I. INTRODUCTION

1. Acting under Chapter VII of the Charter of the United Nations, the Security Council, by resolution 955 (1994) of 8 November 1994, (a) established an international criminal tribunal for the sole purpose of prosecuting persons responsible for genocide and other serious violations of international humanitarian law committed in the territory of Rwanda and Rwandan citizens responsible for genocide and other such violations committed in the territory of neighbouring States between 1 January 1994 and 31 December 1994 (the "Tribunal"); (b) adopted the statute of the Tribunal (the "statute"); and (c) requested the Secretary-General to make practical arrangements for the effective functioning of the Tribunal.
2. In a report to the Security Council dated 13 February 1995 (S/1995/134), the Secretary-General submitted proposals on the implementation of the decision to establish the Tribunal, including, in particular, possible locations for the seat of the Tribunal, in accordance with the criteria set out in paragraph 6 of resolution 955 (1994). ^{1/}
3. By resolution 977 (1995) of 22 February 1995, the Security Council decided that, subject to the conclusion of appropriate arrangements between the United Nations and the Government of the United Republic of Tanzania, the Tribunal would have its seat at Arusha.
4. On 31 August 1995, the agreement between the United Nations and the United Republic of Tanzania concerning the headquarters of the International Tribunal for Rwanda was signed in New York (see annex).
5. In pursuance of the latter agreement, the Registrar of the Tribunal and the management of the Arusha International Conference Centre signed a lease on 31 October 1995 providing for the use by the Tribunal of the Centre's premises. The signing of the lease enabled the Tribunal to start functioning at its headquarters as from 27 November 1995 (the lease and annexes thereto may be consulted at the Registry of the Tribunal).

II. ORGANIZATION OF THE TRIBUNAL

6. Article 10 of the Statute provides that the Tribunal shall consist of (a) the Chambers, comprising two Trial Chambers and an Appeals Chamber; (b) the Prosecutor; and (c) the Registry.

A. The Chambers

7. In accordance with article 12 of the statute, nominations received by the Secretary-General for judges of the Trial Chambers of the Tribunal were forwarded to the President of the Security Council. On the basis of those nominations, the Council drew up a list of candidates in resolution 989 (1995) of 24 April 1995, which was officially transmitted to the President of the General Assembly by a letter dated 24 April 1995. On 24 and 25 May 1995, the Assembly, by decision 49/324, elected six judges for a four-year term of office: Judges Lennart Aspegren, Laity Kama, Tafazzal Hossain Khan, Yakov A. Ostrovsky, Navanethem Pillay and William Hussein Sekule.
8. Article 12, paragraph 2, of the statute provides that the members of the Appeals Chamber of the International Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territory of the Former Yugoslavia since 1991 (the "International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia") shall also serve as the members of the Appeals Chamber of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda. The following judges serve as members of the Appeals Chamber: Judges Antonio Cassese, Jules Deschênes, Adolphus Karibi-Whyte, Haopei Li and Ninian Stephen. ^{2/}

B. The Prosecutor

9. In accordance with article 15 of the statute, the Prosecutor of the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia also serves as the Prosecutor of the International Tribunal for Rwanda. Thus Judge Richard Goldstone serves as Prosecutor of the two international criminal tribunals.

1. Appointment of a Deputy Prosecutor

10. On 20 March 1995, Judge Honoré Rakotomanana was appointed Deputy Prosecutor by the Secretary-General of the United Nations on the recommendation of the Prosecutor, in accordance with article 15, paragraph 3, of the statute. From the time of his arrival in Kigali, Judge Rakotomanana has been engaged in recruiting personnel for the Office of the Prosecutor and establishing the operational structures and procedures necessary for the conduct of investigations and judicial proceedings.
11. Since the Prosecutor is based in The Hague, where he performs his dual functions, Judge Rakotomanana has the responsibility of overseeing the day-to-day business of the Kigali office.

2. Staffing of the Office of the Prosecutor

12. The selection and recruitment of staff for the Office of the Prosecutor has been a long and complex process. As of August 1996, nine months after the adoption

13. In mid-November 1995, the Office of the Prosecutor had 52 staff members, drawn from 15 different countries, more than half of whom were on secondment. Most of the seconded staff members are from the Netherlands. Thanks to the generous contribution of this one State, which seconded 21 investigators in September 1995, the Office of the Prosecutor has had the minimum organizational resources it needs to be able to concentrate on its priority tasks.

3. Structure of the Office of the Prosecutor

14. The budget for the Tribunal for 1994-1995, as submitted to the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions in July 1995, reflected initial staffing requirements of 114 posts. This number will increase to 175, including staff on secondment, when the final decisions on the objectives and strategy of the investigation have been taken.

15. Like its counterpart in the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, the Office of the Prosecutor comprises four main sections: the Investigations Section, the Prosecution Section, the Legal Services Section and the Administration and Records Section. Some of these sections are based in Kigali, while others, such as the Legal Services Section, are common to the two international criminal tribunals.

