NMFA) to provide low-cost financing to state, local and tribal governments to complete public infrastructure projects and to finance the purchase of equipment. As is required by law, the legislature authorized a variety of public projects and water projects around the state through two bills. House Bill 28 (Chapter 11) authorizes the NMFA to make loans from the PPRF to qualified entities for 138 public projects that require a loan of more than $1 million relating to building, equipment, furniture, machinery, public utility, electric, debt refinance, road, street, airport, land acquisition, water, wastewater, water rights, solid waste, public transportation system, parking facility and public recreational facility projects. Similarly, House Bill 148 (Chapter 6) authorizes the NMFA to make loans or grants from the Water Project Fund to 55 qualifying water projects. Details of the projects authorized in these bills may be found in Table 7 and Table 8, respectively, in Appendix B.

Additionally, House Bill 29 (Chapter 12) makes appropriations from the PPRF to three funds that are administered by the NMFA. Specifically, this bill appropriates $6 million to the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund to provide state matching funds for federal Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974 projects and to carry out the purposes of the Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund Act, and it allocates $5 million to the Cultural Affairs Facilities Infrastructure Fund and $2 million to the Local Government Planning Fund to carry out the purposes of those respective funds.

Capital Outlay

New Mexico's economic windfall also benefits a wide variety of infrastructure needs throughout the state. This year's capital outlay bill, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 275 (Chapter 66, p.v.), appropriates $1.5 billion in capital outlay project funding for FY 2024 through FY 2028. The bill includes $931.6 million in General Fund appropriations, $507.8 million in severance tax bond projects and $73.5 million in appropriations from other state funds for capital projects. Senate Finance Committee amendments to the bill provide $30 million in severance tax bond funding in FY 2025 for the Indian Affairs Department to complete capital projects within tribal communities and $477.8 million in FY 2025 for the Department of Transportation for highway and road improvements throughout the state. Appropriations from other state funds are highlighted by $61.2 million from the Public School Capital Outlay Fund for higher education and public school projects ranging from construction of a new statewide literacy center to the purchase of school buses, as well as $5 million from the Capitol Buildings Repair Fund to renovate the Bataan Building on the state capitol campus in Santa Fe. The governor vetoed five projects totaling $557,000 in General Fund appropriations, citing insufficient funding to effectively implement the projects and potential constitutional conflicts.

Overall, the bill includes a statewide package of funding jointly sponsored by the legislature and the governor as well as local projects selected by individual legislators and the governor. Funding for statewide projects is dominated by those administered through the Capital Program Fund, with more than $128 million devoted to 21 construction and improvement projects, including $30 million to construct a new forensic unit at the New Mexico Behavioral Health Institute at Las Vegas, $34 million to purchase the Northeast New Mexico Correctional Facility in Union County, $10 million for the Corrections Department to implement master planning and facility security improvements statewide, $10 million for improvements to state-owned facilities statewide, $3 million for Department of Public Safety facilities, $5 million for Department of Health facilities and $5 million for Children, Youth and Families Department facilities. Additionally, $45 million is included for the Administrative Office of the Courts to improve magistrate and district courts.

Notably, the bill dedicates $15 million to renovate the University of New Mexico Comprehensive Cancer Center, $8 million to improve infrastructure at the New Mexico State Fair, $7 million to renovate the New Mexico Department of Agriculture Building at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, $10 million to construct a reforestation center in Mora County, $14 million for the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department to equip and improve facilities for hotshot firefighting teams, $16 million to the State Parks Division of the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department to improve state parks, $7.2 million to the Interstate Stream Commission for acequia improvements throughout the state and $15 million to the Department of Transportation for electric vehicle charging stations statewide.

Furthermore, the bill allocates more than $250 million to the Local Government Division of the Department of Finance and Administration for 581 projects to build or renovate affordable housing, community and recreational centers, streets, parks and cultural facilities. Department of Environment projects total nearly $66 million, including nearly $5.5 million to expand the sewer system for Agua Fria Village in Santa Fe County, $3 million to improve the wastewater treatment plant in Gallup, $1.6 million for water system improvements in Bayard in Grant County, more than $1.6 million for wastewater system improvements in Fort Sumner in De Baca County and $5.4 million for water and wastewater system improvements in San Juan County.

General Fund appropriations for the Public Education Department (PED) exceed $46 million to cover a range of school district and individual public and charter school projects across the state. New Mexico State University tops the list of higher education institutions receiving funding in the bill with appropriations totaling nearly $40 million, followed closely by the University of New Mexico with appropriations of $35.8 million. In addition to the $30 million in severance tax bond funding to complete capital projects in tribal communities, the Indian Affairs Department receives more than $58 million for infrastructure projects on tribal lands throughout the state. Also, the Economic Development Department again this year receives $10 million for mainstreet and arts and cultural district improvements.

In this year's capital projects reauthorization bill, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 246 (Chapter 65, p.v.) reauthorizes 225 prior-year appropriations, with a total of 253 reauthorization requests included in the bill. Projects are reauthorized to extend the time of expenditure, to change the administering agency or to expand, change or clarify the purpose of the original appropriation. The high number of reauthorization requests reflects continuing issues with the supply chain, particularly for those projects that were authorized in 2020 and were scheduled to revert this year. Nearly 84% of the projects in the bill request a first-time reauthorization, while 12% request a second reauthorization. The governor vetoed 28 projects, citing the age and status of the projects, namely those over five years old with little or no activity to date, and concerns regarding possible constitutional conflicts. The governor also vetoed language in six project requests.

House Bill 308 (Chapter 64, p.v.), which enacts the 2024 Capital Projects General Obligation Bond Act, includes four ballot initiatives that will appear on the 2024 general election ballot. These initiatives seek voter approval for the issuance of general obligation bonds for capital improvements and acquisitions totaling $289,001,000 for senior centers, libraries, higher education institutions and statewide public safety radio communications systems. If voters approve the measure, institutions of higher education, special schools and tribal schools receive $229,565,000. Improvements and equipment acquisitions for senior centers total $30,436,000 in the bill, and $19 million is included for library acquisitions and improvements. Lastly, the Department of Information Technology receives $10 million if the ballot initiative is approved for the modernization and stabilization of public safety radio communications systems statewide.

Details related to funded capital outlay projects from all three bills may be found in Appendix C.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

While 31 joint resolutions were introduced during the 2024 session proposing amendments to the Constitution of New Mexico, in the end only two passed the legislature and will appear on the November 5, 2024 ballot, in addition to Constitutional Amendments 1 and 2 that passed the legislature in 2023. The LCS publishes a summary of and arguments for and against proposed amendments to the Constitution of New Mexico prior to any election in which they appear. The next publication, titled Summary of and Arguments for and Against the Constitutional Amendments Proposed by the Legislature in 2023 and 2024, will be released by the LCS in the summer of 2024.

Contingent on voter approval, Senate Rules Committee Substitute for Senate Joint Resolution 1 (C.A. 3) proposes to amend Article 6, Section 35 of the Constitution of New Mexico to allow the dean of the University of New Mexico School of Law to assign a designee to attend the meetings of the Appellate Judges Nominating Commission. The dean of the law school serves as chair of the commission and only votes in the event of a tie.

The other proposed amendment appearing on the ballot, which was passed by the legislature in Senate Joint Resolution 16 (C.A. 4), would amend Article 10, Section 1 of the Constitution of New Mexico to allow the board of county commissioners to set the salaries of county officials. Currently, the legislature is responsible for setting the salaries.

CORRECTIONS, COURTS AND CRIMINAL LAW

Repeat offenders, gun violence and stubbornly high crime rates have been subjects of growing concern among the public, government officials and law enforcement, and the legislature responded by making corrections, courts and criminal law a major focus of the session this year, with a plethora of bills on this topic introduced in both houses. Measures that were signed into law include a modification to the pretrial release procedure, an increase in the penalty for second degree murder, a waiting period for the purchase of firearms, a clarification on what constitutes prison contraband and increased salaries for New Mexico Supreme Court justices.

Extensive media coverage has focused on incidents throughout the state in which a person arrested for a crime is released from custody pending trial and during that time is arrested for another crime. In an effort to ameliorate concerns regarding this trend, Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 271 (Chapter 53) focuses on setting procedures for a violation of conditions of pretrial release. The bill requires that if a person on pretrial release for a felony is arrested for another felony, the court must issue an order for that person to stay in custody until a judge assigned to any of the person's pending previous felony cases or another designated judge reviews and decides on modifying or revoking the person's release conditions. Also, the bill specifies that the New Mexico Supreme Court may issue rules to govern this procedure.

To ensure consistency in criminal sentencing, Senate Bill 96 (Chapter 51) creates a specific prison sentence of nine years for attempted murder in the second degree and increases the penalty for a second degree felony resulting in the death of a human being from 15 years to 18 years.

