Link: <https://rrmtexas.wixsite.com/eduadvocacy>

I created this website for educators and all those who would like to teach children, young, and older adults about Sustainable Developmental Goals. It is intended to educate and engage with everyone so that they will turn their support into action regarding Sustainable Developmental Goals especially the Quality Education. I also discussed the role of distance education in sustainable development goals 2030.

- ii. Title: *Instructional and Student Support Systems

Link: <https://rrmtexas.wixsite.com/studentssupportsystem>

Implementing Distance Education (DE) programs covers both course development and course delivery. There are different approaches to developing course materials depending on the institution. In addition to developing learning materials, DE institutions need to set up learner support systems, including tutorial support, to address the special needs of distance learners. In this website, educators can able to compare and contrast the different models in course development and describe the support systems in developing and delivering distance education programs and its importance.