16. The largest of the four sections is the Investigations Section. It comprises experienced senior and junior investigators, lawyers, intelligence analysts, advisers, a scientific director, experts in forensic medicine, statisticians, demographers, interpreters and translators, and support staff. Organized into eight to ten multidisciplinary teams, the Investigations Section is responsible for conducting all investigations. In October 1995, a communal grave situated in Kibuye prefecture was studied by two members of the forensic medicine team. The tests carried out revealed the presence of human remains. Alongside these experiments, the team prepared a preliminary plotting of the distribution of the bones over the area of the site. In December 1995, a team of three persons from the non-governmental organization Physicians for Human Rights began to map the site and assemble photographic documentation. The information indicated on the map includes the topography of the site, the position of the skeletal remains, buildings, roads and other relevant data. This was the first investigation conducted in 1996 by the forensic medicine team comprising approximately 20 persons.

17. The second section is the Prosecution Section, which should have eight posts: three experienced senior lawyers, two or three legal advisers/researchers and support staff. The Prosecution Section will be responsible for the independent review of prosecution briefs prepared and submitted by the members of the Investigations Section, the finalization of indictments and the presentation of prosecutions before the judges of the Tribunal, in conjunction with the Prosecutor and the Deputy Prosecutor, assisted by legal officers of the Investigations Section.

18. The Special Advisory Section is the third component of the Office of the Prosecutor. It advises the Investigations and Prosecution Sections of the two international criminal tribunals. When it has its full complement of staff, the section will be made up of legal advisers who are specialists in the fields of international law, comparative law and criminal law, so as to make available a broad range of legal advice on specialized subjects. The guiding principle in the establishment of the section will be the need to harmonize the legal approaches of the two Prosecutor's offices, to avoid duplication and to carry out relevant legal research expeditiously.

19. The Administration and Records Section is responsible for the computer systems of the Office of the Prosecutor and the handling, processing and filing of all material, evidence, statements and other records received or generated by the Office of the Prosecutor.

20. The secretariat, common to the two international criminal tribunals, was established in The Hague with the aim of increasing the efficiency of the Prosecutor. The role of the secretariat, composed of four persons, is to advise the Prosecutor and the Deputy Prosecutors of the two tribunals on legal, political, administrative and organizational questions and in such specialized fields as gender-related crimes and relations with the media. Some members of the secretariat have gone on mission to Kigali in order to assist the Deputy Prosecutor and the Chief of the Investigations Section in implementing the strategy adopted by the Prosecutor.

21. Several legal advisers of the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia have gone to Kigali to share their experience in investigations and prosecutions with the personnel of the Office of the Prosecutor in Kigali. In addition, the Prosecutor has decided that two legal advisers of the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia will participate in the committee to review indictments in Kigali. Two legal advisers of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda will participate in the committee to review indictments of the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia.

22. The entire staff of the Office of the Prosecutor has participated in a seminar on the history and political institutions of Rwanda.

C. The Registrar

1. Appointment of the Registrar

23. On 8 September 1995, Mr. Andronico O. Adede was appointed Registrar of the Tribunal by the Secretary-General in accordance with article 16 of the statute and rule 30 of the rules of procedure and evidence.

2. Composition of the Registry

24. The Registry comprises a legal office, headed by the Deputy Registrar, and an administrative department, under the Chief of Administration.

25. As of 30 June 1996, the legal office was composed of the Deputy Registrar, two senior legal officers and a legal officer. The administrative department, under the Chief of Administration, comprises five sections: finance, communications, general services, electronic data processing, and press and information.

III. MAIN ACTIVITIES

26. The period covered by this report corresponds to the establishment of the Tribunal's material and legal infrastructure and to the commencement of its judicial activities. All three of the Tribunal's organs have played an active role in this development, each according to its competence and powers.

A. The Chambers

1. Regulatory activities

27. From 26 to 30 June 1995, the six judges of the Trial Chambers and the five judges of the Appeals Chamber held the Tribunal's first plenary session, at The Hague, because the Tribunal's premises in Arusha were not yet ready. Although the inaugural session took place that week, the judges were not regarded as having officially taken office until 19 June 1996, one year later. At the first plenary session, the judges adopted the rules of procedure and evidence of the Tribunal, in accordance with article 14 of the statute. Judges Kama and Ostrovsky were elected President and Vice-President of the Tribunal, respectively, for a two-year term, in accordance with article 13 of the statute. The composition of the two trial chambers was as follows: Judges Kama, Aspegren and Pillay made up the First Trial Chamber, and Judges Sekule, Khan and Ostrovsky served on the Second Trial Chamber. Judges Kama and Sekule were each elected president of their respective trial chamber.

28. From 8 to 12 January 1996, the judges met at the Tribunal's seat, in Arusha, for their second plenary session, at which they considered and adopted amendments to the rules of procedure and evidence, in the light of the practical problems encountered in implementing the rules. They also adopted two texts drawn up by the Registrar: the rules of detention and the directive for the assignment of defence counsel. In implementation of the rules of detention and with a view to ensuring observance of their provisions, the judges decided to appoint an independent authority to inspect conditions in the Tribunal's Detention Unit.