After the passage of House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 129 (Chapter 46), New Mexico becomes the twelfth state in the country to mandate a waiting period before a buyer can physically possess a firearm. In the new law, a firearm seller is required to hold a firearm purchase for a firearm buyer for seven calendar days before physical ownership of the firearm can be transferred to the buyer, and this waiting period includes the time to perform the required federal instant background check. If the required background check has not been completed within 20 days, the seller may transfer the firearm to the buyer without the completion of the background check. Violations of the seven-calendar-day waiting period by the firearm seller or buyer result in a misdemeanor. However, the waiting period does not apply to the sale of a firearm: to a buyer who holds a valid federal firearms license; to a buyer who holds a valid New Mexico concealed handgun license; to a law enforcement agency; between two law enforcement officers authorized to carry a firearm and certified under federal law or the Law Enforcement Training Act; or between immediate family members.

When recreational cannabis was legalized in 2021, the legislature made sweeping reforms to the criminal justice system. In the years since, the legislature has continued to improve the law by filling gaps in the original legislation. Foundational to legalizing cannabis was descheduling it from the Controlled Substances Act, which, although necessary, created challenges in the state's drug enforcement and regulation system. When cannabis was descheduled, an overlooked detail was that cannabis no longer was included in the statute defining and prohibiting contraband in New Mexico's state-run prisons, jails and juvenile detention facilities. House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Consumer and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 239 (Chapter 49) remedies this issue by redefining "contraband" to specifically include cannabis as that term is defined in the Cannabis Regulation Act, although exceptions are provided for medical cannabis prescribed by a licensed physician. These measures are duplicated in Senate Bill 6, a more comprehensive bill addressing cannabis regulation, the details of which are explained in the Regulation and Licensing section of these Highlights.

In an attempt to address challenges in recruiting and retaining high-quality judges throughout the state, House Bill 141 (Chapter 3) sets the annual salary of a New Mexico Supreme Court justice at $232,600. As the salaries of court of appeals, district court and metropolitan court judges are a percentage of the salary of a Supreme Court justice, these judges will also receive higher salaries. Additionally, the bill removes magistrate judges from this formula, allowing magistrates to be paid on a different scale than other judges.

CULTURAL AFFAIRS

Honoring the United States of America by observing and celebrating the two hundred fiftieth anniversary of the country's founding was the topic of one bill this session. In 2016, Congress enacted legislation creating the United States Semiquincentennial Commission to commemorate the July 4, 1776 signing of the Declaration of Independence. Central to that effort is encouraging each state to create its own commission to engage citizens in making July 4, 2026 the largest anniversary celebration in the nation's history. New Mexico legislators responded by creating the Semiquincentennial Commission in Senate Bill 106 (Chapter 23). As its first order of business, the bill requires the formation of a 15-member commission within the Cultural Affairs Department to oversee the planning, promotion and implementation of public celebrations and educational efforts in the run-up to the July 4, 2026 anniversary of the founding of the United States of America. Legislators specifically tasked the commission with consulting and cooperating with state departments and agencies, public schools, post-secondary educational institutions, local public bodies, learned societies and historical, patriotic, philanthropic, civic and professional organizations to raise awareness and understanding of the principles of the Declaration of Independence and the establishment of the United States' system of constitutional self-government. The Semiquincentennial Commission will terminate on December 31, 2026.

EDUCATION

Education, including both public school and post-secondary education, is a major component of the state's budget, and the legislature made a commitment to improve both systems with a combined 57% of the total General Fund operating appropriations in Subsections I through K of Section 4 of the GAA. The special schools – New Mexico Military Institute, the New Mexico School for the Blind and Visually Impaired and the New Mexico School for the Deaf – as individual land grant beneficiaries receive less General Fund support, but each received additional funding over their FY 2024 General Fund operating budget by 3.1%, 4.8% and 4.8%, respectively.

In both systems, student achievement, graduation rates, student support, tribal education support and teacher and faculty compensation were major drivers of appropriation increases over current budgets.

Public Schools

As usual, public education was a very active category, even in a short session. In the GAA, public education receives approximately $4.43 billion in recurring General Fund appropriations for FY 2025, a 6% increase over FY 2024, and a total from all sources of $5.3 billion in Section 4 of the GAA. The controversy set off last summer by the PED's proposed rule to require a minimum of 180 instructional days for every school district, which would have likely eliminated four-day schools in rural areas, resulted in several bills to negate the rule, including language in the GAA, which was vetoed¹. The most significant problems facing public schools and the legislature continue to revolve around how to implement the court's decision in the Yazzie/Martinez case to carry out the Constitution of New Mexico's mandate to provide a sufficient education, particularly for Native American, Hispanic, special education and other at-risk students. This year's bills attempted to address issues from several angles: governance, from joint resolutions to a return to a state board of education to increased mandatory training for school board members and having local school boards determine instructional days; reduction in class size and teaching loads and the provision of financial literacy and computer science courses; school personnel, including educational assistant salaries, teacher recruitment and retention, mental health counselors and special education support services; school, student and teacher safety; and student mentoring and career development.

One bill that was signed into law is House Bill 171 (Chapter 2), which provides new graduation requirements and requires student next step plans to align with a school district's or charter school's graduate profile. A "graduate profile" is defined as a document that a school district or charter school uses to specify the cognitive, personal and interpersonal competencies that students should have when they graduate. The law specifies that the purpose of a diploma of excellence is to demonstrate that a student is ready for post-secondary education, gainful employment and citizenship, while the purpose of the minimum graduation requirements is to establish rigorous expectations to support that success. The new graduation requirements, which apply to students entering ninth grade in the 2025-2026 school year, do not change the number of units required to graduate, which remains at 24, but do tweak some required courses and add elective courses and two local units that meet PED academic content and performance standards. Of course, as has always been the case, school districts and charter schools may choose to require more than 24 units for graduation. The unit breakdown is:

- (1) four units of English, which include a three-unit sequence and one additional unit; and work-based learning, career technical education or English language development courses that meet English state academic content and performance standards may qualify as required units;
- (2) four units of mathematics, two of which include a sequence of algebra 1 and geometry or an equivalent pathway; and financial literacy, work-based study or career technical courses that meet state mathematics content and performance standards may qualify as required units. Algebra 2 is required to be offered as a mathematics course;
- (3) three units in science, two of which have a laboratory component; and PED-approved web-based learning or career technical education courses that meet state science academic content and performance standards may qualify as required units;
- (4) four units in social science, which include United States history and geography, including New Mexico history; government and economics and personal financial literacy, including civics; and world history and geography;
- (5) one unit in physical education that meets state academic content and performance standards or participation in marching band, dance programs, junior reserve officers' training corps or interscholastic sports or other co-curricular physical activity;
- (6) one-half unit in health education, which may be earned in middle or high school;

(7) five and one-half elective units that meet academic content and performance standards and include a two-unit pathway concentration of the student's choice in: a language other than English, including American sign language; fine arts; health; military career preparation; a career technical program; or community or service learning, a capstone course or work-based learning. School districts must offer financial literacy, computer science, student service learning, career technical education courses and a sequence of languages other than English as electives, and they may offer media literacy and pre-apprenticeship programs; and

(8) two units set by each local school board or governing body of a charter school that meet state academic content and performance standards.

The legislature recognized the need for more school board member training by passing Senate Bill 137 (Chapter 43), which applies to local school boards of traditional public schools as well as to governing bodies of charter schools. The law now requires newly elected or appointed members to complete at least 10 hours of mandatory training during their first year, including at least two hours on laws and rules affecting school boards and governing bodies, including ethics and school personnel; two hours covering public school finance, budgeting and fiduciary responsibilities; two hours covering legal concepts such as the Open Meetings Act and the Inspection of Public Records Act; two hours covering effective governance practices and methods of supporting and supervising the local superintendent or charter school leader; and two hours covering student achievement and student support services. Mandatory training for members who are not newly elected or appointed is at least five hours per year and includes, in addition to new-member topics, a school board's or governing body's role in evaluating and improving student academic achievement and the use of data to set individual school goals; a school board's or governing body's role in providing a safe learning environment conducive to improved student outcomes; and other topics deemed relevant by the PED. The dashboard of each public school shall include the number of hours of training attended by each school board member and whether each member met the mandatory training requirements.

Furthermore, school board and governing body meetings are required to be live audio and video webcast and archived, and the webcasts and electronic copies of approved minutes must be posted on the school district's or charter school's website. The bill also requires all school board election candidates to file campaign reports if they raise or expend $1,000 or more, and it prohibits a school board from extending or terminating a superintendent's contract between the date of a regular local election and 60 days after the newly elected board is convened or a majority of a local school board has been appointed.

Public School Capital Outlay

Senate Bill 76 (Chapter 22) corrects an unintended consequence in Laws 2023, Chapter 98, which provided a temporary three-year 33% reduction to local matches for most school districts and a 50% reduction for school districts with fewer than 200 students; however, it did not specify that the reduction should be applied after the phase two formula value is calculated. This year's bill makes that distinction.

