Johns Hopkins Medicine, headquartered in Baltimore, Maryland, is a $10 billion integrated global health enterprise and one of the leading health care systems in the United States.

- Johns Hopkins Medicine, a nonprofit, combines over 125 years of commitment to community care with groundbreaking research, teaching and medical services to patients worldwide.
- The Johns Hopkins Hospital is consistently recognized as a top hospital by several national ratings organizations, including The Joint Commission, The Leapfrog Group, U.S. News & World Report and others.
- In 2022, the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine received $566.9 million in NIH funding, the fifth highest amount among U.S. medical schools.
- Johns Hopkins professor Gregg Semenza, winner of the 2019 Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine, joins 21 other current or former school of medicine scientists as Nobel laureates.

- Johns Hopkins Medicine employs more than 40,000 full-time faculty and staff members, making it among Maryland's largest private employers and the largest in Baltimore City.
- Continuing its century-old commitment to serve and nurture its community, Johns Hopkins Medicine provided $584 million in community benefits and care in 2020.
- Johns Hopkins Medicine International develops collaborations throughout the world by leveraging expertise in medicine, nursing, public health, clinical education, research and health care administration to improve health and health care delivery. It also facilitates culturally appropriate care for Johns Hopkins Medicine's global patients.
- Johns Hopkins Medicine operates six academic and community hospitals, four health care and surgery centers, more than six ambulatory surgery centers and has more than 2.8 million outpatient encounters per year.

Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine

- 3,200+ full-time faculty members
- 1,780+ part-time faculty members
- 1,380+ medical and doctoral students

The Johns Hopkins Hospital

- 1,146 patient beds including
  - 204 pediatric beds at Johns Hopkins Children's Center
- 2,500+ full-time attending physicians

Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center

- 468 patient beds
- 1,640 attending physicians

Howard County General Hospital

- 244 patient beds
- 410+ active medical staff

Sibley Memorial Hospital

- 288 patient beds
- 1,000+ active medical staff

Suburban Hospital

- 226 patient beds
- 300 active medical staff

Johns Hopkins All Children's Hospital

- 259 inpatient beds
- 369 active medical staff

Johns Hopkins Community Physicians

- 535 active medical staff

- Johns Hopkins Medicine handles more than 95,500 inpatient admissions annually.
- The Johns Hopkins Hospital received its initial four-year Magnet designation for nursing excellence in 2003 and was redesignated in 2008, 2013 and 2018. Suburban Hospital and Johns Hopkins All Children's Hospital achieved their first Magnet designations in 2019.

- Each year, Johns Hopkins Medicine handles more than 337,100 emergency visits.
- With more than 50 primary and specialty care outpatient sites, Johns Hopkins Community Physicians receives more than 931,200 annual patient visits.

- Johns Hopkins Home Care Group, a full-service home care provider, annually treats more than 164,427 adults and children in central Maryland.
- Johns Hopkins HealthCare's managed care plans cover more than 472,200 people in four unique populations.

JOHNS HOPKINS
MEDICINE