29. In accordance with rule 23 of the rules of procedure and evidence, the officers of the Chambers met from 13 to 15 March 1996. At the meeting in question, the judges decided to enter into an agreement with the International Committee of the Red Cross, which will thus become the independent authority responsible for inspecting detention conditions.

2. Judicial activities

30. Despite various difficulties encountered, and although the judges were not officially regarded as having taken office, they always endeavoured to initiate the Tribunal's judicial activities as swiftly as possible. Given the scale of the Tribunal's task and the need for swift action, they endeavoured to take up judicial proceedings as soon as possible. The judicial action taken by the Tribunal on 30 June 1996 included the confirmation of six indictments (or conduct of the pre-trial phase of the proceedings in respect of 14 individuals), review of three requests for deferral to the Tribunal's competence, proceedings relating to the detention of suspects and the initial appearances of the accused in the framework of three trials.

(a) Indictments and arrest warrants

31. The first indictment reviewed by the Tribunal concerned 8 individuals suspected of having committed crimes allegedly perpetrated in Kibuye prefecture (see para. 44 below). This indictment was confirmed on 28 November 1995 by Judge Pillay. Two further indictments, each in respect of one individual, were then confirmed by Judge Sekule on 16 February 1996 (see para. 45 below). On 19 and 20 June 1996, Judge Khan confirmed three more indictments (see para. 46 below), thus making it possible to charge five further individuals.

32. As each indictment was confirmed, an arrest warrant was issued against the accused person or persons, and transmitted by the Registrar to the competent State authorities.

(b) Requests for deferral

33. The Tribunal held its first public hearing on 11 January 1996, when the Second Trial Chamber, presided over by Judge Sekule and composed of Judges Khan and Ostrovsky, reviewed a deferral request filed by the Prosecutor. The request concerned the investigations and proceedings instituted by the Belgian courts in respect of Mr. Elie Ndayambaje, Mr. Joseph Kanyabashi and Mr. Alphonse Higaniro, all three of whom had been detained by the Belgian authorities. The Second Trial Chamber approved the Prosecutor's request and asked the Belgian authorities to defer to the Tribunal's competence.

34. On 12 March 1996, the First Trial Chamber, presided over by Judge Kama and composed of Judges Aspegren and Pillay, considered and approved two deferral requests filed by the Prosecutor. The first request concerned the investigations taken up by the Belgian courts in respect of officials of Radio Télévision Libre des Mille Collines SARL. In the second request the Swiss authorities were asked to defer to the Tribunal's competence the investigations and proceedings instituted in respect of Mr. Alfred Musema, a Rwandese national detained by the Swiss authorities.

(c) Provisional detention of suspects

35. The difficulties encountered by the Prosecutor in conducting his investigations prompted him to suggest to the Tribunal that it should amend the rules of procedure and evidence in order to provide for the detention of suspects on remand and their transfer to the Tribunal's Detention Unit in Arusha. A new rule 40 bis was consequently adopted by the judges on 15 May 1996 in order to meet investigation requirements. Under rule 40 bis of the rules of procedure and evidence, a judge may order the provisional detention of a suspect and his or her transfer to the Detention Unit, in situations where the suspect has already been arrested provisionally or otherwise detained and where the judge considers that there is a reliable and consistent body of material that tends to show that the suspect may have committed a crime over which the Tribunal has jurisdiction and the judge also considers provisional detention to be necessary to prevent the escape of the suspect, injury to or intimidation of a victim or witness or the destruction of evidence, or to be otherwise necessary for the conduct of the investigation.

36. On 17 May 1996, Judge Aspegren rendered four decisions following consideration of four requests filed by the Prosecutor under rule 40 bis. In response to the requests, Judge Aspegren ordered provisional detention for a period of 30 days and the transfer of four suspects imprisoned by the Cameroonian authorities: Mr. Théoneste Bagosora, Mr. Ferdinand Nahimana, Mr. Anatole Nsengiyumva and Mr. André Ntagerura.

37. On 18 June 1996, following an inter partes hearing involving the Prosecutor and the four above-mentioned suspects, who were assisted by their counsel, Judge Aspegren rendered four more decisions, extending provisional detention of the four suspects for a period not exceeding 30 days, until 16 July 1996, so as to enable the Prosecutor to prepare indictments.

(d) Initial appearances

38. On 30 and 31 May 1996, three accused persons appeared for the first time before the Tribunal, in accordance with the procedure laid down in rule 62 of the rules of procedure and evidence. This was a particularly important event because for the first time an international criminal tribunal was sitting in Africa.