Post-Secondary Education

Higher education was a bit of a quiet topic this year, with only four bills making their way to the governor out of 33 introduced, including one bill that mandates affirmative consent policies at higher education institutions, two bills that seek to make scholarships available to more students and another bill that clarifies uses of the Technology Enhancement Fund. However, the GAA provides $31.6 million for pay increases in Section 8 and an additional $7 million for faculty raises embedded in Section 4 appropriations; $2 million for graduate student compensation; $24 million for student financial aid, including $10 million for teacher preparation scholarships and education loan repayments; and $2 million in additional funding for nursing and other health care programs. In addition to funding the Opportunity Scholarship Program, the legislature made significant financial commitments for other student aid programs and adult basic education.

After years of attempts to codify "yes means yes" sexual activity consent policy into law, House Bill 151 (Chapter 34) defines "affirmative consent" as an affirmative, conscious and voluntary agreement to engage in sexual activity. The law requires state-funded post-secondary educational institutions to implement policies requiring that affirmative consent be provided by all parties engaging in sexual activity, including how affirmative consent is granted and withdrawn, and that these policies are conveyed to students. Additionally, the law requires that training is provided to staff and contractors investigating policy violations.

To provide a funding stream for scholarships for tuition and fees at public post-secondary educational institutions, the Higher Education Trust Fund and the Higher Education Program Fund are created by Senate Bill 159 (Chapter 61). The bill provides for the transfer of $959 million from the tax stabilization reserve, also known as the "rainy day fund", to the trust fund to be invested by the State Investment Council. An annual distribution from the trust fund will be made to the program fund to provide the money for scholarships, as provided by law.

Also in regard to scholarships, Senate Bill 239 (Chapter 63) makes changes to the legislative lottery scholarship and opportunity scholarship programs. For the Legislative Lottery Tuition Scholarship Act, the outdated definition of "legacy student" is removed, and "program semester" is defined to include summer semesters, though a student is not required to attend summer semesters. The legislative lottery scholarship can be used for 3.5 years, not counting the qualifying semester, for a bachelor's degree, and a student is required to take 30 credit hours per year apportioned among fall through summer semesters at a four-year school and 24 credit hours at a community college, including at least three but no more than nine summer semester hours. For both the legislative lottery and opportunity scholarships, the number of required credit hours does not apply to a student in the last semester before graduation. Regarding opportunity scholarships, summer semesters are also allowed but not required, and dual credit courses taken in high school do not count toward the credit-hour cap.

In 2003, the Technology Enhancement Fund was created to provide matching funds to state research universities. House Bill 270 (Chapter 19) clarifies that the fund can provide matching money for federal or private grants. Additionally, it codifies a determination by the Higher Education Department that, as a research institution, Navajo Technical University is eligible to apply for money from the fund, along with the University of New Mexico, New Mexico State University and the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology. Finally, it adds a requirement that the department's review panel for applications must assess each application's projected benefits for economic development and rural and tribal communities.

ELECTIONS

With the 2024 elections quickly approaching, 15 pieces of legislation were introduced concerning elections. When the dust settled, three bills were passed and signed into law addressing issues ranging from possession of firearms at polling places, the usage of artificial intelligence and its role in campaign advertising materials and the distribution of money to fund elections.

Throughout the country, the threat of gun violence coupled with a polarized political landscape have led to concerns about violence at the polls. As a result, the legislature passed Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 5 (Chapter 50), which enacts a new section of the Election Code to create penalties and exceptions for possessing firearms near polling places. In the bill, the crime of unlawful possession of a firearm at a polling place is created and consists of possessing a loaded or unloaded firearm within 100 feet of any voting location and within 50 feet of a monitored secured container during an election, and a person who commits this act is guilty of a petty misdemeanor. There are several exceptions, including certified law enforcement officers, persons in private automobiles and persons who are in possession of a valid concealed handgun license for that firearm.

Enacted in anticipation of the upcoming election season, House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 182 (Chapter 57) addresses the use of artificial intelligence in campaign advertisements by requiring disclaimers if the advertisement is generated by, or uses, artificial intelligence. The disclaimer is specifically worded to indicate "This _____ has been manipulated or generated by artificial intelligence", and the blank must be filled in with the applicable type of media used in the advertisement, be it an image, a video or audio. If the media is an image or a video, the disclaimer must be easily readable, and if the media is audio only, the disclaimer must be spoken in a manner easily heard. If the advertisement uses mixed media, a disclaimer applicable to each form of media used must be included. The law further amends the Campaign Reporting Act by creating the crime of distributing or agreeing to distribute materially deceptive media if the media does not include the required disclaimer, with a first conviction being a misdemeanor and a second conviction a fourth degree felony. "Materially deceptive media" is defined as an image, a video or audio that: depicts an individual engaged in conduct or speech in which the depicted individual did not engage; is published, disseminated, distributed or displayed to the public without the consent of the depicted individual; and is produced in whole or in part by using artificial intelligence. The law also establishes a violation for failing to include the required disclaimer when a person creates, produces or purchases an advertisement that contains materially deceptive media. Each time the disclaimer requirement is not met constitutes a single violation and subjects the violator to civil penalties of up to $1,000 for each violation, not to exceed a total of $20,000. There are exceptions for certain broadcasting entities and distribution platforms that have disclaimer requirements consistent with the law if those requirements are provided to persons using the broadcasting entity or distribution platform. Also, there is an exception from violation for an advertisement that reasonably constitutes satire or parody and contains the required disclaimer.

An annual transfer from the General Fund to the Election Fund will be made to help pay the costs of elections pursuant to Section 1-11-19 NMSA 1978 with the passage of Senate Bill 108 (Chapter 24). The amount of the transfer shall be the lesser of $15 million or the total costs incurred by the Office of the Secretary of State to administer an election, as certified by the secretary of state to the Department of Finance and Administration within 90 days after that election.

EMPLOYMENT AND LABOR

The legislature passed two employment and labor bills in 2024 that focus on developing and training New Mexico's workforce, one through a new trust fund and the other through a new pilot program.

In the first new law, House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 5 (Chapter 5) invests in the state's skilled building trades workforce and skilled craftsperson apprenticeship programs by creating the Workforce Development and Apprenticeship Trust Fund that – for so long as it remains solvent – makes transfers to the Public Works Apprentice and Training Fund of $2.5 million in 2024 and 2025 and $1.5 million in each year thereafter. The Workforce Solutions Department then uses the money in the latter fund to cultivate building trades apprenticeship and training programs in New Mexico that are recognized by the Office of Apprenticeship of the Employment and Training Administration of the United States Department of Labor or New Mexico's Apprenticeship Council. Additionally, the bill makes appropriations of $2.5 million in 2024 and 2025 and $1.5 million in each year thereafter to the Workforce Solutions Department for the purposes of the Apprenticeship Assistance Act, which is administered by the department to develop skilled craftspeople through registered apprenticeship programs throughout the state. Lastly, the bill makes some technical amendments that update sections of law to reflect the authority conferred on the Workforce Solutions Department to administer the Public Works Apprentice and Training Act and the Apprenticeship Assistance Act.

As a way to provide skilled workers in needed vocations, House Bill 303 (Chapter 68) creates a three-year New Mexico Workforce Training Economic Support Pilot Program. Intended to help New Mexico residents acquire the skills needed for jobs in high-demand fields, the program also provides monetary stipends for basic living needs of not more than $1,000 per month for up to 12 months to enrollees of approved workforce training and educational programs. The Higher Education Department will administer the pilot program, which includes developing participant eligibility criteria and identifying and approving workforce training programs in the following priority fields: health care, especially behavioral health; early childhood education or care; natural resources management; renewable energy; broadband expansion; first responders; construction industries; aerospace; biosciences; cybersecurity; film and television; outdoor recreation; sustainable agriculture; intelligent manufacturing; and global trade.

ENERGY, ENVIRONMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

In the quest to combat climate change and diversify alternative sources of energy, the legislature enacted a bill to address greenhouse gas emissions in the transportation sector by requiring that fuels with less carbon intensity are used in the state as well as a bill to stimulate development of the state's geothermal resources by funding geothermal studies and projects.

The transportation sector is the largest contributor of greenhouse gas emissions in the nation. Following the lead of several other states, the legislature enacted House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 41 (Chapter 54) to reduce greenhouse gases from the transportation sector by implementing a clean transportation fuel standard. The bill provides authority to the Environmental Improvement Board to promulgate rules to create, no later than July 1, 2026, a statewide technology-neutral clean transportation fuel standard that will require transportation fuel producers and distributors to reduce the carbon intensity of transportation fuels used in the state at least 20% below 2018 carbon intensity levels by 2030 and at least 30% below 2018 levels by 2040.

