

2010 POPULATION AND HOUSING CENSUS

Volume 1

PREFACE

The 2010 Population and Housing Census is the fifteenth population census to be conducted in Barbados. The census plays an essential role in all elements of the national statistical system. Census data may be used as benchmarks for statistical production or as a sampling frame for selecting household sample surveys.

Similar to the 2000 census, the development of the questionnaires, manuals and other training materials was handled locally; mainly by the staff of the Barbados Statistical Service (BSS). In the preparation for the 2010 Population and Housing Census, some assistance was obtained, from the CARICOM Secretariat and the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA); mainly via workshops, and the provision of a mapping consultant. A common core set of questions was agreed to be included in the censuses of all countries in our region. Two committees were established to guide and manage the preparations for our 2010 Census:

1. A Census Internal Planning Committee – composed of senior staff in our Department;
2. A Census Advisory Committee – composed of external stakeholders and BSS staff.

Regular meetings of the Census Internal Planning Committee were held; from September 2008 and onwards. Sub-committees were also created, to focus on specific activities; such as Field Operations, Publicity, Legislation, Training and Recruitment, the Questionnaire, Classifications, Processing and Data Analysis.

The creation of the census questionnaires, as well as the data processing of them, was completed in-house with the aid of new computer software and equipment. A major part of the printing of these questionnaires was also completed in-house, for the first time; while the rest were outsourced to two local printeries. Maps for the field workers were also generated in-house.

This volume of tables is the first output from the 2010 Census. It presents tabulations on the key variables from both the population and the housing census questionnaires. Where possible, the information is disaggregated by sex and by parish, similar to the 2000 Census Volume 1 publication.

The Barbados Statistical Service is grateful to all those persons and agencies, including our staff, who contributed to the successful completion of this census report.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

A population census is the process of gathering, compiling and publishing information on the people of a country or a specific area at a specific time. Information collected tells us about the size of the population, its age and sex distribution, its distribution over geographical regions, its educational status, the number of persons who work and the number who attended school. Important information is also collected on dwelling units, such as the materials from which they are built, and the availability of services, such as electricity and piped water. In fact such censuses are referred to as population and housing censuses, as they usually relate to information on the characteristics of people and their physical amenities.

1. POPULATION COVERED

Census 2010 was conducted on a de jure basis. This means that information was not only collected on residents present in Barbados on census day but also on persons usually resident in Barbados, who were abroad and were expected to return to Barbados within six months of their departure.

Information was also collected on persons expected to be away for a period exceeding six months. These persons included:

- Barbadian workers on contract in foreign countries;
- Foreign students who have been studying or expected to be studying in Barbados for periods in excess of six months.

Usable Questionnaires were obtained from 226,193 persons representing 78,936 occupied households in 94,173 dwelling units. These totals will be reflected therefore, in the tabulations following. However, the total population at Census Day (May 1, 2010) was estimated at 277,821 and is derived by adjusting the tabulated population for non-enumerated persons and those persons living in institutions (2,513).

The tabulated figures exclude information on the institutional population even though limited data, such as age and sex, was gathered through extraction of the relevant information from the administrative records of the institution.

These institutions include

- Children's Homes
- Nursing or Old Peoples Homes
- Correctional Facilities
- District Hospitals

Separate quarters for caretakers of these institutions were treated as individual households.

2. CONCEPTS AND DEFINITIONS

2.1 Building - A permanent physical structure, which is separate and independent from any other. A building may comprise one or more rooms or other space, covered by a roof and enclosed within external walls or dividing walls that extend from the foundations to the roof. It may be used for (intended to be used for) residential, agricultural, commercial, industrial or cultural purposes or for the provision of services. Detached rooms relating to the main building are treated as part of that building.

2.2 Dwelling Unit - A private dwelling unit (or housing unit) is either a separate building or an independent part of a building or a room or a suite of rooms used or intended to be used for living purposes. The key factors in identifying a dwelling unit are separateness and independence. Occupiers of a dwelling unit must have free access to the street by their own separate and independent entrances without having to pass through the living quarters of another household. Note that “free access” includes access through public or communal staircases, passageways, galleries, hallways, grounds etc.