39. On 30 May 1996, Mr. Georges Anderson Rutaganda and Mr. Jean-Paul Akayesu appeared before the First Trial Chamber, presided over by Judge Kama and composed of Judges Aspegren and Pillay. They were represented by counsel assigned to them by the Tribunal, Mr. Temmerman and Mr. Scheers, respectively. On 31 May 1996, Mr. Clément Kayishema, charged in connection with the first indictment (Kibuye), appeared before the First Trial Chamber, presided over by Judge Kama and composed of Judges Aspegren and Ostrovsky. He was represented by Mr. Ferran, counsel assigned by the Tribunal.

B. The Office of the Prosecutor

40. In its first year of existence, the Tribunal devoted itself to establishing a functional office in Kigali. Most of 1995 was devoted to the following activities: establishing cooperation with the Rwandese Government and with other Governments; establishing relations with United Nations bodies and specialized agencies and with non-governmental organizations; selecting and recruiting qualified staff; developing a strategy for investigations and prosecutions; establishing and furnishing an office in Kigali; drawing up a budget; establishing an organizational structure; establishing operational procedures and setting up office automation equipment. However, due to the numerous and sizeable obstacles which delayed the establishment of the Tribunal, many of these tasks were not completed. The Office of the Prosecutor, like the Tribunal as a whole, spent its first year of existence establishing itself.

41. It is important to note some of the obstacles which hindered the establishment of the Office of the Prosecutor in 1995. First, the necessary administrative infrastructure was not immediately available due to the delay in appointing the Registrar; he was not appointed until 8 September 1995. Thus the Office of the Prosecutor was unable to concentrate on its first mission. Next, the precariousness of the Tribunal's financial situation, within the overall context of the financial crisis of the United Nations, seriously jeopardized the start of the activities of the Office of the Prosecutor.

1. Strategy of the Office of the Prosecutor

42. Ever since the Tribunal was established the Prosecutor has made it clear that his strategy would be patterned on that of the Office of the Prosecutor for the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, and would give priority to investigating and prosecuting individuals who had held important responsibilities in the events which occurred in Rwanda in 1994. Given the limited financial and human resources available to it, the Office of the Prosecutor had no choice but to concentrate its efforts on individuals who had been in positions of responsibility.

43. The Prosecutor recognizes the importance of establishing a basis for his operations in Kigali. However, the preliminary indications available to him seem to suggest that approximately half of the investigations will require investigators to travel outside Rwanda.

2. Action by the Office of the Prosecutor

(a) Indictments and arrest warrants

44. On 22 November 1995, the Prosecutor submitted his first indictment, known as the Kibuye case against Mr. Clément Kayishema, Mr. Charles Sikubwabo, Mr. Aloys Ndimbaty, Mr. Ignace Bagilishema, Mr. Vincent Rutaganira, Mr. Muhimana Mika, Mr. Obed Ruzindana and Ryandikayo. The indictment was confirmed on 28 November 1995 by Judge Pillay, who also issued warrants for the arrest of each of the accused. The latter are charged with participating in the massacres that took place in the summer of 1994 in Kibuye prefecture. The indictment draws up a list of the violations for each of the four massacre sites mentioned: genocide, crimes against humanity and violations of article 3 common to the Geneva Conventions of 1949.

45. On 16 February 1996, Judge Sekule reviewed the second indictment submitted by the Prosecutor in the case concerning Mr. Jean-Paul Akayesu, former burgomaster of Taba district, Gitarama prefecture. The third indictment, which was also confirmed on 16 February 1996 by Judge Sekule, charges Mr. Georges Anderson Rutaganda with participating in the massacres committed in April 1994 in Kigali and Gitarama prefectures. The violations indicated in the indictment are genocide, crimes against humanity and serious violations of the Geneva Conventions of 1949.

46. On 17 June 1996, the Prosecutor submitted two indictments, both of which were subsequently confirmed by Judge Khan. The first, involving Mr. Elie Ndayambaje, deals with mass killings in the Kabuje and Gisagara districts, Kibuye prefecture. The second relates to a massacre site in Kibuye prefecture and concerns four individuals: Mr. Elizaphan Ntakirutimana, Mr. Gérard Ntakirutimana, Mr. Obed Ruzindana and Mr. Charles Sikubwabo.

47. The Office of the Prosecutor also submitted an indictment against Mr. Ladislav Ntanzwza, for genocide, crimes against humanity and serious violations of the Geneva Conventions of 1949, for massacres that occurred in Nyakizu district, Butare prefecture.

(b) Requests for deferral

48. In January 1996, the Prosecutor submitted a first formal request for the Belgian courts to defer to the Tribunal in the cases relating to Mr. Elie Ndayambaye, Mr. Joseph Kanyabashi and Mr. Alphonse Higaniro. On 11 January 1996, the Second Trial Chamber decided to formally request the Belgian courts to defer to the competence of the Tribunal. The Belgian Government, after adapting its national legislation to enable it to grant such a request, acceded to the Tribunal's request.

49. A second request to that effect was submitted in March 1996 in the context of the case involving Mr. Alfred Musema. Two other similar requests were presented by the Prosecutor on 17 May 1996, one relating to Mr. Théoneste Bagasora and the other to Radio Télévision Libre des Mille Collines SARL. The Trial Chamber complied with all such requests submitted by the Office of the Prosecutor.