New Mexico has significant geothermal resources, but these resources have largely gone untapped. Geothermal energy can be used to generate electricity and heat to support industrial, commercial and residential uses. To spur development of these geothermal resources, House Bill 91 (Chapter 55) creates the Geothermal Projects Development Fund and the Geothermal Projects Revolving Loan Fund. The Geothermal Projects Development Fund makes grants of up to $250,000 to political subdivisions of the state, state universities and Indian nations, tribes and pueblos to study and finance geothermal development projects, while the Geothermal Projects Revolving Loan Fund provides loans to political subdivisions of the state, state universities, nonprofit organizations, private entities and Indian nations, tribes and pueblos to finance geothermal development projects. The funds are administered by the Energy Conservation and Management Division of the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

During the 2024 session, the legislature spent a significant amount of time focusing on bills related to health and human services. The legislature passed bills to protect both consumers and providers of health care. With respect to consumers of health care, three bills were enacted: one bill to increase transparency in the pharmaceutical supply chain; another to protect newly admitted patients in behavioral health facilities; and a third bill to provide oversight for the merging and acquisition of hospitals. In the two bills passed to protect health care providers, the first bill increases Medicaid reimbursement for community-based pharmacy providers, and the second creates a temporary subsidy program for struggling health care facilities. The remaining health and human services bills that were enacted are related to increasing access to federal funding for health care, updating a program that provides financial incentives to persons with disabilities and disclosing certain confidential health information.

There are many links in the pharmaceutical supply chain, including drug manufacturers, drug wholesalers, pharmacy benefits managers, pharmacy services administrative organizations, health insurers and pharmacists. The price of a prescription drug increases from each part of the supply chain that it touches, but it is unclear how much the links in the supply chain affect drug prices. Thus, to increase transparency in the pharmaceutical drug supply chain, the legislature has created the Prescription Drug Price Transparency Act through the passage of House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bill 33 (Chapter 33). The act requires each entity in the pharmaceutical supply chain to report certain increases in prescription drug prices to the superintendent of insurance, who is required to compile all of the data and publish an annual report on prescription drug prices that will be available to the public.

To protect patients and their families, Senate Bill 142 (Chapter 45) requires behavioral health facilities to provide newly admitted patients an opportunity to contact and notify family members that they have been admitted to that facility. Residential behavioral health facilities are required to continue providing a patient the opportunity to contact the patient's family until the family is successfully contacted and notified.

Rural health care in the United States is in dire straits. A 2023 statistic highlighted that more than 30% of rural hospitals nationwide are in danger of closing. New Mexico is no different; the health care provider/hospital situation in New Mexico is grim. Like quiver trees in the South African desert, which amputate their own arms to keep themselves alive during drought, rural hospitals here are having to close OB-GYN services, intensive care units, surgical specialties, clinics and other services because of the dearth of life-giving revenue. Many communities face further disruptions of health care delivery through mergers with or acquisitions by for-profit corporations or private equity firms, which may include providing health care providers who do not have ties to the community. Some studies indicate that hospitals bought by private equity firms negatively affect health care access and quality and increase debt load. JAMA published a 2023 study that showed that patients receiving care at private-equity-owned hospitals experienced a higher rate of hospital-acquired adverse events, such as bloodstream infections, falls and medication errors, than patients receiving care at hospitals that are not private-equity-owned.

While it started out as a comprehensive bill to provide state oversight of changes in control of health care providers, including hospitals, physician groups and other providers, Senate Health and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 15 (Chapter 40) as enacted is limited to the review of proposed hospital acquisitions and other changes in control of hospitals by the Office of Superintendent of Insurance and the Health Care Authority from May 15, 2024 through June 30, 2025. The superintendent of insurance, after conferring with the authority, may approve, disapprove or provide conditional approval of transactions within 120 days of receiving a complete notice of a proposed transaction that will affect the control of a hospital, including mergers; acquisitions; formation of a new corporate or similar structure; or the sale, purchase, lease, new affiliation or other agreement that results in control of a hospital in New Mexico.

The Office of Superintendent of Insurance shall approve a proposed transaction after undertaking a comprehensive review if: the office determines that the parties to the transaction have demonstrated that the transaction will benefit the public by reducing the growth in patient costs or maintaining or increasing access to services, especially in medically underserved areas; the transaction will improve health outcomes for New Mexicans; and there is no substantial likelihood of a significant reduction in the availability, accessibility, affordability or quality of care for patients and other health care consumers or anti-competitive effects that outweigh the benefits of the transaction. For three years after approval or conditional approval, the person that acquired control over the hospital is required to submit reports to the office and the authority.

To further address the struggles of health care facilities in rural areas, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 161 (Chapter 44) creates a temporary subsidy program for financially strapped community health care facilities to allow the facilities to provide health care to sick and indigent New Mexicans. The bill specifies a list of 11 hospitals serving mainly rural areas of the state that are eligible for the subsidy in order to cover revenue losses incurred for providing emergency medical services, inpatient maternal, child and family health services and inpatient unit acute care. In order to receive any subsidies, a health care facility must submit a plan that outlines how that facility can reach financial stability within five years.

Local community pharmacies are an important component of frontline health care in New Mexico, especially in rural areas where it can be difficult to access primary health care. With the expansion of large retail pharmacy chains, local community pharmacies have struggled to compete because of limited bargaining power. Due to contracts with insurance companies, many community pharmacies are forced to sell prescription drugs for no profit, and sometimes the drugs are sold at a loss. House Bill 165 (Chapter 35) helps to address this issue by ensuring that community-based pharmacy providers that provide services to Medicaid recipients are, at a minimum, reimbursed for the full cost of acquiring a prescription drug plus a professional dispensing fee.

As a way to provide funding to allow more New Mexico residents to receive health care, the Health Care Delivery and Access Act is enacted by Senate Bill 17 (Chapter 41) to access additional federal Medicaid matching funds and then disburse those funds for the delivery of and access to statewide health care services via the Health Care Delivery and Access Medicaid-Directed Payment Program. The bill imposes an assessment against certain hospitals that is collected and administered by the Taxation and Revenue Department, distributes the assessed funds to the newly created Health Care Delivery and Access Fund and then authorizes the Health Care Authority to use at least 90% of the money for the Medicaid-directed payment program and the remainder for administrative costs.

The federal Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act of 2014 requires states to enact laws to establish a program for the creation of tax-advantaged savings accounts for people with disabilities and their families. The purpose of the federal law is to allow people with disabilities and their families to accumulate financial resources in excess of the $2,000 limit allowed under federal means-tested programs, including the disabilities programs of the federal Social Security Administration, by placing money in these accounts. The legislature complied with this requirement by enacting the Accounts for Persons with Disabilities Act in 2016, and this year House Bill 98 (Chapter 17) amends that act to expand eligibility for the program by changing the upper age limit for participants from 26 to 46, in order to accommodate people who become disabled later in life. In addition, the bill prevents the state from seeking estate recovery payments from an account or its proceeds for benefits provided to the beneficiary of the account.

The Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Code currently provides for the disclosure of confidential information under stated circumstances, including to a governmental agency, its agent or a state educational institution, a duly organized state or county association of licensed physicians or dentists or a licensed health facility or staff committees of such a facility for the purpose of research, subject to certain restrictions. Senate Bill 230 (Chapter 31) adds those same permitted disclosures for all children or their legal custodians, not just for children less than 14 years of age, to the provisions of the Children's Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Act. Such disclosures are now also subject to any federal regulations governing institutional review boards.

HOUSING

In the course of the 2024 session, the legislature attempted to tackle issues relating to affordable housing and housing availability shortages and homelessness, all of which plague New Mexico and the United States. To that end, the legislature passed two pieces of legislation that lean on the NMFA to provide financing to housing developers.

First, House Bill 195 (Chapter 8) renames the Opportunity Enterprise Act as the Opportunity Enterprise and Housing Development Act and amends that act to allow the NMFA to provide loans for housing development projects, which include affordable housing infrastructure projects and workforce development housing projects. The bill amends the existing structure of the Opportunity Enterprise and Housing Development Review Board to add new members, and it prescribes duties to the board with regard to evaluation and prioritization of housing development projects. In addition, the Housing Development Revolving Fund is created as a funding source to be used by the NMFA in the provision of housing development assistance. Finally, the NMFA is tasked with reporting to various interim committees on housing development assistance by December 1, 2024 and annually thereafter.

Likewise, Senate Bill 216 (Chapter 15) amends the New Mexico Finance Authority Act to provide financing for affordable housing projects by expanding the definitions of "qualified entity" and "public project". In doing so, nonprofit housing developers are now eligible for financing. Additionally, the uses of the Local Government Planning Fund are expanded to include affordable housing plans, flood inundation maps and obtaining archaeological clearances, the latter two, presumably, to be used in surveying land for such affordable housing projects.

INSURANCE

In this year's 30-day budget-focused session, two insurance bills were found germane and became law, both of which ultimately increase protections for consumers.

The Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association Act was enacted in 1984 to create the Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association, supervised by the superintendent of insurance, and require insurers licensed to issue life and health policies in the state to become members. The duties of the association include providing a mechanism for continuing coverage and resolving unpaid claims in the event of a member-insurer's insolvency. Certain categories of insurers, however, were exempted from the requirements of this act, including health maintenance organizations. Since health maintenance organizations now make up a significant portion of the health insurance marketplace, the insolvency of one could have serious financial repercussions, resulting in coverage lapses and leaving claims for covered services unpaid, placing more strain on the state's already fragile health care system. To address this issue, House Bill 181 (Chapter 36) amends the Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association Act to capture health maintenance organizations, thereby extending its protection to their covered insureds and participating providers. Additionally, the bill increases the size of the board of directors of the Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association to include representatives of health maintenance organizations and amends the powers and duties of the association by allowing it to file for an actuarially justified rate or premium increase for policies or contracts. Finally, the bill repeals a section of the Health Maintenance Organization Law related to replacement coverage in the event of an insolvency, which would conflict with the newly amended Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association Act.

Step therapy is a protocol in which, to contain their costs, insurers authorize coverage for medication to treat a patient's condition with the most cost-effective prescription drug available. The insurer then can authorize other, more costly alternatives only if the originally authorized medication proves to be ineffective or harmful to the patient. In 2018, the legislature passed a bill to require insurers to establish clinical review criteria for creating their step therapy protocols, develop a process that would consider exemption requests from patients and providers, decide an exemption request in a timely fashion and continue coverage of the more costly prescription drug when an exemption request was pending. This session, Senate Health and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 135 (Chapter 42) further regulates step therapy by prohibiting insurers from requiring patients and providers to obtain prior authorization for prescription drugs used to treat cancer and autoimmune disorders. It also addresses the length of time for which authorizations granted by insurers for more expensive drugs to treat other conditions are valid. Generally, when insurers authorize a more costly medication, patients are required to obtain a new authorization to continue that coverage every year. The new bill specifies that insurers are now required to authorize continuing coverage for the "expected duration of the therapeutic effect of the drug". It should be noted, however, that the bill does not restrict insurers from requiring patients to use a generic equivalent of a more costly prescription drug as part of a step therapy protocol. In fact, insurers can extend this requirement to include biosimilar or interchangeable biologic drugs, thus creating more options for containing costs.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS

In March 1954, the State of New Mexico ceded exclusive jurisdiction over an area of land in Bernalillo County to the United States for use by the military. A portion of the land ceded to the United States, which now includes Kirtland Air Force Base, will soon be leased to a private developer for commercial development under a military enhanced use leasing program. The portion of the land being commercially developed under the leasing program requires concurrent federal and state jurisdiction in order to access local utilities and public safety services. Therefore, the legislature passed House Joint Resolution 11 to approve the relinquishment of exclusive federal jurisdiction on a portion of this land, pursuant to requirements outlined in Section 19-2-2 NMSA 1978, and to create concurrent legislative jurisdiction over the parcel of land on which there will be commercial development. Concurrent jurisdiction allows the federal and state governments to share jurisdiction, enforce federal and state laws and provide both federal and state services.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND PUBLIC SAFETY

In its efforts to address public safety concerns and persistently high employee vacancy rates in law enforcement agencies, the legislature has for the past several sessions focused on ways to recruit and retain qualified and experienced law enforcement officers in agencies across the state. House Bill 193 (Chapter 47) continues this focus by amending the Law Enforcement Retention Fund to incentivize law enforcement officers to remain employed at the same law enforcement agency and require law enforcement agencies to comply with the Law Enforcement Training Act. With this bill, full-time certified law enforcement officers will be eligible for a retention disbursement equal to 5% of their annual salaries for service at their same law enforcement agency after completing five, 10, 15 and 20 years of employment. Also, for each year of service beyond 21 years at the same law enforcement agency, a full-time certified officer is eligible for an annual retention disbursement of 5% of annual salary.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Relating to local government, to clarify procedures for determining gross receipts tax increments to fund metropolitan redevelopment area projects, Senate Bill 236 (Chapter 62) amends notification requirements of a local government to the Taxation and Revenue Department to ensure proper calculation of gross receipts tax revenue sourced to a metropolitan redevelopment area. The bill also delays the effective date of certain provisions of Laws 2023, Chapter 112 from July 1, 2024 to January 1, 2025.

MILITARY AND VETERANS' AFFAIRS

In 2024, two bills related to military and veterans' affairs became law to help reduce suicide rates among veterans and service members and to bring state law into compliance with federal defense priorities.

According to data from the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, New Mexico ranked fourth highest in the nation for its suicide rate in 2021, with a veteran suicide rate that was significantly higher than the national average. To address this, House Bill 298 (Chapter 20) creates the Service Members and Veterans Suicide Prevention Program within the Veterans' Services Department to raise awareness about the suicide risk among service members, veterans and their family members as well as to increase access to suicide prevention resources. The program requires staff to be trained to advocate on behalf of service members, veterans and their family members that the program deems at-risk and to increase public awareness about the issues and root causes of suicide among these vulnerable New Mexicans. Furthermore, the bill allows the Veterans' Services Department to collaborate with the Department of Health and other appropriate state agencies, community services organizations, federal partners and directly affected individuals. Some key elements of the program are efforts to raise awareness of the risks associated with suicide, community resources, including behavioral health resources, and crisis and suicide prevention services.

Next, House Bill 302 (Chapter 21) was passed to address several legislative priorities of the United States Department of Defense. The bill exempts from state licensing requirements family child care programs and facilities that have already been certified by a branch of the United States Department of Defense or by the United States Coast Guard. To protect members of the armed forces from discrimination in employment, housing, apprenticeship and training programs, public accommodations and financial assistance, the bill amends the Human Rights Act to include military status in the list of classes protected from unlawful discriminatory practices. Lastly, in light of the relatively recent creation of the United States Space Force, the bill amends existing law to include the space force in the definitions of "armed forces" and "uniformed services".

MOTOR VEHICLES AND TRANSPORTATION

With a nod to New Mexico's history and another to modern technology, the legislature passed and the governor signed two bills pertaining to motor vehicles and transportation in the 2024 session.

In early May 1950, firefighters working on the Capitan Gap fire in the Lincoln National Forest came across an injured bear cub sheltering in a tree and rescued him. They named him "Smokey" after a character in the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service fire prevention advertising campaign that started in 1944. After recuperating from his injuries, Smokey was transferred to Washington, D.C., and lived in the national zoo until 1976 as a living symbol for fire prevention awareness, and he may be New Mexico's most nationally famous personality. House Rural Development, Land Grants and Cultural Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 251 (Chapter 58) tasks the Motor Vehicle Division of the Taxation and Revenue Department with applying for a license to use the Smokey Bear image and, once a license agreement is in place, to issue Smokey Bear special vehicle registration plates. The plates have an initial cost of $50.00 and may be renewed annually for $40.00, and proceeds from the issuance of the plates will go to state fire prevention programs. As has become the standard practice for special plates, the bill also contains a popularity requirement to continue issuance of the plates. Starting on July 1, 2027, and annually thereafter, if the requests for issuances and renewals of Smokey Bear plates drop below 50% of the issuances and renewals for the first two years the plates are available, the Smokey Bear plates will be discontinued.

To adapt to the evolving technological landscape, Senate Tax, Business and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 88 (Chapter 13) amends the Motor Vehicle Code to authorize the Taxation and Revenue Department to issue electronic credentials for driver's licenses and identification cards in addition to physical driver's licenses and identification cards. The bill adds definitions to the Motor Vehicle Code and enacts the Electronic Credentials Act, which authorizes the department to issue electronic credentials, enter into agreements with state agencies, other states or the United States for the issuance, use and verification of electronic credentials and use a third party to administer a system for the issuance, verification and use of electronic credentials.

PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL LICENSURE

Two bills relating to professional and occupational licensure were passed by the legislature during the 2024 regular session, one renewing and updating the statute for the licensing and regulation of certain professional athletes and the other expanding and refining the regulation and practice of professional psychologists.

Legislation extending the existence of the New Mexico Athletic Commission became necessary when the Legislative Finance Committee did not endorse the continued work of the commission during its 2022 review of state agencies. As a result, the commission would have ceased to exist in July 2024 under the protocols of the state's Sunset Act. Senate Bill 176 (Chapter 30) extends the termination date of the New Mexico Athletic Commission, which regulates boxing and other combat sports in New Mexico, to July 1, 2029 and extends the repeal date of its governing statute, the Professional Athletic Competition Act, to July 1, 2030. A number of significant changes are incorporated in the bill. Definitions are updated; among them, the term "wrestling" is replaced with "sports entertainment wrestling" in order to distinguish it as entertainment rather than as a bona fide athletic contest. Other updates include establishing limits for each weight class of professional boxer, requiring that the commission name professional boxing state champions and ranked contenders periodically, adding categories of licensees and raising license fees in all licensing categories.

Expanding the scope of practice of certain psychologists, Senate Bill 127 (Chapter 26) amends various sections of the Professional Psychologist Act. Among the most notable changes, the bill allows prescribing psychologists and psychologists who hold a conditional prescription certificate to administer and prescribe psychotropic medication injections, and training and supervision requirements for these practitioners are provided. Also, the bill creates a committee that is tasked with reviewing and making recommendations on licensing complaints against prescribing psychologists to the New Mexico State Board of Psychologist Examiners and the New Mexico Medical Board for appropriate action by those boards. Finally, the structure of the New Mexico State Board of Psychologist Examiners is changed so that two of the four members who are psychologists are prescribing psychologists.

PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

Regarding public officers and employees, three bills were enacted during the 2024 legislative session. Two pieces of legislation touch on the Public Employees Retirement Act and pertain to pensions, and one of the bills focuses on the ability of retired members of the Public Employees Retirement Association to return to work in certain positions to earn a paycheck while collecting their pensions.

The first of these bills, Senate Bill 128 (Chapter 52), amends the Public Employees Retirement Act by adding a new definition for "state fire member" for individuals who are employed as nonvolunteer firefighters. Additionally, the bill shortens a member plan name from "State Police Member, Correctional Officer Member and Probation and Parole Officer Member Coverage Plan 1" to "State Public Safety Member Coverage Plan 1". Included in this newly named plan are state fire members, although this inclusion is subject to an election to be held for these members to adopt or reject the changes. This name modification does not change the functionality of this plan, and the age, service credit requirement, pension multiplier and employer and employee contribution rates for the plan remain the same. Furthermore, the bill makes a technical update to remove a reference to juvenile correctional officer members. In 2021, the Public Employees Retirement Association held an election for juvenile correctional officer members to vote on joining the formerly named State Police Member, Correctional Officer Member and Probation and Parole Officer Member Coverage Plan 1, and those members did not elect to join. The removal of the references to juvenile correctional officer members in that plan has no legal effect on those members.

The second bill affects state legislator member coverage plan 2 members of the Public Employees Retirement Association. One hundred eighty days after being elected to office, state legislators have the option of electing to become members of a defined benefit pension plan administered by the Public Employees Retirement Association. Senate Bill 165 (Chapter 29) increases the annual amount of pension payments under form of payment A to retired state legislator member coverage plan 2 members who retire after May 15, 2024. The increase in pension payments applies to any service credit earned before or after May 15, 2024 for members who have not yet retired. Previously, a member's pension was based on a calculation of 14% of the per diem rate in effect on the first day of the fiscal year in which the member retires, multiplied by 60 for each year of service. With the enactment of this legislation, the aforementioned multiplier is increased to 90.

Lastly, in response to high staff vacancies statewide in various public safety positions, House Labor, Veterans' and Military Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 236 (Chapter 48) allows retired members of the Public Employees Retirement Association to return to work in certain positions and under certain conditions without losing their pension benefits for up to 36 consecutive months. One of the conditions that the bill imposes on members who would like to return to work includes a requirement of 90 days that must elapse between the member's retirement and that member's subsequent return to work without having been employed or retained as an independent contractor by the public employer from which the member retired during the entirety of the 90-day period. Also, the retired members and their subsequent affiliated public employers must make nonrefundable contributions during the subsequent term of employment. Retired members who are eligible to return to work may return only in the following positions: adult correctional officer, adult detention officer, courthouse security officer, emergency medical dispatcher, emergency medical technician or paramedic, firefighter, juvenile correctional officer, juvenile detention officer, municipal police officer, peace officer, protective services investigator, public safety telecommunicator, sheriff's deputy or state police officer.

REGULATION AND LICENSING

Under the subject of regulation and licensing, the legislature passed two bills, one providing a number of fixes to statutes regulating the recently created recreational cannabis industry, and the other creating a state meat inspection program after several years of effort to do so.

Medical cannabis became legal in New Mexico in 2007, and recreational cannabis was legalized in 2021. This year, with a couple of years' experience under the state's belt, the Regulation and Licensing Department and legislators took the opportunity in Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 6 (Chapter 38) to refine the Cannabis Regulation Act. It was not smooth sailing for the bill and there were several committee and floor amendments offered during its passage, but the law is now clearer and easier for licensees and others to know what is permissible and what is prohibited, and some holes in the law have been filled. The procedural requirements of the Uniform Licensing Act now apply to the Cannabis Control Division of the Regulation and Licensing Department if it wants to refuse to issue or suspend or revoke a license or discipline a licensee. In the bill, there are a number of clean-up provisions, including to:

- ◆ limit the requirement to prove adequate water rights to producers only;
- ◆ require licensees to inform the Cannabis Control Division when they begin or end cannabis operations;
- ◆ streamline definitions;

- ◆ provide a way for businesses that had been required to be nonprofits under the Lynn and Erin Compassionate Use Act to become for-profit businesses;
- ◆ clarify packaging requirements and ensure that labeling is not enticing to minors;
- ◆ clarify advertising restrictions; and
- ◆ specify when cannabis products are considered adulterated or misbranded.

Additionally, the bill allows a cannabis licensee to also hold a liquor license, but forbids co-location of cannabis and alcohol sales. It defines what constitutes illegal cannabis and makes trafficking illegal cannabis a fourth degree felony for a first offense and a third degree felony for second or subsequent offenses, and it specifies that the Forfeiture Act applies to the seizure, forfeiture and disposal of cannabis-related property. Furthermore, the bill specifies certain actions in this or another state for which the Cannabis Control Division can refuse to issue or suspend or revoke a license on the grounds that they are contrary to the qualifications, functions or duties of an applicant's or licensee's business in New Mexico. The two most contentious issues were drive-up windows at retail establishments and investigatory confidentiality. In the final version, the drive-up window prohibition was removed, and a narrower version of confidentiality was approved. The bill also includes the Cannabis Regulation Act in several criminal statutes, including the Racketeering Act and the Delinquency Act, and cannabis is now on a list of contraband in jails, prisons and juvenile detention facilities, with medical cannabis prescribed by a licensed physician as the only exception.

The state has relied on the federal government to provide meat inspection services since 2007, when the state meat inspection program was discontinued for noncompliance with federal standards. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 37 (Chapter 60) provides the authority for the New Mexico Livestock Board to reestablish and administer a state meat inspection program with standards that are at least equal to those enumerated in federal law to ensure the safety and quality of meat produced in the state. With the enactment of this bill, the state meat inspection program can increase opportunities for producers to sell their products directly to local restaurants, retailers and consumers, and the program can be tailored to meet the needs of the state.

STATE GOVERNMENT

With relatively few bills introduced in the 2024 session under the umbrella of state government, only a handful of bills became law regarding state government entities and operations, the topics of which include organizational details of the recent creation of a new executive agency, a new division at another executive agency and criminal background checks for certain staff at three cabinet departments.

Entities and Operations

During last year's session, the enactment of Senate Bill 16 created the Health Care Authority Department and transferred certain functions from the Department of Health and the General Services Department to the new department. It also gave the executive branch the interim between sessions to determine, among other things, the scope of the new department's statutory powers and duties as well as establishing its organizational structure. This year, the passage of Senate Health and Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 14 (Chapter 39) completed this work. Going forward, the Health Care Authority (the redundant "department" has been dropped from the agency's name) consists of the following substantive divisions: behavioral health services; developmental disabilities; health improvement; medical assistance; state health benefits; child support enforcement; and income support.

Meanwhile, House Bill 232 (Chapter 10) creates the Infrastructure Planning and Development Division in the Department of Finance and Administration. As the name implies, the new division will be responsible for assisting local governments, councils of governments and tribal governments in infrastructure planning and receiving, reviewing and evaluating their infrastructure capital improvement projects for which they are requesting state funding. The division will also coordinate with the department's Federal Grants Bureau to leverage state dollars for federal infrastructure grants and identify federal funding opportunities for state and local projects. In addition, this legislation moves the Rural Equity Ombud Program from the Local Government Division to the new division.

To perform thorough criminal background checks on employees, contractors, volunteers and others who interact with the vulnerable populations they serve, state agencies need access to criminal history information records that are collected and maintained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. As a condition for access to these records, the Federal Bureau of Investigation requires state legislatures to enact laws based on a model that provides state agencies with statutory authority to perform criminal background checks. To ensure that the Children, Youth and Families Department and the Early Childhood Education and Care Department continue to receive these records, Senate Bill 152 (Chapter 28) amends the existing law to conform to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's requirements, mainly by adding definitions to clarify who is subject to criminal background checks. Similarly, Senate Bill 241 (Chapter 16) enacts a new section of law that gives another agency, the Aging and Long-Term Services Department, the statutory authority to perform criminal background checks on its employees, selected applicants and volunteers.

TAXATION

As has been the case in recent years, most of the taxation-related bills passed by the legislature this session were included in an omnibus tax package. But unlike last year, all but one measure in the omnibus bill survived the governor's veto pen. Outside the tax package, three other taxation-related bills were enacted, two involving changes to distributions of taxes and one reducing an administrative fee imposed on municipalities and counties.