2.3 Institution - for the purposes of the Census an institution is defined as living quarters in which the occupants live collectively for disciplinary, health, educational, religious or other reasons. Such institutions include prisons, reform schools, homes for the aged/district hospitals, convents, monasteries, hotels and guest houses (with six (6) or more separate flats/apartments).

2.4 Resident - A resident for the purpose of the Census is a person who on Census Day has been living/intends to live in Barbados for a period of six (6) months or more.

2.5 Usual Residence – This is defined as the place where a person being enumerated lives and sleeps most of the time.

- (a) For persons with more than one home, usual residence will be the one at which the person spends the greater part of the year. Thus, for an individual who has more than one place of residence because his workplace or school is away from home, the usual residence should be that place in which he/she spends at least four nights of the week.
- (b) Fishermen at sea are considered to have their place of usual residence where they dwell when on shore.
- (c) Barbadians in the farm labour programme were enumerated in their usual households; seamen or crewmembers on vessels plying foreign ports should record as their usual residence the place where they stay when on shore
- (d) Aircraft pilots are considered to have their usual residence in the households in which they dwell.
- (e) Foreign diplomats are the usual residents of the countries they represent and were not enumerated.

2.6 Household - A household, for the purposes of the Census, consists of a person or group of persons living together in a dwelling unit. Where there are several persons living together as a household these persons may comprise a single family, but there are also households where the members are not members of one family.

It should be noted that:

- (a) A maid who lives at her place of work is in general listed as a member of the household with whom she works. This is the same for gardeners; janitors and other household help who live at their place of work. However, if separate self-contained lodgings are provided for such workers and their families, they are treated as a separate household. Household helpers who do not live-in were enumerated where they live.

- (b) A visitor who usually lives overseas but who spent Census Night in a household in Barbados was not counted as a member of that household.
- (c) A household may consist of one person living alone in a dwelling unit.

2.7 Head of Household (Private) - for purposes of investigating family structure from census information each household was asked to identify a "head". The head of the household is the person, man or woman, whom that household acknowledges to be the head. He or she may or may not be the chief breadwinner.

In the case of a group of unrelated persons sharing a dwelling unit on an equal basis, the person recorded the head was the member of the group whom the others acknowledge as the head.

Non-private households, i.e. those living in institutions, have no heads. However, the Officer-in-charge or the most senior staff member was requested to provide information on the residents of such dwellings units.

2.8 Family Type - A family is defined as those members of a household who are related by blood, marriage or adoption. Couples living in consensual unions are regarded as married couples. According to this definition, a family comprises at least two persons. Hence a single person living alone, or a group of unrelated persons living together does not constitute a family. These two types of households are termed Non-family Households. Family Households, i.e. those comprising families, are categorized as (a) nuclear, (b) extended and (c) composite.

A nuclear family (household) comprises the head of household, his/her spouse (or common law partner) and the natural or adopted children of the head or spouse.

An extended family (household) comprises the head of household, his/her spouse (or common law partner), the natural or adopted children of the head or spouse and one or more other relatives of the head or spouse.

A composite family (household) contains members who are related by blood, marriage or adoption, plus one or more non-relatives. These non-relatives are usually boarders or live-in employees.

The various categories of family type are derived from the responses to Question 8 which deals with relationship to head of household.

The above definition of family type differs from that used in the 1980 Census where single person households were treated as nuclear families and non-family households of two or more persons were treated as composite families. In other words every household was regarded as containing a family.

2.9 Visiting Relationship – This is inferred from the information supplied on fertility and union status. It identifies relationships between male and female partners who do not share a common household. It identifies those situations in which births occurred within the 12 months prior to Census day, to women who were neither married nor in a common law union.

2.10 Worked - An individual is classified as having worked if he/she was engaged in the production or distribution of goods or services for sale. Usually, this entails receiving a wage, salary or other form of compensation, but trainees and apprentices (whether paid or not), as well as unpaid workers on farms and other enterprises are categorised as having worked. The self-employed are also listed as worked.

2.11 With Job, Not Working - Persons who had a job but were on either sick leave, study leave or annual leave or any other leave of absence (with or without pay) for more than six (6) months are classified as "with job not working".