(c) Provisional detention of suspects

50. Further to the Prosecutor's request and in accordance with article 40 bis of the rules of procedure and evidence, on 17 May 1996 Judge Aspegren rendered four decisions ordering the provisional detention for 30 days of Mr. Théoneste Bagasora, Mr. André Ntagerura, Mr. Ferdinand Nahimana and Mr. Anatole Nsengiyumva, all of whom were being held by the Cameroonian authorities. Following an inter partes hearing on 18 June 1996, and having heard the Prosecutor and the suspects, assisted by their respective counsels, Judge Aspegren decided to extend the detention of the four above-mentioned suspects for a second period not exceeding 30 days.

3. The need for support and cooperation from the international community

(a) Official visits by the Prosecutor to Rwanda and neighbouring countries

51. Following the adoption of Security Council resolution 955 (1994) the Prosecutor's first action was to go to Kigali on 19 and 20 December 1994 to establish cooperation with the Rwandese authorities, with the United Nations Assistance Mission in Rwanda (UNAMIR) and with other United Nations agencies. During this visit, the Prosecutor had occasion to meet with the President of the Republic and with members of the Rwandese Government, including the Prime Minister, several ministers and the Attorney-General. The Prosecutor also met with the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Rwanda, Mr. Shaharyar Khan, and with other representatives of UNAMIR and United Nations agencies represented in Rwandese territory. During 1995, the Prosecutor paid many further visits to Rwanda, thereby strengthening the cooperation existing between the Rwandese Government and the Tribunal.

52. Particularly conscious of the importance of cooperation between the Tribunal and States Members of the United Nations, and more particularly with States neighbouring Rwanda and having large numbers of refugees in their territory, the Prosecutor and Deputy Prosecutor travelled extensively in 1995 in order to meet with official representatives of the Zambian, Zairian, Kenyan, Tanzanian, and South African Governments. They also met with Salim Ahmed Salim, Secretary-General of the Organization of African Unity. In May 1996, the Prosecutor met in The Hague with a representative of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, in order to determine the modalities of cooperation between the two agencies. During each mission, the Prosecutor received assurances of full cooperation from the States and organizations he met with.

53. Strengthening the initial contact of the Prosecutor with the Rwandese Government, the Deputy Prosecutor met regularly with members of the Government, representatives of UNAMIR and other organizations established in Kigali and with the ambassadors of certain States Members of the United Nations represented in Kigali. The Deputy Prosecutor also met the Vice Chancellor and the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Germany as well as the President of Ireland. They each pledged to cooperate fully with the Office of the Prosecutor.

54. In the course of the year, the Prosecutor participated in various meetings in Europe and in North America, at which he was able to meet with representatives of States Members of the United Nations and with representatives of international and non-governmental organizations in an effort to enlist and strengthen their support and cooperation.

(b) Appeal of 3 May 1995 for the cooperation and support of all Governments

55. On 3 May 1995, the Prosecutor sent all Governments a letter concerning their cooperation with the Tribunal. Recalling the terms of Security Council resolution 955 (1994), this appeal calls on Governments to provide active assistance in the following areas: (1) recruitment of candidates for positions as investigators and interpreters; (2) secondment of personnel; (3) recruitment of liaison officers; (4) provision of information on the situation of refugees; (5) provision of information concerning war crimes.

(c) Meeting in Kigali of the operational group on assistance to Rwanda

56. Realizing that it had taken a long time to set up the Tribunal, and convinced that visible and significant actions were needed in order to demonstrate to the Rwandese population that the international community was determined to establish the Tribunal, on 19 May 1995 the Prosecutor convened a special meeting of the operational group on assistance to Rwanda, in Kigali. The purpose of the meeting was to bring the Tribunal's financial situation to the attention of members of the Group and to call upon them for assistance in that area. The representatives of more than 20 States and organizations which participated in that meeting pledged more than $7 million in financial assistance.

4. Conclusion

57. Despite numerous obstacles, the Office of the Prosecutor made substantial progress in 1995. Thanks to the generosity of one Member State, a database containing more than 5,500 documents relating to the investigations was established in the Office of the Prosecutor in Kigali. One international organization pledged to make a sizeable donation in bibliographical resources and in video-conference equipment. That organization also intends to support the important work relating to forensic medicine which is being carried out jointly with the Investigations Section of the Office of the Prosecutor. Several non-governmental organizations and Member States have contributed to the financing of essential needs relating, inter alia, to data-processing equipment, communications equipment and external expertise. In October 1995, donations to the voluntary trust fund amounted to more than $6 million. Five Member States have made 31 people available to the Office of the Prosecutor.

58. The Office of the Prosecutor submitted its first indictment on 22 November 1995; this was made possible thanks to the generous support of the international community through various forms of contributions by Member States, international organizations and non-governmental organizations. These donations are evidence of the international community's active support for the Tribunal's mission.