This year's tax package is composed of 22 different bills that were introduced individually before being combined into House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 252 (Chapter 67, p.v.). The substitute bill includes the following:

- ◆ amending the Industrial Revenue Bond Act and the County Industrial Revenue Bond Act to include certain electric energy storage facilities as eligible projects;
- ◆ revising the personal income tax by adding a bracket, adjusting the rates and changing the income ranges within the brackets, resulting in tax relief for most taxpayers that have income tax liabilities, with the highest dollar amount of relief going to the highest earners;
- ◆ extending the dates for which an investment can be made to qualify for the angel investment credit;
- ◆ expanding the list of health care practitioners eligible to claim the rural health care practitioner tax credit and reducing the number of hours those practitioners must provide health care to be eligible for the credit;
- ◆ limiting a current income tax deduction that allows a 40% deduction of income from capital gains to only capital gains from the sale of a New Mexico business; the amount of the deduction for all other capital gains is limited to a maximum of $2,500;
- ◆ creating a home fire recovery income tax credit for expenditures made prior to January 1, 2030 to replace a prior home of the taxpayer that was destroyed by a wildfire in calendar years 2021 through 2023. The maximum amount of credit is $50,000 per home. The credit has an annual aggregate cap of $5 million and is nonrefundable but may be carried forward for three years;
- ◆ eliminating the lower corporate income tax rate of 4.8%, resulting in a flat corporate income tax rate of 5.9%;
- ◆ providing a gross receipts tax deduction for sales of energy storage equipment or related equipment sold to a government for the purpose of installing an energy storage facility;
- ◆ creating a gross receipts tax deduction for the sale of environmental modifications made to the home of a Medicaid recipient that is reimbursed by the Medical Assistance Division of the Health Care Authority;
- ◆ creating gross receipts tax deductions for the sale of child care assistance services pursuant to a contract or grant with the Early Childhood Education and Care Department and pre-kindergarten services pursuant to the Pre-Kindergarten Act;
- ◆ creating a gross receipts tax credit for legal services sold to the victims of the Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon fire for the recovery of compensation pursuant to the federal Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon Fire Assistance Act. The credit has an annual aggregate cap of $5 million and is nonrefundable but may be carried forward for 36 months;

- ◆ creating a gross receipts tax credit for the sale of dyed diesel. The credit has an annual aggregate cap of $10 million, is nonrefundable and has a sunset date of July 1, 2029;

- ◆ increasing the amount of the special needs adopted child tax credit from $1,000 to $1,500;

- ◆ creating a personal income tax deduction for school supplies purchased by public school teachers. The amount that may be deducted is $500 for taxable year 2024 and $1,000 for taxable years 2025 through 2028;

- ◆ extending the date to purchase and install a geothermal ground-coupled heat pump to be eligible to claim the geothermal ground-coupled heat pump income tax credit and corporate income tax credit, making the credits refundable and increasing the annual aggregate cap for each credit from $2 million to $4 million;

- ◆ creating a clean car income tax credit and corporate income tax credit for taxpayers who, prior to January 1, 2030, purchase or lease a new or used electric vehicle, plug-in hybrid electric vehicle or fuel cell vehicle. The amount of the credits ranges from $640 to $3,000 depending on the taxable year in which the purchase or lease is made and the type of vehicle purchased or leased. There is no annual aggregate cap for the credits, and the credits are refundable and may be transferred;

- ◆ creating a clean car charging unit income tax credit and corporate income tax credit for taxpayers who, prior to January 1, 2030, purchase and install an electric vehicle or fuel cell vehicle charging unit. The amount of credit for a direct current fast charger or fuel cell charging unit is up to $25,000 and up to $400 for all other charging units. There is no annual aggregate cap for the credits, and the credits are refundable;

- ◆ removing the sunset date that allows certain electrical energy generators to use a single sales factor in calculating the amount of corporate income tax;

- ◆ removing the sunset date of a personal income tax exemption for armed forces retirees and extending the exemption to an armed forces retiree's surviving spouse;

- ◆ creating a geothermal electricity generation income tax credit and corporate income tax credit for a taxpayer who holds an interest in a geothermal electricity generation facility. The amount of the credit is $0.015 per kilowatt-hour of electricity generated in New Mexico by the facility in a taxable year. The credits have a combined annual aggregate cap of $5 million and are nonrefundable but may be carried forward for three years. The credits may be claimed for taxable years 2025 through 2031;

- ◆ creating gross receipts tax and compensating tax deductions for the sale of personal property and services related to a geothermal electricity generation facility. The deductions have a sunset date of July 1, 2032;

- ◆ creating an advanced energy equipment income tax credit and corporate income tax credit for taxpayers who purchase equipment for the manufacture of certain energy products for manufacturing facilities that produce those energy products. The amount of each credit for each taxpayer is up to $25 million. The credits have a combined annual aggregate cap of $25 million and are nonrefundable but may be transferred or carried forward for five years. The credits may be claimed for taxable years 2025 through 2032;

- ◆ adding subpart F income into the corporate income tax base income, which includes corporations that have more than 20% of their property, payroll and sales in the United States in a water's-edge group;

- ◆ amending the new solar market development income tax credit by increasing the existing annual aggregate cap from $12 million to $30 million and allowing an additional $20 million of credits to be available to taxpayers who were eligible between 2020 and 2023 but did not receive a credit due to the previous cap being met. The credit is also extended to systems installed on a property held in leasehold by a taxpayer but owned by a federally recognized Indian nation, tribe or pueblo; and

- ◆ defining "copayment" in a gross receipts tax deduction for health care practitioners.

The distributions of revenue from two taxes are amended to divert money from the General Fund and provide additional earmarks. Beginning September 1, 2025, a distribution of the health insurance premium surtax to the Health Care Affordability Fund will be increased from 30% to 55% with the passage of House Bill 7 (Chapter 32). Furthermore, following enactment of Senate Tax, Business and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 151 (Chapter 27), 5% of the premium tax from health insurance premiums will be distributed to the Emergency Medical Services Fund beginning July 1, 2025.

Municipal and county local option gross receipts taxes are collected and then distributed to the municipalities and counties by the Taxation and Revenue Department. Since 1997, 3% of the revenue from those taxes has been withheld as an administrative fee and deposited in the General Fund. With the passage of Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 148 (Chapter 59), that fee will be phased out by reducing the fee to 2% for FY 2027 and 1% for FY 2028. After FY 2028, the fee will no longer be withheld from those taxes.

WATER

This year, in legislation relating to water, the legislature enacted one bill to reform water project financing law. Previous law did not allow the funding of wastewater conveyance and treatment projects from the Water Project Fund and contained provisions that were considered inefficient. Each year, the legislature authorizes public water projects recommended by the Water Trust Board for loans and grants. Money is transferred from an investment fund, known as the Water Trust Fund, to the Water Project Fund, which is administered by the NMFA. House Agriculture, Acequias and Water Resources Committee Substitute for House Bill 211 (Chapter 9) prioritizes water projects that are urgent to address public health and safety, allows the Water Trust Board to authorize water projects for wastewater conveyance and treatment, shifts the duty of setting requirements for financial capability and determining the costs of originating grants and loans from the Water Trust Board to the NMFA, removes the requirement that water project entities conduct an audit and allows money in the Water Project Fund to be used by the NMFA to hire contractors. The bill also temporarily reduces the amount of money distributed from the Water Project Fund to the Office of the State Engineer for water rights adjudications.

GENERAL APPROPRIATION ACT OF 2024 VETO TABLE ENDNOTES

1. The general appropriations act (or House Bill 2) is the omnibus bill the legislature passes each year to fund the current operations of state government. Generally, the Constitution of New Mexico (Constitution) prohibits the legislature from passing bills that embrace more than one subject; however, Article 4, Section 16 provides a specific exception for "general appropriation bills" so long as they "embrace nothing but appropriations for the expense of the executive, legislative and judiciary departments, interest, sinking fund, payments on the public debt, public schools and other expenses required by existing laws". Since early in New Mexico's statehood, the New Mexico Supreme Court (Supreme Court) has held that, in addition to appropriations, a general appropriations bill may also include provisions that are germane and naturally connected to those appropriations. State ex rel. Lucero v. Marron, 1912-NMSC-037, ¶ 13; National Building v. State Board of Education, 1973-NMSC-053, ¶ 14.

Article 4, Section 22 of the Constitution provides for the partial veto (also known as the line-item veto), which is the governor's power to approve or disapprove parts or items of any bill that appropriates money. Although this power confers broad discretion to the governor, the Supreme Court has ruled that the partial veto power is not without limit and must be exercised with restraint and in accordance with the constitutional principles of separation of powers and checks and balances. After each legislative session, the Legislative Council Service (LCS) provides commentary on the governor's partial vetoes in House Bill 2 and relies on Supreme Court case law and attorney general opinions when analyzing the effects of the vetoes.