2.11 Looked for Work - This covers persons who for most of the twelve-month period were not working but were actively trying to find work. It includes persons who had actually worked before as well as those persons who had never worked. Note that "looking for work" includes not only visits to business establishments, but also activities such as writing letters of application and making enquiries either by personal contact or telephone.

2.12 Home Duties - This relates to those persons who were engaged for all or most of the twelve-month period looking after their own homes and families. It does not cover maids and other domestic employees who were performing these duties for others for pay. Such persons are classified as "Worked".

2.13 Student - This applies to those persons who, during most of the twelve-month period, were full-time students in an educational institution (school, university) or who were mainly engaged in private studies.

2.14 Retired - This includes those persons who had previously worked, but who for most or all of the twelve-month period were in retirement from work.

2.15 Incapacitated - This relates to those economically inactive persons who for most or all of the twelve-month period were unable to work because of some disability.

2.16 Other - This group includes all persons who cannot be properly put one of the above categories. Note, however, that persons for whom no information is available should be classified as "Not Stated".

3. THE CENSUS QUESTIONS

3.1 Part A: Housing

The questions in Part A serve to identify the parish and the enumeration district of the residence. Actual questions on living quarters pertain to the type of housing unit, its materials of construction, the amenities and type of tenure under which the unit is held.

3.2 Part B: Demographic

3.2.1 Identification

The seven questions in this section were for the purpose of identification and were completed for all individuals. These questions are important in that the combination of the household number and the individual number uniquely identifies each individual. They also serve to identify the parish and enumeration district of the individual.

3.2.2 General Characteristics

These questions were asked of all persons, and covers basic characteristics such as age, sex, marital status, birthplace, race, religion, relationship to the head of the household, extended or nuclear family and ethnic group. Unlike in the 2000 census, disability or major impairment were captured in a separate section, on Disability and Health.

3.2.3 Migration

This section consists of five questions, relating to persons born in Barbados, foreign-born persons and Barbadians who have been living outside of Barbados for a continuous period of five years or more. These questions evaluate the internal migration patterns and measure the level and pattern of re-migration of Barbadians. Persons born after 1st May 2005 were only required to answer questions 15, 16 or 17; which were designed to ascertain country of birth, parish of residence, or if the individual was foreign born, how long he/she has been residing in Barbados.

3.2.4 Education

This section consists of five questions, which were answered by persons aged three years and over. Persons under the age of five were required to state whether they were attending an educational institution by answering question 20. Persons between the age of 5-16, for whom school is compulsory, who were not attending school full-time or part-time, were required to answer question 21, in order to determine the reason for lack of attendance at school. These questions were asked to determine the level of education resources in the country and for the development of educational history.

3.2.5 Technical and Vocational Training

The questions in this section were asked of all persons 15 years of age and over, to ascertain information about specialised vocational training received by individuals, which provided them with the skills necessary for a particular occupation. Training could be achieved through:

- An institution run for the purpose of providing such training.
- On-the-job training only where it was formalised by the establishment.
- Private Study only if it led to a formal qualification.

3.2.6 Fertility and Union Status

This section comprised of five questions, which were asked to females age 15 – 64. Some questions were design to ascertain the amount of children born to these women, the age of the mother at their first live born child and last live born child, in order to collect information about the number of births and the most common age at which females have their first live born. The other questions in this section gathered information on the type of union in which women were living at the time of the Census.

3.2.7 Economic Activity

The main purpose of this section is to determine the estimated number of individuals who were economically active (“worked”, “with job not working”, “looked for work”) and economically inactive (“home duties”, “student”, “retired”, “incapacitated”) for the major part or the year prior to the Census. This is done by classifying persons according to their main activity DURING THE 12 MONTHS PRECEDING CENSUS DAY, based on what each person was engaged in for the most of that period. These questions were asked of persons 15 years and over and also distinguish between those individuals who are economically active and economically inactive.

The persons deemed economically active were further divided into those employed by the Government, or by a Private employer (enterprise or household); or whether they were self-employed (with or without paid help).

Generally speaking work done outside Barbados was not included, but contractual work done by Barbadians on U.S. and Canadian farms, on ships by Barbadian seamen, and on aircraft by Barbadian personnel are treated as exceptions and are therefore included here.