59. The activities of the Office of the Prosecutor are, however, only just beginning. It still faces numerous challenges, such as improving means of communication between the various services of the Office and strengthening cooperation with States and, more especially, with Rwanda's neighbours in order to facilitate the smooth progress of investigations and prosecutions.

60. The above-mentioned challenges are but a few of those that still await the Office of the Prosecutor. Because the mission that he has yet to accomplish swiftly is a particularly important one, the Prosecutor is convinced that it is essential for the international community to continue and strengthen its support for the Tribunal.

C. The Registry

61. The Registry of the Tribunal performs not only the legal functions traditionally assigned to the registry of a conventional national court, but also those mentioned in rule 33 of the rules of procedure and evidence, which states: "Under the authority of the President, he [the Registrar] shall be responsible for the administration and servicing of the Tribunal and shall serve as its channel of communication".

1. Legal activities

62. The Registry performs various kinds of legal activities. It is responsible for the day-to-day management of the judicial activities of the Tribunal in accordance with the rules of procedure and evidence. It is also responsible for establishing and managing a number of services at the disposal of the Tribunal, including the Detention Unit and the Victims and Witnesses Unit.

(a) Day-to-day management of judicial activities

63. The day-to-day management of the judicial activities of the Tribunal is entrusted to the Registry, which among other things, prepares certain legal documents, ensures the proper functioning of the hearings, manages the Detention Unit, and is responsible for the official transmission of arrest warrants and other documents pertaining to the judicial files and for follow-up with regard to these files.

(i) Material organization of proceedings and hearings

64. The Registry is responsible for the judicial infrastructure and the material organization of the trials. The construction of courtrooms, the material aspects of which are dealt with below, has required much preparation and special attention on the part of both the legal office and the administrative department. The international context in which the Tribunal is working imposes special constraints, for example the problems relating to security and to interpretation and translation.

(ii) Preparation of legal documents

65. The Registry has drafted a number of legal documents necessary for the Tribunal's judicial work, namely the directive on assignment of defence counsel, the rules for the detention of persons pending trial or appeal before the Tribunal or detained on the orders of the Tribunal, the agreement with the International Committee of the Red Cross designating it as the independent authority responsible for inspecting detention conditions, the disciplinary rules of the Detention Unit, the directive on the detainees' entitlements regarding communication and visits, and the directive on witness protection.

(iii) Implementation of the directive on assignment of defence counsel

66. The directive on assignment of defence counsel, adopted by the judges, provides that the Registrar shall be responsible for its implementation. The Registry has accordingly drawn up the official list of lawyers available for assignment envisaged in rule 45 of the rules of procedure and evidence. It has also set up the Advisory Panel and determined the remuneration to be paid to assigned counsel, as provided in the directive on assignment of defence counsel. Moreover, pursuant to official requests by subjects or accused, Registry lawyers have investigated their financial situation and the Registrar as to whether counsel should be assigned to them.

(iv) Transmission of arrest warrants and other judicial documents

67. The arrest warrants issued by a judge after the indictments have been confirmed are officially transmitted by the Registrar to the authorities of the countries in which, according to the Prosecutor, the accused are present. The Registrar is also responsible for transmitting any other document issued by a judge or a Chamber, such as a deferral request or an order as provided for in article 40 bis. The transmission of these official documents and conducting follow-up with regard to the files so as to ensure that the Tribunal's decisions are implemented have sometimes proved to be particularly delicate and difficult tasks, requiring much time and attention on the part of Registry personnel.

(b) The Detention Unit

68. In agreement with the Government of the United Republic of Tanzania, the Detention Unit of the Tribunal has been established within the enclosure of the Arusha prison, from which it is nevertheless completely distinct. About 50 cells will be built; 12 have already been completed.

69. On 26 May 1996, three accused were transferred to the Detention Unit of the Tribunal. Their transfer from Lusaka to Arusha, in conditions ensuring both high security and respect for their rights, required much preparation by the Registry, in cooperation with the authorities of Zambia and Tanzania. As soon as the accused arrived in the Detention Unit, they were taken charge of, registered by the prison authorities, assigned individual cells and given a complete medical examination.

(c) The Witnesses Unit

70. The rules of procedure and evidence provide for the establishment of a victims and witnesses unit responsible for recommending protective measures and for assisting victims and witnesses. The Unit, which was established on 24 June 1996, forms an integral part of the Registry. It will assist both prosecution and defence witnesses impartially and in the greatest confidentiality and will provide them with both physical and psychological protection.

2. Administration

71. As soon as he took up his duties on 8 September 1995, the Registrar assumed responsibility for the administrative activities necessary for the functioning of the Tribunal. Among other things, he negotiated and concluded a lease with the Government of Tanzania. He procured the equipment necessary for the preparation of the premises rented in Arusha, with a view to the installation of the staff and the conducting of the judicial proceedings. He also arranged for the construction of other premises necessary for the functioning of the Tribunal. Lastly, he proceeded to recruit the Tribunal staff. ^{3/} These activities have, however, been somewhat delayed by the restrictions imposed on the use of financial resources. Indeed, it was not until 20 October 1995 that the Registrar received from the Under-Secretary-General for Administration and Management a communication indicating that the Tribunal would be given a general exemption from the special measures introduced on 19 September 1995 because of the financial crisis. After the adoption of the 1996 budget, in June 1996, staff recruitment was stepped up so as to enable the Tribunal to fill all the posts provided for in the budget and thus have at its disposal the staff necessary for carrying out its mandate.