Importantly, the Supreme Court has held the following regarding the general parameters of the partial veto power:

"The power of the partial veto is the power to disapprove. This is a negative power to delete or destroy a part or item, and is not a positive power, or a power to alter, enlarge or increase the effect of the remaining parts or items. It is not the power to enact or create new legislation by selective deletions". State ex rel. Sego v. Kirkpatrick, 1974-NMSC-059, ¶ 18. "[T]he Legislature has the power to affix reasonable provisions, conditions or limitations upon appropriations and upon the expenditure of the funds appropriated", and "[t]he Governor may not distort, frustrate or defeat the legislative purpose by a veto of proper legislative conditions, restrictions, limitations or contingencies placed upon an appropriation". Sego, ¶ 23.

The legislature, however, may not attempt to intrude on the executive managerial function by including provisions concerned with detailed, miniscule or inconsequential management decisions. State ex rel. Coll v. Carruthers, 1988-NMSC-057, ¶¶ 11-12. When the legislature includes an unreasonable or otherwise inappropriate provision with an appropriation, the governor may veto only those provisions and is not required to veto the entire appropriation. Coll, ¶¶ 14-15. On the other hand, when the legislature includes reasonable or otherwise appropriate provisions with an appropriation, the governor may not use the partial veto power to carefully strike words, phrases, clauses or sentences to avoid legislative oversight. Sego, ¶ 18; Coll, ¶ 15.

The LCS's commentary on the governor's partial vetoes in House Bill 2 is not intended to serve as an official position regarding the constitutionality of the vetoes. Rather, this commentary is intended to aid legislators in their review of the legislative session and is based on the analysis of LCS staff. The preceding chart describes each of the governor's partial vetoes. The vetoes that LCS staff determined may conflict with the parameters established by the Constitution and the Supreme Court are footnoted with LCS's commentary. The money designated in the fund columns reflects both the appropriations the governor vetoed and, based on the analysis of LCS staff, the appropriations that may be questioned due to the governor's exercise of the partial veto power.

2. This strike may improperly eliminate a reasonable condition precedent and frustrate legislative purpose. The Property Control Act requires the secretary of general services to establish a schedule of building use fees to inform the legislature's appropriations to the Public Buildings Repair Fund and this condition only enforces that requirement.
3. This strike may improperly enlarge the effect of the remaining language and frustrate legislative purpose. In Sego, the Supreme Court held that the legislature may properly limit the expenditure of appropriated funds, particularly when the funds will have a significant financial impact.
4. This strike may significantly enlarge the effect of the remaining parts of this appropriation and may defeat legislative purpose. Sego establishes that the governor's partial veto power is a negative power: "it is not the power to enact or create new legislation by selective deletions". The remaining language may amount to a completely different enactment than what was passed by the legislature.
5. This strike may impermissibly expand the appropriation and substitute the legislature's judgment. The governor's veto message states that the stricken language, "evidence-based", "would prevent the agency from utilizing current research-based programming". Generally, "research-based" means that parts or components of a program are based on practices that are demonstrated to be effective through research, while "evidence-based" means the entire program or method has been demonstrated to be effective. The legislature may limit expenditure of the money it appropriates for programs that have been proven to work and that conform with federal law.
6. This strike may distort legislative purpose and enlarge the effect of the remaining language. The governor's veto message states that the stricken language infringes on the executive managerial function. The legislature appropriated $84,408,500 to the Corrections Department for inmate management and control and reasonably earmarked only $809,500 to increase per diem rates for private prisons. Although this earmark is a fraction of the whole appropriation, it addresses much more than "detailed, miniscule or inconsequential executive management decisions" and is likely a proper exercise of legislative oversight. (see Coll)
7. This strike may eliminate reasonable accountability procedures for the expenditure of this appropriation. "[T]here is no inhibition in the constitution to the inclusion within the general appropriation law of provisions governing how the amounts are to be expended", and the legislature may provide for an accounting of such expenditures in the general appropriations act. (see State ex rel. Holmes v. State Board of Finance, 1961-NMSC-172, ¶ 12.)
8. This strike may eliminate a reasonable condition and defeat legislative purpose. The legislature's interest in the attendance numbers at Los Luceros historic site is germane and naturally and logically connected with, and provides for the accounting of, the $300,000 appropriated for the site.
9. This strike may eliminate a reasonable condition on the expenditure of the appropriation, enlarge the effect of the remaining language and frustrate legislative purpose; however, this appropriation is for capital outlay, which is typically not included in the general appropriations act.
10. This strike may distort legislative purpose and eliminate a reasonable limit on expenditure of the appropriation. This appropriation is a supplement to the Department of Health's general operations budget that allows it to contract with clinicians as necessary and is not an attempt to interfere with the executive managerial function.

11. This strike may impermissibly enlarge the effect of the remaining language and defeat legislative purpose. Specifically, the legislative purpose of this appropriation was to "expand" services. Because the Veterans' Services Department already has the obligation to provide outreach services to veterans and their families statewide, the governor may be attempting to create new legislation with this veto because it allows the department to expend the appropriation for the current services it provides. The governor may have been required to veto the entire appropriation.
12. This strike may significantly enlarge the effect of the remaining language and may be an attempt to create new legislation. The legislature reasonably limited expenditure of this appropriation for "law enforcement-based advocates" for victims of violent crimes. By striking the limitation, the governor is giving the Crime Victims Reparation Commission discretion to expend the appropriation "for victims", which may be interpreted as direct cash payments that are authorized by the Crime Victims Reparations Act.
13. This strike may significantly alter the effect of the remaining language and defeat the legislative purpose. The legislature acted within its authority to reasonably restrict the expenditure of the appropriation by allocating the funding.
14. This strike leaves a grammatically incorrect sentence and may have created a new appropriation with an uncertain purpose.
15. This strike may eliminate a reasonable condition precedent, enlarge the effect of the remaining language and distort legislative purpose. The governor's veto message states the appropriation attempts to determine premium rates; however, the vetoed language sets the condition required before the appropriation may be expended and does not substantively affect the premium rates themselves.
16. This strike may distort legislative purpose and expand the effect of the remaining language. The stricken language reasonably limits use of the appropriation for career exploration pilot programs targeted toward a specific demographic and is likely an appropriate exercise of legislative oversight.
17. This strike may frustrate legislative purpose. Title 4-E is a federal-state matching grant program that generally reimburses states up to 50% of every dollar they spend on specific foster care programs. In Sego, the Supreme Court held that "our Legislature clearly has the power, and perhaps the duty, in appropriating State monies to consider the availability of Federal funds for certain purposes". (see Sego at ¶ 51; Coll)
18. This strike may eliminate a reasonable condition for use of the appropriation, distort legislative purpose and enlarge the effect of the remaining parts. The legislature appropriated this money for the primary purpose of paying workforce training tuition and fees for students not eligible for "state financial aid". By striking "state", the governor created a substantial eligibility barrier. Students eligible for any type of financial aid will not benefit from the appropriation.
19. This strike may frustrate legislative purpose by striking the intended recipient, which was a proper legislative earmark pursuant to the Sanitary Projects Act. The remaining language confers discretion to the council of governments that may constitute an impermissible attempt by the governor to delegate legislative power. Only the legislature has the power to appropriate money under Article 3 of the Constitution and is prohibited from delegating that power except when specifically authorized by the Constitution. The governor may have been required to veto the entire item pursuant to Sego and Coll. (see State ex rel. Schwartz v. Johnson, 1995-NMSC-080, regarding delegation of powers)
20. This expands the effect of the remaining language and frustrates the legislative purpose. If the governor had concerns about potential violations of the Anti-Donation Clause, she may have been required to veto the entire item.
21. This strike may frustrate legislative purpose, impermissibly substitute the legislature's judgment for that of the governor's and attempt to create new legislation. The original appropriation was for the planning of "statewide flamenco education services to culminate in an international flamenco festival in Bernalillo county". With this strike, the governor created a new appropriation of $200,000 only "to plan" flamenco educational services exclusively in Bernalillo County. (emphasis added)
22. This strike may be an impermissible exercise of the governor's partial veto power. In Coll, the Supreme Court ruled that the governor is not required to veto an entire item when striking an improper legislative condition. While the LCS does not have information about the training center referenced in the stricken language, the governor's veto left a nonsensical sentence with no specific recipient of the appropriation. The governor may have been required to veto the entire appropriation.
23. This strike may defeat legislative purpose and attempt to create new legislation. The legislature primarily appropriated money to holistically address the health and wellness of student athletes and allowed for expenditures targeted toward several health and wellness variables. With this strike, the governor funnels the entire appropriation toward addressing only a single variable, and student athletes will not benefit from the appropriation in the ways the legislature intended.
24. This strike may impermissibly enlarge the effect of the remaining language and defeat legislative purpose. The legislature made this appropriation for new projects and not for general operating costs of the department.
25. This strike may eliminate reasonable expenditure and accounting restrictions and may defeat legislative purpose. Additionally, the governor's veto message mischaracterizes the language of the original appropriation. The legislature appropriated money for roadway beautification and litter control and required a portion of the appropriation to be used to contract with certain businesses and adopted a definition from federal regulation—the legislature did not attempt to require the department to follow federal regulations. However, the legislature has the authority to condition expenditure of an appropriation on compliance with federal, state or local law.