72. In accordance with the provisions of the lease between the Tribunal and the Arusha International Conference Centre (AICC), the Registrar has initiated the process that will enable the Tribunal to move into its premises in two stages: in the first stage, the Registry and the Chambers have been temporarily installed since November 1995 in an area of the Centre called Simba Hall. In the second stage, a wing of the Centre known as block B will be refitted and the Registry and the Chambers will be installed there on a permanent basis.

73. The Registrar has given priority to the construction of two courtrooms and offices for the staff of the Chambers and the Registry. The work on block B (fitting out of a courtroom and offices for the Chambers) is scheduled for completion in July 1996. The rest of the work (second courtroom and offices of the Registry) should be completed in November 1996. When the Registry and the Chambers have moved to their permanent quarters in block B, Simba Hall will be used exclusively by the Office of the Prosecutor.

3. Information activities

74. The press and information section, consisting of one officer and a professional journalist, is responsible for establishing and maintaining contacts with the media and organizing media coverage of the proceedings and all other events occurring in the Tribunal, and serves as liaison between the Tribunal and any entity requesting documentation (researchers, non-governmental organizations, etc.).

IV. CONCLUSION

75. Since its establishment the Tribunal has sought, despite the difficulties encountered, to carry out the mandate given it by the Security Council. The Tribunal concentrated first on the establishment of the legal and material structure necessary for the proper progress of the judicial activities and the commencement of the trials. This first preparatory stage is now coming to an end. Moreover, the Tribunal has already become operational, since its judicial activities have already begun. It has already indicted 14 suspects and held deferral hearings, and three accused have made initial appearances before it. The trials relating to these three initial appearances should begin in the autumn of 1996. Lastly, many new indictments are being prepared, which should make it possible to charge a number of people who allegedly played a prominent role in the genocide in Rwanda.

76. In carrying out its mandate, the Tribunal has been supported by the United Nations and assisted by a number of States. It must be emphasized, however, that the cooperation of States plays an important role in regard to the Tribunal's work. In fact, at each stage of the judicial proceedings such cooperation is a prerequisite if the Tribunal is to conduct its work effectively. Cooperation and judicial assistance are provided for in article 28 of the statute, which stipulates that States shall comply without undue delay with any request for assistance or an order issued by the Tribunal. The statute, which is annexed to a Security Council resolution, is binding by virtue of the powers conferred on the Security Council by the Charter of the United Nations. The President and the Prosecutor have sought to make States aware of their obligations and have asked them to enact implementing legislation enabling them to cooperate fully with the Tribunal. The President has also taken the initiative of contacting the Secretary-General of the Organization of African Unity, Mr. Salim Ahmed Salim, and asking him to transmit the appeal of the Tribunal to all African States, requesting them to comply with the obligation to cooperate established by the Security Council in the statute. The President has also drafted a letter having a similar content which will shortly be addressed to the Governments of all States Members of the United Nations.

77. Although the Tribunal has made great progress during its first year of existence, it still faces many challenges. The Office of the Prosecutor needs greater human and material resources if it is to continue and speed up its work. Between now and the beginning of the first trials, scheduled for the autumn, a great deal of material and legal preparatory work remains to be done: for example, the construction work must be finished, transport organized and arrangements made for the accommodation of victims and witnesses. If the Tribunal is to cope with such problems it must be given sufficient means and receive the support of the international community.

Notes

1/ In his report S/1995/134, dated 13 February 1995, submitted pursuant to paragraph 5 of resolution 955 (1994), the Secretary-General provided a comprehensive analysis of the legal basis for the establishment of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, the main provisions of the statute of the Tribunal and other matters relating to the Tribunal's establishment and effective functioning. The staff of the Tribunal are subject to the United Nations Staff Regulations and Rules and, if they have an appointment of six months' duration or more, become participants in the United Nations Pension Fund. Accordingly, such staff shall be exempt from all compulsory contributions to the social security organizations of the United Republic of Tanzania. Consequently, they shall not be covered against the risks described in the Tanzania social security regulations.
2. The provisions of paragraph 1 above shall apply mutatis mutandis to the members of the family forming part of the household of the persons referred to in paragraph 1 above, unless they are employed or self-employed in the host country or receive Tanzanian social security benefits.

Article XXVIII

Assistance in obtaining suitable accommodation

The Government of the United Republic of Tanzania shall assist persons referred to in articles XIV, XV, XVII, XVIII and XIX in obtaining suitable accommodation in the host country.

Article XXIX

Settlement of disputes

1. The Tribunal shall make provisions for appropriate modes of settlement of:
 - (a) Disputes arising out of contracts and other disputes of a private law character to which the Tribunal is a party;
 - (b) Disputes involving an official of the Tribunal who, by reason of his or her official position, enjoys immunity, if such immunity has not been waived.
2. Any dispute between the Parties concerning the interpretation or application of this Agreement or the regulations of the Tribunal, which cannot be settled amicably, shall be submitted, at the request of either Party to the dispute, to an arbitral tribunal, composed of three members. Each Party shall appoint one arbitrator and the two arbitrators thus appointed shall together appoint a third arbitrator as their chairman. If one of the Parties fails to appoint its arbitrator and has not proceeded to do so within two months after an invitation from the other Party to make such an appointment, the other Party may request the President of the International Court of Justice to make the necessary appointment. If the two arbitrators are unable to reach agreement, in the two months following their appointment, on the choice of the third arbitrator, either Party may invite the President of the International Court of Justice to make the necessary appointment. The Parties shall draw up a special agreement determining the subject of the dispute. Failing the conclusion of such an agreement within a period of two months from the date on which arbitration was requested, the dispute may be brought before the arbitral tribunal upon application of either Party. Unless the Parties decide otherwise, the arbitral tribunal shall determine its own procedure. The arbitral tribunal shall reach its decision by a majority of votes on the basis of the applicable rules of international law. In the absence of such rules, it shall decide ex aequo et bono. The decision shall be final and binding on the Parties to the dispute, even if rendered in default of one of the Parties.

Article XXX

Final provisions

1. The provisions of this Agreement shall be complementary to the provisions of the General Convention and the Vienna Convention, the latter Convention only insofar as it is relevant for the diplomatic privileges, immunities and facilities accorded to the appropriate categories of persons referred to in this Agreement. Insofar as any provision of this Agreement and any provisions of the General Convention and the Vienna Convention relate to the same subject matter, each of these provisions shall be applicable and neither shall limit the effect of the other.
2. This Agreement may be amended by mutual consent at any time at the request of either Party.
3. This Agreement shall cease to be in force if the seat of the Tribunal is removed from the territory of the host country or if the Tribunal is dissolved, except for such provisions as may be applicable in connection with the orderly termination of the operations of the Tribunal at its seat in the host country and the disposition of its property therein, as well as provisions granting immunity from legal process of every kind in respect of words spoken or written or acts done in an official capacity, even after termination of employment with the Tribunal.
4. The provisions of this Agreement will be applied provisionally as from the date of signature.
5. This Agreement shall enter into force on the day after both Parties have notified each other in writing that the legal requirements for entry into force have been complied with.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, duly authorized thereto, have signed this Agreement.

For the Government of the United Republic of Tanzania

(Signed) Daudi Ngelautwa MWAKAWAGO

Permanent Representative of the Republic of Tanzania to the United Nations

On the occasion of the signing of the Agreement between the United Nations and the Government of the United Republic of Tanzania concerning the Headquarters of the International Tribunal for Rwanda (hereinafter referred to as "the Agreement"), I would like to confirm the United Nations understanding regarding the interpretation and implementation of certain provisions of the Agreement.

In relation to article VII

It is the understanding of the Parties that without prejudice to the provisions of the Agreement, the United Nations shall prevent the seat of the Tribunal from becoming a refuge for persons who are avoiding arrest under any law of the United Republic of Tanzania or are required by the Government for extradition to another country or who are endeavouring to avoid service of legal process.

In relation to article XV

The provisions of paragraph 1 of article XV of the Agreement are based on the corresponding provisions of article V of the 1946 Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations to which the United Republic of Tanzania has been a party without any reservation since 29 October 1962. In this connection, it should be recalled that pursuant to General Assembly resolution 76 (I) of 7 December 1946, the Assembly approved the granting of the privileges and immunities referred to in article V and VII of the Convention "to all members of the staff of the United Nations with the exception of those who are recruited locally and are assigned to hourly rates" (emphasis added). Thus, only locally recruited staff assigned to hourly rates are not entitled to the privileges and immunities under the Convention. Otherwise, the provisions of the resolution do not allow for any distinction among staff of the United Nations based on nationality or residence. Thus, in view of these provisions, it is the understanding of the United Nations that the staff of the Tribunal, which is a subsidiary organ of the Organization within the terms of Article 29 of the Charter of the United Nations, shall be accorded the privileges and immunities under article XV of the Agreement regardless of their nationality.

In relation to article XX

It is the understanding of the Parties that no sentence shall be served in the United Republic of Tanzania unless the Government has indicated its willingness to accept convicted persons in accordance with article 26 of the Statute.

In relation to article XXV

It is the understanding of the Parties that the issuance of identification cards shall be carried out at the expense of the Tribunal, which shall make the appropriate arrangements with the competent governmental authorities.

In relation to article XXVIII

It is the understanding of the Parties that the assistance furnished by the Government is limited to locating suitable accommodation.

I should be grateful if you could confirm that the above is also the understanding of your Government.
